THE DESIGN
OF A TREATISE
ON THE PLANTS OF INDIA.

BY THE PRESIDENT.

THE greatest, if not the only, obstacle to the progress of knowledge in these provinces, except in those branches of it, which belong immediately to our several professions, is our want of leisure for general researches; and, as ARCHIMEDES, who was happily master of his time, had not space enough to move the greatest weight with the smallest force, thus we, who have ample space for our inquiries, really want time for the pursuit of them. “Give me a place to stand on,” said the great mathematician, and I will move the whole earth: “Give us time, we may say, for our investigations, and we will transfer to Europe all the sciences, arts, and literature of Asia. “Not to have “despaired,” however, was thought a degree of merit in the Roman general, even though he was defeated; and, having some hope, that others may occasionally find more leisure, than it will ever, at least in this country, be my lot to enjoy, I take the liberty to propose a work, from which very curious information, and possibly very solid advantage, may be derived.

Some hundreds of plants, which are yet imperfectly known to European botanists, and with the virtues of which they are wholly unacquainted, grow wild on the plains and in the forests of India: the Amarcośā, an excellent vocabulary of the Sanscrit language, contains in one chapter the names of about three hundred medicinal vegetables; the Médiñī may comprise many more; and the Dravyábbidhána, or Dictionary of Natural Productions, includes, I believe, a far greater number; the properties of which are distinctly related in medical tracts of approved authority. Now the first step, in compiling a treatise on the plants of India, should be to write their true names in Roman letters, according to the most accurate orthography, and in Sanscrit preferably to any vulgar dialect; because a learned language is fixed in books, while popular idioms are in constant fluctuation, and will not, perhaps, be understood a century hence by the inhabitants of these Indian territories, whom future botanists may consult on the common appellations of trees and flowers: the childish denominations of plants from the persons, who first described them, ought wholly to be rejected; for Champaca and Hinna seem to me not only more elegant, but far properer, designations of an Indian and an Arabian plant, than Michelia and Lawsonia; nor can I see without pain, that the great Swedish botanist considered it as the supreme and only reward of labour in this part of natural history, to preserve a name by hanging it on a blossom, and that he declared this mode of promoting and adorning botany, worthy of being continued with holy reverence, though so high an honour, he says, ought to be conferred with chaste reserve, and not prostituted for the purpose of conciliating the good will, or eternizing the memory, of any but his chosen followers; followers; no, not even of saints: his list of an hundred and fifty such names clearly shows, that his excellent works are the true basis of his just celebrity, which would have been feebly supported by the stalk of the Linnæa. From what proper name the Plantain is called Musa, I do not know; but it seems to be the Dutch pronunciation of the Arabick word for that vegetable, and ought not, therefore, to have appeared in his list, though, in my opinion, it is the only rational name in the muster-roll. As to the system of LINNÆUS, it is the system of Nature, subordinate indeed to the beautiful arrangement of natural orders, of which he has given a rough sketch, and which may hereafter, perhaps, be completed: but the distribution of vegetables into classes, according to the number, length, and position of the stamens and pistils, and of those classes into kinds and species, according to certain marks of discrimination, will ever be found the clearest and most convenient of methods, and should therefore be studiously observed in the work, which I now suggest; but I must be forgiven, if I propose to reject the Linnean appellations of the twenty-four classes, because, although they appear to be Greek, (and, if they really were so, that alone might be thought a sufficient objection) yet in truth they are not Greek, nor even formed by analogy to the language of Grecians; for Polygamos, Monandros, and the rest of that form, are both masculine and feminine; Polyandria, in the abstract, never occurs, and Polyandrion means a publick cemetery; diœcia and diœcus are not found in books of authority; nor, if they were, would they be derived from dis, but from dia, which would include the triœcia; let me add, that the twelfth and thirteenth classes are ill distinguished by their appellations, independently of other exceptions to them, since the real distinction between them consists not so much in the number of their stamens, as in the place, where they are inserted; and that the fourteenth and fifteenth are not more accurately discriminated by two words formed in defiance of grammatical analogy, since there are but two powers, or two diversities of length, in each of those classes.

Calycopsislyandros

Galycopolyandros might, perhaps, not inaccurately denote a flower of the twelfth class; but such a compound would still favour of barbarism or pedantry; and the best way to amend such a system of words is to efface it, and supply its place by a more simple nomenclature, which may easily be found. Numerals may be used for the eleven first classes, the former of two numbers being always appropriated to the stamens, and the latter, to the pistils: short phrases, as, on the calyx or calice, in the receptacle, two long, four long, from one base, from two, or many, bases, with anthers connected, on the pistils, in two flowers, in two distinct plants, mixed, concealed, or the like, will answer every purpose of discrimination; but I do not offer this as a perfect substitute for the words, which I condemn. The allegory of sexes and nuptials, even if it were complete, ought, I think, to be discarded, as unbecoming the gravity of men, who, while they search for truth, have no busines to inflame their imaginations; and, while they profefs to give descriptions, have nothing to do with metaphors: few passages in Aloisia, the most impudent book ever composed by man, are more wantonly indecent than the hundred-forty-sixth number of the Botanical Philosophy, and the broad comment of its grave author, who dares, like OCTAVIUS in his epigram, to speak with Roman simplicity; nor can the Linnean description of the Arum, and many other plants, be read in English without exciting ideas, which the occasion does not require. Hence it is, that no well-born and well-educated woman can be advised to amuse herself with botany, as it is now explained, though a more elegant and delightful study, or one more likely to assist and embellish other female accomplishments, could not possibly be recommended.

When the Sanscrit names of the Indian plants have been correctly written in a large paper-book, one page being appropriated to each, the fresh plants themselves, procured in their respective seasons, must be concisely, but accurately, classed and described; after which their several uses in medicine, diet, or manufactures, may be collected, with the assistance of Hindu physicians, from the medical books in Sanskrit, and their accounts either disproved or established by repeated experiments, as fast as they can be made with exactness.

By way of example, I annex the descriptions of five Indian plants, but am unable, at this season, to re-examine them, and wholly despair of leisure to exhibit others, of which I have collected the names, and most of which I have seen in blossom.

I. M U C H U C U N D A:

Twenty, from One Base.

Cal. Five-parted, thick ; leaflets, oblong.

Cor. Five petals, oblong.

Stam. From twelve to fifteen, rather long, fertile ; five shorter, sterile. In some flowers, the unprolifick stamens, longer.

Pift. Style cylindrick.

Peric. A capsule, with five cells, many-seeded.

Seeds: Roundish, compressed, winged.

Leaves: Of many different shapes.

Uses: The quality, refrigerant.

One flower, steeped a whole night in a glass of water, forms a cooling mucilage of use in virulent gonorrhœas. The Muchucunda, called also Pichuca, is exquisitely fragrant : its calyx is covered with an odoriferous dust ; and the dried flowers in fine powder, taken like snuff, are said, in a Sanskrit book, almost instantaneously to remove a nervous head-ach.

Note. This plant differs a little from the Pentapetes of LINNÆUS.

II. B I L V A

II. B I L V A O R M A' L U' R A.

Many on the Receptacle, and One.

Cal. Four, or five, cleft, beneath.

Cor. Four, or five, petals ; mostly reflex.

Stam. Forty, to forty-eight, filaments ; anthers, mostly erect.

Pist. Germ, roundish ; Style, smooth, short ; Stigma, clubbed.

Peric. A spheroidal berry, very large ; many-seeded.

Seeds: Toward the surface, ovate, in a pellucid mucus.

Leaves: Ternate ; common petiole, long ; leaflets, subovate ; obtusely notched, with short petioles ; some almost lanced.

Stem: Armed with sharp thorns.

Uses: The fruit nutritious, warm, carthartick; in taste, delicious ; in fragrance, exquisite : its aperient and deterfive quality, and its efficacy in removing habitual costiveness, have been proved by constant experience. The mucus of the seed is, for some purposes, a very good cement.

Note. This fruit is called Srip'hala, because it sprang, say the Indian poets, from the milk of Sri, the goddess of abundance, who bestowed it on mankind at the request of ISWARA, whence he alone wears a chaplet of Bilva flowers ; to him only the Hindus offer them ; and, when they see any of them fallen on the ground, they take them up with reverence, and carry them to his temple. From the first blossom of this plant, that I could inspect, I had imagined, that it belonged to the same class with the Durio, because the filaments appeared to be distributed in five sets ; but in all, that I have since examined, they are perfectly distinct.

III. S R I N G A' T A C A.

Four and One.

Cal. Four cleft, with a long peduncle, above.

Cor. Four

Cor. Four petals.

Stam. Anthers, kidney-shaped.

Pist. Germ, roundish; Style, long as the filaments; Stigma clubbed.

Seed: A Nut with four opposite angles (two of them sharp thorns) formed by the Calyx.

Leaves: Those, which float on the water, are rhomboïdal; the two upper sides unequally notched, the two lower, right lines. Their petioles, buoyed up by spindle-shaped spongy substances, not bladders.

Root: Knotty, like coral.

Uses: The fresh kernel, in sweetness and delicacy, equals that of the fibered. A mucus, secreted by minute glands, covers the wet leaves, which are considered as cooling.

Note. It seems to be the floating Trapa of LINNÆUS.

IV. P U' T I C A R A J A.

Ten and one.

Cal. Five-cleft.

Cor. Five equal petals.

Peric. A thorny legumen; two seeds.

Leaves: Oval, pinnated.

Stem: Armed.

Uses: The seeds are very bitter, and, perhaps, tonick; since one of them, bruised and given in two doses, will, as the Hindus assert, cure an intermittent fever.

V. M A D H U' C A. (See Asiat. Research. vol. I, page 300.)

Many, not on the Receptacle, and One.

Cal. Perianth four, or five, leaved.

Cor. One-petaled. Tube inflated, fleshy. Border nine, or ten, parted.

Stam. Anthers from twelve to twenty-eight, erect, acute, subvillous.

Pist. Germ,

Pijt. Germ, roundish ; Style, long, awl-shaped.

Peric. A Drupe, with two or three Nuts?

Leaves: Oval, somewhat pointed.

Uses: The tubes, esculent, nutritious ; yielding, by distillation, an inebriating spirit, which, if the sale of it were duly restrained by law, might be applied to good purposes. An useful oil is expressed from the seed.

Note. It resembles the Bassia of KOENIG.

Such would be the method of the work, which I recommend ; but even the specimen, which I exhibit, might, in skilful hands, have been more accurate. Engravings of the plants may be annexed ; but I have more than once experienced, that the best anatomical and botanical prints give a very inadequate, and sometimes a very false, notion of the objects, which they were intended to represent. As we learn a new language, by reading approved compositions in it with the aid of a Grammar and Dictionary, so we can only study with effect the natural history of vegetables by analysing the plants themselves with the Philosophia Botanica, which is the Grammar, and the Genera et Species Plantarum, which may be considered as the Dictionary, of that beautiful language, in which nature would teach us what plants we must avoid as noxious, and what we must cultivate as salutary, for that the qualities of plants are in some degree connected with the natural orders and classes of them, a number of instances would abundantly prove.

The Petals are White

Jatamansi.
or. Indian Spikenard.

ON
THE SPIKENARD OF THE ANCIENTS.

BY THE PRESIDENT.

IT is painful to meet perpetually with words, that convey no distinct ideas; and a natural desire of avoiding that pain excites us often to make inquiries, the result of which can have no other use than to give us clear conceptions. Ignorance is to the mind what extreme darkness is to the nerves: both cause an uneasy sensation; and we naturally love knowledge, as we love light, even when we have no design of applying either to a purpose essentially useful. This is intended as an apology for the pains which have been taken to procure a determinate answer to a question of no apparent utility, but which ought to be readily answered in India, “What is Indian Spikenard? All agree, that it is an odiferous plant, the best sort of which, according to PTOLEMY, grew about Rangamritica or Rangamáti, and on the borders of the country now called Bután: it is mentioned by DIOSCORIDES, whose work I have not in my possession; but his description of it must be very imperfect, since neither LINNÆUS nor any of his disciples pretend to class it with certainty, and, in the latest botanical work, that we have received from Europe, it is marked as unknown. I had no doubt, before I was personally acquainted with KOENIG, that he had ascertained it; but he assured me, that he knew not what the Greek writers meant by the nard of India: he had found, indeed, and described a sixth species of the nardus, which is called Indian in the Supplement to Linnæus; but the nardus is a grass, which, though it bear a Spike, no man ever supposed to be the true Spikenard, which the great Botanical Philosopher himself was inclined to think a species of Andropogon, and places, in his Materia Medica, but with an expression of doubt, among his polygamous plants. Since the death of KOENIG I have consulted every botanist and physician, with whom I was acquainted, on the subject before us; but all have confessed without reserve, though not without some regret, that they were ignorant what was meant by the Indian Spikenard.

In order to procure information from the learned natives, it was necessary to know the name of the plant in some Asiatick language. The very word nard occurs in the song of SOLOMON; but the name and the thing were both exotick: the Hebrew lexicographers imagine both to be Indian; but the word is in truth Perfian, and occurs in the following distich of an old poet:

A'n chu bíkhest, ín chu nardest, án chu shákhest, ín chu bàr,
A'n chu bíkhì páyidárest, ín chu nardì páyidàr.

It is not easy to determine in this couplet, whether nard mean the stem, or, as ANJU' explains it, the pith; but it is manifestly a part of a vegetable, and neither the root, the fruit, nor the branch, which are all separately named: the Arabs have borrowed the word nard, but in the sense, as we learn from the Kámùs, of a compound medicinal unguent. Whatever it signified in old Perfian, the Arabick word sumbul, which, like sumbalah, means an ear or spike, has long been substituted for it; and there can be no doubt, that by the sumbul of India the Muselmáns understand the same plant with the nard of PTOLEMY and the Nardostachys, doflachys, or Spikenard, of GALEN; who, by the way, was deceived by the dry specimens, which he had seen, and mistook them for roots.

A singular description of the fumbul by ABU'LFAZL, who frequently mentions it as an ingredient in Indian perfumes, had for some time almost convinced me, that the true Spikenard was the Cétaca, or Pandanus of our botanists: his words are, Sumbul panj berg dáred, ceh dirázii án dab angosktestu pabnái sēb, or, “The fumbul has five leaves, ten “fingers long, and three broad.” Now I well knew, that the minister of ACBAR was not a botanist, and might easily have mistaken a thyrsus for a single flower: I had seen no blossom, or assemblage of blossoms, of such dimensions, except the male Cétaca; and, though the Persian writer describes the female as a different plant, by the vulgar name Cyóra, yet such a mistake might naturally have been expected in such a work: but what most confirmed my opinion, was the exquisite fragrance of the Cétaca-flower, which to my sense far surpassed the richest perfumes of Europe or Asia. Scarce a doubt remained, when I met with a description of the Cétaca by FORSKOHL, whose words are so perfectly applicable to the general idea, which we are apt to form of Spikenard, that I give you a literal translation of them: “The Pandanus is an incomparable plant, and cultivated for its odour, “which it breathes so richly, that one or two Spikes, in a situation “rather humid, would be sufficient to diffuse an odoriferous air for a “long time through a spacious apartment; so that the natives in ge-“neral are not solicitous about the living plants, but purchase the Spikes “at a great price.” I learned also, that a fragrant essential oil was extracted from the flowers; and I procured from Banáres a large phial of it, which was adulterated with sandal; but the very adulteration convinced me, that the genuine essence must be valuable, from the great number of thyrsi, that must be required in preparing a small quantity quantity of it. Thus had I nearly persuaded myself, that the true nard was to be found on the banks of the Ganges, where the Hindu women roll up its flowers in their long black hair after bathing in the holy river ; and I imagined, that the precious alabaster-box mentioned in the Scripture, and the small onyx, in exchange for which the poet offers to entertain his friend with a cask of old wine, contained an essence of the same kind, though differing in its degree of purity, with the nard, which I had procured : but an Arab of Mecca, who saw in my study some flowers of the Cétaca, informed me, that the plant was extremely common in Arabia, where it was named Cádbî; and several Mahomedans of rank and learning have since assured me, that the true name of the Indian Sumbul was not Cétaca, but Jatámánsì. This was important information : finding therefore, that the Pandanus was not peculiar to Hindustán, and considering, that the Sumbul of ABU'LFAZL differed from it in the precise number of leaves on the thyrsus, in the colour, and in the season of flowering, though the length and breadth corresponded very nearly, I abandoned my first opinion, and began to enquire eagerly for the Jatámánsì, which grew, I was told, in the garden of a learned and ingenious friend, and fortunately was then in blossom. A fresh plant was very soon brought to me: it appeared on inspection to be a most elegant Cypirus with a polished three-sided culm, an umbella with three or four ensiform leaflets minutely serrated, naked proliferous peduncles, crowded spikes, expanded daggers; and its branchy root had a pungent taste with a faint aromatick odour; but no part of it bore the least resemblance to the drug known in Europe by the appellation of Spikenard; and a Muselman physician from Debli assured me positively, that the plant was not Jatámánsì, but Sûd, as it is named in Arabick, which the author of the Tolhatu'l Múmenin particularly distinguishes from the Indian Sumbul. He produced on the next day an extract from the Dictionary of Natural history, to which he had referred ; and I present you with a translation of all that is material in it.

“ 1. SUD has a roundish olive-shaped root, externally black, but white internally, and so fragrant as to have obtained in Perſia the name of Subterranean Musk: its leaf has some resemblance to that of a leek, but is longer and narrower, strong, somewhat rough at the edges, and tapering to a point. 2. SUMBUL means a spike or ear, and was called nard by the Greeks. There are three sorts of Sumbul or Nardín; but, when the word stands alone, it means the Sumbul of India, which is an herb without flower or fruit, (he speaks of the drug only) like the tail of an ermine, or of a small weasel, but not quite so thick, and about the length of a finger. It is darkish, inclining to yellow, and very fragrant: it is brought from Hinduſtán, and its medicinal virtue lasts three years.” It was easy to procure the dry Jatámánsi, which corresponded perfectly with the description of the Sumbul; and, though a native Muselmán afterwards gave me a Perſian paper, written by himself, in which he represents the Sumbul of India, the Sweet Sumbul, and the Jatámánsi as three different plants, yet the authority of Tohfatu'l Múmenín is decisive, that the sweet Sumbul is only another denomination of nard, and the physician, who produced that authority, brought, as a specimen of Sumbul, the very same drug, which my Pandit, who is also a physician, brought as a specimen of the Jatámánsi: a Bráhmen of eminent learning gave me a parcel of the same sort, and told me that it was used in their sacrifices; that, when fresh, it was exquisitely sweet, and added much to the scent of rich essences, in which it was a principal ingredient; that the merchants brought it from the mountainous country to the north-east of Bengal; that it was the entire plant, not a part of it, and received its Sanscrit names from its resemblance to locks of hair; as it is called Spikenard, I suppose, from its resemblance to a Spike, when it is dried, and not from the configuration of its flowers, which the Greeks, probably, never examined. The Perſian author describes the

the whole plant as resembling the tail of an ermine; and the Jatámánsì, which is manifestly the Spikenard of our druggists, has precisely that form, consisting of withered stalks and ribs of leaves, cohering in a bundle of yellowish brown capillary fibres, and constituting a spike about the size of a small finger. We may on the whole be assured, that the nardus of PTOLEMY, the Indian Sumbul of the Persians and Arabs, the Jatámánsì of the Hindus, and the Spikenard of our shops, are one and the same plant; but to what class and genus it belongs in the Linnean system, can only be ascertained by an inspection of the fresh blossoms. Dr. PATRICK RUSSEL, who always communicates with obliging facility his extensive and accurate knowledge, informed me by letter, that " Spikenard is carried over " the desert (from India, I presume) to Aleppo, where it is used in " substance, mixed with other perfumes, and worn in small bags, " or in the form of essence and kept in little boxes or phials, like " átar of roses." He is persuaded, and so am I, that the Indian nard of the ancients, and that of our shops, is one and the same vegetable.

Though diligent researches have been made at my request on the borders of Bengal and Bekár, yet the Jatámánsì has not been found growing in any part of the British territories. Mr. SAUNDERS, who met with it in Bután, where, as he was informed, it is very common, and whence it is brought in a dry state to Rangpúr, has no hesitation in pronouncing it a species of the Baccharis; and, since it is not possible, that he could mistake the natural order and essential character of the plant, which he examined, I had no doubt that the Jatámánsì was composit and corymbiferous with stamens connected by the anthers, and with female prolific florets intermixed with hermaphrodites: the word Spike was not used by the ancients with botanical precision, and the Stackys itself is verticillated, with only two species species out of fifteen, that could justify its generick appellation. I therefore concluded, that the true Spikenard was a Baccharis, and that, while the philosopher had been searching for it to no purpose, the dull swain

Trod on it daily with his clouted shoon,

for the Baccharis, it seems, as well as the Conyza, is called by our gardeners, Ploughman's Spikenard. I suspected, nevertheless, that the plant, which Mr. SAUNDERS described, was not Jatámánsì; because I knew that the people of Bután had no such name for it, but distinguished it by very different names in different parts of their hilly country: I knew also, that the Butías, who set a greater value on the drug than it seems, as a perfume, to merit, were extremely reserved in giving information concerning it, and might be tempted, by the narrow spirit of monopoly, to mislead an inquirer for the fresh plant. The friendly zeal of Mr. PURLING will probably procure it in a state of vegetation; for, when he had the kindness, at my desire, to make inquiries for it among the Bután merchants, they assured him, that the living plants could not be obtained without an order from their sovereign the Dévarájá, to whom he immediately dispatched a messenger with an earnest request, that eight or ten of the growing plants might be sent to him at Rangpùr: should the Dévarájá comply with that request, and should the vegetable flourish in the plain of Bengal, we shall have ocular proof of its class, order, genus, and species; and, if it prove the same with the Jatámánsì of Népàl, which I now must introduce to your acquaintance, the question, with which I began this essay, will be satisfactorily answered.

Having traced the Indian Spikenard, by the name of Jatámánsì, to the mountains of Népàl, I requested my friend Mr. LAW, who then resided at Gayá, to procure some of the recent plants by the means of the Népalese pilgrims; who, being orthodox Hindus and possessing many rare books in the Sanscrit language, were more likely than the Butias to know the true Jatámánsi, by which name they generally distinguish it: many young plants were accordingly sent to Gayà, with a Perſian letter specifically naming them, and apparently written by a man of rank and literature; so that no suspicion of deception or of error can be justly entertained. By a mistake of the gardener they were all planted at Gayà, where they have blossomed and at first seemed to flourish: I must therefore, describe the Jatámánsi from the report of Mr. BURT, who favoured me with a drawing of it, and in whose accuracy we may perfectly confide; but, before I produce the description, I must endeavour to remove a prejudice, in regard to the natural order of the spikenard, which they, who are addicted to swear by every word of their master LINNÆUS, will hardly abandon, and which I, who love truth better than him, have abandoned with some reluctance. Nard has been generally supposed to be a graſs; and the word ſtachys or ſpike, which agrees with the habit of that natural order, gave rise, perhaps, to the ſuppoſition. There is a plant in Java, which most travellers and ſome physicians called Spikenard; and the Governor of Chinsura, who is kindly endeavouring to procure it thence in a ſtate fit for examination, writes me word, that “a Dutch author pronounces it a graſs “like the Cypirus, but insists that what we call the ſpike is the fibrous “part above the root, as long as a man’s little finger, of a brownish “hue inclining to red or yellow, rather fragrant, and with a pungent, “but aromatick, ſcent.” This is too ſlovenly a description to have been written by a botanist; yet I believe the latter part of it to be tolerably correct, and ſhould imagine that the plant was the ſame with our Jatámánsi, if it were not commonly asserted, that the Javan spikenard was used as a condiment, and if a well-informed man, who had ſeen it in the island, had not assured me, that it was a ſort of

Pimento,

Pimento, and consequently a species of Myrtle, and of the order now called Hesperian. The resemblance before mentioned between the Indian sumbul and the Arabian Sûd, or Cypirus, had led me to suspect, that the true nard was a grass or a reed; and, as this country abounds in odoriferous grasses, I began to collect them from all quarters. Colonel KYD obligingly sent me two plants with sweet-smelling roots; and, as they were known to the Pandits, I soon found their names in a Sanscrit dictionary: one of them is called gandhas'at'hî, and used by the Hindus to scent the red powder of Sapan or Bakkam wood, which they scatter in the festival of the vernal season; the other has many names, and, among them, nágaramaſṭac and gónarda, the second of which means ruffling in the water; for all the Pandits insist, that nard is never used as a noun in Sanscrit, and signifies, as the root of a verb, to sound or to ruffle. Soon after, Mr. BURROW brought me, from the banks of the Ganges near Heridwâr, a very fragrant grass, which in some places covers whole acres, and diffuses, when crushed, so strong an odour, that a person, he says, might easily have smelt it, as ALEXANDER is reported to have smelt the nard of Gedrosia, from the back of an elephant: its blossoms were not preserved, and it cannot, therefore, be described. From Mr. BLANE of Lucnow I received a fresh plant, which has not flowered at Calcutta; but I rely implicitly on his authority, and have no doubt that it is a species of Andropogon: it has rather a rank aromatick odour, and, from the virtue ascribed to it of curing intermittent fevers, is known by the Sanscrit name of jwarâncus'a, which literally means a fever-hook, and alludes to the iron-hook with which elephants are managed. Lastly, Dr. ANDERSON of Madras, who delights in useful pursuits and in assisting the pursuits of others, favoured me with a complete specimen of the Andropogon Nardus, one of the most common grasses on the Coast, and flourishing most luxuriantly on the mountains, never eaten by cattle, but extremely grateful to bees, and containing an essential oil, which, he understands, is extracted from it in many parts of Hinduśān and used as an átar or perfume. He adds a very curious philological remark, that, in the Tamul dictionary, most words beginning with nár have some relation to fragrance; as nárukeradu to yield an odour, nártum pillu, lemon-graſs, nártei, citron, nárta manum, the wild orange-tree, nárum panei, the Indian Jasmin, nárum alleri, a strong smelling flower, and nártu, which is put for nard in the Tamul version of our Scriptures; so that not only the nard of the Hebrews and Greeks, but even the copia narium of HORACE, may be derived from an Indian root: to this I can only say, that I have not met with any such root in Sanskrit, the oldest polished language of India, and that in Persian, which has a manifest affinity with it, nár means a pomegranate, and nárgil (a word originally Sanskrit) a cocoa-nut, neither of which has any remarkable fragrance.

Such is the evidence in support of the opinion, given by the great Swedish naturalist, that the true nard was a gramineous plant and a species of Andropogon; but, since no graſs, that I have yet seen, bears any resemblance to the Jatámási, which I conceive to be the nardus of the ancients, I beg leave to express my dissent, with some confidence as a philologer, though with humble diffidence as a student in botany. I am not, indeed, of opinion, that the nardum of the Romans was merely the essential oil of the plant, from which it was denominated, but am strongly inclined to believe, that it was a generick word, meaning what we now call átar, and either the átar of roses from Cashmír and Perſia, that of Cétaca, or Pandanus, from the western coast of India, or that of Aguru, or aloe-wood, from Asám or Cochinchina, the proceſs of obtaining which is described by ABU'LFAZL, or the mixed perfume, called ábir, of which the principal ingredients were yellow fandal, violets, orange-flowers, wood of aloes, rose-water, muſk, and true spikenard: all thoſe eſſences and compositions were costly; costly ; and, most of them being sold by the Indians to the Persians and Arabs, from whom, in the time of OCTAVIUS, they were received by the Syrians and Romans, they must have been extremely dear at Jerusalem and at Rome. There might also have been a pure nardine oil, as ATHENÆUS calls it ; but nardum probably meant (and KOENIG was of the same opinion) an Indian essence in general, taking its name from that ingredient, which had, or was commonly thought to have, the most exquisite scent. But I have been drawn by a pleasing subject to a greater length than I expected, and proceed to the promised description of the true nard, or Jatámánsi, which, by the way, has other names in the Amarcób, the smoothest of which are jatilá and lómasà, both derived from words meaning hair. Mr. BURT, after a modest apology for his imperfect acquaintance with the language of botanists, has favoured me with an account of the plant, on the correctness of which I have a perfect reliance, and from which I collect the following natural characters:

AGGREGATE.

Cal. Scarce any. Margin, hardly discernible.

Cor. One petal. Tube somewhat gibbous. Border five cleft.

Stam. Three Anthers.

Pist. Germ beneath. One Style erect.

Seed Solitary, crowned with a pappus.

Root Fibrous.

Leaves Hearted, fourfold ; radical leaves petioled.

It appears, therefore, to be the Protean plant, VALERIAN, a sister of the mountain and Celtick, Nard, and of a species, which I should describe in the Linnean style : VALERIANA JATA'MA'NSI floribus triandris, foliis cordatis quaternis, radicalibus petiolatis. The radical leaves, rising from the ground and enfolding the young stem, are plucked plucked up with a part of the root, and, being dried in the sun or by an artificial heat, are sold as a drug, which from its appearance has been called spikenard; though, as the Persian writer observes, it might be compared more properly to the tail of an ermine: when nothing remains but the dry fibres of the leaves, which retain their original form, they have some resemblance to a lock of hair, from which the Sanskrit name, it seems, is derived. Two mercantile agents from Bután on the part of the Dévarájá were examined, at my request, by Mr. HARRINGTON, and informed him, that the drug, which the Bengalese called Jatámáni, “grew erect above the surface of the ground, resembling in colour an ear of green wheat; that, “when recent, it had a faint odour, which was greatly increased by “the simple process of drying it; that it abounded on the hills, and “even on the plains, of Bután, where it was collected and prepared “for medicinal purposes.” What its virtues are, experience alone can ascertain; but, as far as botanical analogy can justify a conjecture, we may suppose them to be antispasmodick; and, in our provinces, especially in Behar, the plant will probably flourish; so that we may always procure it in a state fit for experiment. On the description of the Indian spikenard, compared with the drawing, I must observe, that, though all the leaves, as delineated, may not appear of the same shape, yet all of them are not fully expanded. Mr. BURT assures me, that the four radical leaves are hearted and petioled; and it is most probable, that the caudine and floral leaves would have a similar form in their state of perfect expansion; but, unfortunately, the plants at Gayá are now shrivelled; and they, who seek farther information, must wait with patience, until new stems and leaves shall spring from the roots, or other plants shall be brought from Népál and Bután. On the proposed inquiry into the virtues of this celebrated plant, I must be permitted to say, that, although many botanists may have wasted their time in enumerating the qualities of vegetables, without having ascertained them by repeated and satisfactory experiments, and although mere botany goes no farther than technical arrangement and description, yet it seems indubitable, that the great end and aim of a botanical philosopher is, to discover and prove the several uses of the vegetable system, and, while he admits with HIPPOCRATES the fallaciousness of experience, to rely on experiment alone as the basis of his knowledge.

ADDITIONAL REMARKS
ON
THE SPIKENARD OF THE ANCIENTS.
By THE PRESIDENT.

NEARLY at the time, when the result of my first inquiries concerning spikenard was published in the second volume of our Historical Researches, there appeared in the Philosophical Transactions an account of the ANDROPOGON Yuccaceus, the specimen of which Dr. BLANE had received from Lwown, and which he supposes to be the true Indict nard of DIOSCORIDES and GALEN: having more than once read his arguments with pleasure, but not with conviction, I feel it incumbent on me, to state my reasons for dissenting from the learned physician with all the freedom of a searcher for truth, but without any diminution of that respect, to which his knowledge and candour justly entitle him.

In the first place, there is a passage in Dr. BLANE's paper, which I could not but read with surprise; not because it is erroneous or disputable (for nothing can be more certain), but because it is decisive against the very proposition, which the writer endeavours to support: "Dioscorides mentions the Syriack nard, says the doctor, as a species different " different from the Indian, which was certainly brought from some of the " remote parts of India; for both he and GALEN, by way of fixing

 " more precisely the country, whence it came, call it also Gagnites."
 We may add, that PTOLEMY, who, though not a professed naturalist, had opportunities in Egypt of conversing with Indian merchants on every thing remarkable in this country, distinguishes Rangamati, as producing the true spikenard; and it is from the borders of that very district, if we believe modern Indians, that the people of Butan bring it yearly into Bengal (a). Now it is not contended, that the new species of Andropogon (if it be a new species) may be the Indick nard of DIOSCORIDES, (b), because it was found by MR. BLANE in a remote part of India (for that solitary fact would have proved nothing); but it is learnedly and elaborately urged, that it must be the true Indian spikenard, because it differs only in the length of the stalks from the nard of GARCIAS, which, according to Him, is the only species of nardus exported from India, and which resembles a dried specimen seen by RUMPHIUS, and brought, he says, among other countries, from Mackran, or the ancient Gadrosia, the very country, where, according to ARRIAN, the true nard grew in abundance; for "the " Pheenicians, he says, collected a plentiful store of it, and so much of
 " it was trampled under foot by the army, that a strong perfume
 " was diffused on all sides of them;" now there is a singular coincidence of circumstances; for our Andropogon was discovered by the scent of its roots, when they were crushed by the horses and elephants

(a) PTOLE'ME'E distingue le canton de Rbandamarcotta, en ce qu'il fournit la plante, que nous in

in a hunting-party of the Vazír A'sufuddaulah; so that, on the whole, it must be the same with the plant mentioned by ARRIAN: but it may be argued, I think, more conclusively, that a plant, growing with great luxuriance in Gadrosia, or Mackran, which the doctor admits to be a maritime province of Perſia, could not possibly be the same with a plant confined to remote parts of India; so that, if GARCIAS, RUMPHIUS, and ARRIAN be supposed to have meant the same species of nard, it was evidently different from that of DIOSCORIDES and GALEN. The respectable writer, with whose opinions I make so free, but from no other motive than a love of truth, seems aware of a little geographical difficulty from the western position of Macrán; for he, first, makes it extend to the river Indus, and then infers, from the long march westward and the distresses of ALEXANDER's army, subsequent to the discovery of the spikenard, that it must have grown in the more eastern part of the desert, and consequently on the very borders of India; but, even if we allow Gedrosia, or Gadrosis, to have been the same tract of land with Macrán (though the limits of all the provinces in Perſia have been considerably changed), yet the frontier of India could never with any propriety be carried so far to the west; for not only the Oritæ and Arabitæ, but, according to MELA, the whole province of Ariana, were between Gadrosis and the Indus; and, though Macrán (for so the word should be written) may have been annexed to India by such whimsical geographers as the Turks, who give the name of white Indians to the Perſians of Arachosia, and of yellow Indians to the Arabs of Yemen, yet the river Indus, with the countries of Sind and Miltán on both sides of it, has ever been considered by the Perſians and Arabs as the western limit of Hind or India; and ARRIAN himself expressly names the Indus as its known boundary: let Gadrosis, however, be Macrán, and let Macrán be an Indian province, yet it could never have been a remote part of India in respect of Europe or Egypt, and, consequently, was not meant by GALEN and DIOS-

CORIDES, when they described the true spikenard. It must be admitted, that, if the Siree of RUMPHIUS, which differs little from the nardus of GARCIAS, which corresponds for the most part with the new Andropogon, was ever brought from the province of Macrān, they were all three probably the same plant with the nard of Arrian; but, unfortunately, RUMPHIUS thought of no country less than of Perſia, and of no province less than of Macrān; for he writes very distinctly, both in his Latin and his Dutch columns, that the plant in question grows in Macian, which he well knew to be one of the Moluccas (c): I am far from intending to give pain by detecting this trifling mistake; and, as I may have made many of greater consequence, I shall be truly obliged to any man, who will set me right with good manners, the sacred laws of which ought never to be violated in a literary debate, except when some petulant aggressor has forfeited all claim to respect.

ARRIAN himself can by no means be understood to assert, that the Indian spikenard grew in Perſia; for his words are a fragrant root of nard (d), where the omission of the definite articles implies rather a nard, than the nard, or the most celebrated species of it; and it seems very clear, that the Greeks used that foreign word generically for odoriferous plants of different natural orders: but ARRIAN in truth was a mere compiler; and his credit, even as a civil historian, seems liable to so much doubt, that it cannot be safe to rely on him for any fact in the history of nature. “ We cannot, says the judicious and “ accurate STRABO, give easy credence to the generality even of “ contemporary writers concerning ALEXANDER, whose fame was

(c) Hi flores ſæpe, immo vulgo fere, obſervantur in vetusis Siree ſlipitibus, qui in Ternata, Motira, et Mackian crenunt. Vol. 5. Lib. 8. Cap. 24. p. 182.

“ astonishingly

“ astonishingly high, and whose historians, preferring wonders to truth, “ wrote with secure negligence; well knowing, that, as the farthest “ limits of Asia were the scene of his actions, their assertions could “ hardly be disproved.” Now ARRIAN’s principal authority was ARISTOBULUS of Cassandra, whose writings were little prized by the ancients, and who not only asserted, “ that Gadrosis produced very tall “ myrrb-trees, with the gum of which the Phenicians loaded many “ beasts” (notwithstanding the slaughter of them from the distress of the whole army), but, with the fancy of a poet describing the nest of a phenix, placed myrrb, incense, and cassia, with cinnamon and spikenard itself, even in the wilds of Arabia: “ The fruitfulness of Arabia,” says ARRIAN, “ tempted the king of Macedon to form a design of in“ vading it; for he had been assured, that myrrh and frankincense “ were collected from the trees of that country; that cinnamon was “ procured from one of its shrubs; and that its meadows produced “ spontaneously abundance of spikenard.” HERODOTUS, indeed, had heard of cinnamon in Arabia, where the Laurus, to the bark of which we now give that name, was, I verily believe, never seen: even the myrrh-tree does not seem to have been a native of Arabia, and the public are now informed, that it was transplanted from Abyffinian forests, and has not flourished on the opposite shore; but, whatever be the countries of myrrh and cinnamon, we may be certain, that any learned Arab would laugh at us, if we were to tell him, that the Sumbulu'l Hind grew wild in abundance on the plains of Tabámah. It seems a bold allegation of GARCIAS, that he has exhibited “ the only “ species of nardus known in India, either for consumption by the “ natives or for exportation to Perfia and Arabia.” if he meant, that any plant was either used in this country or exported from it by the name of nard, he had been strangely deceived; and if he meant, that it was the only fragrant grass used here as a medicine or as a perfume, his error was yet more gross. But, whatever his meaning might have have been, if the nard of GARCIAS and of ARRIAN was one and the same plant, it is wonderful, that it should ever have been exported to Perſia and Arabia, where it grew, we are told, in so great abundance. The nard of Arabia was, probably, the ANDROPOGON Schænanthus, which is a native of that country ; but, even if we suppose, that the spikenard of India was a reed or a graſs, we shall never be able to diſtinguish it among the many Indian species of Cyprinus, Andropogon, Schænus, Carex, and other genera of those natural orders, which here form a wilderness of sweets, and ſome of which have not only fragrant roots, but even spikes in the ancient and modern ſeneses of that emphatical word ; one of them, which I never have ſeen in blosſom, but ſuppoſe from its appearance to be a Schænus, is even called Gónarda, and its dry root has a moſt agreeable odour ; another, which RHEEDE names Bálaca, or Ramacciam, or white Irivelé, and which BURMAN thought a variety of the Schænanthus, is a conſiderable article, it ſeems, of Indian commerce, and, therefore, cultivated with diligence, but leſs eſteemed than the black fort, or Carabála, which has a more fragrant root and affords an extremely odoriferous oil (e). All thoſe plants would, perhaps, have been called nards by the ancients ; and all of them have stronger pretensions to the appellation of the true spikenard, than the Febrifuge ANDROPOGON, which the Hindus of Behár do not uſe as a perfume. After all, it is assuming a fact without proof, to affeſt, that the Indian spikenard was evidently gramineous ; and, ſurely, that fact is not proved by the word ariſta, which is conceived to be of a Grecian origin, though never applied in the ſame ſeneſe by the Greeks themſelves, who perfectly well knew what was best for mankind in the vegeſtable ſystem, and for what gift they adored the goddeſs of Eleuſis. The Roman poeſts (and poeſts only are cited by Dr. BLANE, though natualists also are mentioned) were fond of the word arista, because it was very convenient at the close of an hexameter, where we generally, if not constantly, find it; as HOMER declares in LUCIAN, that he began his Iliad with Mήνη, because it was the first commodious word, that presented itself, and is introduced laughing at a profound critick, who discovered in that single word an epitome of the whole poem on the wrath of ACHILLES: such poets as OVID and LACTANTIUS described plants, which they never had seen, as they described the nest of the phenix, which never existed, from their fancy alone; and their descriptions ought not seriously to be adduced as authorities on a question merely botanical; but, if all the naturalists of Greece and Italy had concurred in assuring us, that the nard of India bore an ear or spike, without naming the source of their own information, they would have deserved no credit whatever; because not one of them pretends to have seen the fresh plant, and they had not even agreed among themselves, whether its virtues resided in the root or in the husky leaves and stalks, that were united with it. PIETRO DELLA VALLE, the most learned and accomplished of eastern travellers, does not seem to have known the Indian spikenard, though he mentions it more than once by the obsolete name of Spigonardo; but he introduces a Sumbul from Khatá, or a part of China, which he had seen dry, and endeavours to account for the Arabick name in the following manner:—“ Since the Khatáian “ Sumbul, says he, is not a spike but a root, it was probably so named, “ because the word Sumbul may signify, in a large acception, not “ only the spike, but the whole plant, whatever herb or grass may be “ sown; as the Arabick dictionary (f), entitled Kámús, appears to indicate:” The passage, to which he alludes, is this: “ SUMBUL, says

(f) Giacchè il Sombol del Cataio è radice e non è Spiga, potremmo dire, che così sì chiamò, perchè forse la parola Sombol possa più largamente significare non solo la Spiga, ma tutta La pianta di ogni erba o biada, che si fermano; come par, che il Cámús, vocabolario Arabico, ne dia indizio.

" the author of the Kámís, is an odoriferous plant, the strongest of " which is the Súri, and the weakest, the Hindi; but the Sumbul of Rúm
" has the name of nardin." I suggested in my former paper, and shall repeat in this, that the Indian spikenard, as it is gathered for use, is in fact the whole plant; but there is a better reason why the name Sumbul has been applied to it. By the way, DELLA VALLE failed, as he tells us, along the coast of Macrán, which he too supposes to have been a part of Gedrosia; but he never had heard, that it produced Indian spike-nard, though the Perfians were fully acquainted with that province; for he would not have omitted so curious a fact in his correspondence with a learned physician of Naples, for whose sake he was particularly inquisitive concerning the drugs of Asia: it is much to be wished, that he had been induced to make a short excursion into the plains of Macrán, where he might have found, that the wonderful tree, which ARRIAN places in them, with flowers like violets, and with thorns of such force and magnitude, as to keep wild beasts in captivity, and to transfix men on horseback, who rode by them inadvertently, was no more probably than a Mimosa, the blossoms of which resembled violets in nothing but in having an agreeable scent.

Let us return to the Arabs, by whom DIOSCORIDES was translated with assistance, which the wealth of a great prince will always purchase, from learned Greeks, and who know the Indian spikenard, better than any European, by the name of Sumbulu'l Hind: it is no wonder, that they represent it as weaker in scent and in power than the Sumbul of the lower Asia, which, unless my smell be uncommonly defective, is a strong Valerian; especially as they could only have used the dry nard of India, which loses much of its odour between Rangpúr and Calcutta.
One question only remains (if it be a question), whether the Sumbulu'l Hind be the true Indian spikenard; for, in that case, we know the plant to be of the natural order, which LINNÆUS calls aggregate. Since the publication publication of my paper on this subject, I put a fair and plain question severally to three or four Musselman physicians, "What is the Indian name of the plant, which the Arabs call Sumbulu'l Hind?" They all answered, but some with more readiness than others, Jatámánsì. After a pretty long interval, I shewed them the spikes (as they are called) of Jatámánsì, and asked, what was the Arabick name of that Indian drug: they all answered readily, Sumbulu'l Hind. The same evidence may be obtained in this country by any other European, who seeks it; and if, among twelve native physicians, versed in Arabian and Indian philology, a single man should after due consideration give different answers, I will cheerfully submit to the Roman judgement of non liquet. My own inquiries having convinced me, that the Indian spike-nard of DIOSCORIDES is the Sumbulu'l Hind, and that the Sumbulu'l Hind is the Jatámánsì of AMARSINH, I am persuaded, that the true nard is a species of Valerian, produced in the most remote and hilly parts of India, such as Népál, Morang, and Butan, near which PTOLEMY fixes its native soil: the commercial agents of the Dévarája call it also Pampi, and, by their account, the dried specimens, which look like the tails of ermines, rise from the ground, resembling ears of green wheat both in form and colour; a fact, which perfectly accounts for the names Stachys, Spica, Sumbul, and Khúshah, which Greeks, Romans, Arabs, and Persians have given to the drug, though it is not properly a spike, and not merely a root, but the whole plant, which the natives gather for sale, before the radical leaves, of which the fibres only remain after a few months, have unfolded themselves from the base of the stem. It is used, say the Butan agents, as a perfume and in medicinal unguents, but with other fragrant substances, the scent and power of which it is thought to increase: as a medicine, they add, it is principally esteemed for complaints in the bowels. Though considerable quantities of Jatámánsì are brought in the caravans from Butan, yet the living plants, by a law of the country, cannot be exported without a licence from the sovereign, and and the late Mr. PURLING, on receiving this intelligence, obligingly wrote, for my satisfaction, to the Dévarája, requesting him to send eight or ten of the plants to Rangpúr: ten were accordingly sent in pots from Tassudan, with as many of the natives to take care of them under a chief, who brought a written answer from the Rájá of Butan; but that prince made a great merit of having complied with such a request, and my friend had the trouble of entertaining the messenger and his train for several weeks in his own house, which they seem to have left with reluctance. An account of this transaction was contained in one of the last letters, that Mr. PURLING lived to write; but, as all the plants withered before they could reach Calcutta, and as inquiries of greater importance engaged all my time, there was an end of my endeavours to procure the fresh Jatámánsì, though not of my conviction, that it is the true nard of the ancients.

BOTANICAL OBSERVATIONS
THE SPIKENARD OF THE ANCIENTS,

INTENDED AS A SUPPLEMENT TO THE LATE
SIR WILLIAM JONES'S PAPERS ON THAT PLANT.

BY WILLIAM ROXBURGH, M.D.

VALERIANA JATAMANSI.

GENERIC CHARACTER. FLOWERS triandrous, leaves entire, four-fold, the inner radical pair petiol'd, and cordate; the rest smaller, sessile, and sub-lanceolate; seeds crowned with a pappus.

V. Jatamansi of Sir WILLIAM JONES. See Asiatick Researches, vol. 2, page 405, 417, and vol. 4, page 109.

NOVEMBER 6th, 1794. I received from the Honourable C. A. BRUCE, Commissioner at Coos-Beyhar, two small baskets with plants of this valuable drug; he writes to me on the 27th September (so long had the plants been on the road), that he had, the day before, received them from the Deb Rajah of Bootan, and further says, that the Booteahs know the plant by two names, viz. Jatamanſi, and Pampé or Paumpé.

I need scarce attempt to give any further history of this famous odiferous plant than what is merely botanical, and that with a view to help to illustrate the learned dissertations thereon, by the late Sir WILLIAM JONES, in the 2d and 4th volumes of these Researches, and chiefly by pointing out, the part of the plant known by the name, Indian Nard or Spikenard; a question on which MATHEOLUS, the commentator of Dioscorides, bestows a good deal of argument; viz. Whether the roots, or stalks, were the parts esteemed for use, the testimony of the ancients themselves on this head being ambiguous. It is therefore necessary for those who wish for a more particular account of it, to be acquainted with what that gentleman has published on the subject.

The plants now received, are growing in two small baskets of earth, in each basket there appears above the earth between thirty and forty hairy, spike-like bodies, but more justly compared to the tails of Ermines, or small Weasels *; from the apex of each, or at least of the greatest part of them, there is a smooth lanceolate, or lanceolate-oblong, three or five-nerved, short-petiol'd, acute, or obtuse, slightly ferrulate leaf or two shooting forth. Fig. 1. represents one of them in the above state, and on gently removing the fibres, or hairs which surround the short petiols of these leaves, I find it consists of numerous sheaths, of which one, two or three of the upper or interior ones are entire, and have their fibres connected by a light-brown coloured membranous sub-

* The term spica, or spike, is not so ill applied to this substance, as may be imagined; several of the Indian grasses, well known to me, have spikes almost exactly resembling a single straight piece of nardus, and when those hairs (or flexible arista like bristles) are removed, PLINY's words, "ſrutexstance as at b, but in the lower exterior sheaths, where this connecting membrane is decayed, the more durable hair-like fibres remain distinct, giving to the whole the appearance of an Ermine's tail: this part, as well as the root itself, are evidently perennial *. The root itself (beginning at the surface of the earth where the fibrous envelope ends) is from three to twelve inches long, covered with a pretty thick, light-brown coloured bark: from the main root, which is sometimes divided, there issues several smaller fibres. Fig. 2, is another plant with a long root, here the hair-like sheaths, beginning at a, are separated from this the perennial part of the stem, and turned to the right side; at the apex is seen the young shoot, marked b, which is not so far advanced as at Fig. 1. c c c show the remains of last year's annual stem. When the young shoot is a little further advanced than in Fig. 2, and not so far as in Fig. 1. they resemble the young convolute shoots of monocotyledonous plants. June 1795. The whole of the abovementioned plants have perished, without producing flowers, notwithstanding every care that could possibly be taken of them. The principal figure in the drawing marked Fig. 3, and the following description, as well as the above definition, are therefore chiefly extracted from the engraving and description in the second volume of these Researches, and from the in-
" radice pingui et crassa," are by no means inapplicable. See Fig. 2, from a to b.

* The above described perennial hairy portion of the plant, is clearly the Indian spike-nard of our shops; but whether the nardus of the ancients, or not, I leave to better judges to determine; however, I believe few will doubt it after having read Sir WILLIAM JONES's Dissertations thereon, and compared what he says with the accompanying drawings of the perennial hairy part of the stem of this plant, which are taken from the living plants immediately under my own eyes: the drawing of the herbaeuous, or upper part of the plant, is out of the question in determining this point, and only refers to the place the plant bears in our Botanical Books. While writing the above, I desired an Hindu servant to go and buy me from their apothecaries shops a little Jatamansi, without saying more or less: he immediately went and brought me several pieces of the very identical drug, I have been describing; a drawing of one of the pieces is represented at Fig. 4, and agrees not only with those I have taken from the living plants, but also exceedingly well with GARCIAS AB ORTA's figure of the nardus indica which is to be found at page 129, of the fourth edition of CLUSIUS's Latin translations of his history of Indian drugs published in 1693.

formation communicated to me by Mr. BURT, the gentleman who had charge of the plants that flowered at Gaya, and who gave Sir WILLIAM JONES the drawing and description thereof.

Description of the Plant.

Root, it is already described above.

Stem, lower part perennial, involved in fibrous sheaths, &c. as above described ; the upper part herbaceous suberect, simple, from six to twelve inches long.

Leaves four-fold, the lowermost pair of the four radical are opposite, sessile, oblong, forming, as it were a two-valved spathe ; the other pair are also opposite petiol'd, cordate, margins waved, and pointed ; those of the stem sessile, and lanceolate, all are smooth on both sides.

Corymb terminal, first division trichotomous.

Bracts awl'd.

Calyx scarce any.

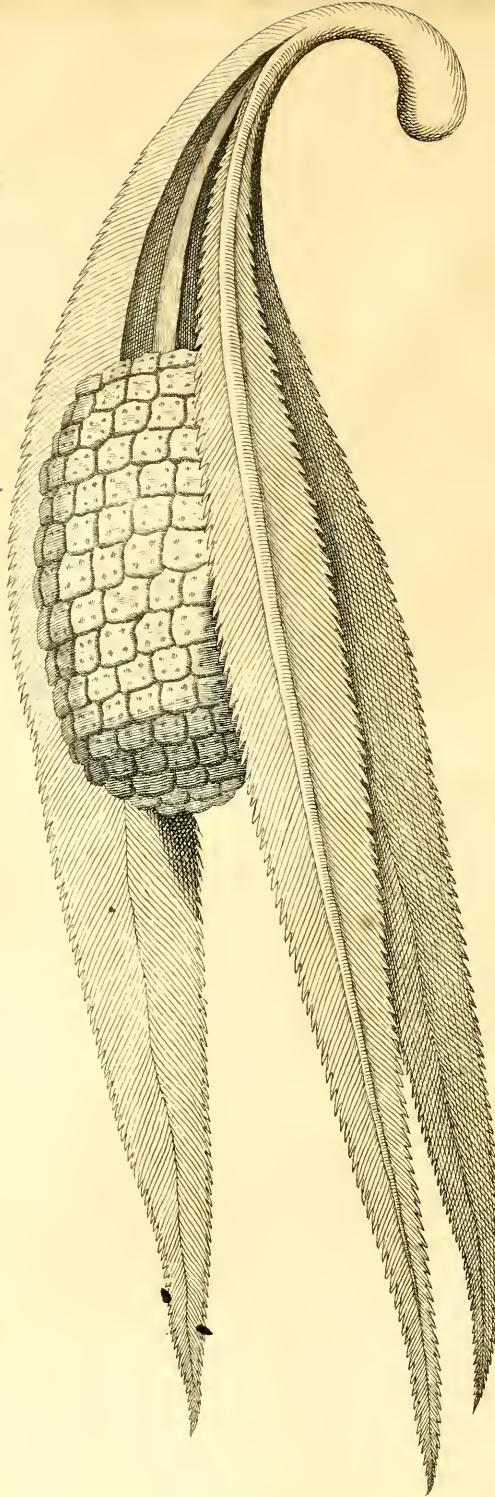

Corol one petal'd, funnel-shaped, tube somewhat gibbous. Border five-cleft.

Stamens, filaments three, project above the tube of the corol ; anthers incumbent.

Pistil, germ beneath. Style erect, length of the tube. Stigma simple.

Pericarp, a single seed crowned with a pappus.

THE FRUIT OF THE MELLORI.

NOTE

BY THE PRESIDENT.

AS far as we can determine the class and order of a plant from a mere delineation of its fruit, we may safely pronounce, that the Léram of Nicobar is the Cádbi of the Arabs, the Cétaca of the Indians, and the Pandanus of our botanists, which is described very awkwardly (as KOENIG first observed to me) in the Supplement to LINNÆUS: he had himself described with that elegant conciseness, which constitutes the beauty of the Linnean method, not only the wonderful fructification of the fragrant Cétaca, but most of the flowers, which are celebrated in Sanskrit, by poets for their colour or scent and by physicians for their medical uses; and, as he bequeathed his manuscripts to Sir JOSEPH BANKS, we may be sure, that the publick spirit of that illustrious naturalist will not suffer the labours of his learned friend to be sunk in oblivion. Whether the PANDANUS Léram be a new species, or only a variety, we cannot yet positively decide; but four of the plants have been brought from Nicobar, and seem to flourish in the Company's Botanical Garden, where they will probably blossom; and the greatest encouragement will, I trust, be given to the cultivation of so precious a vegetable. A fruit weighing twenty or thirty pounds, and containing a farinaceous substance, both palatable and nutritive in a high degree, degree, would perhaps, if it were common in these provinces, for ever secure the natives of them from the horrors of famine ; and the Pandanus of Bengal might be brought, I conceive, to equal perfection with that of Nicobar, if due care were taken to plant the male and female trees in the same place, instead of leaving the female, as at present, to bear an imperfect and unproductive fruit, and the distant male to spread itself only by the help of its radicating branches.

SELECT INDIAN PLANTS*.

BY THE PRESIDENT.

'IF my names of plants displease you, says the great Swedish botanist, 'choose others more agreeable to your taste,' and, by this candour, he has disarmed all the criticism, to which as it must be allowed, even the critical parts of his admirable works lie continually open : I avail myself of his indulgence, and am very solicitous to give Indian plants their true Indian appellations ; because I am fully persuaded, that LINNÆUS himself would have adopted them, had he known the learned and ancient language of this country ; as he, like all other men, would have retained the native names of Asiatick regions and cities, rivers and mountains, leaving friends or persons of eminence to preserve their own names by their own merit, and inventing new ones, from distinguishing marks and properties, for such objects only as, being recently discovered, could have had no previous denomination. Far am I from doubting the

great importance of perfect botanical descriptions; for languages expire as nations decay, and the true sense of many appellatives in every dead language must be lost in a course of ages: but, as long as those appellatives remain understood, a travelling physician, who should wish to procure an Arabian or Indian plant, and, without asking for it by its learned or vulgar name, should hunt for it in the woods by its botanical character, would resemble a geographer, who, desiring to find his way in a foreign city or province, should never inquire by name for a street or a town, but wait with his tables and instruments, for a proper occasion to determine its longitude and latitude.

The plants, described in the following paper by their classical appellations, with their synonyma or epithets, and their names in the vulgar dialects, have been selected for their novelty, beauty, poetical fame, reputed use in medicine, or supposed holiness; and frequent allusions to them all will be found, if the Sanscrit language should ever be generally studied, in the popular and sacred poems of the ancient Hindus, in their medical books and lawtracts, and even in the Vēdas themselves: though unhappily I cannot profess, with the fortunate Swede, to have seen without glasses all the parts of the flowers, which I have described, yet you may be assured, that I have mentioned no part of them, which I have not again and again examined with my own eyes; and though the weakness of my sight will for ever prevent my becoming a botanist, yet I have in some little degree atoned for that fatal defect by extreme attention, and by an ardent zeal for the most lovely and fascinating branch of natural knowledge.

Before I was acquainted with the method pursued by VAN RHEEDE, necessity had obliged me to follow a similar plan on a smaller scale; and, as his mode of studying botany, in a country and climate by no means favourable to botanical excursions, may be adopted more successfully cessfully by those who have more leisure than I shall ever enjoy, I present you with an interesting passage from one of his prefaces, to which I should barely have referred you, if his great work were not unfortunately confined, from its rarity, to very few hands. He informs us, in an introduction to his third volume, "that several Indian physicians "and Bráhmens had composed by his order, a catalogue of the most celebrated plants, which they distributed according to their times of blossoming and seeding, to the configuration of their leaves, and to the forms of their flowers and fruit; that, at the proper seasons he gave copies of the list to several intelligent men, of whom he sent parties into different forests, with instructions to bring him, from all quarters, such plants as they saw named, with their fruit, flowers, and leaves, even though they should be obliged to climb the most lofty trees for them; that three or four painters, who lived in his family, constantly and accurately delineated the fresh plants, of which, in his presence, a full description was added; that, in the meanwhile, he had earnestly requested all the princes and chiefs on the Malabar coast to send him such vegetables, as were most distinguished for use or for elegance, and that not one of them failed to supply his garden with flowers, which he sometimes received from the distance of fifty or sixty leagues; that when his herbarists had collected a sufficient number of plants, when his draughtsmen had sketched their figures, and his native botanists had subjoined their description, he submitted the drawings to a little academy of Pandits, whom he used to convene for that purpose from different parts of the country; that his assembly often consisted of fifteen or sixteen learned natives, who vied with each other in giving correct answers to all his questions concerning the names and virtues of the principal vegetables, and that he wrote all their answers in his note-book; that he was infinitely delighted with the candid, modest, amicable, and respectful debates of those pagan philosophers, each of whom adduced pas-

" fages from ancient books in support of his own opinion, but without " any bitterness of contest or the least perturbation of mind ; that the " texts, which they cited, were in verse, and taken from books, as they " positively asserted, more than four thousand years old ; that the first
 " couplet of each section in those books comprised the synonymous
 " terms for the plant, which was the subject of it, and that, in the sub" sequent verses, there was an ample account of its kind or species, its " properties, accidents, qualities, figure, parts, place of growth, time of " flowering and bearing fruit, medical virtues, and more general uses ;
 " that they quoted those texts by memory, having gotten them by " heart in their earliest youth, rather as a play than a study, according " to the immemorial usage of such Indian tribes, as are destined by law
 " to the learned professions ; and on that singular law of tribes, pe" culiar to the old Egyptians and Indians, he adds many solid and per" tinent remarks." Now when we complain, and myself as much as any, that we have no leisure in India for literary and philosophical pursuits, we should consider, that VAN RHEEDE was a nobleman at the head of an Indian government in his time very considerable, and that he fully discharged all the duties of his important station, while he found leisure, to compile, in the manner just described, those twelve large volumes, which LINNÆUS himself pronounces accurate.

1. TA'RACA :

VULG. Tárac.

LINN. Amomum.

CAL. Perianth spathe-like, but fitting on the germ ; tubular, one leaved, broken at the mouth into few irregular sharp toothlets ; downy, striated ; in part coloured, in part semipellucid.

COR. One-petaled, villous. Tube short, funnel form. Border double. Exterior three parted ; coloured like the calyx ; divisions oblong, striated, internally concave, rounded into slipperlike bags ; the two lower

lower divisions, equal, rather deflected ; the higher, somewhat longer, opposite, bent in a contrary direction, terminated with a long point. Interior, two-lipped (unless the upper lip be called the filament); under lip revolute, with a tooth on each side near the base ; two-parted from the middle ; divisions axe-form, irregularly end-nicked. Nectaries, two or three honey-bearing, light brown, glossy bodies at the base of the under lip, just below the teeth ; erect, awled, converging into a small cone.

STAM. Filament (unless it be called the upper lip of the interior border), channelled within, sheathing the style ; dilated above into the large fleshy anther, if it can justly be so named. Anther oblong, externally convex and entire, internally flat, divided by a deep furrow ; each division, marked with a perpendicular pollen-bearing line, and ending in a membranous point.

PIST. Germ beneath, protuberant, roundish, obscurely three sided, externally soft with down. Style threadform, long as the filament, the top of which nearly closes round it. Stigma headed, perforated.

PER. Capsule (or capsular berry, not bursting in a determinate mode, oblong-roundish, three striped, smooth, crowned with the permanent calyx and corol ; with a brittle coat, almost black without, pearly within.

SEEDS, lopped, with three or four angles, very smooth, enclosed within three oblong, rounded, soft, membranous integuments, conjoined by a branchy receptacle ; in each parcel, four or five.

Interior Border of the corol, pink and white ; under lip, internally milk-white, with a rich carmine stripe in each of its divisions. Seeds aromatick, hotter than Cardamoms. Leaves alternate, sheathing, oblong, pointed, keeled, most entire, margined, bright grass-green above, very smooth ; pale sea-green below. Stem compressed, three or four feet long, bright pink near its base, erect, ending in a beautiful panicle.

cle. Peduncles many flowered; bracts few lance-linear, very long, withering. Root fibrous, with two or three bulbous knobs, light brown and spungy within, faintly aromatic.

Although the Taraca has properties of an Amomum, and appears to be one of those plants, which RUMPHIUS names Globba, yet it has the air of a LANGUAS, the fruit, I believe, of a RENEALMIA, and no exact correspondence with any of the genera so elaborately described by KOENIG: its essential character, according to RETZ, would consist in its two parted interior border, its channelled filament, and its two cleft anther with pointed divisions.

2. BHU'CHAMPACA :

VULG. Bhúchampacá.

LINN. Round-rooted KÆMPFERIA.

CAL. Common Spathe imbricated, many flowered; partial. Perianth one leaved, small, thin, obscure.

COR. One petaled. Tube very long, slender, sub-cylindric below, funnel form above, somewhat incurved. Border double, each three parted: exterior, divisions lanced, acute, dropping; interior, two higher divisions erect, lapping over, oblong, pointed, supporting the back of the anther; lower division, expanding, deflected, two cleft; subdivisions broad, axeform, irregularly notched, endnicked, with a point.

STAM. Filament adhering to the throat of the corol, oblong below, enlarged, and twolobed above, coloured. Anther double, linear, higher than the mouth of the tube, fixed on the lower part of the filament, conjoined round the pistil, fronting the two cleft division of the border.

PIST. Germ very low near the root, attended with a nectareous gland.

Style capillary, very long. Stigma funnel form below, compressed above;

PER. and SEEDS not yet seen.

Scape thickish, very short. Corol richly fragrant; tube and exterior border milkwhite, divisions dropping, as if sensitive, on the slightest touch, and soon yielding to the pressure of the air; interior border purple, the higher divisions diluted, the lower deeply coloured within, variegated near the base. One or two flowers blow every morning in April or May, and wither entirely before sunset: after the spike is exhausted, rise the large leaves keeled, broad-lanced, membranous nerved. Root with many roundish, or rather spindleshaped bulbs.

This plant is clearly the Benchápo of RHEEDE, whose native assistant had written Bhu on the drawing, and intended to follow it with Champá: the spicy odour and elegance of the flowers, induced me to place this KÆMPFERIA (though generally known) in a series of select Indian plants; but the name Ground CHAMPAC is very improper, since the true Champaca belongs to a different order and class; nor is there any resemblance between the two flowers, except that both have a rich aromatick scent.

Among all the natural orders, there is none, in which the genera seem less precisely ascertained by clear essential characters, than in that, which (for want of a better denomination) has been called scitamineous; and the judicious RETZ, after confessing himself rather dissatisfied with his own generick arrangement, which he takes from the border of the corol, from the stamen, and principally from the anther, declares his fixed opinion, that the genera in this order will never be determined with absolute certainty until all the scitamineous plants of India shall be perfectly described.

3. SE'P'HALICA:

SYN. Suvahá, Nirgudí, Nilicá, Niváricá.

LINN. Sorrowful NYCTANTHES.

In all the plants of this species examined by me, the calyx was villous; the border of the corol white, five-parted, each division unequally subdivided; and the tube of a dark orange-colour; the flamens and pistil entirely within the tube; the berries, twin, compressed, capsular, two-celled, margined, inverse-hearted with a point. This gay tree (for nothing sorrowful appears in its nature) spreads its rich odour to a considerable distance every evening; but at sunrise it sheds most of its night-flowers, which are collected with care for the use of perfumers and dyers. My Pandits unanimously assure me, that the plant before us is their Sép'hálicá, thus named because bees are supposed to sleep on its blossoms; but Nilicá must imply a blue colour; and our travellers insist, that the Indians give the names of Párijática or Párijáta to this useful species of Nyctanthes: on the other hand, I know that Párijáta is a name given to flowers of a genus totally different; and there may be a variety of this with blueish corols; for it is expressly declared, in the Amarcósh, that, "when the Sép'hálica has white flowers, it is "named Swétasurafá, and Bhútavés'i."

4. α. MAGHYA.

SYN. Cunda.

LINN. Nyctanthes Sambac.

See RHEEDE: 6 H. M. tab. 54.

Flowers exquisitely white, but with little or no fragrance; stem, petioles, and calyx very downy; leaves egged, acute; below rather hearted.

β. SEPTALA:

SYN.

SYN. Navamallicá, Navamálíca.

VULG. Béla, Muta-béla.

BURM. Many-flowered Nyctanthes.

See 5 RUMPH. tab. 30. 6 H. M. tab. 50.

The blossoms of this variety are extremely fragrant. Zambak (so the word should be written) is a flower to which Persian and Arabian poets frequently allude.

5. MALLIQA :

SYN. Trinásúlya, Malli, Bhúpadí, Satabbiru.

VULG. Dési-béla.

LINN. Wavy-leaved NYCTANTHES.

Berry globular, simple, one-celled, SEED large, single, globular.

According to RHEEDE, the Bráhmens in the west of India distinguish this flower by the word Castúri, or musk, on account of its very rich odour.

6. A'SP'HOTA' :

SYN. Vanamallī.

VULG. Banmallica.

LINN. Narrow-leaved NYCTANTHES.

The Indians consider this as a variety of the former species ; and the flowers are nearly alike. Obtuse-leaved would have been a better specifick name : the petals, indeed, are comparatively narrow, but not the leaves. This charming flower grows wild in the forests ; whence it was called Vanajáti by the Bráhmens, who assisted RHEEDE ; but the Játi, or Málati, belongs, I believe, to the next genus.

7. MA'LATI :

7. MA'LATI':

SYN. Sumaná, Játí.

VULG. Málતì, Játí, Chambéłì.

LINN. Great-flowered JASMIN.

Buds blushing; corol, mostly with purplish edges. Leaves feathered with an odd one; two or three of the terminal leaflets generally confluent.

Though Málatì and Játí are synonymous, yet some of the native gardeners distinguish them; and it is the Játí only, that I have examined. COMMELINE had been informed, that the Javans give the name of Máletì to the Zambak, which in Sanskrit is called Navamallicá, and which, according to RHEEDE, is used by the Hindus in their sacrifices; but they make offerings of most odoriferous flowers, and particularly of the various Jasmins and Zambaks.

8. YUT'HICA':

SYN. Mágadbi, Ganicá, Ambasht'há, Yút'bì.

VULG. Jút'bì, Júü.

LINN. Azorick JASMIN.

Leaves opposite, three'd. Branchlets cross-armed. Umbels three-flower-ed. Corols white, very fragrant. The yellow Yút'bìcà, say the Hindus, is called Hémapushpicà, or golden-flowered; but I have never seen it, and it may be of a different species.

9. AMLICA':

SYN. Tintidl, Chinchá.

VULG. Tintiri; Tamru'lbindi, or Indian Date.

LINN. Tamarindus.

The flowers of the Tamarind are so exquisitely beautiful, the fruit so salubrious, when an acid sherbet is required, the leaves so elegantly formed formed and arranged, and the whole tree so magnificent, that I could not refrain from giving a place in this series to a plant already well known : in all the flowers, however, that I have examined, the coalition of the stamens appeared so invariably, that the Tamarind should be removed, I think, to the sixteenth class ; and it were to be wished, that so barbarous a word as Tamarindus, corrupted from an Arabick phrase absurd in itself, since the plant has no sort of resemblance to a date-tree, could without inconvenience be rejected, and its genuine Indian appellation admitted in its room.

10. SARA: or Arrow-cane.

SYN. Gundra, or Playful ; Téjanaca, or Acute.

VULG. Ser, Serkeri.

LINN. Spontaneous SACCHARUM.

CAL. Glume two-valved ; valves, oblong-lanced, pointed, subequal, girt with silky diverging hairs, exquisitely soft and delicate, more than twice as long as the flower.

COR. One-valved, acute, fringed.

STAM. Filaments three, capillary ; Anthers, oblong, incumbent.

PIST. Germs very minute, styles two, threadform. Stigmas feathery.

FLOWERS on a very large terminal panicle, more than two feet long, in the plant before me, and one foot across in the broadest part ; consisting of numerous compound spikes, divided into spikelets, each on a capillary jointed rachis, at the joints of which are the flowerets alternately sessile and pedicelled. Common peduncle many-furrowed, with reddish joints. Valvelet of the corol purple or light red ; stamens and pistils ruddy ; stigmas, purple ; pedicels, of a reddish tint ; finely contrasted with the long silvery beard of the calyx. Leaves very long, striated, minutely sawed ; teeth upwards ; keel smooth white, within ; sheathing the culm ; the mouths of the sheaths thick, set with white hairs. Culm above twenty feet high ; very smooth, round and light ;

more closely jointed and woody near the root, which is thick and fibrous; it grows in large clumps, like the Venu. This beautiful and superb grass is highly celebrated in the Puráñas, the Indian God of War, having been born in a grove of it, which burst into a flame; and the gods gave notice of his birth to the nymph of the Pleiads, who descended and suckled the child, thence named Cárticéya. The Cásá, vulgarly Casía, has a shorter culm, leaves much narrower, longer and thicker hairs, but a smaller panicle, less compounded, without the purplish tints of the Sara: it is often described with praise by the Hindu poets, for the whiteness of its blossoms, which give a large plain, at some distance, the appearance of a broad river. Both plants are extremely useful to the Indians, who harden the internodal parts of the culms, and cut them into implements for writing on their polished paper. From the munja, or culm, of the Sara was made the maunjì, or holy thread, ordained by MENU to form the facerdotal girdle, in preference even to the Cus'a-grafts.

11. DU'RVA':

SYN. Sataparvicá, Sahaśravīryà, Bhárgaví, Rudrá, Anantá.

VULG. Dúb.

KOEN. AGROSTIS Linearis.

Nothing essential can be added to the mere botanical description of this most beautiful grass; which VAN RHEEDE has exhibited in a coarse delineation of its leaves only, under the barbarous appellation of Beli-caraga: its flowers, in their perfect state, are among the loveliest objects in the vegetable world, and appear, through a lens, like minute rubies and emeralds in constant motion from the least breath of air. It is the sweetest and most nutritious pasture for cattle; and its usefulness added to its beauty induced the Hindus, in their earliest ages, to believe, that

Durva

Agrostis linearis of Dr. Koenig.

that it was the mansion of a benevolent nymph. Even the Véda celebrates it; as in the following text of the A't'harvana: “ May “ Dúrvà, which rose from the water of life, which has a hundred “ roots and a hundred stems, efface a hundred of my sins and pro-“ long my existence on earth for a hundred years!” The plate was engraved from a drawing in Dr. ROXBURGH’s valuable collection of Indian grasses.

12. Cus'a; or Cus'ha:

SYN. Cut'ha, Darbha, Pavitra.

VULG. Cusha.

KOEN. Poa Cynosuroides.

Having never seen this most celebrated grass in a state of perfect inflorescence, I class it according to the information, which Dr. ROXBURGH has been so kind as to send me: the leaves are very long, with margins acutely sawed downwards but smooth on other parts, even on the keels, and with long points, of which the extreme acuteness was proverbial among the old Hindus. Every law-book, and almost every poem, in Sanscrit contains frequent allusions to the holiness of this plant; and, in the fourth Véda, we have the following address to it at the close of a terrible incantation: ‘Thee, O Darbha, the learned proclaim a divinity not subject to age or death; thee they call the armour of INDRA, the preserver of regions, the destroyer of enemies; a gem that gives increase to the field. At the time, when the ocean resounded, when the clouds murmured and lightnings flashed, then was Darbha produced, pure as a drop of fine gold.’ Some of the leaves taper to a most acute, evanescent point; whence the Pandits often say of a very sharp-minded man, that his intellects are acute as the point of a Cus'a leaf.

13. BANDHU'CA :

SYN. Raṭṭaca, Bandhūjīvaca.

VULG. Bāndhūt, Ranjan.

LINN. Scarlet IXORA.

CAL. Perianth four-parted, permanent ; divisions, coloured, erect, acute.

COR. One-petaled, funnel-form. Tube, cylindrick, very long, slender, somewhat curved. Border four-parted ; divisions, egged, acute, deflected.

STAM. Filaments four, above the throat very short, incurved. Anthers oblong, depressed.

PIST. Germ roundish, oblate beneath. Style, threadform, long as the tube. Stigma two-cleft, just above the throat ; divisions, externally curved.

PER.

SEEDS :

FLOWERS bright crimson-scarlet, umbel-fascicled. Leaves oval, cross-paired, half-stem-clasping, pointed ; pale below, dark green above, leathery, clothing the whole plant. Stipules between the opposite leaves, erect, linear. Stem rufset, channelled.

The Bandūca-flower is often mentioned by the best Indian poets ; but the Pandits are strangely divided in opinion concerning the plant, which the ancients knew by that name. RA'DHA'CA'NT brought me, as the famed Bandhūca, some flowers of the Doubtful PAPAVER ; and his younger brother RAMA'CA'NT produced on the following day the Scarlet IXORA, with a beautiful couplet in which it is named Bandhūca : soon after, SERVO'RU showed me a book, in which it is said to have the vulgar name Dōp'bariya, or Meridian ; but by that Hindustāni name, the Muselmans in some districts mean the Scarlet PENTAPETES, and, in others, the Scarlet HIBISCUS, which the Hindus call Sūryamani, or Gem of the Sun. The last-mentioned plant is the Siafmin of RHEEDE, which LINNÆUS, through mere inadvertence, has confounded with the Scarlet Pentapetes, described in the fifty-sixth plate of the same volume. I cannot refrain from adding, that no Indian god was ever named IXORA; and that Is'wara, which is, indeed, a title of SIVA, would be a very improper appellation of a plant, which has already a classical name.

LINNÆUS,

14. CARNICA'RA :

SYN. Drumótpala, Perivyádha.

VULG. Cáncrá; Cat'hachampá.

LINN. Indian PAVETTA.

It is wonderful, that the Pandits of this province, both priests and physicians, are unable to bring me the flower, which CA'LIDA'SA mentions by the name of Carnicára, and celebrates as a flame of the woods: the lovely Pavetta, which botanists have sufficiently described, is called by the Bengal peasants Cáncrā, which I should conclude to be a corruption of the Sanskrit word, if a comment on the Amaracósh, had not exhibited, the vulgar name Cat'ha-champá; which raises a doubt, and almost inclines me to believe, that the Carnicára is one of the many flowers, which the natives of this country improperly called wild Champacs.

15. MA'SHANDARI:

VULG. Mafandarí in Bengal; and Bastrá in Hinduistán.

LINN. American CALICARPUS; yet a native of Java?

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, four-parted; Divisions pointed, erect.

COR. One-petaled, funnel-form; border four-cleft.

STAM. Filaments four, thread-form, coloured, longer than the corol.
Anthers roundish, incumbent.

PIST. Germ above, .egged. Style thread-form, coloured, longer than the stamens. Stigma thickish, gaping.

PER.

SEEDS.

FLOWERS minute, bright lilack, or light purple, extremely beautiful.

Panicles axillary one to each leaf, two-forked, very short in comparison of the leaves, downy. Bracts awled, opposite, placed at each fork of the panicle. Leaves opposite, petioled, very long, egged, veined, pointed, obtusely-notched, bright green and soft above, pale and downy beneath. Branches and petiols hoary with down. Shrub, with flexible branches; growing wild near Calcutta: its root has medicinal virtues, and cures, they say, a cutaneous disorder called másha, whence the plant has its name. Though the leaves be not sawed, yet I dare not pronounce the species to be new. See a note on the Hoary CALLOCARPUS, 5 RETZ. Fascic. p. 1. n. 19.

16. SRINGA'TA:

SYN. Sringátaca.

VULG. Singhdra.

LINN. Floating TRAPA.

I can add nothing to what has been written on this remarkable water-plant; but as the ancient Hindus were so fond of its nut (from the horns of which, they gave a name to the plant itself), that they placed it among their lunar constellations, it may certainly claim a place in a series of Indian vegetables.

17. CHANDANA:

SYN. Gandhasára, Malayaja, Bhadras'ri.

VULG. Gbandan, Sandal, Sanders.

LINN. True Santalum; more properly Sandalum.

SEED large, globular, smooth.

Having

Having received from Colonel FULLARTON many seeds of this exquisite plant, which he had found in the thickets of Midnapúr, I had a sanguine hope of being able to describe its flowers, of which RUMPHIUS could procure no account, and concerning which there is a singular difference between LINNÆUS and BURMAN the younger, though they both cite the same authors, and each refers to the works of the other; but the seeds have never germinated in my garden, and the Chandan only claims a place in the present series, from the deserved celebrity of its fragrant wood, and the perpetual mention of it in the most ancient books of the Hindus, who constantly describe the best sort of it as flourishing on the mountains of Malaya. An elegant Sanscrit stanza, of which the following Version is literally exact, alludes to the popular belief, that the Vénus, or bambus, as they are vulgarly called, often take fire by the violence of their collision, and is addressed, under the allegory of a sandal-tree to a virtuous man dwelling in a town inhabited by contending factions: “ Delight of the world, be“ loved CHANDANA, stay no longer in this forest, which is overspread “ with rigid pernicious Vans'as, whose hearts are unsound; and who,
 “ being themselves confounded in the scorching stream of flames “ kindled by their mutual attrition, will consume not their own fami“ lies merely, but this whole wood.” The original word durvans'a has a double sense, meaning both a dangerous bambu, and a man with a mischievous offspring. Three other species or varieties of Chandan are mentioned in the Amaracósha, by the names Tailaparnica, Gós'irsha, and Hericbandana: the red sandal (of which I can give no description) is named Cuchandana from its inferiour quality, Ranjana and Rac̄ta from its colour, and Tilaparni or Patráṅga from the form of its leaves.

18. CUMUDA :

SYN. Cairava.VULG. Ghain-chù.

RHEEDE :

RHEEDE: Tsjerœa Cit Ambel. 11 H. M. t. 29.

LINN. MENIANTHES?

CAL. Five-parted, longer than the tube of the corol, expanding, permanent; divisions, awled.

COR. One-petaled. Tube, rather belled; border five-parted; divisions oblong, wavy on the margin; a longitudinal wing or foldlet in the middle of each. The mouth and whole interior part of the corol shaggy.

STAM. Filaments five, awled, erect; Anthers twin, converging; five, alternate, shorter, sterile.

PIST. Germ egged, very large in proportion; girt at its base with five roundish glands. Style very short, if any. Stigma headed.

PER. Capsule four-celled, many-seeded.

SEEDS round, compressed, minute, appearing rough, with small dots or points.

LEAVES hearted, subtargeted, bright green on one side, dark russet on the other. Flowers umbel fascicled, placed on the stem, just below the leaf. Glands and Tube of the corol yellow; border white; both of the most exquisite texture: Cumuda, or Delight of the Water, seems a general name for beautiful aquatrick flowers; and among them, according to VAN RHEEDE, for the Indian Menianthes; which this in part resembles. The divisions of the corol may be called three-winged: they look as if covered with silver frost.

19. CHITRACA:

SYN. Pát'b'in, Vabni, and all other names of Fire.

VULG. Chita, Chiti, Chitrá.

LINN. PLUMBAGO of Silán.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, egg-oblong, tubular, five-sided; rugged, interspersed with minute pedicelled glands, exuding transparent glutinous droplets; erect, closely embracing the tube of the corol; mouth mouth five-toothed; base protuberant with the valves of the nectary.

COR. One-petaled, funnel-form. Tube five-angled, rather incurved, longer than the calyx. Border five-parted, expanding. Divisions inverse, egg-oblong, pointed, somewhat keeled.

Nectary five-valved, pointed, minute, including the germ.

STAM. Filaments five, thread-form, inserted on the valvelets of the nectary, as long as the tube of the corol. Anthers oblong, oblique.

PIST. Germ egged, very small; at first, when cleared of the nectary, smooth; but assuming, as it swells, five angles. Style columnar, as long as the stamens. Stigma five-parted, slender.

PER. None, unless we give that name to the five-angled coat of the seed.

SEED one, oblong, obscurely five-sided, inclosed in a coat.

Racemes viscid, leafy. Calyx light green. Corol milkwhite. Anthers purple, seen through the pellucid tube. Leaves alternate, egged, smooth, pointed, half sheathing, partly waved, partly entire; floral leaves, similar, minute. Stem flexible (climbing), many-angled, joined at the rise of the leaves. Root caustick; whence the name Vabni, and the like. Chitraca means attracting the mind; and any of the Indian names would be preferable to Plumbago, or Leadwort. The species here described, seems most to resemble that of Seilan; the rosy Plumbago is less common here: the joints of its stems are red; the bracts three'd, egged, equal pointed, coloured.

20. CA'MALATA':

SYN. Súrya-cánti, or Sunshine, 11. H. M. t. 60.

VULG. Cám-latá, Ishk-pichab.

LINN. IPOMOEA Quamoclit.

The plant before us is the most beautiful of its order, both in the colour and form of its leaves and flowers; its elegant blossoms are celestial tial rosy red, love's proper hue, and have justly procured it the name of Cámalatá, or Love's Creeper, from which I should have thought Quamoclit a corruption, if there were not some reason to suppose it an American word: Cámalatá may also mean a mythological plant, by which all desires are granted to such as inhabit the heaven of INDRA; and, if ever flower was worthy of paradise, it is our charming Ipomoea. Many species of this genus, and of its near ally the Convolvulus, grow wild in our Indian provinces, some spreading a purple light over the hedges, some snowwhite with a delicate fragrance; and one breathing after sunset the odour of cloves; but the two genera are so blended by playful nature, that very frequently they are undistinguishable by the corols and stigmas: for instance, the Mundavalli, or Beautiful Climber, of RHEEDE (of which I have often watched the large spiral buds, and seen them burst into full bloom) is called Ipomoea by LINNÆUS, and Convolvulus (according to the Supplement) by KŒNING; and it seems a shade between both. The divisions of the perianth are egg-oblong, pointed; free above, intricated below; its corol and tube, those of an Ipomoea; its filaments of different lengths, with anthers arrowed, jointed above the barbs, furrowed, half-incumbent; the stigmas, two globular heads, each globe an aggregate of minute roundish tubercles; the stem not quite smooth, but here and there bearing a few small prickles; the very large corol exquisitely white, with greenish ribs, that seem to act as muscles in expanding the contorted bud; its odour in the evening very agreeable; less strong than the primrose and less faint than the lily. The clove-scented creeper, which blows in my garden at a season and hour, when I cannot examine it accurately, seems of the same genus, if not of the same species, with the Mundavalli.

21. CADAMBA:

SYN. Nipa, Priyaca, Halipriya.

VULG.

VULG. Cadamb, Cadam.

LINN. Oriental Nauclea.

To the botanical description of this plant I can add nothing, except that I always observed a minute five-parted calyx to each floret, and that the leaves are oblong, acute, opposite, and transversely nerved. It is one of the most elegant among Indian trees in the opinion of all, who have seen it, and one of the holiest among them in the opinion of the Hindus: the poet CA'LIDA's alludes to it by the name of Nipa; and it may justly be celebrated among the beauties of summer, when the multitude of aggregate flowers, each consisting of a common receptacle perfectly globular and covered uniformly with gold-coloured florets, from which the white threadform styles conspicuously emerge, exhibits a rich and singular appearance on the branchy trees decked with foliage charmingly verdant. The flowers have an odour, very agreeable in the open air, which the ancient Indians compared to the scent of new wine; and hence they call the plant Halipriya, or beloved by HALIN, that is, by the third RA'MA, who was evidently the BACCHUS of India.

22. GANDI'RA:

SYN. Samasht'hilà, Lavana-bhantáca.

VULG. Lona-bhant; Ins; Sulatiyà.

LINN. SOLANUM. Is it the Verbasium-leaved?

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, cup-form or bellied? Obscurely five-cleft, downy, pale, frosted, permanent. Divisions egged, erect, pointed, very villous.

COR. One-petaled. Tube very short. Border five-parted. Divisions oblong, pointed, expanding, villous.

STAM. Filaments five, most short, in the mouth of the tube. Anthers oblong, furrowed, converging, nearly coalescent, with two large pores gaping above.

PIST.

PIST. Germ roundish, villous. Style thread-form, much longer than the stamens. Stigma obtuse-headed.

PER. Berry roundish, dotted above, hoary, divided into cells by a fleshy receptacle with two, or three, wings.

SEEDS very many, roundish, compressed, nestling.

LEAVES alternate, egg-oblong, pointed, rather wavy on the margin, delicately fringed with down; darker and very soft above, paler below with protuberant veins, downy on both sides, mostly decurrent on the long hoary petioles.

STEM shrubby, scabrous with tubercles, unarmed. Flowers umbel-fascicled. Corols white. Anthers, yellow. Peduncles and pedicels hoary with deciduous frost.

This plant is believed to contain a quantity of lavana, or salt, which makes it useful as a manure; but the single word Bhantáca, vulgarly Bhánt, means the Clerodendrum, which (without being unfortunate) beautifies our Indian fields and hedges with its very black berry in the centre of a bright-red, expanding, permanent calyx. The charming little bird Chatráca, commonly called Chattárya or Tuntuni, forms its wonderful nest with a leaf of this downy Solanum, which it sews with the silk-cotton of the Seven-leaved BOMBAX, by the help of its delicate, but sharp, bill: that lovely bird is well known by the Linnean appellation of MOTACILLA Sartoria, properly Sartrix, but the figures of it, that have been published, give no idea of its engaging and exquisite beauty.

23. SAMUDRACA :

SYN. Dhóla-samudra.

VULG. Dhól-samudr.

LINN. Aquilicia; but a new species.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, funnel-shaped, five-toothed, short, the teeth closely pressing the corol; permanent.

Cor.

COR. Petals five, egg-oblong, sessile, greenish; acute, curved inwards with a small angled concave appendage. Nectary tubular, fleshy, five-parted, yellowish; divisions, egg-oblong, doubled, compressed like minute bags with inverted mouths; enclosing the germ.

STAM. Filaments five, smooth and convex externally, bent into the top of the nectary, between the divisions or scales, and compressing it into a globular figure. Anthers arrowed; the points hidden within the nectary, surrounding the stigma; the barbs without, in the form of a star.

PIST. Germ roundish. Style cylindric. Stigma obtuse.

PER. Berry roundish, flattened, nerved, longitudinally furrowed, mostly five-celled.

SEEDS solitary, three-sided, externally convex. Cymes mostly three-parted. Stem deeply channeled, jointed, two-forked. Peduncles also jointed and channeled. Fructification bursting laterally, where the stem sends forth a petiol. Berries black, watry. Leaves alternate, except one terminal pair; hearted, pointed, toothed; twelve or fourteen of the teeth shooting into lobes; above, dark green; below, pale, ribbed with processes from the petiol, and reticulated with protuberant veins; the full-grown leaves, above two feet long from the apex, and nearly as broad toward the base; many of them rather targeted: this new species may be called large-leaved, or AQUILICIA Samudraca. The species described by the younger BURMAN, under the name of the Indian STAPHYLEA, is not uncommon at Criśna-nagar; where the peasants call it Cácajangbá, or Crow's foot: if they are correct, we have erroneously supposed the Cóing of the modern Bengalese to be the Cácángi of the ancient Hindus. It must not be omitted, that the stem of the Aquilicia Sambucina is also channeled, but that its fructification differs in many respects from the descriptions of BURMAN and LINNÆUS; though there can be no doubt as to the identity of the genus.

24. SO'MARA'JI:

SYN. Avalguja, Suballi, Sómaballicá, Cálaméshì, Críshnápbala, Vácuchi, Vágujì, Pútip'ballì.

VULG. Sómráj, Bacuchi.

LINN. Fetid Pœderia.

The character as in LINNÆUS, with few variations. Calyx incurved. Corolla very shaggy within. Style two-cleft, pubescent; divisions contorted. Stem climbing, smooth. Leaves opposite, long-petioled; the lower ones oblong, hearted; the higher, egg-oblong; veined, with a wavy margin. Panicles axillary (except the highest), cross-armed. Flowers beautiful to the sight, crimson, with milkwhite edges, resembling the Dianthus vulgarly called Sweet William, but resembling it only in form and colours; almost scentless to those, who are very near it, but diffusing to a distance a rank odour of carrion. All the peasants at Críshna-nagar called this plant Sómráj; but my own servants, and a family of Bráhmens from Tribéni, gave that name to a very different plant, of the nineteenth class, which I took, on a cursory inspection, for a Prenanthes.

25. SYA'MA':

SYN. Gópi, Sárivá, Anantà, Utpalásárivà, Gópá, Gopálíca, Gópavallì.

VULG. Syámá-latá.

RHEEDE: in Malabar letters, Puppál-vallì.

CAL. Perianth, one-leaved, five-toothed, erect, minute, permanent.

COR. One-petaled, salver-form. Tube, itself cylindrick, but protuberant in the middle with the germ and anthers; throat very villous. Border five-parted; divisions very long, lance-linear, spirally contorted, fringed, closed, concealing the fructification.

STAM. Filaments, if any, very short. Anthers, five, awled, erect, converging at the top.

PIST. Germ above, pedicelled, spheroidal, girt with a nectareous ring.

Style threadform, rather awled. Stigma simple.

PER. Capsule one-celled; one-seeded, roundish, hispid.

SEED oval, very minute, glossy.

Flowers raceme-panicked, greenish-white, very small, scented like those of the hawthorn, but far sweeter; and thence the Portuguese called them honey-flowers.

Peduncles axillary, russet; pedicels many-flowered. Branchlets milky.

Leaves opposite, lance-oval, pointed at both ends, most entire veined; above dark green; below, pale. Stipules linear, axillary, adhering.

Stem climbing, round, of a russet hue, rimmed at the insertion of the short petioles.

The ripe fruit of this elegant climber, which CA'LIDA's mentions in his poem of the Seasons, has been seen by me only in a very dry state; but it seemed, that the hispid appearance of the capsules, or berries, which in a microscope looked exactly like the burrs in VAN RHEEDE's engraving, was caused by the hardened calyxes and fringe of the permanent corols: the seeds in each burr were numerous and like black shining sand; for no single pericarp could be disengaged from it, and it is described as one-seeded merely from an inspection of the dissected germ. Before I had seen the fruit, I thought the Syàma very nearly connected with the Shrubby APOCYNUM, which it resembles in the leaves, and in parts of the corol.

Five of the SANSKRIT names are strung together, by the author of the Amaracásh, in the following verse;

Gópi s'yámá s'arivá syádanantótpala sarivá:

and his commentator observes, that the last name was given to the Sárivá from the resemblance of its flowers to those of the Utpala, which I thence conclude to be a Menianthes; especially as it is always described scribed among the Indian water-plants. The other synonymous words are taken from VA'CHASPATI.

26. A'VIGNA, or Avinga:

SYN. Crisbnapácap'hala, Sufhénas, Caramardaca.

VULG. Caróndà or Caraundà in two dictionaries; in one, Pániamalà.

LINN. CARISSA Carandas.

CAL. Perianth five-cleft, acute, very small, coloured, persistent.

COR. One-petaled, funnel-form. Tube longish; throat swoln by the inclosed anthers. Border five-parted; divisions oblong; one side of each embracing the next.

STAM. Filaments five, extremely short. Anthers, oblong, erect.

PIST. Germ above, roundish. Style thread-form, short, clubbed. Stigma narrower, pubescent.

PER. Berry, elliptoïdal, two-celled.

SEEDS at least seven, oval, compressed, margined. Flowers milkwhite, jasmin-like. Fruit beautiful in form and colour, finely shaded with carmine and white; agreeably acid. Branches two-forked. Leaves opposite, short-petioled, elliptick, obtuse, most entire, smooth; some small leaves roundish, inverse-hearted. Thorns axillary, opposite, expanding; points, bright red. Peduncles twin, subterminal, three-flowered; pedicels, equal. The whole plant, even the fruit, milky. We have both species of Carissa in this province; but they melt, scarce distinguishably, into each other.

The Pandits have always brought me this elegant plant, as the Carandhu mentioned by JAYADE'VA; but, judging only by the shape and taste of the fruit, they seem to confound it with the RHAMNUS Fujuba; and the confusion is increased by the obscurity of the following passage in their best vocabulary:

*Carcandhbú, vadari, cóli; cólam, cuvala ph'énilé,
Sauviram, vadaram, ghóntá*—

All agree, that the neuter words mean fruits only ; but some insist, that the Ghóntá is a distinct plant thus described in an ancient verse : ‘ The ‘ ghóntá, called also gápaphóntá, is a tree shaped like the Vadari, with ‘ a very small fruit, growing only in forests.’ For the ghóntá, here known by the name of Séhácul, my servants brought me a RHAMNUS with leaves alternate egg-oblong, three-nerved, obscurely sawed, paler beneath, and most beautifully veined ; floral young leaves crowded, very long, linear ; prickles often solitary, sometimes paired, one straight, one curved ; a small globular drupe, quite black, with a one-celled nut : the flowers I never saw perfect ; but it seems the nineteenth species of LINNÆUS. We have many species of Rhamnus in our woods and hedges ; some like the Alaternus, polygamous by male and hermaphrodite flowers ; others, distinguished by various forms and positions of the prickles and leaves ; but the common Badari or Baiar, is the Jujube-tree described by RHEEDE ; and by RUMPHIUS called Indian Apple-tree. Its Persian name is Conár, by which it is mentioned in the letters of PIETRO DELLA VALLE, who takes notice of the soapy froth procured from its leaves ; whence it has in Sanskrit the epithet p'bénila, or frothy. To the plant the Arabs give the name of Sidr, and to its fruit, that of Nabik ; from which perhaps, Napecá has been corrupted.

27. CARAVÍ'RA :

SYN. Pratibása, Sataprása, Chan'dáta, Hayamáraca.

LINN. NERIUM Oleander, and other species.

VULG. Canér, Carbír.

A plant so well known would not have been inserted in this place, if it had not been thought proper to take notice of the remarkable epithet hayamáraca, or horse-killer ; which arose from an opinion still preserved among the Hindus, that a horse, unwarily eating the leaves of the Nerium, can hardly escape death: most of the species, especially their roots, have strong medicinal, but probably narcotick, powers. The blue-dying Nerium grows in woods at a little distance from my garden; and the Hindu peasants, who brought it me, called it Nil, or blue; a proof, that its quality was known to them, as it probably was to their ancestors from time immemorial.

28. SEPTAPERNA, or seven-leaved:

SYN. Vijála-twach, Sáradī, Vishama-ch'bada.

VULG. Ch'hitavanī, Ch'bátiyán, Ch'bátin, Ch'báton.

LINN. School ECHITES.

CAL. Perianth five-parted, sub-acute, small, villous, permanent; closing round the germ, immediately on the removal of the tube.

COR. One-petaled, funnel-form. Tube cylindrick below, prominent above with enclosed anthers, very villous in the throat. Border five-parted, shorter than the tube: divisions inverse-egged, obtuse, oblique, reflected, waved on the margin. Nectary, a circular undivided coronet, or rim, terminating the tube, with a short erect villous edge.

STAM. Filaments five, cylindrick, very short, in the throat of the tube. Anthers heart-arrowed, cleft, pointed, forming a star, visible through the mouth of the tube, with points diverging.

PIST. Germ above roundish-egged, very villous, scarce extricable from the calyx enclosing and grasping it. Style cylindrick, as long as the tube. Stigma two-parted, with parts diverging, placed on an irregular orblet.

PER. Follicles two, linear, very long, one-valved.

SEEDS numerous, oblong, compressed with silky pappus pencilled at both ends.

N O T E.

The whole plant, milky. Stem dotted with minute whitish tubercles. Leaves mostly sevened in verticils at short distances, very soft, oblong inverse-egged, some pointed, some obtuse, some end-nicked; some entire, some rather scalloped; with many transverse parallel veins on each side of the axis; rich dark green above, diluted below. Petioles furrowed above, smooth and convex beneath, elongated into a strong protuberant nerve continually diminishing and evanescent at the apex. Stipules above, erect, acute, set in a coronet round the stem; the verticils of the leaves answering to the definition of fronds. Flowers rather small, greenish white, with a very particular odour less pleasant than that of elder-flowers. Peduncles terminal with two verticils pedicelled umbel-wise, but horizontal. Pedicels six, headed, many-flowered; highest verticils similar to those heads, more crowded. Tree very large, when full-grown; light and elegant, when young. This plant so greatly resembles the Pala of VAN RHEEDE (which has more of the Nerium than of the Tabernæmontana) that I suspect the genus and species to be the same, with some little variety: that author says, that the Brāhmens call it Santenū, but his Nagari letters make it Savānu, and neither of the two words is to be found in Sanskrit. With all due respect for PLUMIER and BURMAN, I should call this plant NERIUM Septaparna: it is the Pule of RUMPHIUS, who enumerates its various uses at great length and with great confidence.

29. ARCA:

SYN. Vasuca, A'śp'bóta, Gonárupa, Vicirana, Mandára, Arcaperna; and any name of the Sun.

VULG. A'cand, A'nc.

LINN. Gigantick ASCLEPIAS.

Nectaries with two-glanded, compressed, folds, instead of awled hornlets at the summit; spirally eared at the base. Filaments twisted in in the folds of the nectaries. Anthers flat, smooth, rather wedge-form. Styles near half an inch long, subcylindrick. Stigmas expanded. Flowers terminal and axillary umbel-fascicled; amethyst-coloured with some darker shades of purple on the petals and nectaries; the starred corpuscle, bright yellow. Leaves opposite, heart-oblong, mostly inverse-egged, subtargeted, very rarely stem-clasping, pointed, villous on both sides, hoary beneath with soft down; petiols very short, concave and bearded above; with a thickish conical stipule. The whole plant filled with caustick milk. A variety of this species has exquisitely delicate milkwhite flowers; it is named Alarca or Pratápasa, and highly esteemed for its antispasmodick powers. The Padmárca, which I have not seen, is said to have small crimson corols: the individual plants, often examined by me, vary considerably in the forms of the leaves and the tops of the nectary.

30. PICHULA:

SYN. J'hávaca.

VULG. J'hau.

KOEN. Indian TAMARIX?

Flowers very small, whitish, with a light purple tinge, crowded on a number of spikes, which form all together a most elegant panicle. Stem generally bent, often straight, and used anciently for arrows by the Perians, who call the plant Gaz: the celebrated shaft of ISFENDIYA'R was formed of it, as I learned from BAHMEN, who first showed it to me on a bank of the Ganges, but asserted, that it was common in Persia. The leaves are extremely minute, sessile, mostly imbricated. Calyx and corol as described by LINNÆUS; five filaments considerably longer than the petal; anthers lobed, furrowed; germ very small; style, scarce any; stigmas three, revolute, but, to my eyes, hardly feathered.

Nothing

Nothing can be more beautiful than the appearance of this plant in flower during the rains on the banks of rivers, where it is commonly interwoven with a lovely twining ASCLEPIAS, of which the following description is, I hope, very exact :

31. DUGDHICA': or Milkplant ;

SYN. Csbíráví, Dugdhicá.

VULG. Kyirui, Dúdhí, Dúdb-latá.

LINN. Esculent Periploca.

CAL. One-leaved, five-parted; divisions awled, acute, coloured, expanding.

COR. One-petaled, salver-form, starlike; divisions five, egged, pointed, fringed.

Nectary double, on a five-cleft base, gibbous between the clefts, protruded, and pointed above, surrounded with a bright green villous rim: exterior five-parted; divisions egged, converging, attenuated into daggers; each concave externally, gibbous below the cavity, which is two-parted and wrinkled within. Interior, a five-parted corpuscle, lopped above, five-angled, surrounding the fructification.

STAM. Filaments scarce any. Anthers five, roundish, very minute, set round the summit of the lopped corpuscle.

PIST. Germs two, egged, pointed, erect, internally flat. Styles none, unless you so call the points of the germs. Stigma, none but the inferior nectary, unless you consider that as a common stigma.

PER. Follicles two, oblong; in some, pointed; in others, obtuse; inflated, one-valved; each containing a one-winged receptacle.

SEEDS numerous, roundish, compressed, crowned with pappus.

To each pair of leaves a peduncle mostly two-flowered, often with three, sometimes with five, flowers. Calyx reddish. Corol white, elegantly marked with purple veins; fringe, white, thick; anthers black.

Leaves

Leaves linear-awled, pointed, opposite, petioled with one strong nerve; stipules, very soft, minute. Stem smooth, round, twining; the whole plant abounding with milk.

32. LA'NGALI:

SYN. Saradì, Tóyapippálí, Saculádani.

VULG. Cánchrà, Isholángolyá.

RHEEDE: Chéru-vallél?

LINN. NAMA of Silán.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, five-parted, villous; divisions, lanced, pointed, long, permanent.

COR. One-petaled, nearly wheeled. Tube very short. Border five-parted. Divisions egged.

STAM. Filaments five, awled, expanding; from the mouth of the tube, adhering to the divisions of the border by rhomboidal concave bases convergent above. Anthers large, arrowed.

PIST. Germ above, egg-oblong, two-cleft. Styles two, azure, funnel-form, diverging almost horizontally. Stigmas lopped, open.

PER. Capsule many-seeded.

SEEDS very minute.

Stem herbaceous, branchy, smooth, pale, creeping. Leaves alternate, short-petioled, most entire, lance-oblong, smooth, acutish. Peduncles mostly axillary, sometimes terminal, villous, often many-flowered, rarely subumbellated, three-rayed, with involucres general and partial. Corols bright-blue, or violet; Stamens white. The plant is aquatrick; and by no means peculiar to Silán: I have great reason, however, to doubt whether it be the Làngali of the Amaracòsh, which is certainly the Canchrà of Bengal; for though it was first brought to me by that name, yet my gardener insists, that Canchrà is a very different plant, which, on examination, appears to be the Ascending Jussieua of LINNÆUS, with leaves inverse-egged, smooth, and peduncles shorter:

its

its fibrous, creeping roots are purplish, buoys, white, pointed, solitary; and at the top of the germ fits a nectary, composed of five shaggy bodies arched like horse shoes, with external honey-bearing cavities.

33. UMA':

SYN. Atasi, Cshumá.

VULG. Tisi, Mafaná.

LINN. Most common LINUM.

CAL. Perianth five-leaved. Leaflets oblong, acute, imbricated, keeled, fringed, minutely having somewhat reflected at the points.

COR. Small, blue; petals, notched, striated, wavy, reflex, imbricated.

STAM. Anthers light-blue, converging, no rudiments of filaments.

PIST. Germ large. Style pale-blue. Stigma simple.

PER. Capsule pointed. Furrowed.

Root simple.

Stem. Herbaceous, low, erect, furrowed, knotty? naked at the base.

Leaves linear, threenerved, alternate crosswise, sessile, smooth, obtuse, reflected, stipuled, glanded?

Stipules linear. Q. a minute gland at the base.

34. MU'RVA':

SYN. Dévi, Madhurasá, Móratá, Téjaní, Survá, Madhúlicá, Madbus'-réni, Gócarñi, Píluparní; VULG. Muragà, Murabarà, Murgábi.

LINN. Hyacinthoid, ALETRIS.

CAL. None.

COR. One-petaled, funnel-form, six-angled. Tube short, bellied with the germ. Border six-parted. Divisions lanced; three quite reflected in a circle; three alternate, deflected, pointed.

STAM. Filaments six, awled, as long as the corol, diverging, inserted in the base of the divisions. Anthers oblong, incumbent.

PIST.

PIST. Germ inverse-egged, obscurely three-sided, with two or three honey-bearing pores on the flattish top. Style awled, one-furrowed as long as the stamens. Stigma clubbed.

PERICARP and SEEDS not yet inspected.

Root fibrous, tawny, obscurely jointed, stolon-bearing. Scape long, columnar, sheathed with leaves, imbricated from the root; a few sheaths above, straggling. Leaves fleshy, channelled, swordform, keeled, terminated with awls, the interior ones longer; mostly arched; variegated with transverse undulating bands of a dark green hue approaching to black. Raceme erect, very long; Flowers, from three to seven in each fascicle, on very short petioles. Bracts linear, minute. Corols, pale pea-green, with a delicate fragrance, resembling that of the Peruvian HELIOTROPE; some of the Sanskrit names allude to the honey of these delicious flowers; but the nectarous pores at the top of the germ are not very distinct: in one copy of the Amaracōsha we read Dhanub'sréni among the synonyma; and if that word, which means a series of bows, be correct, it must allude either to the arched leaves or to the reflected divisions of the corol. This ALETRIS appears to be a night-flower; the raceme being covered, every evening, with fresh blossoms, which fall before sunrise.

From the leaves of this plant, the ancient Hindus extricated a very tough elastick thread, called Maurvī, of which they made bowstrings, and which for that reason, was ordained by Menu to form the sacrificial zone of the military clas.

35. TARUNI:

SYN. Sabá, Cumári.

VULG. Gbrīta-cumári.

LINN. Two-ranked ALOE, A Perfoliata, P?

Flowers

Flowers racemed, pendulous, subcylindrick, rather incurved. Bracts, one to each peduncle, awled, concave, deciduous, pale, with three dark stripes. Corol six-parted; three external divisions, orange-scarlet; internal, yellow, keeled, more fleshy, and more highly coloured in the middle. Filaments with a double curvature. Germ six-furrowed. Stigma simple. Leaves awled, two-ranked; the lowest, expanding; sea-green, very fleshy; externally quite convex, edged with soft thorns; variegated on both sides with white spots. VAN RHEEDE exhibits the true ALOE by the name of Cumári; but the specimen, brought me by a native gardener, seemed a variety of the two-ranked, though melting into the species, which immediately precedes it in LINNÆUS.

36. BACULA:

SYN. Césára.VULG. Mulsari or Múlafrí.LINN. MIMUSOPS Elengi.CAL. Perianth eight-leaved; leaflets egged, acute, permanent; four interior, simple; four exterior, leathery.COR. Petals sixteen, lanced, expanding; as long as the calyx. Nectary eight-leaved; leaflets lanced, converging round the stamen and pistil.STAM. Filaments eight (or from seven to ten), awled, very short, hairy. Anthers oblong, erect.PIST. Germ above, roundish, villous. Style cylindrick. Stigma obtuse.PER. Drupe oval, pointed; bright orange-scarlet.

NUT. Oval, wrinkled, flattish and smooth at one edge, broad and two-furrowed at the other.

Flowers agreeably fragrant in the open air, but with too strong a perfume to give pleasure in an apartment: since it must require the imagination of a BURMAN to discover in them a resemblance to the face of a man, or of an ape, the genus will, I hope, be called BACULA, by which name it is frequently celebrated in the Puráñas, and even placed among the flowers of the Hindu paradise. Leaves alternate, petioled, egg-oblong pointed, smooth. The tree is very ornamental in parks and pleasure-grounds.

37. As'o'CA :

SYN. Vanjula.

CAL. Perianth two-leaved, closely embracing the tube.

COR. One-petaled. Tube long; cylindrick, subincurved; mouth encircled with a nectareous rim. Border four-parted, divisions, roundish.

STAM. Filaments eight, long, coloured, inserted on the rim of the tube. Anthers kidney-shaped.

PIST. Germ, above, oblong, flat. Style short, downy. Stigma bent, simple.

PER. Legume long, compressed at first, then protuberant with the swelling seeds; incurved, strongly veined and margined, sharp-pointed.

SEEDS from two to eight, solid, large, many-shaped, some oblong-roundish, some rhomboidal, some rather kidney-shaped, mostly thick, some flat.

Leaves egg-oblong-lanced, opposite, mostly five-paired, nerved; long from four or five to twelve or thirteen inches.

The number of stamens varies considerably in the same plant: they are from six or seven to eight or nine; but the regular number seems eight, one in the intestices of the corol, and one before the centre of each division. Most of the flowers, indeed, have one abortive stamen, and some only mark its place, but many are perfect; and VAN RHEEDE speaks of eight as the constant number: in fact no part of the plant is constant.

constant. Flowers fascicled, fragrant just after sunset and before sunrise, when they are fresh with evening and morning dew; beautifully diversified with tints of orange-scarlet, of pale yellow, and of bright orange, which grows deeper every day, and forms a variety of shades according to the age of each blossom, that opens in the fascicle. The vegetable world scarce exhibits a richer sight than an Asoca-tree in full bloom: it is about as high as an ordinary Cherry-tree. A Bráhmen informs me, that one species of the Asoca is a creeper; and JAYADE'VA gives it the epithet voluble: the Sanscrit name will, I hope, be retained by botanists, as it perpetually occurs in the old Indian poems and in treatises on religious rites.

38. S'AIVA'LA:

SYN. *Janalílī. S'aivala.*VULG. *Simár, Syálá, Pátasyála, Sébálá.*LINN. Vallisneria? R.

CAL. Common Spatha one-leaved, many-flowered, very long, furrowed, two-cleft at the top; each division end-nicked. Proper Perianth three-parted; divisions, awled.

COR. Petals three, linear, long, expanding, fleshy.STAM. Filaments invariably nine, thread-form. Anthers erect, oblong, furrowed.PIST. Germ egged, uneven. Styles always three, short, awled, expanding. Stigmas three, simple.PER. Capsule very long, smooth, awled, one-celled, infolded in an angled Spatha.

SEEDS very numerous, murexed, in a viscid mucus.

Flowrets from six to fourteen, small. Scape compressed, very narrow, fleshy, furrowed in the middle.Pedicel of the floweret, thread-form, crimson above; proper perianth, russet; petals, white; anthers, deep yellow. Leaves sword-form, pointed, pointed, very narrow, smooth, and soft, about two feet long, crowded, white at the base. Root small, fibrous. It flourishes in the ponds at Criśbna-nagar: the refiners of sugar, use it in this province. If this plant be a Vallisneria, I have been so unfortunate as never to have seen a female plant, nor fewer than nine stamens in one blossom out of more than a hundred, which I carefully examined.

39. Pu'ticaraJa:

SYN. Practrya, Pútica, Calimáracá.

VULG. Nátacaranja.

LINN. Guilandina Bonduccella.

The species of this genus vary in a singular manner: on several plants, with the oblong leaflets and double prickles of the Bonduccella, I could see only male flowers, as RHEEDE has described them; they were yellow, with an aromatick fragrance. Others, with similar leaves and prickles, were clearly polygamous, and the flowers had the following character:

MALE.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, salver-form, downy; Border five-parted, with equal, oblong divisions.

COR. Petals five, wedge-form, obtusely notched at the top; four equal, erect, the fifth, depressed.

STAM. Filaments ten, awled, inserted in the calyx, villous, very unequal in length. Anthers oblong, furrowed, incumbent.

HERMAPHRODITE.

Calyx, Corol, and Stamens, as before.

PIST. Germ oblong, villous. Style cylindrick, longer than the filaments. Stigma simple.

PER. and SEEDS well described by LINNÆUS.

Flowers

Flowers yellow ; the depressed petal variegated with red specks. Bra&ts three-fold, roundish, pointed. Spikes, set with floral leaflets, lanced, four-fold, reflexed.

40. SOBHA'NJANA :

SYN. Sigru, Tlc&hna, Gandhaca, A'c&hiva, M&ochaca.

VULG. Sajjana, Moranga.

LINN. Guilandina Moringa.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved. Tube short, unequal, gibbous. Border five-parted. Divisions oblong-lanced, subequal ; first deflected, then revolute ; coloured below, white above.

COR. Petals five, inserted into the calyx, resembling a boat-form flower.

Wing-like, two, inverse-egged, clawed, expanding.

Awning-like, two, inverse-egged, erect ; claws, shorter.

Kel-like, one, oblong, concave ; enclosing the fructification ; beyond it, spatuled ; longer than the wing-petals.

STAM. Filaments five, fertile ; three, bent over the pistil : two shorter, inserted into the claws of the middle petals. Anthers twin, rather mooned, obtuse, incumbent. Five sterile (often four only) alternate with the fertile, shorter ; their bases villous.

PIST. Germ oblong, coloured, villous ; below it a nectar-bearing gland.

Style, shorter than the stamen, rather downy, curved, thicker above. Stigma, simple.

PER. Legume very long, slender, wreathed, pointed, three-sided, channelled, prominent with seeds, one-celled.

SEEDS many, winged, three-sided.

TREE very high ; branches in an extreme degree light and beautiful, rich with clustering flowers. Stem exuding a red gum. Leaves mostly thrice-feathered with an odd one ; leaflets some inverse egged, some egged, some oval, minutely end-nicked. Raceme-panicles mostly axillary. In perfect flowers the whole calyx is quite deflected, counterfeiting five petals; whence VAN RHEEDE made it a part of the corol. Corols delicately odorous; milk-white, but the two central erect petals, beautifully tinged with pink. The root answers all the purposes of our horse-radish, both for the table and for medicine: the fruit and blossoms are dressed in caris. In hundreds of its flowers, examined by me with attention, five stamens and a pistil were invariably perfect: indeed, it is possible, that they may be only the female hermaphrodites, and that the males have ten perfect stamens with pistils abortive; but no such flowers have been discovered by me after a most diligent search.

There is another species or variety, called MEDHU SI'GRU, that is Honey-Sigru; a word intended to be expressed on VAN RHEEDE's plate in Nagari letters: its vulgar name is Muna, or Rac̄ta sajjana, because its flowers or wood are of a redder hue.

LINNÆUS refers to Mrs. BLACKWELL, who represents this plant, by the name of Balanus Myrep̄sica, as the celebrated Ben, properly Bán of the Arabian physicians and poets.

41. CO'VIDA'RA:

SYN. Cáñchanára, Chamarica, Cuddála, Yugapatra.

VULG. Cachnár, Rac̄ta cáñchan.

LINN. Variegated BAUHINIA.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, obscurely five-cleft, deciduous.

COR. Petals five, egged, clawed, expanded, wavy; one more distant, more beautiful, striated.

STAM. Filaments ten, unequally connected at the base; five, shorter. Anthers, double, incumbent.

PIST. Germ above, oblong. Style incurved. Stigma simple, ascending.

PER.

PER. Legume flattish, long, pointed, mostly five-celled.

SEEDS mostly five; compressed, wrinkled, roundish.

LEAVES rather hearted, two-lobed; some with rounded, some with pointed, lobes. Flowers chiefly purplish and rose-coloured, fragrant; the sweet and beautiful buds are eaten by the natives in their savory messes. We have seen many species and varieties of this charming plant: one had racemed flowers, with petals equal, expanding, lanced, exquisitely white, with a rose-coloured stripe from the base of each to its centre; anthers, four only, fertile; six, much shorter, sterile; a second had three fertile, and seven very short, barren; another had light purple corols, with no more than five filaments, three longer, coloured, curved in a line of beauty. A noble Climbing BAUHINIA was lately sent from Népál; with flowers racemed, cream-coloured; style, pink; germ, villous; stamens three filaments, with rudiments of two more; stem, downy, four-furrowed, often spirally. Tendrils opposite, below the leaves. Leaves two-lobed, extremely large: it is a stout climber up the highest ARUNDO Vénū. The Sanskrit name Mandára is erroneously applied to this plant in the first volume of VAN RHEEDE.

42. CAPITT'HA:

SYN. Grábin, Dadbitt'ha, Manmat'ha, Dadhip'hala, Pus:pap'hala, Dantas'at'ha.

VULG. Cat'b-bél.

KOEN. Crateva, Valanga.

CAL. Perianth five-parted, minute, deciduous; divisions expanded, acute.

COR. Petals five, equal, oblong, reflected.

STAM. Filaments ten, very short, with a small gland between each pair, awled, furrowed. Anthers, thick, five times as long as the filaments; furrowed, coloured, erect-expanding.

PIST. Germ roundish, girt with a downy coronet. Style cylindrick, short. Stigma simple.

PER. Berry large, spheroidal, rugged, often warted, externally, netted within; many-seeded.

SEEDS oblong-roundish, flat, woolly, nestling in five parcels, affixed by long threads to the branchy receptacles.

Flowers axillary, mostly toward the unarmed extremity of the branch.

Divisions of the Perianth, with pink tips; petals, pale; anthers, crimson, or covered with bright yellow pollen. Fruit extremely acid before its maturity; when ripe, filled with dark brown pulp agreeably subacid. Leaves jointedly feathered with an odd one; leaflets five, seven, or nine; small, glossy, very dark on one side, inverse-hearted, obtusely-notched, dotted round the margin with pellucid specks, very strongly flavoured and scented like anise. Thorns long, sharp, solitary, ascending, nearly cross-armed, axillary, three or four petiols to one thorn. KLEINHOFF limits the height of the tree to thirty feet, but we have young trees forty or fifty feet high; and at Bandell there is a full-grown Capitt'ba equal in size to the true Bikva, from its fancied resemblance to which the vulgar name has been taken: when the trees flourish, the air around them breathes the odour of anise both from the leaves and the blossoms; and I cannot help mentioning a singular fact which may indeed, have been purely accidental: not a single flower, out of hundreds examined by me, had both perfect germs, and anthers visibly fertile, while others, on the same tree and at the same time, had their anthers profusely covered with pollen, but scarce any styles, and germs to all appearance abortive.

43. CUVE'RACA:

SYN. Tunna, Tuni, Cach'ba, Cántalaca, Cuni, Nandivričsha.

VULG. Túni, Tún; absurdly, Viláyatí Nim.

LINN. Between CEDRELA and SWIETENIA.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, five-cleft, minute, deciduous; divisions roundish, concave, villous, expanding.

COR. Rather belled. Petals five, inverse-egged, obtuse, concave, erect, white with a greenish tint, three exterior lapping over the two others. Nectary short, five-parted; divisions roundish, orange-scarlet, bright and concave at the insertion of the stamens, rather downy.

STAM. Filaments five; inserted on the divisions of the nectary, awled, somewhat converging, nearly as long as the style. Anthers doubled, some three-parted, curved, incumbent.

PIST. Germ egged, obscurely five-cleft. Style awled, erect, rather longer than the corol. Stigma, broad-headed, flat, bright, green, circular, starred.

PER. Capsule egged, five-celled, woody, gaping at the base. Receptacle five-angled.

SEEDS imbricated, winged.

Leaves feathered, scarce ever with an odd one; pairs from six to twelve; petioles, gibbous at their insertion, channelled on one side, convex and smooth on the other. Stipules thick, short, roundish; leaflets oblong-lanced, pointed, waved, veined, nerve on one side. Panicles large, diffuse, consisting of compound racemes. Nectaries yielding a fine yellow dye. Wood light, in colour like Mahagoni.

44. NICHULA:

SYN. Ambuja, Ijjala.

VULG. Hijala, Badia, Jyuli.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, belled, fleshy, downy, coloured, permanent, five-parted; divisions erect, pointed.

COR. Five-petaled; petals egged, short pointed, revolute, downy within and without.

STAM. Filaments ten, five mostly shorter; inserted in the bell of the calyx; awled, villous. Anthers erect, oblong, furrowed.

PIST. Germ egg-oblong, very villous. Style thread-form, curved. Stigma headed, with five obtuse corners.

PER. Drupe subglobular.

Nut scabrous, convex on one side, angled on the other.

Leaves feathered; pairs, from five to nine; leaflets oblong, daggered, notched. Calyx pale pink. Corol darker pink without, bright yellow within. Cyme terminal, spreading.

45. ATIMUCTA:

SYN. Pun'draca, Vásanti, Mádbavílatá.

VULG. Mádbavílatá.

LINN. Bengal BANISTERIA.

RHEEDE: Dewenda. 6. H. M. tab. 59.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, five-parted, permanent; divisions, coloured, oblong-oval, obtuse; between two of them, a rigid glossy honey-bearing *tubercl*e, hearted, acute.

COR. Five-petaled, imitating a boatform corol: wings, two petals, conjoined back to back, involving the nectary, and retaining the honey.

Awning, large concave, more beautifully coloured. Keel, two petals, less than the wings, but similar. All five, roundish, elegantly fringed, with reflected margins, and short oblong claws.

STEM. Filaments ten; one, longer. Anthers oblong, thickish, furrowed.

PIST. Germs two, or three, coalesced. Style one, threadform, incurved, shorter than the longest filament. Stigma, simple.

PER. Capsules two or three, mostly two, coalesced back to back; each keeled, keeled, and extended into three oblong membranous wings, the lateral shorter than the central.

SEEDS roundish, solitary.

Racemes axillary. Flowers delicately fragrant; white, with a shade of pink: the large petal, supported by the nectareous tubercle, shaded internally with bright yellow and pale red. Bracts linear; Wings of the seed, light brown; the long one russet. Leaves opposite, egg-oblong, pointed. Petioles short. Stipules linear, soft, three or four to each petiol. Two glands at the base of each leaf. Stem pale brown, ringed at the insertion of the leaves, downy.

This was the favourite plant of SACONTALA, which she very justly called the Delight of the Woods; for the beauty and fragrance of its flowers give them a title to all the praises, which CA'LIDA's and JAYADE'VA bestow on them: it is a gigantick and luxuriant climber; but, when it meets with nothing to grasp, it assumes the form of a sturdy tree, the highest branches of which display, however, in the air their natural flexibility and inclination to climb. The two names Váasantì and Mádhavì indicate a vernal flower; but I have seen an Atimucta rich both in blossoms and fruit on the first of January.

46. A'MRA'TACA:

SYN. Pítana, Capitana.

VULG. A'mdá, pronounced A'mrá, or A'mlá.

LINN. Spondias Myrobalan β. or a new species.

The natural character as in LINNÆUS. Leaves feathered with an odd one: leaflets mostly five-paired, egg-oblong, pointed, margined, veined, nerved; common petiol, smooth, gibbous at the base. Flowers raceme-panicked, yellowish white. Fruit agreeably acid; thence used in in cookery. VAN RHEEDE calls it Ambadò or Ambalam; and, as he describes it with five or six styles, it is wonderful, that HILL should have supposed it a Chrysolobalanus.

47. HE'MASA'GARA ; or the Sea of Gold.

VULG. Himságar.

LINN. Jagged-leaved COTYLEDON.

CAL. Perianth four-cleft; divisions acute.

COR. One-petaled : Tube, four-angled, larger at the base ; border four-parted ; divisions, egged, acute. Nectary, one minute concave scale at the base of each germ.

STAM. Filaments eight, adhering to the tube ; four, just emerging from its mouth ; four, alternate, shorter. Anthers erect, small, furrowed.

PIST. Germs four, conical. Styles, one from each germ, awled, longer than the filaments. Stigmas simple.

PER. Capsules four, oblong, pointed, bellied, one-valved, bursting longitudinally within.

SEEDS numerous, minute.

Panicles terminal. Flowers of the brightest gold-colour. Leaves thick, succulent, jagged, dull sea-green. Stem jointed, bending, in part recumbent. This plant flowers for many months annually in Bengal: in one blossom out of many, the numbers were ten and five; but the filaments alternately long and short.

48. MADHU'CA :

SYN. Gurapuṣpa, Madbudruma, Vánaprast'ba, Madbuṣṭ'bila, Madbu.

VULG. Maüyála, Mabuyá, Mabwá.

LINN. Longleaved BASSIA.

49. CAHLA'RA: *

SYN. Saugandhica, or Sweet-scented.

VULG. Sundbi-hálá, or Sundhl-hálá-náli.

LINN. NYMPHÆA Lotos.

Calyx as in the genus.

COR. Petals fifteen, lanced, rather pointed and keeled; the exterior series green without, imitating an interior calyx.

STAM. Filaments more than forty; below flat, broad; above narrow, channelled within, smooth without; the outer series erect, the inner somewhat converging. Anthers awled, erect; some coloured like the petals.

PIST. Germ large, orbicular, flat at the top; with many (often seventeen) furrows externally, between which arise as many processes, converging toward the stigma: the disk, marked with as many furrowed rays from the center, uniting on the margin with the converging processes. Stigma roundish, rather compressed, sessile in the center of the disk, permanent.

PER. Berry, in the form of the germ expanded, with sixteen or seventeen cells.

SEEDS very numerous, minute, roundish. Flowers beautifully azure; when full blown, more diluted; less fragrant than the red or rose-coloured, but with a delicate scent. Leaves radical, very large, sub-targeted, hearted, deeply scollop-toothed. On one side dark purple, reticulated, or the other, dull green, smooth. Petioles very smooth and long, tubular. The seeds are eaten, as well as the bulb of the root, called Sálúca; a name applied by RHEEDE to the whole plant, though the word Camala, which belongs to another Linnæan species of Nymphaea, be clearly engraved on his plate in Nágarī letters. There is a variety of this species with leaves purplish on both sides; flowers dark crimson, calycine petals richly coloured internally, and anthers flat, furrowed, adhering to the top of the filaments: the petals are more than fifteen, less pointed and broader than the blue, with little odour.

The true Lotos of Egypt is the NYMPHÆA Nilifera, which in Sanskrit has the following names or epithets: PADMA, Nalina, Aravinda, Mahotpala, Camala, Cusékhaya, Sahafrapatra, Sárasa, Pancérupa, Támarasa, Sarasíruha, Rájiva, Vis'aprajñána, Puṣkara, Ambhóruba, Satapatra. The new blown flowers of the rose-coloured PADMA, have a most agreeable fragrance; the white and yellow have less odour: the blue, I am told, is a native of Cashmír and Persia.

50. CHAMPACA:

SYN. Champéya, Hémapuṣkaca.

VULG. Champac, Champá.

- LINN. Michelia.

The delineation of this charming and celebrated plant, exhibited by VAN RHEEDE, is very correct, but rather on too large a scale: no material change can be made in its natural character given by LINNÆUS; but, from an attentive examination of his two species, I suspect them to be varieties only, and am certain, that his trivial names are merely different ways of expressing the same word. The strong aromatick scent of the gold-coloured Champac is thought offensive to the bees, who are never seen on its blossoms; but their elegant appearance on the black hair of the Indian woman is mentioned by RUMPHIUS; and both facts have supplied the Sanskrit poets with elegant allusions. Of the wild Champac, the leaves are lanced or lance-oblong; the three leaflets the calyx, green, oval, concave; the petals constantly six, cream-coloured, fleshy, concave, with little scent; the three exterior, inverse-egged; the three interior, more narrow, shorter pointed, converging; the anthers clubbed, closely set round the base of the imbricated germs, and with them forming a cone; the stigmas, minute, jagged.

Both Mr. MARSDEN and RUMPHIUS mention the blue Champac as a rare flower highly prized in Sumatra and Java; but I should have suspected, that they meant the KÆMPFERIA Bhúchampac, if the Dutch naturalist had not asserted, that the plant, which bore it, was a tree resembling the Champaca with yellow blossoms: he probably, never had seen it; and the Bráhmens of this province insist, that it flowers only in paradise.

51. DÉ'VADA'RУ :

SYN. Sacrapádapa, Páribhadraca; Bhadradáru, Dubcilima, Pítadáru, Dáru, Púticásh't'ba.

VULG. Dévadár.

LINN. Most lofty UNONA.

52. PARNA'SA :

SYN. Tulasi, Cat'binjara, Cut'héraca, Vríndá.

VULG. Tulosì, Tulsi.

LINN. Holy OCYNUM?

The Natural Character as in LINNÆUS.

See 10 H. M. p. 173.

It is wonderful, that RHEEDE has exhibited no delineation of a shrub so highly venerated by the Hindus, who have given one of its names to a sacred grove of their Parnassus on the banks of the Yamunà: he describes it, however, in general terms, as resembling another of his Tolassis (for

(for so he writes the word, though Tulasî be clearly intended by his Nágarî letters); and adds, that it is the only species reputed holy, and dedicated to the God VISHNU. I should, consequently, have taken it for the Holy OCYNUM of LINNÆUS, if its odour, of which that species is said to be nearly destitute, had not been very aromatick and grateful; but it is more probably a variety of that species, than of the Small-flowered, which resembles it a little in fragrance: whatever be its Linnæan appellation, if it have any, the following are the only remarks that I have yet had leisure to make on it.

STEM one or two feet high, mostly incurved above; knotty, and rough, below. Branchlets cross-armed, channelled. Leaves opposite, rather small, egged, pointed, acutely sawed; purple veined, beneath; dark, above. Petiols dark purple, downy. Racemes terminal; Flowers verticilled threefold, or fivefold, cross-armed; verticils from seven to fourteen; Peduncles dark purple, channelled, villous; bracts sessile, roundish, concave, reflected. Calyx, with its upper lip orbicular, deeply concave externally. Corol bluish purple. The whole plant has a dusky purplish hue approaching to black, and thence perhaps, like the large black bee of this country, it is held sacred to CRISHNA; though a fable, perfectly Ovidian, be told in the Puráñas concerning the metamorphosis of the nymph TULASI, who was beloved by the pastoral God, into the shrub, which has since borne her name: it may not be improper to add, that the White OCYUM is in Sanscrit called Arjaca.

53. PÁ'TALI :

SYN. Pátala, Amóghà, Cáchast'báll, P'halérühà, Criñnavr̄intà, Cu-véráshì. Some read Móghá and Cálásh'báll.

VULG. Páralá, Párali, Párul.

LINN. BIGNONIA. Chelonoides?

CAL.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, belled, villous, withering, obscurely five-angled from the points of the divisions, five-parted; divisions, roundish, pointed, the two lowest most distant.

COR. One-petaled, belled. Tube very short; throat, oblong-belled, gibbous. Border five-parted; the two higher divisions reflected, each minutely toothed; convex externally; the three lower divisions, above, expanded; below, ribbed, furrowed, very villous. Palate nearly closing the throat. Nectary, a prominent rim, surrounding the germ, obscurely five-parted.

STAM. Filaments four or five, incurved, inserted below the upper division of the border, shorter than the corol, with the rudiment of a fifth or sixth, between two shorter than the rest. Anthers, two-cleft, incumbent at obtuse angles.

PIST. Germ oblong-conical. Style thread-form, as long as the stamens. Stigma headed with two folds often closed by viscidity.

PER. Capsule one-celled, two-valved, twelve inches long at a medium, and one inch thick; rounded, four-sided, pointed, incurved, rather contorted, diminishing at both ends, dotted with ashy specks, here and there slightly prominent, striated; two stripes broader, very dark, at right angles with the valves.

REC. A series of hard, broadish, woody rings, closely strung on two wiry central threads.

SEEDS numerous, forty-eight on an average, three-angled, inserted by one angle in cavities between the rings of the receptacle, into which they are closely pressed by parallel ribs in the four sides of the capsule; winged on the two other angles with long subpellucid membranes, imbricated along the sides of the receptacle.

Tree rather large. Stem scabrous.

Branchlets cross-armed, yellowish green, speckled with small white lines.

Leaves feathered with an odd one; two or three paired, petioled.

Leaflets opposite, egged, pointed, most entire, downy on both sides, veined; older leaflets roughish, margined, netted and paler below, dagered. Petioles tubercled, gibbous at the base; of the paired leaflets, very short; of the odd one, longer. Stipules, linear. Flowers paniced; pedicels opposite, mostly three-flowered; and odd flower subsefile between the two terminal pedicels. Corol externally, light-purple above, brownish purple below, hairy at its convexity; internally, dark yellow below, amethystine above; exquisitely fragrant, preferred by the bees to all other flowers, and compared by the poets to the quiver of CA'MADE'VA, or the God of Love. The whole plant, except the root and stem, very downy and viscid. The fruit can scarce be called a silique, since the seeds are no where affixed to the futures; but their wings indicate the genus, which might properly have been named Pterospermon: they are very hard, but enclose a white sweet kernel; and their light-coloured summits with three dark points, give them the appearance of winged insects. Before I saw the fruit of this lovely plant, I suspected it to be the BIGNONIA Chelonoides, which VAN RHEEDE calls Pádri; and I conceived that barbarous word to be a corruption of Pátali: but the pericarp of the true Pátali, and the form of the seeds, differ so much from the Pádri, that we can hardly consider them as varieties of the same species; although the specifick character exhibited in the Supplement to LINNÆUS, corresponds very nearly with both plants.

The Pátali blossoms early in the spring, before a leaf appears on the tree, but the fruit is not ripe till the following winter.

54. GO'CANT'ACA:

SYN. Palancašbá, Icshugandbá, S'wadanshtrá, Swáducant'aca, Gócfur-raca, Vanas'rničáta.

VULG. Gócfura, Gókyura, Culpi.

RHEEDE: Babé'l Chulli.

LINN.

LINN. Long-leaved BARLERIA?

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, hairy, five toothed; upper tooth, long, in-curved, pointed; two under, and two lateral, shorter, subequal, winged with subpellucid membranes.

COR. One-petaled, two-lipped. Tube flattish, curved, protuberant at mouth. Upper lip erect, two-parted, reflected at the fides, concave in the middle, enclosing the fructification. Under lip three-parted, reflected, with two parallel, callous, hispid bodies on the center of its convexity; Divisions, inverse-hearted.

STAM. Filaments four, inserted in the mouth of the tube; connected at their base, then separated into pairs and circling round the pistil; each pair united below, consisting of a long and a short filament. Anthers arrowed.

PIST. Germ awled; pointed, furrowed, with prominent seedlets, sitting on a glandular pedicel. Style thread-form, longer than the stamens, incurved above them. Stigma simple.

PER.

Flowers verticilled; Corols blue, or bright violet; center of the under lip yellow. Verticils, each surrounded by six thorns, very long, diverging, coloured above; under which are the leaves, alike verticillled, lanced, acutely sawed, pubescent, interspersed with bristles. Stem jointed, flattish, hairy, reddish; furrowed on both fides; broader at the joints, or above the verticils; furrows alternate.

55. SINDHUCA:

SYN. Sindbuvára, Indrasurifa, Nirvandí, Indránicà.

VULG. Nis'indà.

LINN. Three-leaved VITEX; or Negundo?

CAL. Perianth five-toothed, beneath, permanent; toothlets acute, subequal.

COR.

COR. One-petaled, grinning ; Tube funnel-shaped, internally villous ; border two-lipped ; upper lip broad, concave, more deeply coloured ; under lip four-cleft ; divisions, acute, similar.

STAM. Filaments four ; two shorter, adhering to the Tube, villous at the base. Antbers half-mooned.

PIST. Germ globular ; Style thread-form ; Stigma two-parted, pointed, reflex.

PER. Berry (unless it be the coat of a naked seed) roundish, very hard, black, obscurely furrowed, with the calyx closely adhering.

SEEDS from one to four ? I never saw more than one as RHEEDE has well described it.

FLOWERS raceme-panicked ; purplish or dark blue without, greyish within, small. Racemes mostly terminal ; some pedicels, many-flowered.

STEM distinctly four-sided ; sides channelled ; jointed, bending. Sti- pules egged, scaly, thickish, close. Branchlets cross-armed.

The tube of the corol is covered internally with a tangle of silvery silky down, exquisitely beautiful ; more dense below the upper lip.

This charming shrub, which seems to delight in watery places, rises to the height of ten or twelve, and sometimes of twenty, feet ; exhibiting a most elegant appearance with rich racemes or panicles lightly dispersed on the summit of its branchlets. On a comparison of two engravings in RUMPHIUS, and as many in VAN RHEEDE, and of the descriptions in both works, I am nearly persuaded that the SINDHUCA or Nirgandī, is the VITEX Negundo of LINNÆUS ; but it certainly resembles the three-leaved VITEX in its leaves, which are opposite, egged, acute, petioled ; above mostly threed ; below mostly fived ; paler beneath ; rarely sawed and very slightly, but generally entire : they are very aromatick, and pillows are stuffed with them, to remove a cold in the the head and a head-ach occasioned by it. These, I presume, are the shrubs, which BONTIUS calls Lagondi, and which he seems to consider as a panacea.

56. CA'RAVE'LLA:

SYN. Cátilaca, Suškaví.

VULG. Beng. Hurhuriya; Hind. Carailá.

LINN. Five-leaved Cleome?

CAL. Perianth four-leaved, gaping at the base, then erect; leaflets egg-oblong, concave, downy; deciduous.

COR. Cross-form. Petals four, expanding, claws long; folds wrinkled.

Nectary, from six to twelve roundish, perforated glands, girding the gibbosus receptacle.

STAM. Filaments six, threadform, hardly differing in length, inserted on a pedicel below the germ. Anthers erect, pointed, furrowed.

PIST. Germ erect, linear, long, downy, sitting on the produced pedicel. Style very short. Stigma headed, flat, circular.

PER. Silique one-celled, two-valved, spindle-shaped, with protuberant seeds; crowned with the permanent style.

SEEDS very many, roundish, nodding. Receptacles linear, often more than two.

The whole plant, most distinctly one piece. Root whitish, with scattered capillary fibres. Stem herbaceous, pale green, in parts purple, hairy, cross-armed, produced into a long raceme crowded at the summit. Branchlets, similar to the stem, leaf-bearing; similar, but smaller leaves rising also from their axils. Leaves fixed, roundish-rhomboidal, notched, pointed, hairy, dark green, the lower pairs respectively equal, the odd one much larger, strongly ribbed with processes from the petiole-branches, conjoined by the basis of the ribs, in the form of a starlet, each ray, whitish and furrowed within. Calyx green. Petals white.

Anthers

Antbers covered with gold-coloured pollen. Pedicels purplish. Bracts threed, similar to the cauline leaves. The sensible qualities of this herb seem to promise great antispasmodick virtues; it has a scent much resembling affa fastida, but comparatively delicate and extremely refreshing. For pronouncing this Cleome the Cárvilla of the ancient Indians, I have only the authority of RHEEDE, who has exactly written that word in Malabar letters: as to his Brahmanical name Tilóni, my vocabularies have nothing more like it than Tilaca, to which Cshuraca and Srimat are the only synonyma.

57. NAGACE'SARA:

SYN. Chámpéya, Césara; Cáñchana, or any other name of gold.

VULG. Nagafar.

LINN. Iron MESUA.

To the botanical descriptions of this delightful plant, I need only add, that the tree is one of the most beautiful on earth, and that the delicious odour of its blossoms justly gives them a place in the quiver of CA'MADE'VA. In the poem, called Najshadba, there is a wild, but elegant, couplet, where the poet compares the white of the Nágacésara, from which the bees were scattering the pollen of the numerous gold-coloured anthers, to an alabaster wheel, on which CA'MA was whetting his arrows, while sparks of fire were dispersed in every direction. Surely, the genuine appellation of an Indian plant should be substituted for the corrupted name of a Syrian physician who could never have seen it; and, if any trivial name were necessary to distinguish a single species, a more absurd one than iron could not possibly have been selected for a flower with petals like silver and anthers like gold.

58. S'ALMALI:

SYN. Pick'bilá, Púraní, Móchá, St'birdyush.

VULG.

VULG. Semel.

LIN. Seven-leaved BOMBAX.

59. S'ANA':

SYN. S'anápuśhpicá, Ghant'árvá.

VULG. San, pronounced Sun.

LINN. Rushy Crotalaria.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, villous, permanent; short below, gibbous on both sides, with minute linear tracts. Upper teeth, two, lanced, pressing the banner; lower tooth, boatform, concave, two-gashed in the middle, cohering above and below; sheathing the keel, rather shorter than it; pointed.

COR. Boat-form.

Banner, broad, large, acute, rather hearted, with two dark callosities at the base, and with compressed sides, mostly involving the other parts: a dark line from base to point.

Wings inverse-egg-oblong, with dark callous bodies at their axils, two thirds of the banner in length.

Keel flattened at the point, nearly closed all round to include the fructification, very gibbous below to receive the germ.

STAM. Filaments ten, coalesced, cleft behind, two-parted below; alternately short with linear furrowed erect, and long with roundish, anthers.

PIST. Germ rather awled, flat, villous, at a right angle with the ascending, cylindrick, downy Style. Stigma pubescent, concave, open, somewhat lipped.

PER. Legume pedicelled, short, velvety, turgid, one-celled, two-valved. SEEDS, from one or two to twelve or more, round-kidney-form, compressed.

Flowers deep yellow. Leaves alternate, lanced, paler beneath, keeled; petioles very short; slipules, minute, roundish, villous. Stem striated.

Threads,

Threads, called pavitraca, from their supposed purity, have been made of Sana from time immemorial: they are mentioned in the laws of MENU.

The retuse-leaved CROTALARIA, which VAN RHEEDE by mistake calls Schama Puspi, is cultivated, I believe, for the same purpose. RUMPHIUS had been truly informed, that threads for nets were made from this genus in Bengal: but he suspected the information to be erroneous, and thought that the persons who conveyed it, had confounded the Crotalaria with the Capsular CORCHORUS: strong ropes and canvas are made of its macerated bark.

The Jangal-s'an, or a variety of the watry CROTALARIA has very beautiful flowers, with a greenish white banner, purple-striped, wings, bright violet: stem, four-angled, and four-winged; leaves egged, obtuse, acute at the base, curled at the edges, downy; stipules, two, declining, mooned, if you chuse to call them so, but irregular, and acutely pointed. In all the Indian species, a difference of soil and culture occasion varieties in the flower and fructification.

60. JAYANTI':

SYN. Jayá, Tercári, Nádáyì, Vaijayanticá.

VULG. Jainti, Jábì; some say, Aranì.

RHEEDE. Kedangu.

LINN. ÆSCHYNOMENE Seßban.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, rather belled, five-cleft; toothlets, awled, erect, subequal, more distant on each side of the awning; permanent.

COR. Boat-form.

Aawning very broad, rather longer than the wings, inverse-hearted, quite reflected so as to touch the calyx; waved on the margin; furrowed at the base internally, with two converging hornlets, fronting the aperture of the keel, gibbous below, awled upwards, acute, erect, erect, within the wings. Wings oblong, clawed, narrower above, obtuse, spurred below, embracing the keel and the hornlets of the awning.

Keel compressed, enclosing the fructification, inflected nearly in a right-angle, gashed below and above the flexure; each division hatchet-form; beautifully striated.

STAM. Filaments simple and nine-cleft, inflected like the keel; the simple one curved at the base. Anthers oblong, roundish.

PIST. Germ compressed, linear, erect as high as the flexure of the filaments with visible partitions. Style nearly at a right angle with the germ, awled, inflected like the stamen. Stigma rather headed, somewhat cleft, pellucid.

PER. Legume very long, slender, wreathed when ripe, smooth at the valves, but with seeds rather protuberant, many-parted, terminated with a hard sharp point.

SEEDS oblong, rather kidney-shaped, smooth, slightly affixed to the future, solitary.

Stem arborescent, rather knotty. Leaves feathered, pairs from nine to fifteen, or more, often alternate; leaflets oblong, end-nicked, some with an acute point, dark green above, paler beneath, with a gibbosity at the insertion of the petiols; sleeping, or collapsing, towards night. Racemes axillary; pedicels with a double curvature or line of beauty; flowers small, six or seven; varying in colour; in some plants, wholly yellow; in others, with a blackish-purple awning yellow within, and dark yellow wings tipped with brown; in some with an awning of the richest orange-scarlet externally, and internally of a bright yellow; wings yellow, of different shades; and a keel pale below, with an exquisite changeable light purple above, striated in elegant curves. The whole plant is inexpressibly beautiful, especially in the colour of the buds and leaves, and the grace of all the curves, for there is no proper angle in any part of it. The Brab- mens hold it sacred: VAN RHEEDE fays, that they call it Cananga; but I never met with that word in Sanscrit, it has parts like an Hedysarum, and the air of a Cytisus.

61. PALA'SA:

SYN. Cins' uca, Parna, Vátapót'ba.

VULG. Palás, Plás, Dhác.

KOEN. Butea frondosa.

CAL. Perianth belled, two-lipped; upper lip broader, obscurely end-nicked; under lip three-cleft, downy; permanent.

COR. Boat-form.

Awning reflected, hearted, downy beneath; sometimes, pointed.

Wings lanced, ascending, narrower than the keel.

Keel, as long as the wings, two-parted below, half-mooned, ascending.

STAM. Filaments nine and one, ascending, regularly curved. Anthers linear, erect.

PIST. Germ pedicelled, oblongish, downy.

Style awled, about as long as the stamens. Stigma small, minutely cleft.

PER. Legume pedicelled, oblong, compressed, depending.

SEED one, toward the apex of the pericarp, flat, smooth, oval-roundish.

Flowers raceme-fascicled, large, red, or French scarlet, silvered with down.

Leaves threed, petioled; leaflets entire, stipuled, large, rhomboïdal; the lateral ones unequally divided; the terminal one, larger, equally bisected; brightly verdant. A perfect description of the arboreſcent and the twining PALA'SA has been exhibited in the last volume, with a full account of its beautiful red gum; but the same plant is here shortly described from the life, because few trees are considered by the Hindus as more venerable and holy. The Palás is named with honour in the Védas, in the laws of MENU, and in Sanscrit poems, both sacred and popular; it gave its name to the memorable plain called called Plássy by the vulgar, but properly Palási; and, on every account, it must be hoped, that this noble plant will retain its ancient and classical appellation. A grove of Palásas was formerly the principal ornament of Criśhna-nagar, where we still see the trunk of an aged tree near six feet in circumference. This genus as far as we can judge from written descriptions, seems allied to the Níffolia.

62. CARANJACA :

SYN. Chirabilva, Naṭamála, Caraja.

VULG. Caranja.

RHEEDE: Caranschi, 6 H. M. tab. 3.

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, cup-form, obscurely five-toothed, or scalloped, beaked.

COR. Boat-form.

Awning broad, end-nickèd, striated, rather spirally inflected, with two callosities at its base.

Wings oblong, of the same length with the awning.

Keel rather shorter, gibbous below, two-parted.

STAM. Filaments nine in one body, gaping at the base, and discovering a tenth close to the style. Anthers egged, erect.

PIST. Germ above, oblong, downy. Style incurved at the top. Stigma rather headed.

PER. Legume mostly one-seeded, thick, rounded above, flattish, beaked below.

SEED oblong-roundish, rather kidney-form.

Racemes axillary. Awning pale; wings violet. Leaves feathered with an odd one, mostly two-paired; leaflets egg-oblong, pointed, keeled, short-petioled; brownish on one side, pale on the other. Common petiol gibbous at its base. The seed yields an oil supposed to be a cure for the most inveterate scabies.

63. ARJUNA:

SYN. Nadisarja, Virataru, Indradru, Cacubha.

VULG. Jaral.

RHEEDE. Adamboe; 4 H. M. tab. 20, 21, 22.

LINN. Beautiful MUNCHHAUSIA?

KOEN. Queen's-flower LAGERSTROEMIA?

CAL. Perianth one-leaved, six-cleft, top-shaped, furrowed, with protuberant ridges, downy, permanent; divisions, coloured, with points reflected.

COR. Petals six, roundish, somewhat notched, expanding, wavy; claws short, inserted in the calyx.

STAM. Filaments coloured, numerous, capillary shortish, obscurely conjoined in six parcels, one to each division of the calyx; Anthers thick, incumbent, roundish, kidney-shaped.

PIST. Germ above, egged. Style coloured, longish, thread-form, incurved. Stigma obtuse.

PER. Capsule egged, six-celled, six-valved.

SEEDS numerous.

Panicles, racemed, terminal, erect. Flowers violet or light purple, in the highest degree beautiful. Leaves alternate, leathery, some opposite, egg-oblong, stipuled, most entire, short-petioled, smooth, paler beneath. Branches round and smooth: I have seen a single panicle, waving near the summit of the tree, covered with blossoms, and as large as a milk-maid's garland. The timber is used for the building of small boats.

64. VANDA':

SYN. Vričšádanà, Vričšaruhá, Jívanticá.

VULG. Bándà, Persárà, Perafárà.

These names, like the Linnæan, are applicable to all parasite plants.

LINN. Retuse-leaved EPIDENDRUM?

CAL.

CAL. Spathes, minute, straggling.

COR. Petals five, diverging, oval-oblong, obtuse, wavy; the two lowest larger; the three highest, equal, bent towards the nectary.

Nectary central, rigid: Mouth gaping oblique: Upper lip shorter, three-parted, with a polished honey-cup; under lip, concave in the middle, keeled above, with two smaller cavities below; two processes at the base, incurved, hollow, oval-pointed, converging, honey-bearing.

STAM. Filaments very short. Anthers round, flattish, margined, covered with a lid, easily deciduous from the upper lip of the nectary.

PIST. Germ beneath, long, ribbed, contorted with curves of opposite flexure. Style very short, adhering to the upper lip. Stigma simple.

PER. Capsule oblong-conick, wreathed, six-keeled, each with two smaller keels, three-celed, crowned with the dry corol.

SEEDS innumerable like fine dust, affixed to the Receptacle with extremely fine hairs, which become thick wool.

Scapes incurved, solitary, from the cavity of the leaf, at most seven-flowered: pedicels alternate. Petals milk-white externally, transparent; brown within, yellow-spotted. Upper lip of the nectary snow-white; under lip, rich purple or light crimson striated at the base, with a bright yellow gland, as it seems, on each process. The flowers gratefully fragrant and exquisitely beautiful, looking as if composed of shells or made of enamel; crisp, elastick, viscid internally.

Leaves sheathing, opposite, equally curved, rather fleshy, swordform, retuse in two ways at the summit, with one acute point. Roots fibrous smooth, flexible; shooting even from the top of the leaves.

This lovely plant attaches itself chiefly to the highest Amras and Bilvas; but it is an air-plant, and lives in a pot without earth or water: its leaves are excavated upwards to catch and retain dew. It most resembles the first and second Maravaras of VAN RHEEDE in its roots, leaves, and fruit, but rather differs from them in its inflorescence. Since the parasites are distinguished by the trees, on which they most commonly grow, this may in Sanskrit be called Amaravandà; and the name Baculavandà should be applied to the Loranthus; while the Viscum of the Oak, I am told, is named Vandà simply and transcendently, the Vandáca, or Oak, being held sacred.

its

65. A'MALACI':

SYN. Tishyap'haldà, Amritá, Vayaſt'hdá.

VULG.

LINN. PHYLLANTHUS Emblicá.

66. GAJAPIPPALI':

SYN. Caripippali, Capiballi, Colaballí, S'reyas'i, Vas'ira. Some add, Chavicá or Chavya, but that is named, in the Amaracðb, as a distinct plant, vulgarly Chava or Chayi.

VULG. Pippal-j'banca, Maidab.

Male Flowers.

CAL. Common Perianth four-leaved; leaflets, roundish, concave; the two exterior, opposite, smaller; containing from eight to fourteen florets. Partial calyx, none.

COR. None. Nectary, many yellow glands on the pedicel of the filaments.

STAM. Filaments from eight to eighteen in each floret, connected by a short villous pedicel, threadform, very hairy. Anthers large, netted, irregular, inflated, containing the pollen.

PIST. Rudiments of a germ and style, withering.

Female Flowers.

CAL. Common Perianth as in the male, but smaller; containing from ten to twelve florets.

Partial calyx, none; unless you assume the corol.

COR.

COR. Many-petaled, bellied. Petals erect lance-linear, fleshy, covered within, and externally with white hairs. Nectary, yellow glands sprinkling the receptacle.

PIST. Germ oval. Style cylindrick, curved at the base. Stigma headed.

PER. Berry globular, one-seeded.

SEED, spherical smooth.

Flowers umbelled, yellow from their anthers. Leaves mostly oblong-lanced, but remarkably varying in shape, alternate. Both flowers and fruit have an agreeable scent of lemon-peel; and the berries, as a native gardener informs me, are used as a spice or condiment: it was from him that I learned the Sanscrit name of the plant; but as ballī means a creeper, and as the Pippal-jhanca is a tree perfectly able to stand without support, I suspect in some degree the accuracy of his information; though I cannot account for his using a Sanscrit word without being led to it, unless he had acquired at least traditional knowledge. It might be referred, from the imperfect mixed flower, to the twenty-third clas.

67. SA'CO'TA'CA:

SYN.

VULG. Sy'ura, or Syaura.

KOEN. Roughleaved Tropbis?

MALE.

CAL. Common imbricated; leaflets six or eight, egged, acute, small, expanding, withering, containing generally from five to seven flowrets. Partial four-parted; divisions egged, expanded, villous.

COR. None, unless you assume the calyx.

STAM. Filaments mostly four (in some, three; in one, five) awled, fleshy, rather compressed, spreading over the divisions of the calyx, and adhering to them at the point. Anthers double, folded.

The buds elastically, springing open on a touch.

CAL.

FEMALE.

CAL. Four-parted; divisions egged, concave, pointed, permanent, propped by two small bracts; unless you call them the calyx.

COR. None; unless you give the calyx that name.

PIST. Germ roundish. Style very short, cylindrick. Stigma long, two-parted, permanent.

PER. Berry one-seeded, navelled, smooth, somewhat flattened.

SEED globular, arilled.

LEAVES various, some inverse egged, some oblong, some oval, pointed, irregularly notched, alternate (some opposite), crowded, crisp, very rough veined, and paler beneath, smoother and dark above. Berry, deep yellow. The Pandits having only observed the male plant, insist that it bears no fruit. Female flowers axillary, from one to four or five in an axil.

68. VIRANA:

SYN. Viratara.

VULG. Béná, Gándár, Cata.

RETZ. Muricated ANDROPOGON.

ROXB. Aromatick ANDROPOGON.

The root of this useful plant, which CA'LIDA's calls us'ira, has nine other names thus arranged in a Sanskrit verse :

Abhaya, Nalada, Sévya, Amrinála, Jalás'aya, Lámajaca, Lagbulaya, Avadába, Iṣṭacápat'ha.

It will be sufficient to remark, that Jalásaya means aquatick, and that Avadába implies a power of allaying feverish heat; for which purpose the root was brought by GAUTAMI' to her pupil SACONTAL'A: the slender fibres of it, which we know here by the name of C'has or Khafkhas, are most agreeably aromatick, when tolerably fresh; and among among the innocent luxuries of this climate, we may assign the first rank to the coolness and fragrance, which the large hurdles or screens in which they are interwoven, impart to the hottest air, by the means of water dashed through them ; while the strong southern wind spreads the scent before it, and the quick evaporation contributes to cool the atmosphere. Having never seen the fresh plant, I guessed from the name in VAN RHEEDE and from the thin roots, that it was the Asiatick ACORUS ; but a drawing of Dr. ROXBURGH's has convinced me, that I was mistaken.

69. S'AMI':

SYN. *Sac̄tu-p'halā, S'ivā.*VULG. *Sām, Bābul.*LINN. Farnesian MIMOSA.

Thorns double, white, black-pointed, stipular. Leaves twice-feathered; first, in three or four pairs ; then in pairs from fourteen to sixteen. Spikes globular, with short peduncles ; yellow, perfuming the woods and roads with a rich aromatick odour. A minute gland on the petiols below the leaflets. Wood, extremely hard, used by the Brāhmens to kindle their sacred fire, by rubbing two pieces of it together, when it is of a proper age and sufficiently dried. Gum semi-pellucid. Legumes rather spindle-shaped, but irregular, curved, acutely pointed, or daggered, with twelve or fourteen seeds rather prominent, gummy within. Seeds roundish, compressed. The gum of this valuable plant is more transparent than that of the Nilotick or Arabian species ; which the Arabs call Ummu'lghilān, or Mother of Serpents, and the Perians, by an easy corruption, Mugbilān.

SAMI'RA means a small Samī ; but I cannot learn to what species that diminutive form is applied.

LAJJA'RU (properly Lajjalu) signifies bashful, or sensitive, and appears to be the word engraved on a plate in the Malabar Garden; though VAN RHEEDE pronounces it LAURI: there can be no doubt, that it is the swimming MIMOSA, with sensitive leaves, root enclosed in a spungy cylinder, and flowerets with only ten filaments. LINNÆUS, by a mere slip, has referred to this plant as his Dwarf ÆSCHYNOMENE; which we frequently meet with in India.—See 9 H. M. tab. 20. The epithet Lajjalu is given by the Pandits to the Modest MIMOSA.

70. CHANDRACA:

SYN. Chandrapushpa.

VULG. Ch'hotā Chānd, or Moonlet.

RHEEDE: Sjouanna Amelpodi, 6 H. M. t. 47.

LINN. Serpent OPHIOXYLUM.

CAL.. Perianth, five-parted, small, coloured, erect, permanent; divisions, egged, acutish.

COR. Petal, one. Tube very long in proportion; jointed near the middle, gibbous from the enclosed anthers; above them, rather funnel-form. Border five-parted; divisions, inverse,egged, wreathed.

PIST. Germ above, roundish. Style threadform. Stigma irregularly headed; with a circular pellucid base, or nectary, extremely viscid.

PER. Berry mostly twinned, often single, roundish, smooth, minutely pointed, one-seeded.

SEED on one side flattish, or concave; on the other, convex.

Flowers fascicled. Bracts minute, egged, pointed, coloured. Tube of the corol, light purple; border, small, milkwhite. Calyx, first pale pink, then bright carmine. Petioles, narrow-winged. Leaves oblong-oval, pointed, nerved, dark and glosy above; mostly three-fold, sometimes paired, often four-fold near the summit; margins wavy. Few shrubs in the world are more elegant than the Chandra, especially when the vivid carmine of the Perianth is contrasted not only with with the milkwhite corol, but with the rich green berries, which at the same time embellish the fascicle: the mature berries are black, and their pulp light purple. The Bengal peasants assure me, as the natives of Malabar had informed RHEEDE, that the root of this plant seldom fails to cure animals bitten by snakes, or stung by scorpions; and, if it be the plant, supposed to assist the Nacula, or VIVERRA Ichneumon, in his battles with serpents, its nine synonyms have been strung together in the following distich:

Náculi, Surásá, Rásná, Sugandhá, Gandhanáculi, Náculéshá, Bhujangácfí, Cb'hatricá, Suvabá, nava.

The vulgar name, however, of the ichneumon-plant is Rásan, and its fourth Sanscrit appellation signifies well-scented; a quality which an ichneumon alone could apply to the Ophioxylum; since it has a strong, and rather a fetid, odour: the fifth and sixth epithets, indeed, seem to imply that its scent is agreeable to the Nacula; and the seventh (according to the comment on the Amaracófí), that it is offensive to snakes. It is asserted by some, that the Rásan is no other than the Rough Indian Achyranihes, and by others, that it is one of the Indian Aristolochias. From respect to LINNÆUS, I leave this genus in his mixed class; but neither my eyes, nor far better eyes than mine, have been able to discover its male flowers; and it must be confessed, that all the descriptions of the Ophioxylum, by RUMPHIUS, BURMAN, and the great botanist himself, abound with erroneous references, and unaccountable oversights.

71. PIPPALA:

SYN. Bódhi-druma, Chala-dala, Cunjarás'anas, Anwat'tha.

VULG. Pippal.

LINN. Holy Ficus: but the three following are also thought holy.
Fruit small, round, axillary, sessile, mostly twin. Leaves hearted, scalloped,

scalloped, glossy, daggered; petiols very long; whence it is called chaladala, or the tree with tremulous leaves.

72. UDUMBARA:

SYN. Jantu-p'kala, Tajnyángā, Hémadugdbaca.

VULG. Dumbar.

LINN. Racemed Ficus.

Fruit peduncled, top-shape, navelled, racemed. Leaves egg-oblong, pointed, some hearted, obscurely sawed, veined, rough above, netted beneath. VAN RHEEDE has changed the Sanscrit name into Roembadoe: it is true, as he says, that minute ants are hatched in the ripe fruit, whence it is named Jantu-p'kala; and the Pandits compare it to the Mundane Egg.

73. PLACSHA:

SYN. Jati, Parcati.

VULG. Pácari, Pácar.

LINN. Indian FICUS citron-leaved; but all four are Indian.

Fruit sessile, small, mostly twin, crowded, whitish.

Leaves oblong, hearted, pointed, with very long slender petiols.

74. VATA:

SYN. Nyagródba, Babupát.

VULG. Ber.

LINN. Bengal Ficus, but all are found in this province, and none peculiar to it.

Fruit roundish, blood-red, navelled, mostly twin, sessile. Calyx three-leaved, imbricated.

Leaves some hearted, mostly egged, obtuse, broadish, most entire, petiols thick, short; branches radicating.

The Sanskrit name is given also to the very large Ficus Indica, with radicating branches, and to some other varieties of that species. VAN RHEEDE has by mistake transferred the name Aswatt'ha to the Placsha, which is never so called.

75. CARACA:

SYN. Bbauma, Ch'batráca.

VULG.

LINN. FUNGUS Agarick.

This and the Phallus are the only fungi, which I have yet seen in India: the ancient Hindus held the fungus in such detestation, that YAMA, a legislator, supposed now to be the judge of departed spirits, declares “ those, who eat mushrooms, whether springing from the “ ground or growing on a tree, fully equal in guilt to the slayers of “ Bráhmens, and the most despicable of all deadly sinners.”

76. TA'LA:

SYN. Trñarájan.

VULG. Tál, Palmeira.

LINN. BORASSUS.

This magnificent palm is justly entitled the king of its order, which the Hindus call trína druma, or grass trees. VAN RHEEDE mentions the bluish gelatinous, pellucid substance of the young seeds, which, in the hot season, is cooling, and rather agreeable to the taste; but the liquor extracted from the tree, is the most seducing and pernicious of intoxicating vegetable juices: when just drawn, it is as pleasent as Pouhon water fresh from the spring, and almost equal to the best mild Champaigne. From this liquor, according to RHEEDE, sugar is extracted;

tracted; and it would be happy for these provinces, if it were always applied to so innocent a purpose.

77. NÁRICE'LA:

SYN. Lángalin.

VULG. Nárgil, Nárjil.

LINN. Nut-bearing Cocos.

Of a palm so well known to Europeans, little more needs be mentioned than the true Asiatick name: the water of the young fruit is neither so copious, nor so transparent and refreshing, in Bengal, as in the ile of Hinzuán, where the natives, who use the unripe nuts in their cookery, take extreme care of the trees.

78. GUVA'CA:

SYN. Ghónt'á, Púga, Cramuca, Capura.

LINN. ARECA Catechu.

The trivial name of this beautiful palm having been occasioned by a gross error, it must necessarily be changed; and Guváca should be substituted in its place. The inspissated juice of the MÍMOSA C'hadira being vulgarly known by the name of Cat'h, that vulgar name has been changed by Europeans into Catechu; and because it is chewed with thin slices of the Udvéga, or Areca-nut, a species of this palm has been distinguished by the same ridiculous corruption.

GRAMMAR
PERSIAN LANGUAGE.

THE
P R E F A C E.

THE Persian language is rich, melodious, and elegant ; it has been spoken for many ages by the greatest princes in the politest courts of Asia ; and a number of admirable works have been written in it by historians, philosophers, and poets, who found it capable of expressing with equal advantage the most beautiful and the most elevated sentiments.

It must seem strange, therefore, that the study of this language should be so little cultivated at a time when a taste for general and diffusive learning seems universally to prevail ; and that the fine productions of a celebrated nation should remain in manuscript upon the shelves of our publick libraries, without a single admirer who might open their treasures to his countrymen, and display their beauties to the light ; but if we consider the subject with a proper attention, we shall discover a variety of causes which have concurred to obstruct the progress of Eastern literature.

Some men never heard of the Asiatick writings, and others will not be convinced that there is any thing valuable in them ; some pretend to be busy, and others are really idle ; some detest the Persians, because they believe in Mahomed, and others despise their language, because they do not understand it : we all love to excuse, or to conceal, our ignorance, and are seldom willing to allow any excellence beyond the limits of our own attainments: like the savages, who thought that the sun rose and set for them alone, and could not imagine that the waves, which surrounded their island, left coral and pearls upon any other shore.

Another obvious reason for the neglect of the Persian language is the great scarcity of books, which are necessary to be read before it can be perfectly learned, the greater part of them are preserved in the different museums and libraries of Europe, where they are shewn more as objects of curiosity than as sources of information; and are admired, like the characters on a Chinese screen, more for their gay colours than for their meaning.

Thus, while the excellent writings of Greece and Rome are studied by every man of a liberal education, and diffuse a general refinement through our part of the world, the works of the Persians, a nation equally distinguished in ancient history, are either wholly unknown to us, or considered as entirely destitute of taste and invention.

But if this branch of literature has met with so many obstructions from the ignorant, it has, certainly, been checked in its progress by the learned themselves; most of whom have confined their study to the minute researches of verbal criticism; like men who discover a precious mine, but instead of searching for the rich ore, or for gems, amuse themselves with collecting smooth pebbles and pieces of crystal. Others mistook reading for learning, which ought to be carefully distinguished by every man of sense, and were satisfied with running over a great number of manuscripts in a superficial manner, without condescending to be stopped by their difficulty, or to dwell upon their beauty and elegance. The rest have left nothing more behind them than than grammars and dictionaries ; and though they deserve the praises due to unwearied pains and industry, yet they would, perhaps, have gained a more shining reputation, if they had contributed to beautify and enlighten the vast temple of learning, instead of spending their lives in adorning only its porticos and avenues.

There is nothing which has tended more to bring polite letters into discredit, than the total insensibility of commentators and criticks to the beauties of the authours whom they profess to illustrate : few of them seem to have received the smallest pleasure from the most elegant compositions, unless they found some mistake of a transcriber to be corrected, or some established reading to be changed, some obscure expression to be explained, or some clear passage to be made obscure by their notes.

It is a circumstance equally unfortunate, that men of the most refined taste and the brightest parts are apt to look upon a close application to the study of languages as inconsistent with their spirit and genius : so that the state of letters seems to be divided into two classes, men of learning who have no taste, and men of taste who have no learning.

M. de Voltaire, who excels all writers of his age and country in the elegance of his style, and the wonderful variety of his talents, acknowledges the beauty of the Persian images and sentiments, and has versified a very fine passage from Sadi, whom he compares to Petrarch : if that extraordinary man had added a knowledge of the Asiatick languages to his other acquisitions, we should by this time have seen the poems and histories of Persia in an European dress, and any other recommendation of them would have been unnecessary.

But

But there is yet another cause which has operated more strongly than any before mentioned towards preventing the rise of oriental literature; I mean the small encouragement which the princes and nobles of Europe have given to men of letters. It is an indisputable truth, that learning will always flourish most where the amplest rewards are proposed to the industry of the learned; and that the most shining periods in the annals of literature are the reigns of wise and liberal princes, who know that fine writers are the oracles of the world, from whose testimony every king, statesman, and hero must expect the censure or approbation of posterity. In the old states of Greece the highest honours were given to poets, philosophers, and orators; and a single city (as an eminent writer * observes) in the memory of one man, produced more numerous and splendid monuments of human genius than most other nations have afforded in a course of ages.

The liberality of the Ptolemies in Egypt drew a number of learned men and poets to their court, whose works remain to the present age the models of taste and elegance; and the writers, whom Augustus protected, brought their composition to a degree of perfection, which the language of mortals cannot surpass. Whilst all the nations of Europe were covered with the deepest shade of ignorance, the Califs in Asia encouraged the Mahomedans to improve their talents, and cultivate the fine arts; and even the Turkish Sultan, who drove the Greeks from Constantinople, was a patron of literary merit, and was himself an elegant poet. The illustrious family of Medici invited to Florence the learned men whom the Turks had driven from their country, and a general light succeeded the gloom which ignorance and superstition had spread through the western world. But that light has not continued to shine with equal splendour; and though some slight efforts have been made to restore it, yet it seems to have been gradually decaying for the last century: it grows very faint in Italy; it seems wholly extinguished in France; and whatever sparks of it remain in other countries are confined to the closets of humble and modest men, and are not general enough to have their proper influence.

The nobles of our days consider learning as a subordinate acquisition, which would not be consistent with the dignity of their fortunes, and should be left to those who toil in a lower sphere of life: but they do not reflect on the many advantages which the study of polite letters would give, peculiarly to persons of eminent rank and high employments; who, instead of relieving their fatigues by a series of unmanly pleasures, or useless diversions, might spend their leisure in improving their knowledge, and in conversing with the great statesmen, orators, and philosophers of antiquity.

If learning in general has met with so little encouragement, still less can be expected for that branch of it, which lies so far removed from the common path, and which the greater part of mankind have hitherto considered as incapable of yielding either entertainment or instruction: if pains and want be the lot of a scholar, the life of an orientalist must certainly be attended with peculiar hardships. Gentius, who published a beautiful Persian work called The Bed of Roses, with an useful but inelegant translation, lived obscurely in Holland, and died in misery. Hyde, who might have contributed greatly towards the progress of eastern learning, formed a number of expensive projects with that view, but had not the support and assistance which they deserved and required. The labours of Meninski immortalized and ruined him: his dictionary of the Asiatick languages is, perhaps, the most laborious compilation that was ever undertaken by any single man; but he complains in his preface that his patrimony was exhausted by the great expence of employing ploying and supporting a number of writers and printers, and of raising a new press for the oriental characters. M. d'Herbelot, indeed, received the most splendid reward of his industry : he was invited to Italy by Ferdinand II. duke of Tuscany, who entertained him with that striking munificence which always distinguished the race of the Medici : after the death of Ferdinand, the illustrious Colbert recalled him to Paris, where he enjoyed the fruits of his labour, and spent the remainder of his days in an honourable and easy retirement. But this is a rare example : the other princes of Europe have not imitated the duke of Tuscany ; and Christian VII. was reserved to be the protector of the eastern muses in the present age.

Since the literature of Asia was so much neglected, and the causes of that neglect were so various, we could not have expected that any slight power would rouze the nations of Europe from their inattention to it ; and they would, perhaps, have persisted in despising it, if they had not been animated by the most powerful incentive that can influence the mind of man : interest was the magick wand which brought them all within one circle ; interest was the charm which gave the languages of the East a real and solid importance. By one of those revolutions, which no human prudence could have foreseen, the Persian language found its way into India ; that rich and celebrated empire, which, by the flourishing state of our commerce, has been the source of incredible wealth to the merchants of Europe. A variety of causes, which need not be mentioned here, gave the English nation a most extensive power in that kingdom : our India company began to take under their protection the princes of the country, by whose protection they gained their first settlement ; a number of important affairs were to be transacted in peace and war between nations equally jealous of one another, who had not the common instrument of conveying their sentiments ; the servants of the company received letters which they could not read, and were ambitious of gaining titles of which they could not comprehend the meaning ; it was found highly dangerous to employ the natives as interpreters, upon whose fidelity they could not depend ; and it was at last discovered, that they must apply themselves to the study of the Persian language, in which all the letters from the Indian princes were written. A few men of parts and taste, who resided in Bengal, have since amused themselves with the literature of the East, and have spent their leisure in reading the poems and histories of Persia ; but they found a reason in every page to regret their ignorance of the Arabick language, without which their knowledge must be very circumscribed and imperfect. The languages of Asia will now, perhaps, be studied with uncommon ardour ; they are known to be useful, and will soon be found instructive and entertaining ; the valuable manuscripts that enrich our publick libraries will be in a few years elegantly printed ; the manners and sentiments of the eastern nations will be perfectly known ; and the limits of our knowledge will be no less extended than the bounds of our empire.

It was with a view to facilitate the progress of this branch of literature, that I reduced to order the following instructions for the Persian language, which I had collected several years ago ; but I would not present my grammar to the publick till I had considerably enlarged and improved it : I have, therefore, endeavoured to lay down the clearest and most accurate rules, which I have illustrated by select examples from the most elegant writers ; I have carefully compared my work with every composition of the same nature that has fallen into my hands ; and though on so general a subject I must have made several observations which are common to all, yet I flatter myself that my own remarks, the disposition of the whole book, and the passages quoted in it, will sufficiently distinguish it as an original production. Though I am not conscious that there are any essential mistakes or omissions in it, yet

I am

I am sensible that it falls very short of perfection, which seems to withdraw itself from the pursuit of mortals, in proportion to their endeavours of attaining it; like the talisman in the Arabian tales, which a bird carried from tree to tree as often as its pursuer approached it. But it has been my chief care to avoid all the harsh and affected terms of art which render most didactic works so tedious and unpleasant, and which only perplex the learner, without giving him any real knowledge: I have even refrained from making any enquiries into general grammar, or from entering into those subjects which have already been so elegantly discussed by the most judicious philosopher*, the most learned divine †, and the most laborious scholar of the present age‡.

It was my first design to prefix to the grammar a history of the Persian language from the time of Xenophon to our days, and to have added a copious praxis of tales and poems extracted from the classical writers of Persia; but as those additions would have delayed the publication of the grammar, which was principally wanted, I thought it advisable to reserve them for a separate volume, which the publick may expect in the course of the ensuing winter. I have made a large collection of materials for a general history of Asia, and for an account of the geography, philosophy, and literature of the eastern nations, all which I propose to arrange in order, if my more solid and more important studies will allow me any intervals of leisure§.

I cannot forbear acknowledging in this place the signal marks of kindness and attention, which I have received from many learned and noble persons ; but General Carnac has obliged me the most sensibly of them, by supplying me with a valuable collection of Persian manuscripts on every branch of eastern learning, from which many of the best examples in the following grammar are extracted. A very learned Professor* at Oxford has promoted my studies with that candour and benevolence which so eminently distinguish him ; and many excellent men that are the principal ornaments of that university have conferred the highest favours on me, of which I shall ever retain a grateful sense : but I take a singular pleasure in confessing that I am indebted to a foreign nobleman † for the little knowledge which I have happened to acquire of the Persian language ; and that my zeal for the poetry and philology of the Asiaticks was owing to his conversation, and to the agreeable correspondence with which he still honours me.

Before I conclude this Preface it will be proper to add a few remarks upon the method of learning the Persian language, and upon the advantages which the learner may expect from it. When the student can read the characters with fluency, and has learned the true pronunciation of every letter from the mouth of a native, let him peruse the grammar with attention, and commit to memory the regular inflexions of the nouns and verbs : he needs not burden his mind with those that deviate from the common form, as they will be insensibly learned in a short course of reading. By this time he will find a dictionary necessary, and I hope he will believe me, when I assert from a long experience, that, whoever possesses the admirable work of Meninski, will have no occasion for any other dictionary of the Persian tongue. He may proceed by the help of this work to analyse the passages quoted in the grammar, and to examine in what manner they illustrate the rules ; in the mean time he must not neglect to converse with his living instructor, and to learn from him the phrases of common discourse, and the names of visible objects, which he will soon imprint on his memory, if he will take the trouble to look for them in the dictionary : and here I must caution him against condemning a work as defective, because he cannot find in it every word which he hears ; for sounds in general are caught imperfectly by the ear, and many words are spelled and pronounced very differently.

The first book that I would recommend to him is the Gulistan or Bed of Roses, a work which is highly esteemed in the East, and of which there are several translations in the languages of Europe : the manuscripts of this book are very common ; and by comparing them with the printed edition of Gentius, he will soon learn the beautiful flowing hand used in Persia, which consists of bold strokes and flourishes, and cannot be imitated by our types. It will then be a proper time for him to read some short and easy chapter in this work, and to translate it into his native language with the utmost exactness ; let him then lay aside the original, and after a proper interval let him turn the same chapter back into Persian by the assistance of the grammar and dictionary ; let him afterwards compare his second translation with the original, and correct its faults according to that model. This is the exercise so often recommended by the old rhetoricians, by which a student will gradually acquire the style and manner of any author, whom he desires to imitate, and by which almost any language may be learned in six months with ease and pleasure. When he can express his sentiments in Persian with tolerable facility, I would advise him to read some elegant history or poem with an intelligent native, who will explain to him in common words the refined expressions that occur in reading, and will point out the beauties of learned allusions and local images. The most excellent book in the language is, in my opinion, the collection of tales and fables called Anvah Sobeili by Aufsein Vaéz, surnamed Cashefi, who took the celebrated work of Bidpai or Pilpay for his text, and has comprised all the wisdom of the eastern nations in fourteen beautiful chapters. At some leisure hour he may desire his Munshi or writer to transcribe a section from the Gulistan, or a fable of Cashefi, in the common broken hand used in India, which he will learn perfectly in a few days by comparing all its turns and contractions with the more regular hands of the Arabs and Persians : he must not be discouraged by the difficulty of reading the Indian letters, for the characters are in reality the same with those in which our books are printed, and are only rendered difficult by the frequent omission of the diacritical points, and the want of regularity in the position of the words : but we all know that we are often at a loss to read letters which we receive in our native tongue ; and it has been proved that a man who has a perfect knowledge of any language, may, with a proper attention, decypher a letter in that idiom, though it be written in characters which he has never seen before, and of which he has no alphabet.

In short, I am persuaded, that whoever will study the Persian language according to my plan, will in less than a year be able to translate and to answer any letter from an Indian prince, and to converse with the natives of India, not only with fluency, but with elegance. But if he desires to distinguish himself as an eminent translator, and to understand not only the general purport of a composition, but even the graces and ornaments of it, he must necessarily learn the Arabick tongue, which is blended with the Persian in so singular a manner, that one period often contains both languages, wholly distinct from each other in expression and idiom, but perfectly united in sense and construction. This must appear strange to an European reader ; but he may form some idea of this uncommon mixture, when he is told that the two Asiatick languages are not always mixed like the words of Roman and Saxon origin in this period, “ The true law is right reason, conformable to the nature of “ things ; which calls us to duty by commanding, deters us from sin by “ forbidding *;” but as we may suppose the Latin and English to be connected in the following sentence, “ The true lex is recta ratio, con- “ formable naturæ, which by commanding vocet ad officium, by forbidding “ à fraude deterreat.”

A knowledge of these two languages will be attended with a variety of advantages to those who acquire it : the Hebrew, Chaldaick, Syriack, and Ethiopic tongues are dialects of the Arabick, and bear as near a resemblance to it as the Ionick to the Attick Greek ; the jargon of Indostan, very improperly called the language of the Moors, contains so great a number of Persian words, that I was able with very little difficulty to read the fables of Pilpai which are translated into that idiom : the Turkish contains ten Arabick or Persian words for one originally Scythian, by which it has been so refined, that the modern kings of Persia were fond of speaking it in their courts : in short, there is scarce a country in Asia or Africa, from the source of the Nile to the wall of China, in which a man who understands Arabick, Persian, and Turkish, may not travel with satisfaction, or transact the most important affairs with advantage and security.

As to the literature of Asia, it will not, perhaps, be essentially useful to the greater part of mankind, who have neither leisure nor inclination to cultivate so extensive a branch of learning ; but the civil and natural history of such mighty empires as India, Persia, Arabia, and Tartary, cannot fail of delighting those who love to view the great picture of the universe, or to learn by what degrees the most obscure states have risen to glory, and the most flourishing kingdoms have sunk to decay ; the philosopher will consider those works as highly valuable, by which he may trace the human mind in all its various appearances, from the rudest to the most cultivated state: and the man of taste will undoubtedly be pleased to unlock the stores of native genius, and to gather the flowers of unrestrained and luxuriant fancy *.

* My professional studies having wholly engaged my attention, and induced me not only to abandon oriental literature, but even to efface, as far as possible, the very traces of it from my memory, I committed the conduct and revision of this edition of my Grammar, and the composition of the Index to Mr. Richardson, in whose skill I have a perfect confidence, and from whose application to the eastern languages, I have hopes that the learned world will reap no small advantage.

The second and fourth columns of these letters from the right hand are used only when they are connected with a preceding letter; as مُهَمَّدٌ Mohammed. Every letter should be connected with that which follows it, except these seven; alif, δ dal, $\dot{\delta}$ zal, ر ra, ز za, ژ zha, and و vau, which are never joined to the following letter, as will appear from the words بَرْكَ berk a leaf, دَاوِرِي davari a dominion.

Though the perfect pronunciation of these letters can be learned only from the mouth of a Persian or an Indian, yet it will be proper to add a few observations upon the most remarkable of them.

OF CONSONANTS.

ت پ ب Since their sound is exactly the same as our b, p, and t, in the words bar, peer, and too, which would be written in Persian تو پير بار and.

ث

This letter, which the Arabs pronounce like a th, has in Persian the same sound with a س or s, as ابُو لِيَث Abu Leis, a proper name. It might, therefore, have been rejected from the Persian alphabet without any inconvenience; but it is useful in showing the origin of words, as it is seldom, or never, used in any that are not Arabick. The same may be observed of the following letters, ق غ ظ ط خ ض ص ح which rarely occur in words originally Persian.

ج and چ

The first of these letters answers to our soft g in gem, which a Persian would write چ or to our j in jar جار: the second of them چ sounds exactly like our ch in the words cherry, cheek; as چرکس Chirkés Circassia.

ح

ح is a very strong aspirate, and may be expressed in our characters by a double h, as حاں hhál a condition.

خ

خ is formed in the throat, and has a sound like the German ch; but the Persians pronounce it less harshly than the Arabs, and give it the sound of c before a, o, or u in the Tuscan dialect, as خان chan a lord, which a Florentine would pronounce like can. This is the word so variously and so erroneously written by the Europeans. The sovereign lord of Tartary is neither the cham, as our travellers call him, nor the ban, as Voltaire will have it, but the خان khán, or cán, with an aspirate on the first letter.

ڻ

ڻ answers exactly to our d in deer در.

ڙ

This letter, which the Arabs pronounce db, has in Persian the sound of j z, and is often confounded with it; thus they write څڏشتن and څڙشتن

گزشتن guzeshten to pass: It is seldom used but in Arabick words; though it sometimes occurs in words purely Persian, as اذربیجان Azarbíján the province of Media, so called from اذر azar, an old word for fire, because the adorers of fire, if we believe the Asiatick historians, first built their temples in that province.

ر and the three liquids ن م ل are pronounced exactly like our r, l, m, n; as ارام arám reft, لاله láleh a tulip, مار már a serpent, نان nán bread. But ن before a ب has the sound of m, as کنبد kumbed a tower, عنبر ambergris.

ز

ز has the sound of our z, as لاله زار lálehzár a bed of tulips.

ژ

This letter has the sound of our ʃ in the words pleasure, treasure; and corresponds precisely with the soft g of the French in gens, or their j in jour. It may be expressed in our characters by zh, as ژاله zháleh dew; for it has the same relation to z which ʒ has to s.

ش and س

ش and س are our s and ʃ, as سلیم شاہ Selim sháh king Selim.

ظ ط خ ص

These four letters are pronounced by the Arabs in a manner peculiar to themselves; but in Persian they are confounded with other letters.

ص differs little from س as صددر س Saddar the name of a Persian book; and ط has nearly the same sound with ت as عطر otr essence; a word often used in English, since our connection with India, to denote the precious perfume called otter of roses. The word is Arabick, as the letters غ and ط sufficiently prove. خ and ط differ very little from ج; but they are pronounced more forcibly, and may be expressed by zz, as نظامي Nezzámi the name of a poet; خضر Khezzár the name of a prophet in the eastern romances.

ع and غ

These two letters are extremely harsh in the pronunciation of the Arabs. The sound of ع, says Meninski, est vox vituli matrem vocantis; but in Persian it is a sort of vowel, and answers generally to our broad a, as عرب Arab the Arabians; عین áin a fountain. Sometimes it has a sound like our o, as in the word before-mentioned, عطر otr perfume. As to غ it is commonly pronounced in Persia like our hard gh in the word ghost, as غلام gholám a boy, a servant.

ف

ف has the sound of f in fall, as فال an omen.

ك and ق

ق is another harsh Arabick letter, but in Persian it is often confounded with ك, which has the sound of our k, as كرمان Ker-mán the province of Carmania; قاف Kaf a fabulous mountain in the Oriental tales.

ش

When ک has three points above it, the Persians give it the sound of g in the word gay, as گلستان gulistán a bed of roses; but these points are very seldom written in the Persian manuscripts; so that the distinction between ک k and ش g can be learned only by use: thus they often write گلاب rose-water, and pronounce it gulab.

ن م ل

See the remark on ن. These letters are the liquids l, m, n, r.

س

س is a slight aspiration, and is often redundant, as بهار behár the spring, which is pronounced almost like beár; هرات Herat a city in the province of Corasan, which the Greeks call Aria: س therefore is the b of the French in honnête, whence came our honest without an aspiration. At the end of a word it frequently sounds like a vowel, as که ke, which has the same sense and pronunciation as the Italian che which.

OF VOWELS.

THE long vowels are ا و ي and may be pronounced as a, o, ee, in the words call, stole, feed; as خان khán a lord, اورا ora to him, نیز neez also; but the short vowels are expressed by small marks, two of which are placed above the letter, and one below it, as ب as ba or be, بی as bo or bu; thus,

آشکر آن ترک شیرازی بَدْسْت آرد دِلِ مَارَا
بَخَالِ هِنْدُویش بَخَشْم سَمْرَقَنْد و بَخَارَارَا

Egher ân turki Shirázi bedest âred dili mára
Bekháli hinduishi bakshem Samarcand u Bokhárára.

The mark ° placed above a consonant shows that the syllable ends with it, as سَمَرْقَانْدِي Sa-mar-can-di a native of Samarcand; the first of which syllables is short, the second and third long by position, and the last long by nature: but this belongs to the prosody. These short vowels are very seldom written in the Persian books; and the other orthographical marks are likewise usually suppressed except Medda ~, Hamza ^, and Teshdid " ; the two first of which are most common.

Medda above an l gives it a very broad sound, as آن aun: Hamza supplies the place of ي in words that end in ؟; it therefore sometimes represents the article, as نامه nameï a book, or denotes the former of two substantives, as نافه مشك náfeï mushk a bag of musk; or, lastly, it marks the second person singular in the compound preterite of a verb, as داده dádeï, which would regularly be داده اي dádeh i thou hast given. Teshdid shews a consonant to be doubled, as طره turreh a lock of hair.

The omission of the short vowels will at first perplex the student; since many words that are compounded of the same consonants, have different senses according to the difference of the vowels omitted: but until he has learned the exact pronunciation of every word from a native, he may give every short vowel a kind of obscure sound very common in English, as in the words fun, bird, mother, which a Mahometan would write without any vowel, fn, brd, mthr; thus the Persian word سی bd may be pronounced like our bud.

Vau و and Ya ي are often used as consonants, like our v and y; thus, Van a town in Armenia; جوان juvan jovenis, giovane, young; یمن Yemen, that province of Arabia which we call the happy; خدایار Khodáyár, a proper name signifying the friend of God. و before ا often loses its sound, as خوان khán a table.

I would not advise the learner to study the parts of speech until he can read the Persian characters with tolerable fluency; which he will soon be able to do, if he will spend a few hours in writing a page or two of Persian in English letters, and restoring them after a short interval to their proper characters by the help of the alphabet. I shall close this section with a piece of Persian poetry written both in the Asiatick and European characters: it is an ode by the poet Hafiz, the first couplet of which has been already quoted; and a translation of it shall be inserted in its proper place.

In this specimen of Persian writing the learner will observe a few combinations of letters, which he must by no means forget; as ل lamelif, compounded of ل l and ل a, in the word مسلا mosella: but the most usual combinations are formed with خ ج چ ح which have the singular property of causing all the preceding letters to rise above the line, as بخارا nakchéer, ناخرا nakhára, تصحیح tas-héeh. The letters that precede م m are also sometimes raised.

The Arabick characters, like those of the Europeans, are written in a variety of different hands; but the most common of them are the نسخی Niskhi, the تعليق Tâlik, or hanging, and the شکسته Shekesteh, or broken. Our books are printed in the Niskhi hand, and all Arabick manuscripts, as well as most Persian and Turkish histories, are written in it; but the Persians write their poetical works in the Tâlik, which answers to the most elegant of our Italick hands. As to the Shekesteh, it is very irregular and inelegant, and is chiefly used by the idle Indians, who will not take time to form their letters perfectly, or even to insert the diacritical points; but this hand, however difficult and barbarous, must be learned by all men of business in India, as the letters from the princes of the country are seldom written in any other manner. A specimen of these different forms of writing is engraved, and inserted at the end of this Grammar.

OF NOUNS; AND FIRST, OF GENDERS.

THE reader will soon perceive with pleasure a great resemblance between the Persian and English languages, in the facility and simplicity of their form and construction: the former, as well as the latter, has no difference of termination to mark the gender, either in substantives or adjectives: all inanimate things are neuter, and animals of different sexes either have different names, as پسر puser a boy, کنیز keneez a girl, or are distinguished by the words نر ner male, and ماده madé female; as شیر sheeri ner a lion, شیر ماده sheeri madé a lioness.

Sometimes, indeed, a word is made feminine, after the manner of the Arabians, by having ة added to it, as معشوقه mashuk a friend, amicus, معشوقه mashúka a mistress, amica, as in this verse:

کل دمر برومی بر کف و معشوقه بکامست

Flowers are in my bosom, wine in my hand; and my mistress yields to my desire.

But in general, when the Persians adopt an Arabick noun of the feminine gender, they make it neuter, and change the final ة into ت; thus نعمة nimet nimet a benefit is written نعیت: and almost all the Persian nouns ending in ت, which are very numerous, are borrowed from the Arabs.

OF CASES.

The Persian substantives, like ours, have but one variation of case, which is formed by adding the syllable ل to the nominative in both numbers; and answers often to the dative, but generally to the accusative case in other languages; as,

Nominative, پسر puser a child.

Dative and Acc. پسر را puserra to a child or the child.

When the accusative is used indefinitely, the syllable ل is omitted, as شل gul chiden to gather a flower, that is, any flower; but when the noun is definite or limited, that syllable is added to it, as شلرا gulra chid be gathered the flower, that is, the particular flower. There is no genitive case in Persian, but when two substantives of different meanings come together, a kesra or short e (ء) is added in reading to the former of them, and the latter remains unaltered, مشک ختن mushk Khoten the musk of Tartary, which must be read mushke Khoten. The same rule must be observed before a pronoun possessive; as پسر من puser men my child: and before an adjective; as شبشیر tabnak shemshire tabnak a bright scymitar. If the first word ends in ل or و the letter ي is affixed to it; as پاشای pasha a basha pašhái Mousel the basha of Mousel. میوهای شیرین mivaha fruits, میوهها miyahá shireen sweet fruits: if nouns ending in ئ come before other nouns or adjectives, the mark Hamza ئ is added to them, as چشمہ حیوان cheshméi heyyán the fountain of life.

The other cases are expressed for the most part, as in our language, by particles placed before the nominative, as

Ablative, از پسر az puser from a child.

The poets, indeed, often form a vocative case by adding ! to the nominative, as ساقیا fakia O cup-bearer, شاهها shaha O king; thus Sadi uses بلبلا bulbula as the vocative of بلبل bulbul a nightingale.

بلبل مژده بهار بیار
خبر بد بیوم باز بکذار

Bring, O nightingale, the tidings of spring; leave all unpleasant news to the owl.

In some old compositions the particle مر mer is prefixed to the accusative case; as اورا دیدم mer ora deedem I saw him; but this is either obsolete or inelegant, and is seldom used by the moderns.

The reader, who has been used to the inflexions of European languages, will, perhaps, be pleased to see an example of Persian nouns, as they answer to the cases in Latin:

گل gul a rose, rosa.

Singular.

Nom. گل gul a rose, rosa.

Plural.

گل rosas, rosaæ.

Gen.

Gen.	شل of a rose, rosæ.	شلها of roses, rosarum.
Dat.	شلرا to a rose, rosæ.	شلها را to roses, rosis.
Acc.	شلرا the rose, rosam.	شلها را the roses, rosas.
Voc.	ای شل O rose, ô rosa.	ای شلها O roses, ô rosæ.
Poet.	شل ای شل
Abl.	از شل from a rose, rosâ.	از شلها from roses, rosis.

bulbul ببل ببل a nightingale.

Singular.

Nom. and Gen.	بلبل a nightingale.
Dat. and Acc.	بلبلرا to a nightingale.
Voc.	(بلبل) او اي بلبل a nightingale.
Abl.	از بلبل from a nightingale.

Plural.

Nom. and Gen.	بلبلان nightingales.
Dat. and Acc.	بلبلانرا to nightingales.
Voc.	او اي بلبلان O nightingales.
Abl.	از بلبلان from nightingales.

ساقی بیار باده که آمد زمان شل
 تا بشکنیم تویه دشگر در میان شل
 حافظ وصال شل طلبی همچو بلبلان
 جان کن ندای خاک ره باغبان شل

Boy, bring the wine, for the season of the rose approaches; let us again break

break our vows of repentance in the midst of the roses. O Hafiz, thou desirest, like the nightingales, the presence of the rose : let thy very soul be a ransom for the earth where the keeper of the rose-garden walks !

I shall in this manner quote a few Persian couplets, as examples of the principal rules in this grammar : such quotations will give some variety to a subject naturally barren and unpleasant ; will serve as a specimen of the oriental style ; and will be more easily retained in the memory than rules delivered in mere prose.

OF THE ARTICLE.

Our article a is supplied in Persian by adding the letter ي to a noun, which restrains it to the singular number ; as گلی guli a single rose ;

رقتم بیان صبحه می تا چینم گلی
آمد بکوش ناکم آواز بلبلی

One morning I went into the garden to gather a rose, when on a sudden the voice of a nightingale struck my ear.

Without this termination گل gul would signify roses or flowers collectively, as

می خواه و گل فشان کن

Call for wine, and scatter flowers around.

When

When a noun ends in ش the idea of unity is expressed by the mark Hamza, as چشمہ cheshmeï a single fountain.

OF NUMBERS.

From the two examples in a preceding section it appears that the Persian plural is formed by adding ان! or هـ to the singular: but these terminations are not, as in many languages, wholly arbitrary; on the contrary they are regulated with the utmost precision. The names of animals form their plural in ان!, as گرک gurk a wolf.

but words which signify things without life make their plurals by the addition of the syllable هـ, as بال bal a wing.

ساحل sahil a shore.

بالها balha wings.
ساحلها sahilha shores.

Both these plurals occur in the following elegant distich.

شب تاریک و بیم موج و شکر دابی چنین هایل
کجا دانند حال ما سیکباران ساحلها

The night is dark; the fear of the waves oppress us, and the whirlpool is dreadful! How should those, who bear light burdens on the shores, know the misery of our situation?

There

There are, however, a few exceptions to these rules: the names of animals sometimes make their plurals in ها as well as in ان, as شتر shütür a camel, شتر ها شتران shütürha and شتران shütüran camels; and on the other side the names of things sometimes have plurals in ان, as لب leb a lip, Lebanon Lebanon lips.

Names of persons ending in ا or و form their plurals in يان, as دانا dana a learned man, دانيayan danayan learned men; and those that end in ئ are made plural by changing the last letter into پچه, as پچه شان peché an infant, پچه شان pechégan infants; and sometimes by adding شان as a separate syllable; thus, فرشته شان ferishte an angel, فرشته شان ferishte gan angels.

If the name of a thing ends in ئ, the final letter is absorbed in the plural before the syllable ها, as خانه khané a house, khanha houses.

In some modern Persian books, as the Life of Nader Shah and others, the plural often ends in ات or in جات if the singular has a final ئ.

Sing.	Plur.
نوازش nüwazish a favour.	نوازشات nüwazishat favours.
قلعة kalat a castle.	قلعجات kalajat castles.

But these must be considered as barbarous, and are a proof that the late dreadful commotions which have ruined the empire of the Persians, have begun to destroy even the beautiful simplicity of their language.

It must not be omitted, that the Arabick substantives frequently have two sorts of plurals, one formed according to the analogy of the Persian nouns, and another after the irregular manner of the Arabians; as عیب aib a vice, عیبها aibha and عوایب avaib vices; قلعه kalah a castle, قلعهها قلعهها qalajat castles.

نواب nayib a viceroy, plur. naváb, which our countrymen have mistaken for the singular number, and say very improperly a nabob. This is one argument out of a great number to prove the impossibility of learning the Persian language accurately without a moderate knowledge of the Arabick; and if the learner will follow my advice, he will peruse with attention the Arabick grammar of Erpenius* before he attempts to translate a Persian manuscript.

OF ADJECTIVES.

The Persian adjectives admit of no variation, but in the degrees of comparison. The positive is made comparative by adding to it تر, and superlative by adding ترین, as خوب khub fair, خوبتر khubter fairer, خوبترین khubterin fairest.

Our than after a comparative is expressed by the preposition از az, as بیاض روی تو روشنتر از رخ روز

سود زلف تو تاریکتر از ظلمت داج

The brightness of thy face is more splendid than the cheek of day; the blackness of thy locks is darker than the hue of night.

* There are two fine editions of this grammar, the first published by the very learned Golius, and the second by the late Albert Schultens; both these Orientalists have added a number of Arabick odes and elegies, which they have explained in excellent notes: but these editions are scarce, and Meninski has inserted in his grammar the substance of Erpenius, with many new remarks.

ماه نیکوست ولی روی توزیباتر از وست
سرو دل جوست ولی قد تود لجوتر از وست

The moon is bright, but thy face is brighter than it ; the cypress is graceful, but thy shape is more graceful than the cypress.

An adjective is sometimes used substantively, and forms its plural like a noun, as حکیمان hhakiman the wife; if it be a compounded adjective, the syllables ان and را denoting the plural number and the oblique case, are placed at the end of it, as صاحبدل sahibdil an honest man; oblique صاحبدلرا sahibdilra; plural صاحبدلان sahibdilan, oblique صاحبدلرانا sahibdilanra ; as

فرو مانند پری رویان زآن عارض
خچل کشتنند سمن بویان زآن کاکل

The damsels with faces like angels are dejected at the sight of that cheek ; the nymphs with the fragrance of jessamine are filled with envy when they view those curls.

OF PRONOUNS.

The personal pronouns are these which follow ;

من men I.

Sing. men I.

Oblique, مرا merá me.

Plur. ما ma we.

Mára us.

تو to Thou.

Sing. تو to thou

Obl. ترا tura thee.

Plur. شما shumá you or ye.

شمارا shumará you.

او او He.

Sing. او او he, she, or it.

Obl. اورا óra him, her, or it.

Plur. ایشان ishán they.

ایشانرا ishánra them.

The poets often use شان for ایشان, as همیرتم و کوقتم مغز شان

تی کردم از پیکر نغز شان

I went, and bruised their helmets ; I disfigured their beautiful faces.

After a preposition او او or or is often changed into اوی اوی oë, as چون شاه جهاندار بنبود روی

زمینرا بیوسید و شد پیش اوی

When the king of the world showed his face, the general kissed the ground, and advanced before him. Ferdusi.

Sometimes after the preposition ب in, the letter او is inserted to prevent the hiatus, as باو bedo for beö in it; the same may be observed of بدان bedân for bëän in that, بدین bedeen for bâïn *in this.

* In the same manner and from the same motive the old Romans added a d to many words followed by a vowel; thus Horace, if we adopt the reading of Muretus, uses tibid for tibi.

Omne crede diem tibid illuxisse supremum.

The possessives are the same with the personals, and are distinguished by being added to their substantives; as

Sing. دل من dili men my heart.

تو دل dili to thy heart.

او دل او وی dili o bis or her heart.

Plur. دلهای ما dilhaï ma our hearts.

دلهای شما dilhaï shuma your hearts.

Poet. تان

دلهای ایشان dilhaï ishân their hearts.

Poet. شان

They are often expressed in the singular number by these final letters م em, ت et, and ش sh, and after an l or s by ام am, ات at, and اش ash: but after nouns ending in ل elif or و vau the letter ي ya is inserted before the finals ش ت as دل م dilem my heart.

دل ت dilet thy heart.

دل ش dilesh bis or her heart.

جامه ام jámeï am my robe.

جامه ات jámeï at thy robe.

جامه اش jámeï ash bis or her robe.

مویم mûim my hair.

مویت mûit thy hair.

مویش mûish bis or her hair.

In poetry, and sometimes in prose, the oblique cases of the personal pronouns are also expressed by ت and شن, as

خوشای شیراز و وضع بی مثالش
خداؤندان که دار از زوالش

Joy be to Shiraz and its charming borders ! O heaven, preserve it from decay.

These oblique cases are joined to any word in the sentence which the poet finds convenient ; thus in the couplet just quoted the pronoun شن it is added to زوال ; so in the following distich, ت the dative of تو to thou, is placed after the conjunction گر if.

بهی سجاده رنگین کن گرت پیر مغان گوید
که سالک بیخبر نبود زراه و رسم منزها

Tinge the sacred carpet with wine, if the master of the feast orders thee ; for he that travels is not ignorant of the ways and manners of banquet-houses.

Our reciprocal pronouns own and self are expressed in Persian by the following words, which are applicable to all persons and sexes ; as

Nom. خودش or خود	Oblique, خودرا
خوبش or خوبشتن	خوبشتن را or خوبی

thus

thus we may use

من خود	myself.	ما خود	ourselves.
تو خود	thyself.	شما خود	yourselves.
او خود	his or herself.	ایشان خود	themselves.*

خود is also joined like the Latin ipse to every person of a verb, as

Sing.	Plur.
آمدم خود ipse veni.	آمدیم خود ipsi venimus.
آمدی خود ipse venisti	آمدیدی خود ipsi venistis.
آمد خود ipse venit.	آمدند خود ipsi venerunt.

The word خود seems to be redundant in the following beautiful lines of Sadi,

دانی چه شفت مرا ان ببلل سخري
تو خود چه آدمی کز عشق بیخبری

Dost thou know what the early nightingale said to me? “ What sort “ of man art thou, that canst be ignorant of love?”

* I here use his self and their selves instead of the corrupted words himself and themselves; in which usage I am justified by the authority of Sidney, and of other writers in the reign of Elizabeth: self seems to have been originally a noun, and was, perhaps, a synonymous word for soul; according to Locke's definition of it, “ Self is that conscious thinking thing, which is sensible or conscious of pleasure and “ pain, capable of happiness and misery;” if this observation be just, the Arabs have exactly the same idiom, for their soul, answers precisely to our self, as صبي رمي نفسه في نهر Nafs في نهر “ a boy threw his self into a river.”

When خود is used as a pronoun possessive, it answers to the Greek $\sigma\varphi\acute{e}tis pos$, and signifies my, thy, our, your, his or her, and their, according to the person and number of the principal verb in the sentence ; as in this couplet of Hafiz,

مکرم راز دل شیدایی خود
کس نبی بینم زخاّص و عامرا

I see no man, either among the nobles or the populace, to whom I can trust the secret of my afflicted heart.

The demonstrative pronouns are the following :

این this.

Sing. این this.

Oblique cases, آینرا

Plur. اینان these.

آینانرا or اینها

or آینهارا

آن that.

Sing. آن that.

Oblique cases, آنرا

Plur. آنان those.

آنانرا or آنها

or آنهارا

When این een is prefixed to a noun, so as to form one word, it is frequently changed into ام im, as امشب imsheb to-night ;

تعالی

تعالی الله چه دولت دارم امشب
 که آمد ناکهان دلدارم امشب

Heaven ! how great is my happiness this night ! for this night my beloved is come unexpectedly !

and امروز imrûz to-day ;

روز عیش و طرب و عید صیامست امروز
 کام دل حاصل وایام بکامست امروز

“ This day is a day of mirth, and joy, and the feast of spring ; this day
 “ my heart obtains its desires, and fortune is favourable.”

The words آن and آن از prefixed to pronouns personal, change them into possessives, and are read with a short vowel, ani to or ez ani to, i. e. thine, as

ماه گنعان من مسند مصر آن تو شد

O my moon of Canaan (O Joseph) the throne of Egypt is thine.

The relatives and interrogatives are supplied by the invariable pronouns آن ke and آن che, of which the former usually relates to persons, and the latter to things : in the oblique cases of these pronouns the final ئ is absorbed before the syllable را, as Nom.

Nom. که *who.*Oblique, کجا *whom.چه *which.چرا which.

کی چی and کی are interrogatives, and are very often joined to the verb, as کیست who is it? چیست what is it?

یا رب آن شاهوش ماه رخ زهره جبین
در یکتای که و کوهر یکدانه کیست

O heaven ! whose precious pearl, and whose inestimable jewel is that royal maid, with a cheek like the moon, and a forehead like Venus ?

کدام kudám is also an interrogative pronoun, as میخواره و سرگشته و رزدیم و نظر باز

و انکس که چنین نیست در این شهر کدام است

We are fond of wine, wanton, dissolute, and with rolling eyes ; but who is there in this city that has not the same vices ?

Our soever is expressed in Persian by هران heran or هر her prefixed to the relatives, as هر که and هر نکه whoever.

OF VERBS.

The Persians have active and neuter verbs like other nations; but many of their verbs have both an active and neuter sense, which can be determined only by the construction. These verbs have properly but one conjugation, and but three changes of tense; the imperative, the aorist, and the preterite; all the other tenses being formed by the help of the particles می and هستن or بودن, or of the auxiliary verbs بودن to be, and خواستن to be willing. The passive voice is formed by adding the tenses of the verb substantive شدن to the participle preterite of the active; خوانده شد it was read. The inflexions of these auxiliaries must be here exhibited, and must be learned by heart, as they will be very useful in forming the compound tenses of the active verbs.

بودن to be.

The present tense of this verb is irregular, but very easy, and must be carefully remembered, as it is the model for the variations of persons in all tenses.

Indicative Mood, Present Tense.

Sing.	ام I am.
	ای thou art.
	است he is.

Plur.	ایم we are.
	اید ye are.
	اين they are.

This

This tense joined to nouns, pronouns, or adjectives often coalesces with them, and loses the initial l elif; as with pronouns,

Sing. منم ego sum.
اوست ille est.

Plur. مایم nos sumus.
شماید vos estis.

With adjectives,

شادم I am glad.
شادی thou art glad.
شادست he is glad.

شادیم we are glad.
شادید you are glad.
شادند they are glad.

The negatives are formed by prefixing ن or نہ, as ام I am not, &c.
but نہ نه است is commonly written نیست there is not, as راهیست راه عشق که هیچش کناره نیست

آنجا جز آنکه جان بسپارند چاره نیست

“ The path of love is a path to which there is no end, in which there “ is no remedy for lovers, but to give up their souls.” Hafiz.

Second Present from the defective فستن to be.

Sing. هستم I am.
هستی thou art.
هست he is.

Plur. فستیم we are.
فستید you are.
فستند they are.

Preterite.

OF TENSES.

It will here be useful to exhibit an analysis of all the tenses of a Persian verb, and to show in what manner they are deduced from the infinitive, which is properly considered by the oriental grammarians as the spring and fountain of all the moods and tenses, and which, therefore, is called in Arabick مصدر másdar or the source.

All regular infinitives end in يدن, as رسانیدن to arrive, گلیدن to grieve, ترسیدن to fear.

The third person of the preterite is formed by rejecting ن from the infinitive, نالید, he arrived, نالید, he grieved, ترسید, he feared.

شقم مشکر صبا زچن رسید
يا کاروان مشک زراه ختن رسید

I said, is the zephyr breathing from the garden? or is a caravan of musk coming from Khoten?

The letter ب prefixed to this tense is often redundant, as جامهرا ببرد و برفت be took the mantle, and departed.

From

From the preterite is formed the imperfect tense by prefixing the particles می or همی he was or میرسید he was arriving.

In the third persons the imperfect tense is sometimes expressed by adding ی to the preterite, as نالیدندی he was grieving, they were grieving ; this form is very common in prose, as

بطری و نشاط مشغول بودندی و نگهه ترانه از زیان چنگ و چغانه اشتباع نپوونندی

“ They were immersed in pleasure and delight, and were constantly “ listening to the melody of the lute, and of the cymbal.”

The same letter ی added to the first and third persons of the past tense forms the potential mood, as نالیدمی I might, could, should, or would grieve, نالیدیمی we might, &c. grieve; so Ferdusi in a love-song,

شبی در برت شر بر آسودمی
سر فخر بر اسبان سودمی

“ If I could sleep one night on thy bosom, I should seem to touch the “ sky with my exalted head.”

and Hafiz,

آن طرّه که هر جعدش صد نافه چین ارزه
خوش بودی اکر بودی بیوش از خوشبوی

“ Those locks, each curl of which is worth a hundred musk-bags of VOL. II. z “ China,

" China, would be sweet indeed if their scent proceeded from sweet" ness of temper."

The participle preterite is formed from the infinitive by changing ن into س، as پاشیده و رسیده arrived, sprinkled; from which participle and the auxiliary verbs بودن and شدن are made several compound tenses, and the passive voice ; as پاشیده بودم I have sprinkled, I had sprinkled, پاشیده شدم I shall have sprinkled, پاشیده باشم I was sprinkled.

هم جان بدان دو نرکس جادو سپردہ ایم
هم دل بدان دو سنبل هندو نهاده ایم

We have given up all our souls to those two enchanting narcissus's (eyes), we have placed all our hearts on those two black hyacinths (locks of hair).

The Persians are very fond of the participle preterite; and it is very often used by their elegant writers to connect the members of a sentence, and to suspend the sense till the close of a long period: in poetry it sometimes is used like the third person preterite of a verb, as in this fine couplet :

فروغ جام و قدح نور ماه پوشیده
عذار مغبیشان راه آفتاب زده

" The brightness of the cup and the goblet obscures the light of the moon; the cheeks of the young cup-bearers steal the splendour of the sun."

In the ode from which this couplet is taken every distich ends with the word زد for زد be struck.

In composition the infinitive is contracted by rejecting ن, as خواهم شد I will be; so Hafiz,

نفس باد صبا مشک فشان خواهد شد
عالم پیر دشک باره جوان خواهد شد

The breath of the western gale will soon shed musk around; the old world will again be young.

This short infinitive is likewise used after impersonal verbs, as توان کرد it is possible to do; باید کرد it is necessary to do; thus Hafiz, the Anacreon of Persia,

بسعی خود نتوان برده کوهر مقصود
خیال تست که این کار بیحواله برآید

“ It is impossible to attain the jewel of thy wishes by thy own endeavours; it is a vain imagination to think that it will come to thee without assistance.”

and the poet quoted in the history of Cazvini,

روزگار نامه شردار شباست
برآنجا شردار نبکو باید کماشت

“ The

“ The life of man is a journal, in which he must write only good “ actions.”

The imperative is regularly formed by throwing away the termination ن from the infinitive, as رین arrive thou, from رسیدن to arrive : the letter ب is often prefixed to the imperative, as بشو say thou ; بترس fear thou ; so Ferdusi in his noble satire against a king who had flighted him ;

ایا شاه مُحَمَّد کشورکشای
زمن گُل نترسی بترس از خدای
خیزپدی چرا خاطر تیز من
ترسیدی از تیغ خون ریز من

O king Mahmud, thou conqueror of regions, if thou fearest not me, at least fear God ! why hast thou inflamed my wrathful temper ? dost thou not dread my blood-dropping sword ?

It must be here observed, that the negatives آن and ج are changed in the imperative into هم and هم، as میپرس do not ask ;

درد عشقی کشیده ام که میپرس
زهر هجری چشیده ام که میپرس

“ I have felt the pain of love ; ask not of whom : I have tasted the “ poison of absence ; ask not from whom.”

Before verbs beginning with ل elif the letters ج ~ و are changed into آر آر بیار are used before بی and می می نی do not bring;

ساقیا ساغر شراب بیار
یکدو ساغر شراب ناب بیار

“ Boy, bring a cup of wine ; bring a few more cups of pure wine.”

کو شمع میارید در این جمع که امشب
در مجلس ما ماه رخ دوست تمام است
در مجلس ما عطر میامیز که جانرا
هر دم زسر زلف تو خوش بوی مشام است

“ Say, bring no tapers into our assembly, for this night the moon of my beloved's cheek is at its full in our banquet ; sprinkle no perfume in our apartment, for to our minds the fragrance that constantly proceeds from thy locks is sufficiently pleasing.”

The contracted participle used in compound epithets is exactly the same with the imperative, as اثکیز excite thou, عشرت اثکیز mirth-exciting ; گشتنی افروز inflame thou, ریسانده world-inflaming, Getiasfrose, the name of a fairy in the Persian tales translated by Colonel Dow.

The participles of the present tense are formed by adding ان ان or هه to the imperative, as رسما رسمنده arriving ; which last participle is often used for a noun of action, as بازندہ a player.

From the imperative also is formed the conjunctive tense or aorist by adding to it the usual personal termination, as from آیی come thou, آیم I may or will come.

چو آفتاب می از مشرق پیاله برآید
زیاغ عارض ساقی هزار لاله برآید

“ When the sun of the wine shall rise from the east of the cup, a thousand tulips will spring from the garden of the cup-bearer's cheek.”

By this affected, yet lively allegory, the poet only means that “ the cup-bearer will blush when he shall present the wine to the guests.”

For the most part this form of the Persian verb, which the grammarians properly call the aorist, or indefinite tense, answers to the potential mood of other languages, and is governed by conjunctions as in Latin and English: this will be seen more clearly in the following example taken from the life of Nader Shah;

بر دانایان رموز آکاهی و دقیقه یابان حکمت‌های آله‌ی واضح است

“ It is evident to the discerning and intelligent part of mankind, that, “ whenever the affairs of the world are thrown into confusion, and “ fortune favours the desires of the unjust, the great Disposer of “ events, in the effusion of his endless mercy, selects some fortunate “ hero, whom he supports with his eternal favour : and whom he “ commands to heal with the balm of benevolence the wounds of
 “ the afflicted, and to sweeten the bitter draught of their misfortunes “ with the honey of justice.”

in which period the words پردازد kárda, کند kund, پردازد perdáza, کردن kerdán, سازد sázá, کردیدن kerdídén, are the aorists of کردن kerden, ساختن sákhten, پرداختن perdákhten, governed by the conjunction که that.

The present tense is formed by prefixing هبی hibí or می mi to the aorist, as میدانم Mídánam, میدانی Mídáni, thou knowest, I know, he knoweth:

ای باد صبا بکذر آنجا که تو میدانی
 و احوال دلم به شو پیدا که تو میدانی

O gentle gale, pass by the place which thou knowest, and disclose the secrets of my heart which thou knowest.

زین خوش رقم که بر شل رخسار میکشی
 خط بر صحنه شل کلزار میکشی

With

With that sweet hue which thou bearest on the rose of thy cheek, thou drawest a line over the face of the garden-rose.

The particles هبی می and هبی می are sometimes joined to the verb, and sometimes separated from it, according to the pleasure of the writer, as

بعیش کوش که تا چشم میزني برهمن
خران همیرسد و نویهار می کذرد

Pursue thy pleasures eagerly, for while thou canst close thine eye, the autumn is approaching, and the fresh season is passing away.

The letter ۴ prefixed to the aorist restrains it to the future tense, as طوطی نامه or برسم I will arrive; thus Nakshabi in his work called طوطی or The Tales of a Parrot, Night 35,

نخشبي جد و جهد باید کرد
چونکه مردم بیار خود برسد
هر که در کارها کند جهدي
عاقبت بر مراد خود برسد

O Nakshabi, a man who desires to enjoy his beloved must be active and diligent: whoever labours diligently in his affairs, will at last attain the object of his wishes.

After having given this analysis of the Persian verb, it will be necessary to add a table of the moods and tenses as they answer to those of European languages.

OF IRREGULAR VERBS.

In the ancient language of Persia there were very few or no irregularities : the imperative, which is often irregular in the modern Persian, was anciently formed from the infinitive by rejecting the termination يدن eeden ; for originally all infinitives ended in ن den, till the Arabs introduced their harsh consonants before that syllable, which obliged the Persians, who always affected a sweetness of pronunciation, to change the old termination of some verbs into تن ten, and by degrees the original infinitives grew quite obsolete : yet they still retain the ancient imperatives and the aorists which are formed from them. This little irregularity is the only anomalous part of the Persian language, which, nevertheless, far surpasses in simplicity all other languages, ancient or modern, of which I have any knowledge. This remark on the formation of the Persian imperatives from an obsolete verb, may be useful to those who are curious in ancient dialects ; as it will enable them to trace out a considerable part of the old Persian language or Pehlevian پهلوی, which has the same relation to the modern دری or Persick, as the Icelandick has to the Danish, and the Saxon to the English ; and which was, perhaps, spoken in the age of Xenophon. This is the language in which the works of Zeratusht or Zoroaster are preserved, preserved, and into which the fables of Bidpai or Pilpai were first translated from the Indian: but as we rejected the Saxon alphabet to admit the Roman; so the Persians, when they embraced the religion of Mahomet, adopted the characters in which the Alcoran was written, and incorporated into their language a multitude of Arabick words and phrases.

The Persian verbs that form their imperatives, and consequently their aorists, from obsolete infinitives, may be distributed into the following classes: the old infinitives may be found by adding يدن eeden to the imperatives, and the aorists by adding to them the personal terminations.

It is better for me not to turn my face from patience ; it may happen that I may find what my heart desires.

The contracted participles, as it has been before observed, are of great use in the composition of words, as انکیزت عشرت mirth-exciting, from عشرت which in Arabick signifies mirth, and the participle of انکیختن to excite : but of these elegant compounds I shall speak at large in the next section.

OF THE COMPOSITION

AND

DERIVATION OF WORDS.

ONE of the chief beauties of the Persian language is the frequent use of compound adjectives ; in the variety and elegance of which it surpasses not only the German and English, but even the Greek. These compounds may be multiplied without end according to the pleasure and taste of the writer ; they are formed either by a noun and the contracted participle, as دل غریب or دل فریب heart-alluring, or by prefixing an adjective to a noun, as خوشبوی sweet-smelling ; or, lastly, by placing one substantive before another, as شلعاذر rose-cheeked.

Since one of the nouns in a compound word is often borrowed from the Arabick, a man who wishes to read the Persian books with satisfaction, ought to have a competent knowledge of both languages. I shall subjoin a list of the most elegant compounds that I can recollect; but I must express most of them in English by circumlocutions; for though we have some compound epithets which give a grace to our poetry, yet in general the genius of our language seems averse to them. Thus آهو چشم from a fawn, and چشم an eye, a Persian epithet, which answers to the Greek ἀλικῶπις, seems very harsh in English, if we translate it fawn-eyed; Lady Wortley Montague's translation * stag-eyed is not much better, and conveys a different idea from what the eastern poets mean to express by this epithet.

 پاکدامن pakdámen with unblemished virtue.
 خوب آواز khob avâz with a pleasing voice.
 خوب رایحه khob rayhe with a pleasant scent.
 خوش الحان khosh elhân with sweet notes;
 an epithet of the nightingale, as in this elegant distich, رونق عهد شبابست دکتر بستانرا
 میرسد مژده شکل بلبل خوش الحانرا

The brightness of youth again returns to the bowers ; the rose sends joyful tidings to the nightingale with sweet notes.

خوش رفتار khosh refâtâr walking gracefully.
 شیرینکار shireenkâr with gentle manners.
 شیرین دهن shireen dihen with a sweet mouth.

The compounds of this form are very numerous, and may be invented at pleasure.

III.

Adjectives compounded of two nouns.

Each of these epithets is a short simile.

پری روی peri ruyi } peri peyker } with the face of an angel.

پری رخسار peri rukhsâr with the cheeks of an angel.

شکر لب sheker leb with lips of sugar.

طوطی ٹفتار tuti guftâr talking like a parrot.

سمن بوی semen bûyi with the scent of jessamine.

سمن برس semen ber with a bosom like jessamine.

گلروج gulrokh with cheeks like roses.

یاقوت لب yakût leb with lips like rubies.

شیر دل sheer dil with the heart of a lion.

When we consider the vast number of epithets that may be compounded after these three forms, and that those epithets are often used for substantives without a noun being expressed, we must allow that the Persian language is the richest in the world. These compounds are thought so beautiful by the Persian poets, that they sometimes fill a distich with them, as

ماه روی مشکبوی دلکشی
جان خرای دلغزبی مهوشی

A dams^{el} with a face like the moon, scented like musk, a ravisher of hearts, delighting the soul, seducing the senses, beautiful as the full moon.

The particle هم hem together, prefixed to nouns, forms another elegant class of compounds implying society and intimacy, as هپاشیان hemâshiyán of the same nest.

هباہنگ hemâheng of the same inclination.

هبنزم hembezм of the same banquet.

هپیستر hempister lying on the same pillow.

همخوابه hemkhâbeh sleeping together.

همبدم hemdem breathing together, that is, very intimately connected.

The particles نا not, کم little, and بی without, are placed before nouns to denote privation, as نا امید ná uméed hopeless, نا شناس ná shinâs ignorant, نا شکفته ná shukûfteh a rose not yet blown; کمبها kembéha بی باک kem beha of little value, کم عقل kem akil with little sense ; bee bâk fearless, بی امان bee amân merciless : this particle is often joined to Arabick verbals, as بی تامّل bee támmul inconsiderate, بی ترتیب bee terteeb irregular.

Example.

بعد ازین نام ترا در هر کجا خواهم نوشت
 بی حقیقت بی مروت بی وفا خواهم نوشت

Henceforth, wherever I write thy name, I will write false, unkind, and faithless.

Names of agents are generally participles active in هنده, as سازنده fazéndeh a composer; or they are formed by adding گار gár, or گشتر gáshér, to a substantive, as زرگار a goldsmith, قلمبگار a writer, باغبان bân, to a gardener.

Nouns of action are often the same with the third person preterite of a verb, as آمد و شد coming and going, فروخت buying and selling, خرید buying, و فروخت selling.

Adjectives implying possession or plenty are formed by adding to nouns the terminations سار sár, مند mend, ناک nák, وار var or ور ver, as کین keen, ساریان báshful, غمگین sorrowful, شرمیان learned, دانشپند learned, زهرناک venomous, امیدوار hopeful, جانور having life.

The Arabick words ذو صاحب zu, اهل ehl prefixed to nouns form likewise adjectives of possession, as ذو جلال majestic, dignitate præditus, اهل حکمت beautiful, venustate præditus, اهل زوج wife, wife, sapientiâ præditus. We may here observe, that the Indians use a great variety of phrases purely Arabick, some as proper names and titles of chiefs and princes, and others as epithets or constant adjuncts to substantives; such are the names شجاع الدوّله Shujaheddoula, شمس الدوّله Nejmeddoula, شرم الدوّله Shemseddoula, نجم الدوّله Serájeddoula, which signify in Arabick the force, the star, the sun, and the lamp of the state; such also is the title which they gave Lord Clive, زردة الپلك Zubdatulmulk the flower of the kingdom; in the same manner they seldom mention the province of Bengálá without adding, by way of epithet, جنت البلاد jennetulbelâd the paradise of regions, an Arabick title given to that province by آورنگزیب زیرنگ آورنگزیب Au-rangzeeb.

Some adjectives are formed from nouns by adding ين as آتشین fiery, زمردین golden, زرین made of emeralds.

The termination انه added to substantives forms adverbs that imply a kind of similitude, as دانایانه prudently, like a prudent man, مردانه courageously, like a man of courage.

Adjectives of similitude are formed by adding سا fa, or وش like, to substantives, as عنبير آسا like ambergris, مشك آسا like musk, غنچه وش like paradise; سحر سا like magick; قمر وش like a rose-bud, or مهوش like the moon.

Some adjectives and adverbs are formed by nouns doubled with the letter ل elif between them, as لباب سراسر up to the brim, from the beginning to the end, رنشارتک چوناکون many-coloured.

Example.

Example.

روضه ماء نهرها سلسال
 دوحة سجع طيرها موزون
 آن پر از لالهای رئشارنک
 واين پر از میوهای گوناگون

A garden, in which were the clearest rivulets, an orchard in which the notes of the birds were melodious ; the one was full of many-coloured tulips, the other full of fruits with various hues.

The two first lines of this tetraastich are in pure Arabick.

The termination فام fām, as well as گون goon, denotes colour, as گلگون or گلگون rose-coloured, زمرد فام emerald-coloured.

From the compounds above mentioned, or any other adjectives, compounded or simple, may be formed abstract substantives by adding ی, as

بازی	بازی
bashful	bashfulness

دانشمندی	دانشمندی
learned	learning

سیاه	سیاهی
black	blackness

If the adjective end in ؽ, the abstract is made by changing ؽ into کی as بیکانکی novelty, کی as بیکانه new.

Other abstracts are made either by adding ار ar to the third person of the past tense, as گفتار sight, گفتار speech, دیدار motion; or by adding ش ازمایش متابیش اسایش praise, ش to the contracted participle, as rest, temptation.

The letter l elif added to some adjectives makes them abstract nouns, as شرم warm, شرمات warmth.

Nouns denoting the place of any thing are formed by the terminations istán, dán, zár, gah, or já, as نگارستان negaristán * a gallery of pictures.

بهارستان behâristân the mansion of the spring.

گلستان gulistân a bower of roses.

شکردان shekerdân }
or شکرستان shekeristân } a chest of sugar.

سنبلستان sumbulistân a garden of hyacinths.

شیرستان sheeristân the country of lions.

جنستان ginnistân fairy-land.

گلزار gulzár a bed of roses.

لالهزار lalehzár a border of tulips.

عبادتگاه ibâdetgáh a place of worship.

خواب جا khab já the place of sleep, a bed.

The learner must remember, that when these compounds are used as

* The five first of these names are the titles of as many excellent books: the Beharistán and Gulistán are poetical compositions by Jâmi and Sâdi; the Negaristán is a very entertaining miscellany in prose and verse; and the Shekerdân is a miscellaneous work in Arabick upon the history of Egypt: as to the Sumbulistán, I have seen it quoted, but recollect neither the subject, nor the name of its author. The Greeks sometimes gave these flowery titles to their books; thus Pamphilus published a treatise on different subjects, which he called Αιθηπάτη, چمنزار a meadow; and Apóstolius compiled an Ἰωνά, بنفشه زار a garden of violets, or a collection of proverbs and sentences.

distinct substantives, the termination اں of the plural, and اے of the oblique case, must be added to the end of them, as Sing. Nom. شیرین دھن { شیرین دھن a girl with sweet lips.

Obl. کشیرین دھنرا { کشیرین دھنرا

Plur. Nom. شیرین دھنان { شیرین دھنان girls with sweet lips.
Obl. کشیرین دھنانرا { کشیرین دھنانرا

The Persian verbs are compounded either with nouns and adjectives, or with prepositions and other particles. The verbs chiefly used in the first sort of composition are کردن to do, آوردن to bring, داشتن to have, ساختن to make, فرمودن to order, خوردن to devour, زدن to strike, بردن to bear, نمودن to show, گشتن or شکردن to become, آمدن to come, یافتن to see, گرفتن to take, and یافتن to find. The most common of these is کردن which is joined in all its inflexions to a multitude of Arabick gerunds or verbal nouns, as well as to Persian adjectives and participles, as اقرار کردن ikrár kerden to confess.

انتظار کردن intizár kerden to expect.

رجوع کردن rujû kerden to return.

تمام کردن temâm kerden to complete.

پر کردن por kerden to fill.

ترک کردن terk kerden to leave.

طلوع کردن tulû kerden to rise (oriri).

Thus Hafiz,

صلحت ساقیا قدحی پر شراب کن
 دور نلک درنگ ندارد شتاب کن
 خوشید می زمشرف ساغر طلوع گرد
 شربک عیش میطلبی ترک خواب کن

It is morning ; boy, fill the cup with wine : the rolling heaven makes no delay, therefore hafzen. The sun of the wine rises from the east of the cup : if thou seekest the delights of mirth, leave thy sleep.

- | | | |
|--------------|------------------|--------------------------|
| هجوم آوردن | hujúm âverden | to assault. |
| یاد آوردن | yád âverden | to remember. |
| عجب داشتن | ajeb dashten | to wonder. |
| معذور داشتن | mázúr dashten | to excuse. |
| حسد بردن | hesed berden | to envy. |
| اعتقاد بردن | itikád berden | to believe. |
| غم خوردن | ghemm khorden | to grieve. |
| سوکند خوردن | seugend khorden | to swear. |
| روشن ساختن | rúshen sakhten | to enlighten. |
| تر ساختن | ter sakhten | to moisten. |
| التفات نہودن | iltifát numûden | to esteem. |
| مدهوش گشتن | medhûsh geshten | to be astonished. |
| غناک گردیدن | gemnák gerdíden | to be afflicted. |
| پدید آمدن | pedeed âmeden | to appear. |
| احسان دیدن | ihsan deedan | to be benefited. |
| پرورش یافتن | pervarish yáften | to be educated. |
| قرار گرفتن | kerár gristen | to be confirmed. |

The verbs فرمودن زدن are very frequently used in composition, as نعره زدن nâreh zeden to call aloud, فکر فرمودن زدن fikr fermûden to consider; thus Geláleddín Rúzbehár,

تا بسید تو نعره زد بلبل
هیه شکوشم چون درخت شل

While the nightingale sings thy praises with a loud voice, I am all ear like the stalk of the rose-tree.

and Hafiz,

فکر معقول بفرما شل بیخار گجاست

Consider attentively; where is a rose without a thorn?

Some of the particles, with which verbs are compounded, are significant, and others redundant and ornamental, as در آمدن der âmeden to enter.

در اوردن der âverden to carry in.

در خواستن der khâsten to require.

در یافتن der yâften to understand.

بر آمدن ber âmeden to ascend.

بر گشتن ber geshten to return.

بر آسودن ber âsfûden to rest.

بازداشتن baz dashten to with-hold.

فروه آمدن furûd âmeden to descend.

واپس داشتن vápes dashten to detain.

سر دادن ser dáden to banish, to confine to a place.

In the present tense of a compound verb the particle می is inserted between the two words of which it is composed, as پرس کردن to fill.

Sing.

Plur.

پرس می کنم I fill.	پرس می کنیم we fill.
پرس می کنی thou filleſt.	پرس می کنید you fill.
پرس می کند he fills.	پرس می کنند they fill.

Sometimes the two words of which a verb is compounded are placed at a great distance from each other, as

صبا بلطف بکو آن غزال رعنارا
که سر بکوه و بیابان تو داده مارا

“ O western breeze, say thus to yon tender fawn, thou hast confined us
“ to the hills and deserts.”

where سر داده the preterite of سر دادن to confine, reléguer, is separated by three words. The noun سر has a number of different senses, and is therefore the most difficult word in the Persian language ; it signifies the head, the top, the point, the principal thing, the air, desire, love, will, intention, &c. and sometimes its meaning is so vague that it seems a mere expletive, though the Persians undoubtedly feel its force.

There are derivative verbs in Persian, as in Hebrew and Arabick, which may be called causals; they are formed from the transitive verbs by changing اینیدن yidn into آینیدن aynidn, and sometimes into تابانیدن tābiyidn to shine. تابیانیدن tābiyānidn and رسانیدن rāsanidn to cause to arrive, to bring.

یارب آن آهوي مشکين بختن باز رسان
و آن سهي سرو خرامان بچهن باز رسان

O heaven ! bring that musky fawn back to Khoten ; bring back that tall waving cypress to its native garden.

OF PERSIAN NUMBERS.

THE numerals and invariable parts of speech belong more properly to a vocabulary than to a grammar ; but for the use of such as will take the trouble to learn them by heart, I will here subjoin the most common of them :

۱	ا	يک	one.
۲	ب	دو	two.
۳	ج	سه	three.
۴	د	چهار	four.

Alas ! alas ! that so bright a moon should be hidden by the clouds !

نغان

fugán and افسوس efsús are likewise interjections that express grief : thus in a tetraštich by the sultan Togrul Ben Erlan,

دیروز چنان وصال جان فروزی
و امروز چنین غرایق عالم سوزی
افسوس که بر دفتر عبرم ایام
آنرا روزی نویسد اینرا روزی

Yesterday the presence of my beloved delighted my soul ; and to-day her absence fills me with bitterness ; alas ! that the hand of fortune should write joy and grief alternately in the book of my life !

This great hero and poet was the last king of the Seljukian race : he was extremely fond of Ferdusi's poetry, and in the battle in which he lost his life, he was heard to repeat aloud the following verses from the Shahnáma :

چو برخاست از لشکرکش کرد
رخ نامداران ما کشت زرد
من این کرز بکزخم برداشتم
سپهرا هم انجای بندداشتم
خروشی برآورده اسمیم چو پیل
زمین شد پریشان چو دریای نیل*

When the dust arose from the approaching army, the cheeks of our heroes turned pale ; but I raised my battle-ax, and with a single stroke opened a passage for my troops : my steed raged like a furious elephant, and the plain was agitated like the waves of the Nile.

* These lines are quoted by d'Herbelot, p. 1029, but they are written differently in my manuscript of Ferdusi, which I have here followed.

OF THE PERSIAN SYNTAX.

THE construction of the Persian tongue is very easy, and may be reduced to a few rules, most of which it has in common with other languages. The nominative is usually placed before the verb, with which it agrees in number and person, as in this pious sentence of a Persian philosopher,

از بھر چه آمد، اشک آمد که علم اوّلین و اخرين بیاموزي اين راه روا نیست اين هبھ خالق داند و اکر آمد که اورا جوبي آنجا که اوّل قیام بر شرفتني او خود آنجا بود*

Wherfore art thou come? if thou art come to learn the science of ancient and modern times, thou hast not taken the right path: doth not the Creator of all things know all things? and if thou art come to seek him, know that where thou first waft fixed, there he was present.

yet it is remarkable, that many Arabick plurals are considered in Persian as nouns of the singular number, and agree as such with verbs and adjectives, as

از آمدن بهار از رفتن دی
اوراق حیات ما میکرد طی

By the approach of spring, and the return of December, the leaves of our life are continually folded.

* See the Bibliotheque Orientale, p. 950.

where اوراق the plural of ورق a leaf, governs میکرد in the singular.

There is another strange irregularity in the Persian syntax ; the cardinal numbers are usually joined to nouns and verbs in the singular, as هزار یک روز a thousand and one days.

تسیم زلفت اشک بگذرد بتربت حافظا
زخاک شالبدش صد هزار لاله برآید

If the gale shall waft the fragrance of thy locks over the tomb of Hafiz, a hundred thousand flowers will spring from the earth that hides his corse.

These idioms, however, are by no means natural to the Persian, but seem borrowed from the Arabs, who say, الف ليلة و ليلة a thousand and one nights. In Arabick too a noun of the plural number, if it signify a thing without life, requires a verb in the singular, and that of the feminine gender, for the Arabick verbs have distinct genders like nouns, as

خرّت الانهار والاغصان مالت للسجود

The rivers murmured, and the branches were bent to adore their Maker.

فاضت اقداحهم كاحداتي

Their cups overflowed with wine, and my eyes with tears.

Most active verbs require the oblique case in را after them, as ا شکر آن ترک شیرازی بدست ارد دل مارا

بخارا هندویش بخشم سمرقند و بخارا را

If that fair damsel of Shiraz would accept my heart, I would give for the black mole on her cheek the cities of Samarcand and Bokhára.

It has before been observed (see page 147) that the را is omitted if the noun be indefinite or general, جام پر کن fill a cup; but that it is inserted, if the thing be particular and limited, جام را پر کر د be filled the cup; examples of this occur in almost every page.

All nouns or verbs by which any profit or acquisition is implied govern the oblique case, as

بلی هر جا که شود مهر آشکارا
سہارا چز نہان بودن چہ بارا

Yes! whenever the sun appears, what advantage can there be to
* Soha, but his being hidden?

The following remark relates to the position rather than to the syntax: in a period of two or more members, each of which might end with an auxiliary verb, the first of them commonly contains the verb, which is understood in the rest, as

* Soha is the Arabick name for a very small and obscure star in the constellation of the Great Bear.

مضـرـت تعـجـيل بـسـيـارـت و منـفـعـت صـبـر و سـكـون بـيـشـبار
The disadvantages of haste are many, and the advantages of patience and deliberation (are) innumerable.

The adjective is placed after its substantive, and the governing noun is prefixed to that which it governs, as روی خوب a beautiful face, بوی کل the scent of a rose; but if this order be inverted a compound adjective is formed, as خوب روی fair-faced, rose-scented.

Conjunctions which express conjecture, condition, will, motive, &c.
require the conjunctive, or potential mood, as شـگـر بـدـانـسـتـبـی كـه فـرـقـتـ توـ

اـيـنـچـنـيـن صـعـبـ باـشـدـ وـ دـلـسـوـزـ
اـزـ توـ دـورـيـ نـجـسـتـمـيـ يـكـدـمـ
وـزـ توـ غـايـبـ نـبـودـمـيـ يـكـروـزـ

If I had known that thy absence would have been so sorrowful and afflicting, I would not have departed from thee a single day; I would not have left thee a single moment.

Prepositions and interjections are fixed to nouns in the nominative case, as

شـنـوـهـ اـمـ كـه دـوـ كـبـوـتـرـ باـ يـكـدـيـشـرـ درـ آـشـيـانـهـ دـمـسـازـ وـ دـرـ

I have

I have heard that two doves lived together in one nest, and whispered their secrets in one chamber ; the dust of jealousy had never sullied their minds, and the anguish of misfortune had never pierced their hearts.

پرده داری میکند در قصر قیصر عنکبوت
بومی نوبت * میزند بر کنبد افراصیاب

The spider holds the veil in the palace of Cæsar ; the owl stands sentinel on the watch-tower of Afrasiab.

These are the principal rules that I have collected for the Persian language ; but rules alone will avail but little, unless the learner will exemplify them in his own researches : the only office of a grammarian is to open the mine of literature, but they who wish to possess the gems must endeavour to find them by their own labours.

* نوبت is an Arabick word signifying a turn, a change, a watch, excubiae: hence نوبت زدن in Persian, and نوبت چالیق in Turkish, signify to relieve the guards by the sounds of drums and trumpets. This office is given by the poet to the owl, as that of پرده دار or chamberlain is elegantly assigned to the spider. Some copies have نوخت instead of which reading would make very good sense, but destroys the beauty of the allusion.

A literal translation of the foregoing Fable.

THE GARDENER AND THE NIGHTINGALE.

It is related that a husbandman had a sweet and pleasant orchard, and a garden more fresh than the bower of Irem. The air of it gave mildness to the gales of the spring, and the scent of its herbs that refreshed the spirits, conveyed perfume to the very soul.

VERSES.

A bower like the garden of youth, a bed of roses bathed in the waters of life, the notes of its nightingales raising delight ; its fragrant gale shedding perfume.

And in one corner of his garden there was a rose bush fresher than the shrub of desire, and more lofty than the branch of the tree of mirth. Every morning on the top of the rose bush the rose blossomed, coloured like the cheek of heart-alluring damsels with gentle minds, and the face of lily-bosomed maids scented like jessamine. The gardener began to show an extreme fondness for these excellent roses, and said,

A DISTICH.

The nightingale, if he see the rose, becomes intoxicated ; he lets go from his hand the reins of prudence.

The gardener viewing the scattered condition of the rose-leaves, tore with the hand of confusion the collar of patience, and rent the mantle of his heart with the piercing thorn of uneasiness. The next day he found the same action repeated, and the flames of wrath occasioned by the loss of his roses parrot, and said, Oh, Sir, for what cause hast thou imprisoned me? for what reason hast thou resolved to distress me? if thou formest the desire of hearing my songs, my own nest is in thy garden, where in the morning thy bower shall be the house of my musick; but if thou hast another idea, inform me of what thou hast in thy mind (an Arabick phrase).

The gardener said, Dost thou not know how thou hast spoiled my fortune, and how often thou hast distressed me with the loss of my favorite rose? it is right that thy action should be requited, and that thou being separated from thy friends and family, and secluded from all joy and diversions, shouldst mourn in the corner of a prison; whilst I, afflicted with the anguish of separation from my darling flowers, weep in the cottage of care.

A DISTICH OF HAFIZ.

Mourn, O nightingale! if with me thou regrettest the loss of thy friend, for we are two mournful lovers, and our employment is weeping.

The nightingale said, Depart from that resolution, and consider, that if I am imprisoned for such an offence as tearing a rose, what will be thy punishment if thou tearest a heart asunder?

VERSES.

He that formed the sky by exact measure, knows the right rewards for good and evil; whoever does well, good will come to him; and if he does ill, evil will attend him.

این سخن بر دل دهقان کارکر آمد، بلبل را آزاد کرد بلبل زبانی بازادی کشاد و بگفت چون با من نکوی کرده بحکم هل جزا الاحسان الا الاحسان مکافات آن باید کرد بدان که در زیر درخت که ایستاده آفتاب است پر از زر بردار و در حوابیچ خود صرف کن دهقان آن محل را بگاوید و سخن بلبل درست یافت گفت ای بلبل عجب که آفتاب زررا در زیر زمین می بینی و دام در زیر خاک ندیدی بلبل گفت تو آنرا ندانسته که

This discourse taking effect upon the heart of the gardener, he set the nightingale at liberty. The bird tuned his voice in his free state, and said, Since thou hast done me this service according to the sentence (in the Alcoran), Is there any recompense for benefits, but benefits ? it is necessary to reward thee for it. Know, that under the tree where thou standest there is a coffer full of gold ; take it, and spend it to supply thy wants.

The gardener searched the place, and found the words of the nightingale to be true ; he then said, O nightingale ! what a wonder it is, that thou couldst see the coffer of gold beneath the earth, and not discover the springe upon the ground !

The nightingale said, Dost thou not know that (an Arabick sentence) when fate descends, caution is vain ?

AN HEMISTICH.

It is impossible to contend with fate.

When the decrees of heaven are fulfilled, no light remains to the eye of understanding, and neither prudence nor wisdom bring any advantage.

عروض

OF VERSIFICATION.

THE modern Persians borrowed their poetical measures from the Arabs : they are too various and complicated to be fully explained in this grammar ; but when the learner can read the Persian poetry with tolerable ease, he may receive further information from a treatise written professedly upon versification by وحیدی Wahîdi, who was himself no contemptible poet.

There are nineteen sorts of metre which are used by the Persians, but the most common of them are بحر رجز or the iambick measure, بحر فرج or the trochaick measure, and بحر فوج a metre that consists chiefly of those compounded feet which the ancients called 'Επιτρίτες, and which are composed of iambick feet and spondees alternately, as ἄματορὲς πυέλλαρῦμ. In lyric poetry these verses are generally of twelve or sixteen syllables, as بیوی نافه کاخر صبا زان طره بکشاید

زجع د زلف مشکینش چه تاب افتاد در دلها

Bēbū nā | fē kākhēr | sēbā zān tūr | rē būcshāyēd
Zī jādī zūl | fī mūshkīnēsh | chī tāb ūftād | ū dēr dīlhā.

When the zephyr disperses the fragrance of those musky locks, what ardent desire inflames the hearts of thy admirers !

They

They sometimes consist of fourteen syllables in this form,

- - o | o - - - | - - o | o - - -

as

تا غنچه خندانت دولت بکه خواهد داد
ای شاخ شل رعنا از بهر که میروی

Tā ghūnchē | ēkhēndānēt | dēvlēt bē | kē khāhēd dād
Aī shākhī | gūlī rānā | ēz bēhrī | kē mīrūyī

Ah ! to whom will the smiling rose bud of thy lips give delight ? O sweet branch of a tender plant ! for whose use dost thou grow ?

or in this,

- - o | o - - o | o - - o | o - -

as

کوشم هبه بر قول نی و نگفت چنگست
چشم هبه بر لعل تو و گردش جامست

Gōshēm hē | mē bēr kūlī | nēy ū nāgmā | tī chēngūest
Chēshmēm hē | mē bēr lālī | tō ū ghērdē | shī jāmēst

My ear is continually intent upon the melody of the pipe, and the soft notes of the lute : my eye is continually fixed upon thy rubied lip, and the circling cup.

This kind of measure is not unlike that which Sappho uses in those elegant lines quoted by Hephestion,

Γλυκεῖα μᾶτις, οὕτοι δύναμαι κρέπειν τὸν ισθόν
Πόθω δαμεῖσα παιδὸς βραδὺν δί' Ἀφροδίται

which he scans thus,

Γλυκεῖα μᾶ | τερ, εὐτοι δύ | ναμαι ηρέκειν | τὸν ἴστον
Πέθω δεμεῖ | σα παῖδες βέα | δινάγ δι 'Α | φρεδίταν.

Other lyrick verses contain thirteen syllables in this form,

○ - ○ - | - - - | ○ - ○ - | - -

صبا به تهنيت پير ميفوش آمد
كه موسم طرب و هيش و ناز و نوش آمد

Sēbā bē tēh | neītī peēr | ī meīfōrōsh | āmēd
Kē mūsīmī | tārbū eīsh | ū nāzū nōsh | āmēd

The zephyr comes to congratulate the old keeper of the banquet-house, that the season of mirth, joy, wantonness, and wine is coming.

or,

○ - ○ - | ○ - - | ○ - ○ - | - -

as

صبا بلطف بشو آن غزال رعنارا
كه سر بکوه و بیابان تو داده مارا

Sēbā bēlūtf | bōgoū ān | găzălî rā | nārā
Kē sēr bēcoūh | vă byābān | tō dādeī | mārā

This couplet has been translated in another part of the grammar.
See p. 209.

The Persians sometimes use a measure consisting of trochees and spondees alternately, like these verses of Catullus and Aristophanes, Cras amet qui nunquam amavit, quique amavit cras amet.

"Οσις ἡμῶν τὰς Ἀθήνας ἐπεικῶφηνας βοῶν.

thus Hafiz,

ابر اذاري بر آميد باد نوروزي وزيد

Aber âzari ber âmed badi neurúzi vazeed

The vernal clouds appear, the gales of the pleasant season breathe.

But the most common Persian verse contains eleven syllables, as چونکه شل رفت و گلستان در گذشت

نشنوي زان پس زببل سر گذشت

Chúnkeh gul rest va gulistán derguzesht

Neshenvi zan pes zebulbul ferguzesht

When the roses wither, and the bower loses its sweetnes, you have no longer the tale of the nightingale.

In this last measure are written all the great Persian poems, whether upon heroick or moral subjects, as the works of Ferdúsi, and of Jámi, the Bostan of Sadi, and the Mesnavi of the excellent Geláeddín. This sort of verse answers to our common heroick rhyme, which was brought to so high a degree of perfection by Pope, and which the English poets will do well to retain, instead of adopting the less harmonious measures of other nations.

I have dwelt the longer upon the different sorts of verse used in Persia, because there are few books or even common letters written in the Persian language, which are not interspersed with fragments of poetry ; and because all the Persian verses must be read according to the pauses of scansion : thus the following elegant couplet quoted by Meninski,

تبای در چین هر تاری بود زلف ترا صد چین که سازی بر شکل سوری زسنبیل پوده چین بر چین must be pronounced,

Tebader ché | ne her tareé | buved zulfeeé | tera sad cheén
Ke fazee bér | guleé sureé | zefumbul pú | de cheen ber cheén with a strong accent upon every fourth syllable ; and it may here be observed, that the Persians, like the French, usually accent the last syllables of their words.

As to their prosody, nothing can be more easy and simple ; their vowels ! elif, و vau, and ي ya are long by nature ; the points, which they commonly suppress, are naturally short ; and every short syllable that ends with a consonant is long by position ; as شیراز Shīrāz, سنبل sūmbūl, دهان dēhān, سمن sémēn : but the Persians, like other poets, have many licences ; they often add a short vowel which does not properly belong to the word, as in the first ode of Hafiz,

ولی افتاد مشکلها vělī āftādū mūshkīlhā,
کجا دانند حال ما cūjā dānēndī hālī mā.

They also shorten some long syllables at pleasure by omitting the vowels ! elif, و vau, and ي ya ; thus بیرون beeरūn, which is a spondee, dee, becomes an iambick foot when it is written بُرُون bērūn : in the same manner دیشکر is used for بدن and دیشکر for بودن. The omission of l' elif is more common ; so ره is put for راه, and فشنان for افشنان, as in this beautiful couplet,

می خواه و تکلفشان کن از دهر چه میجویی
این شفت سحرکه کل بلبل تو چه مشکویی

“ Call for wine, and scatter flowers around ; what favour canst thou expect from fortune ? ” so spake the rose this morning ; O nightingale ! what fayest thou to her maxim ?

In which lines شکلفشان is used for شکلافشن bedding flowers, and سحرکه for سحرکه سحرکه the morning.

I shall close this section with some examples of Persian verses from the مصراع or hemistich, to the غزل or ode, which differs from the قسیده or elegy in nothing but the number of the distichs, of which the ode seldom contains fewer than five, and the elegy seldom fewer than twenty. I shall not set down these examples at random, but shall select such as are remarkable for beauty of sentiment or delicacy of expression.

مصراع AN HEMISTICH.

کل نچیند کسی که کارد خار

He that plants thorns will not gather roses.

بیت A DISTICH.

کاروان رفت و تو در خواب و بیابان در پیش
گجا روی راه زکه پرسی چکنی چون باشی

The caravan is departed, and thou sleepest ; the desert lies before thee ;
whither wilt thou go ? of whom wilt thou ask the way ? what wilt thou do ? how wilt thou exist ?

رباعی A TETRASTICH.

هنکام سپیده دم خروس سحری
دانی نجه رو هی کند نوحه کری
یعنی که نبودند در اینه صبح
کز عصر شبی کذشت و تو بیخبری

At the time that the dawn appears, dost thou know for what reason the bird of the morning complains ? He says, that it is shown in the mirror of the day, that a whole night of thy life is passed, while thou art lost in indolence.

Another.

خواهی که نباشی بغم ورنج قرین
 بشنو سخن پاکتر از در شهین
 از دشمن آزرده تغافل منهای
 و زصاحب کبر و کینه ایین منشین

Dost

Dost thou desire to be free from sorrow and pain? hear a maxim more valuable than a precious gem: Despise not thine enemy, though he be distressed; and trust not thy friend, if he be proud and malevolent.

In all the Persian elegies and odes the two first hemistichs have the same rhyme, which is continued through the whole poem at the end of every distich. A short piece of poetry, in which the two first lines do not rhyme together, is called قطعه a fragment; as this elegant fable of Sadi on the advantages of good company:

شلی خوشبوی در حمام روزی
رسید از دست محبوبی بدستم
بدو شفتم که مشکی یا عنبری
که از بوی دلاریز تو مستم
 بشقنا من شل ناجیز بودم
 ولیکن مدتی باشل نشستم
 کمال هنرمندین در من اثر کرد
 وکرنده من همان خاکم که هستم

One day, as I was in the bath, a friend of mine put into my hand a piece of scented clay*. I took it, and said to it, “Art thou musk or “ ambergris? for I am charmed with thy delightful scent.” It answered, “I was a despicable piece of clay; but I was some time in “ the company of the rose; the sweet quality of my companion was

* شل خوشبوی ghili khošbúí, a kind of unctuous clay, which the Persians perfume with essence of roses, and use in the baths instead of soap.

" communicated to me ; otherwife I should have been only a piece
" of earth, as I appear to be."

When both lines of each couplet rhyme together through a whole composition, it is called مثنوی as in the following examples :

چنین است آیین کردندہ دهر
نه لطفش بود پایدار و نه تهر
نه پورده کسرا که آخر نکشت
که در مهر نرم است و در کین درشت

Such is the nature of inconstant fortune, neither her mildness nor her violence are of long duration : she exalts no one whom she does not at last oppress ; for she is light in her affection, but most harsh in her hatred.

فریدون فرخ فرشته نبود
زمشک و زعنبر سرشته نبود
بداد و دهش یافت آن نیکوبی
تو داد و دهش کن فریدون تویی

The happy * Feridún was not an angel ; he was not formed of musk or ambergris. He gained his reputation by justice and liberality : be thou just and liberal, and thou wilt be a Feridún.

* An ancient king of Persia, highly celebrated for his eminent virtues. The learned and excellent d'Herbelot has made a mistake in his translation of these lines (see the article Farrakh in his Bibliothèque Orientale) for not recollecting the sense of فرخ HAPPY, he made a proper name of it, and tells us that Farrakh was a man whom the Persians consider as a perfect model of justice and magnanimity.

 همی شفت از میان موج تشویر
 مرا بکذار و دست یار من شیر
 درین شققن جهان بروی دراشفت
 شنیدندش که جان می داد و می شفت
 حدیث عشق از آن بطال منیوش
 که در سختی کند یار فراموش

There was an affectionate and amiable youth, who was betrothed to a beautiful girl. I have read, that as they were failing in the great sea, they fell together into a whirlpool. When a mariner went to the young man that he might catch his hand, and save him from perishing in that unhappy juncture ; he called aloud, and pointed to his mistress from the midst of the waves ; “Leave me, and take the “hand of my beloved.” The whole world admired him for that speech ; and when he was expiring he was heard to say ; “Learn “not the tale of love from that wretch who forgets his beloved in “the hour of danger.” ”

These examples will, I hope, be sufficient to undeceive those who think that the Asiatick poetry consists merely in lofty figures and flowery descriptions.

descriptions. There is scarce a lesson of morality or a tender sentiment in any European language, to which a parallel may not be brought from the poets of Asia. The verses of eleven syllables, which are used in the great Persian poems, always rhyme together in couplets. It is unnecessary in this section to give an example of the Persian قصیده or elegy, as it differs only in its length from the غزل or ode, except that the Casfideh often turns upon lofty subjects, and the Gazal comprises for the most part the praises of love and merriment, like the lighter odes of Horace and Anacreon. The most elegant composers of these odes are جامی Jâmi and حافظ Hafiz, each of whom has left an ample collection of his lyrick poems. I may confidently affirm that few odes of the Greeks or Romans upon similar subjects are more finely polished than the songs of these Persian poets: they want only a reader that can see them in their original dress, and feel their beauties without the disadvantage of a translation. I shall transcribe the first ode of Hafiz that offers itself, out of near three hundred that I have paraphrased: when the learner is able to understand the images and allusions in the Persian poems, he will see a reason in every line why they cannot be translated literally into any European language.

The rose is not sweet without the cheek of my beloved ; the spring is not sweet without wine.

The borders of the bower, and the walks of the garden, are not pleasant without the notes of the nightingale.

The motion of the dancing cypresses and of the waving flowers is not agreeable without a mistress whose cheeks are like tulips.

The presence of a damsel with sweet lips and a rosy complexion is not delightful without kisses and dalliance.

The rose-garden and the wine are sweet, but they are not really charming without the company of my beloved.

All the pictures that the hand of art can devise are not agreeable without the brighter hues of a beautiful girl.

Thy life, O Hafiz, is a trifling piece of money, it is not valuable enough to be thrown away at our feast.

The last distich alludes to the Asiatick custom of throwing money among the guests at a bridal feast, or upon any other extraordinary occasion: the Persians call this money نیسار nisār, and him who collects it نشارچین nisār cheen.

I shall conclude this grammar with a translation of the ode quoted in the section upon the Persian letters; see p. 143.

If that lovely maid of Shiraz would accept my heart, I would give for the mole on her cheek the cities of Samarcand and Bokhara.

Boy, bring me the wine that remains, for thou wilt not find in paradise the sweet banks of our Rocnabad, or the rosy bowers of our Mosellâ.

Alas! these wanton nymphs, these fair deceivers, whose beauty raises a tumult in our city, rob my heart of rest and patience, like the Turks that are seizing their plunder.

Yet the charms of our darlings have no need of our imperfect love; what occasion has a face naturally lovely for perfumes, paint, and artificial ornaments?

Talk to me of the fingers, and of wine, and seek not to disclose the secrets of futurity ; for no one, however wise, ever has discovered, or ever will discover them.

I can easily conceive how the enchanting beauties of Joseph affected Zoleikha so deeply, that her love tore the veil of her chastity.

Attend, O my soul ! to prudent counsels ; for youths of a good disposition love the advice of the aged better than their own souls.

Thou hast spoken ill of me ; yet I am not offended ; may Heaven forgive thee ! thou hast spoken well : but do bitter words become a lip like a ruby, which ought to shed nothing but sweetnes ?

O Hafiz ! when thou compostest verses, thou seemest to make a string of pearls : come, sing them sweetly : for Heaven seems to have shed on thy poetry the clearness and beauty of the Pleiads.

The wildness and simplicity of this Persian song pleased me so much, that I have attempted to translate it in verse : the reader will excuse the singularity of the measure which I have used, if he considers the difficulty of bringing so many eastern proper names into our stanzas.

I have endeavoured, as far as I was able, to give my translation the easy turn of the original ; and I have, as nearly as possible, imitated the cadence and accent of the Persian measure ; from which every reader, who who understands musick, will perceive that the Asiatick numbers are capable of as regular a melody as any air in Metastasio.

A PERSIAN SONG.

Sweet maid, if thou wouldest charm my sight,
 And bid these arms thy neck infold ;
 That rosy cheek, that lily hand
 Would give thy poet more delight
 Than all Bokhára's vaunted gold,
 Than all the gems of Samarcand.

Boy, let yon * liquid ruby flow,
 And bid thy pensive heart be glad,
 Whate'er the frowning zealots say :
 Tell them their Eden cannot shew
 A stream so clear as Rocnabad,
 A bow'r so sweet as Moselláy.

Oh ! when these fair, perfidious maids,
 Whose eyes our secret haunts infest,
 Their dear destructive charms display,
 Each glance my tender breast invades,
 And robs my wounded soul of rest,
 As Tartars seize their destin'd prey.

* لعل مذاب a melted ruby is a common periphrasis for wine in the Persian poetry. See Hafiz, ode 22.

In vain with love our bosoms glow ;
 Can all our tears, can all our sighs
 New lustre to those charms impart ?
 Can cheeks where living roses blow,
 Where nature spreads her richest dies,
 Require the borrow'd glo's of art ?

Speak not of fate—ah ! change the theme,
 And talk of odours, talk of wine,
 Talk of the flow'rs that round us bloom :
 'Tis all a cloud, 'tis all a dream ;
 To love and joy thy thoughts confine,
 Nor hope to pierce the sacred gloom.

Beauty has such resistless pow'r,
 That ev'n the chaste Egyptian dame *
 Sigh'd for the blooming Hebrew boy :
 For her how fatal was the hour,
 When to the banks of Nilus came
 † A youth so lovely and so coy !

But ah ! sweet maid, my counsel hear ;
 (Youth should attend, when those advise Whom long experience renders sage).

* Zoleikha, Potiphar's wife.

† Joseph, called by Persians and Arabians Jusuf.

While musick charms the ravish'd ear,
While sparkling cups delight our eyes,
Be gay ; and scorn the frowns of age.

What cruel answer have I heard !
And yet, by heav'n, I love thee still :
Can aught be cruel from thy lip ?
Yet say, how fell that bitter word
From lips which streams of sweetnes fill,
Which nought but drops of honey sip ?

Go boldly forth, my simple lay,
Whose accents flow with artless ease,
Like orient pearls at random strung ;
Thy notes are sweet, the damsels say,
But, oh, far sweeter, if they please
The nymph for whom these notes are sung !

A system of natural philosophy, by Isfahani. Oxf.

جواهر نامه

The natural history of precious stones. Oxf.

There are many books in Persian upon Geometry, Algebra, Astronomy, Mechanicks, Logick, Rhetorick, and Physick; all which derive serve to be read and studied by the Europeans. The Persians are very fond of elegant manuscripts; all their favourite works are generally written upon fine filky paper, the ground of which is often powdered with gold or silver dust: the two first leaves are commonly illuminated, and the whole book is sometimes perfumed with essence of roses or sandal wood. The poem of Joseph and Zuleica in the publick library at Oxford is, perhaps, the most beautiful manuscript in the world: the margins of every page are gilt and adorned with garlands of flowers; and the hand-writing is elegant to the highest degree: it is in the collection of the learned Greaves, N^o. 1. The Asiaticks have many advantages in writing: their ink is extremely black, and never loses its colour; the Egyptian reeds with which they write, are formed to make the finest strokes and flourishes; and their letters run so easily into one another, that they can write faster than any other nation. It is not strange, therefore, that they prefer their manuscripts to our best printed books; and if they should ever adopt the art of printing, in order to promote the general circulation of learning, they will still do right to preserve their classical works in manuscript.

I shall conclude with a Persian ode in three Asiatick hands, and shall add a few remarks upon each of them.

I.

NISKHI.

This is the only form of writing that we can imitate exactly by our types; it is the hand of the Arabians, who invented the characters; and it

it must, therefore, be learned before we attempt to read the other hands : it is frequently used by the Persians, and the history of Nader Shah was written in it.

II.

TALIK.

This beautiful hand may easily be read by Europeans, if they understand the Persian language ; and if they do not, what will it avail them to read it ? In this form of writing the strokes are extremely fine, and the initial letters ج ; ج are sometimes scarcely perceptible. The characters are the same with those used in printing, except that ش and ش are often expressed by a long stroke of the reed, as in the third word of the second line, which answers to ساقی : there are also two examples of this in the third line. As the Persians always write their lines of an equal length, they are obliged to place their words in a very irregular manner ; if the line be too short, they lengthen it by a fine stroke of the reed ; if too long, they write the words one above another. In the Persian poems the transcribers place both members of a couplet on the same line, and not the first above the second, as we do : a Persian would write the following verses in this order,

With ravished ears

The monarch bears,

Assumes the god ;

Affects to nod.

It must be confessed, that this irregularity in writing, joined to the confusion of the diacritical points, which are often placed at random, and sometimes omitted, makes it very difficult to read the Persian manuscripts, till the language becomes familiar to us ; but this difficulty, like all others in the world, will be insensibly surmounted by the habit of industry and perseverance, without which no great design was ever accomplished.

III.

SHEKESTEH.

In this inelegant hand all order and analogy are neglected ; the points which distinguish ف from ق, خ from ج, and ب from ت, ث and ن, &c. are for the most part omitted, and these seven letters, و ز ر د ا ه, are connected with those that follow them in a most irregular manner. This is, certainly, a considerable difficulty, which must be surmounted before the learner can translate an Indian letter : but I am persuaded, that those who chiefly complain of it have another difficulty still greater, which is their imperfect knowledge of the language.

NISKHI.

THE following Index will be found, it is hoped, of considerable use to learners, to those in particular who are unprovided with dictionaries ; since it is not only intended as a literal alphabetical explanation and analysis of the extracts and authorities from the various writers interspersed through the Grammar, but as a vocabulary it may be employed to advantage, by imprinting on the memory a number of useful words.

It may not be improper, however, to inform those who have made but little progress in this language, that, in consulting any dictionary, there are a variety of inseparable particles prefixed and annexed to words, which must be analysed or separated before the meaning can be found : for example, بِكَامِسْت which literally signifies to desire is, must not be looked for under the letter ب but under ك, the ب prefixed being the inseparable preposition for, to, in, كام implying desire, &c. and سْت (for اسْت) the third person present of بودن to be.

It is unnecessary to multiply examples, but it will save the learner much trouble if he keep in mind, that the principal of these prefixed particles are,

ا ل the Arabick particle the.

ب (or بَيْن before words beginning with ل) the characteristick of the first future, and sometimes of the imperative.

بے or ب the preposition in, to, for, &c.

ب prefixed sometimes by way of pleonasm, to which no translation can give any precise meaning.

با with.

بی without.

ز (for از) from, with, by, &c.

ک (for که) which, what.

می م or می هی characteristicks of the present tense.—These characteristicks of the present are frequently omitted by the Persian authors.

م (or می before words beginning with ل) the negative prefixed to imperatives.

نہ or ن (or نی before words beginning with ل) the general negative prefixed to all other tenses*.

The particles which are commonly annexed to words are as follow :

The possessive pronouns

ام م or می my, mine.

ما our.

ات ت or بت thy, thine.

شما your.

و his, her, its.

پیش or ش their.

ان the plural of nouns having reference to living creatures.

ھا the plural of inanimate nouns.

ل or لی the poetick vocative.

را the termination of the oblique cases.

ست the third person present of بودن to be.

* Notwithstanding the above observations, which will save the learner some perplexity in consulting dictionaries, many of the compounded words, and such oblique tenses as differ most from their infinitives, are for his greater ease and satisfaction inserted in this Index.

ی is sometimes equivalent to our a or one; and at other times after nouns ending with ل or ؎ it marks that the following noun is in the genitive case; and it is then equal to our of.

The Persian writers make frequent use of the contracted infinitive; when the learner therefore cannot find such words as پرسید or ترسید پرسیدن ترسیدن &c. in the Index, let him look for

* * * The A prefixed to some words in the Index shows that they are of Arabick original.

THE greatest part of the following Piece was designed to be added to a Grammar of the Persian language, which was printed in 1771. It might easily have been swelled into a larger treatise, by adding more copious extracts from the Persian writers, both in prose and verse; but, as the change of style may be seen as well in ten lines as in a thousand, it seemed equally useful and less ostentatious, to exhibit only a few chosen specimens from the best authors, and chiefly from the Poets, who, in all nations, have taken the greatest pains to harmonize and improve their language.

THE PERSIAN LANGUAGE.

MOST of my readers will apprehend, that, in attempting to trace the progress of the Persian language, through a period of two thousand years, I am entering into a subject, which will afford them neither amusement nor instruction, and can be agreeable only to those few men, who apply themselves to the obscurer branches of literature, and have very little intercourse with the rest of mankind. The title of my piece seems, indeed, to give a reasonable ground for their apprehensions; and the transition appears rather abrupt, from the history of Monarchs to the history of mere words, and from the revolutions of the Persian Empire to the variations of the Persian idiom: but it shall be my endeavour to remove, as far as possible, the dryness of the subject, by interspersing the narrative with a variety of Eastern anecdotes; and, as to the second objection, it may be alledged, that a considerable change in the language of any nation is usually effected by a change in the government; so that literary and civil history are very nearly allied, and may often be used with advantage to prove and illustrate one another.

The History of the Persian tongue may be divided into four periods, like that of the Empire; not that the language was immediately altered upon upon every revolution of the state, but it is observable, that, under each Dynasty of which we have any monuments remaining, there was an apparent change in the dialect of the kingdom, especially under the two last, namely, the Sassanian and Mohammedan dynasties : and these, indeed, are the only periods, of which we can speak with any degree of certainty.

It is natural to suppose, that, in the infancy of the Persian Empire, under Caiūmaras and his descendants, no great pains were taken to cultivate and polish the language, which in that rude age must needs be thought sufficiently elegant, if it were sufficiently clear and intelligible ; and we are assured by Herodotus, that, even after the reign of CYRUS, the whole education of the Persian youth, from the age of five years to twenty, consisted in three points only, riding, throwing the javelin, and the practice of moral virtue ; which account is also confirmed by Xenophon. The story mentioned by Diodorus of the old volumes of parchment, on which the Persians were obliged by a certain law to write the annals of their country, was probably invented by Ctesias, that he might give an air of authenticity to his impertinent fables ; for such literary impostures were as frequent among the Greeks, as among us, who imitate the Ancients in nothing but their failings. We are far from contending, however, that the ancient Persians, especially those of the second period, were entire strangers to the art of composition either in verse or prose ; for there never was a nation so rude and unpolished, who had not a custom of celebrating the noble acts of their ancestors, and inciting one another by songs and panegyricks to an imitation of their virtue ; and Strabo, a very different author from Diodorus, asserts, that the Persians used frequently to sing the praises of their ancient Heroes and Demigods, sometimes with a musical instrument, and sometimes with the voice alone : but what their language really was, what were their rules of versification, or what was the course of their studies, no mortal can pretend to know with any shadow of exactness.

The Greek Historians can give us no light on this subject ; for neither Themistocles, who spoke the dialect of Perſia like a native, though he had spent only one year in learning it*, nor even Xenophon, whose intimacy with the younger Cyrus could not have been contracted without a knowledge of his language, seem to have read the works of the Perſians, or even to have known their characters ; but were perhaps contented to express their sentiments in Perſian with ease and fluency. Nor are we much enlightened by the writers after Alexander ; not even by those, who have described the life of that Hero : for Curtius, who compiled his rhetorical History from the Greek authors, seems to have known as little of Perſian as of Scythian, though he dresses up a number of speeches for the chiefs of those nations, which certainly were never spoken by them. A few words, indeed, are here and there interspersed in these histories, which are still used in the modern idiom of Perſia† ; but we can no more form an idea of a whole language from a list of broken phrases or detached epithets, than we can judge of a poem or piece of oratory, from an unconnected line or a single member of a period.

Since the Greeks afford us so little information, nothing remains but to consult the Perſians themselves ; and the great Traveller Chardin, whom

* Themistocles omne illud-tempus (anni unius spatium) literis sermonique Perſarum dedit, quibus adeo eruditus est, ut multò commodiùs dicatur apud Regem verba fecisse, quam hi poterant, qui in Perſide erant nati. Cork. Nep. in Themist.

† Thus Roxana, Statira, Parijatis, seem to be corrupted from Rojban روشن Sitára ستاره Parizada پریزاده which signify, Splendid, a Star, Angel-born. Pasargadet, or, a Prince of the Blood, appears to be compounded of Pejer پسر a Child, and Gada گاده a House : i. e. a child of the Royal Family. To this we may add, 1. that Art or Ard ارد which begins many Perſian names, signifies Strong ; as Ardeštir, Artaxerxes, Ard شیر ارد Shir or, The strong Lion, Ardeván or Ardeban ارد بان The strong Guard, &c. 2. that the termination dates, as Mitridates, &c. is the Perſian dad داد and answers to the δας of the Greeks, as Ἐρυθρας, and the like. If it were possible to recover a whole Catalogue of these old Perſian names, such an enquiry would be little more than learned trifling ; for to collect a number of solitary words, without any books which they might enable us to read, would be like procuring at random a multitude of keys, without any casket which they might help us to unlock.

every Orientalist must always mention with reverence, seems to have enquired very diligently into the ancient language of the people, among whom he resided so long, and whose manners he describes with so much copiousness and learning: but he declares, after all his researches, " That " the old Perſian is a language entirely lost; in which no books are " extant, and of which there are no rudiments remaining: that the " Guebres, who are the remains of the Parfis, or Adorers of Fire, have " an idiom peculiar to themselves; which is supposed, by the Perſians " in general, to be rather a jargon of their own, than a part of their an- " cient tongue: that, if you believe their own account, the Magi, who " resided at Yezd in Carmania, have preserved this language from father " to son, after the dissolution of their Monarchy; but that, for his part, " he has found no reason to give any credit to their story: that they " have, indeed, some books in strange characters, but he cannot persuade " himself that they are old Perſian letters; especially, since they bear no " kind of resemblance to those on the famous monuments at Perſépolis."

The authority of this excellent writer is decisive, and puts an end at once to the controversy lately started, concerning the authenticity of the books ascribed to Zoroaſter, which a French adventurer, who translated them from the translation of a certain Gipsy at Surat, has had the boldness to send abroad as genuine: but, to avoid any suspicion of misrepresenting the passage, it seems necessary to transcribe the very words of Sir John Chardin, which the reader may see at the bottom of the page*. From this we may reasonably conclude, that the gibberish of those swarthy vagabonds, whom we often see brooding over a miserable fire under the hedges, may as well be taken for old Egyptian, and the beggars themselves for the priests of Isis, as the jugglers on the coast of India for the disciples of Zoroaster, and their barbarous dialect for the ancient language of Perſia. But let the rosy-cheeked Frenchman, to give him his own Epithet, rest happy in the contemplation of his personal beauty, and the vast extent of his learning: it is sufficient for us to have exposed his follies, detected his imposture, and retorted his invectives, without insulting a fallen adversary, or attempting, like the Hero in Dryden's Ode, to slay the slain.

* Quand à l'ancien Perſan, c'est une langue perdue; on n'en trouve ni livres ni rudimens. Les Guébres, qui sont les restes des Perſes ou Ignicoles, qui se perpetuent de pere en fils depuis la destruction de leur Monarchie, ont un Idiome particulier; mais on le croit plutôt un jargon que leur ancienne langue. Ils disent que les Prêtres, qui se tiennent à Yezd, ville de la Caramanie, qui est leur Pirée et leur principale place, se sont transmis cette langue jusqu'ici par tradition, et de main en main; mais quelque recherche que j'en aie fait, je n'ai rien trouvé, qui me pût persuader cela. Ces Guebres ont à la vérité des livres en caractères et en mots inconnus, dont les figures tirent assez sur celles des langues, qui nous sont le plus connues; mais je ne saurois croire que ce soit là l'ancien Perſan, d'autant plus que le caractère, dont j'ai parlé, est entièrement différent de celui des inscriptions de Perſépolis. Je donnerai des eTypes de l'un et de l'autre caractère, dans la description du fameux monument qui reste en ce lieu-là. CHARDIN, Tom. V. Chap. III.

We have no genuine accounts then of the Perſian language till the time of the SASSANIAN kings, who flourished from the opening of the third century to the middle of the seventh; in which period an Academy of Physick was founded at Gandisapor, a City of Khorafan, and, as it gradually declined from its original institution, it became a school of poetry, rhetorick, dialectick, and the abstract sciences. In this excellent seminary the Perſian tongue could not fail of being greatly refined, and the rusticity of the old idiom was succeeded by a pure and elegant dialect; which, being constantly spoken at the court of Beharam Gur in the year 351, acquired the name of Deri, or, Courtly, to distinguish it from the Peblevi, or, Language of the Country.

It must not, however, be imagined, that the use of the ancient dialect was wholly superseded by this more polished idiom; for several compositions in Peblevi were extant even after Mahomed, which appear to have been written by order of the Saffanian Princes. Anushirvan, f暑named The Just, who reigned at the close of the sixth century, having heard from some travellers, that the Indian Monarchs had a collection of moral fables, which they preserved with great care among their archives, sent his chief Physician Barzueb into India, with orders to make himself master master of the Sanskrit language, and not to return without a translation of those fables. These orders were punctually executed; Barzuieh learned the Indian tongue, and, having at a great expence procured a copy of the book, tranlated it into the Pehlevian dialect: about an hundred and forty years after, his work was turned from Pehlevi into Arabick, by order of Almansur, second Calif of the Abbasides; and this is the volume which we see in every language of Europe, under the name of Calila wa Demna, or, The fables of Pilpay. There is a fine copy of the Arabick version in the publick library at Oxford; and if the work of Barzuieh could be found, we should be enabled to recover a considerable part of the old Persian language; the same, perhaps, which was spoken in the second period by Themistocles and Xenophon.

In the reign of Anushirván, who protected the arts and sciences in his own dominions, MAHOMED was born; who, by the force of his Eloquence, and the success of his Arms, established a mighty Empire, and spread his new religion from the wilds of Arabia, to the mountains of Tartary and the banks of the Ganges: but, what belongs more particularly to the subject of this discourse, be polished the language of his country, and brought it to a degree of purity and elegance, which no Arabian writer since his time has been able to surpass. The battle of Cadeffia in the year 656 gave the last blow to the Persian Monarchy; and the whole Empire of Iran was soon reduced under the power of the first Mahomedan Dynasty, who fixed the seat of their government in Bagdad, where the Arabick language was spoken, for many ages, in its utmost perfection: but the ancient literature of Persia, which had been promoted by the family of Saffan, was expressly discouraged by the immediate successors of Mahomed, for a reason, which it is proper to explain.

At the time when the Alcoran was first published in Arabic, a merchant, who had lately returned from a long journey, brought with him some some Persian romances, which he interpreted to his countrymen, who were extremely delighted with them, and used to say openly, that the stories of griffons and giants were more amusing to them than the moral lessons of Mahomed: part of a chapter in the Alcoran was immediately written, to stop the progress of these opinions; the merchant was severely reprimanded; his tales were treated as pernicious fables, hateful to God and his prophet; and Omar, from the same motive of policy, determined to destroy all the foreign books which should fall into his hands. Thus the idle loquacity of an Arabian traveller, by setting his legends in competition with the precepts of a powerful Lawgiver, was the cause of that enthusiasm in the Mahomedans, which induced them to burn the famous library of Alexandria, and the records of the Persian Empire.

One book, however, besides the fables of Pilpay, escaped the fury of these unmerciful zealots: it was an History of Persia in the Pehlevian dialect, extracted from the Sassanian annals, and composed, it is believed, by the command of Anushirvan. Saad, one of Omar's Generals, found this volume, after the victory at Cadessa, and preserved it for himself as a curiosity: it passed afterwards through several hands, and was at length translated into some other languages of *Asia.

It was a long time before the native Perians could recover from the shock of this violent revolution; and their language seems to have been very little cultivated under the Califs, who gave greater encouragement to the literature of the Arabians: but, when the power of the Abbasides began to decline, and a number of independent Princes arose in the different provinces of their empire, the arts of elegance, and chiefly Poetry, revived in Persia, and there was hardly a Prince, or Governor of a city, who had not several poets and men of letters in his train. The Persian tongue was consequently restored in the tenth century; but it was very different from the Deri or Peblevi of the Ancients: it was mixed with the words of the Alcoran, and with expressions from the Arabian Poets, whom the Perfians considered as their masters, and affected to imitate in their poetical measures, and the turn of their verses.

That the learned reader may have a just notion of this new idiom, it seems necessary, first to produce a specimen of pure Arabick, and, afterwards, of the purest Persian that can be found; by which means he will form a more accurate judgement of the modern Perfick, in which both languages are perfectly incorporated.

The following ode was written by a native of Damascus: it contains a lively description of an Eastern Banquet; and most of the couplets are highly elegant in the original.

I might here have selected a more ancient example of Arabick, either from the poets before Mahomed, or from the illustrious Abu Temám, who flourished in the *ninth century; but the language has remained unaltered from the earliest antiquity to the present time, and it would not have been easy, without a number of notes, to have made an ancient Ode intelligible in a literal translation.

The oldest Persian poems, which have come to my knowledge, are those of FERDUSI, of which it will not be improper to give a short account, as far as they relate to my present subject.

At the close of the tenth, and beginning of the eleventh centuries, Mahmud reigned in the city of Gazna: he was supreme ruler of Zablestan, and part of Khorasan, and had penetrated very far into India, where by this time the religion and language of the Arabs and Perians had begun to prevail. Several poets were entertained in the palace of this Monarch, among whom was FERDUSI, a native of Tús or Méshed. This most learned man, happening to find a copy of the old Persian History above-mentioned, read it with eagerness, and found it involved in fables, but

* Abu Temam published an excellent Anthologia of Arabick verses, entitled Hamáṣa, of which he gave a copy to an Asiatick Prince, who presented him in return with five thousand pieces of gold, and made him at the same time this elegant compliment, از ها لدون شعر ک My present is less valuable than thy poems.

bearing the marks of high antiquity: the most ancient part of it, and principally the war of Afrasiab and Khosru, or Cyrus, seemed to afford an excellent subject for an Heroick Poem, which he accordingly began to compose. Some of his episodes and descriptions were shown to the Sultan, who commended them exceedingly, and ordered him to comprise the whole History of Persia in a series of Epick poems. The poet obeyed; and, after the happiest exertion of his fancy and art for near thirty years, he finished his work, which contained sixty thousand couplets in rhyme, all highly polished, with the spirit of our Dryden and the sweetnes of Pope. He presented an elegant transcript of his book to Mahmud, who coldly applauded his diligence, and dismissed him. Many months elapsed, and Ferdusi heard no more of his work: he then took occasion to remind the King of it by some little epigrams, which he contrived to let fall in the palace; but, where an Epick poem had failed, what effect could be expected from an Epigram? At length the reward came; which consisted only of as many small pieces of money, as there were couplets in the volume. The high-minded Poet could not brook this insult: he retired to his closet with bitterness in his heart; where he wrote a most noble and animated invective against the Sultan, which he sealed up, and delivered to a Courtier, who, as he had reason to suspect, was his greatest enemy, assuring him, that it was a diverting tale, and requesting him to give it to Mahmud, *when any affair of state or bad success in war should make him more uneasy and spleenetic than usual. Having thus given vent

* See a translation of this Satire in a Treatise on Oriental Poetry, added to the Life of Nader Shah in French, Vol. II. page 283. This poem is not unlike the Xāqīs; of Theocritus, who, like the impetuous Ferdusi, had dared to expose the vices of a low-minded King. The Persian poet has this couplet in his Satire,

که از مده شان حکایت کنم
چو محمود را صد حمایت کنم

that is; Had I written as many verses in praise of Mahomed and Ali, as I have composed for King Mahmud, they would have showered an hundred blessings on me. A thought like that of Shakspeare in Henry VIII's celebrated speech:

Had I but serv'd my God with half the zeal

I serv'd my King, he would not in mine age

to his just indignation, he left Gazna in the night, and took refuge in Bagdad, where the Calif protected him from the Sultan of Zablestan, who demanded him in a furious and menacing letter.

The work of Ferdusi remains entire, a glorious monument of Eastern genius and learning; which, if ever it should be generally understood in its original language, will contest the merit of invention with Homer himself, whatever be thought of its subject or the arrangement of its incidents. An extract from this poem will exhibit a specimen of the Perſian tongue, very little adulterated by a mixture with the Arabick, and, in all probability, approaching nearly to the dialect used in Perſia in the time of Mahomed, who admired it for its extreme softness, and was heard to say, that it would be spoken on that account in the gardens of Paradise.

that is ; " Seest thou yonder plain of various colours (Perf. red and grey) ; by which the heart of a valiant man may be filled with de" light ? It is entirely covered with groves and gardens and flowing " rivulets ; it is a place belonging to the abode of Heroes. The ground " is perfect silk, and the air is scented with musk : you would say, Is it
 " rose-water which glides between the banks? The stalk of the lily bends
 " under the weight of the flower ; and the whole grove is charmed with
 " the fragrance of the rose-bush. The pheasant walks gracefully among " the flowers ; the dove and nightingale warble from the branches of " the cypress. From the present time to the latest age, may the edge of " those banks resemble the bowers of Paradise ! There you will see, on " the plains and hills, a company of damsels, beautiful as fairies, fitting " cheer-

" cheerfully on every side. There Maniziba, daughter of Afraſiab, makes
 " the whole garden blaze like the Sun. Sitara, his second daughter,
 " fits exalted like a Queen, encircled by her damsels, radiant in glory.
 " The lovely maid is an ornament to the plains ; her beauty fullies the " rose and the jaſmine. With them are many Turkiſh girls, all with " their faces veiled ; all with their bodies taper as a cypreſs, and locks
 " black as musk ; all with cheeks full of roses, with eyes full of sleep ;
 " all with lips ſweet as wine, and fragrant as roſe-water. If we go " near to that bower, and turn aside for a single day, we may take
 " ſeveral of those lovely nymphs, and bring them to the noble Cyrus."

This is part of a speech by a young amorous Hero, the Paris of Ferdusi, who had reaſon to repent of his adventure with the daughter of Afraſiab, for he was made captive by the Turks, and confined in a dismal prison, till he was delivered by the valour of Roſtam.

Of these two languages was formed the modern dialect of Persia, which, being ſpoken in its greatest purity by the natives of Pars or Farsijan, acquired the name of Parſi *; though it is even called Deri by Hafez in the following couplet ;

چو عندلیب فضاحت فروشد ای حافظ
 تو قدر او بسخن کفتن دری بشکن that is ; " While the nightingale, O Hafez, makes a boast of his eloquence, do thou leſſen the value of his lays by ſinging thy Perſian (Deri) strains."

Nearly in the ſame age with Ferdusi, the great Abul Ola, furnamecl Alámi from his blindneſs, published his excellent Odes in Arabick, in which he professedly imitated the poets before Mahomed. This writer had so flourishing a reputation, that several Perſians of uncommon genius were ambitious of learning the Art of Poetry from so able an instructor: his most illustrious scholars were Feleki and *Khakanī; who were no less eminent for their Perſian compositions, than for their skill in every branch of pure and mixed Mathematicks, and particularly in Astronomy; a striking proof, that a sublime Poet may become a master of any kind of learning which he chuses to profess; since a fine imagination, a lively wit, an easy and copious style, cannot possibly obstruct the acquisition of any science whatever, but must necessarily assist him in his studies, and shorten his labour. Both these poets were protected by Manucheker, Prince of Shirvan; but Khakanī was always averse to the pleasurable and dissipated life of a Court, so that the Prince was obliged to detain him by force in his palace, and actually confined him for some time in prison, lest he should find some opportunity of escaping.

The works of these authors are not very scarce; but it seems needless to give any extracts from them, which would swell this discourse to an immoderate length: it will be sufficient to say, that, in this and the following century, the Perſian language became altogether mixed with Arabick; not that the pure style of the ancients was wholly obsolete, but it was the fashion among the Perſians to interweave Arabian phrases and verses into their poems, not by way of quotations, but as material parts of a sentence. Thus in the following distich,

سی طیف من بجلو بطلعته الدجی
شکفت آمد از بختم که این دولت از گجا

The phantom of her, whose beauty gives brightness to the shades, appeared to me at night: I wondered at the kindness of Fortune, and said, Whence came this prosperity?—the first line is pure Arabick in the style of the ancient poets.

In this mansion of darkness, how long must I sit expecting my beloved ; one while with my finger on my teeth, one while with my head bent on my knee ? Come, O fortunate cup-bearer, bring me the tidings of joy : who knows but my days may again be prosperous, as they were before ? Where the last line is taken from an Ode in the Hamasa of Abu Temām, which begins,

سفحنا عن بنی ذھل وقلنا القوم اخوان

We pardoned the sons of Dhothal, and said, The tribe are our brothers.

At the opening of the twelfth century lived Anveri, a native of Abiurd in Khorasan, whose adventures deserve to be related, as they will show in what high esteem the polite arts were held in Afia, at the time when learning first began to dawn in Europe. Anveri, when he was very young, was sitting at the gate of his college, when a man richly dressed rode by him on a fine Arabian horse, with a numerous train of attendants ; upon his asking who it was, he was told, that it was a Poet belonging to the Court. When Anveri reflected on the honours conferred upon Poetry, for which art he had a very early bent, he applied himself to it more ardently than ever, and, having finished a poem, presented it to the Sultan. This was a prince of the Seljukian dynasty, named Sanjar, a great admirer of the fine arts : he approved the work of Anveri, whom he invited to his palace, and raised him even to the first honours of the state. He found many other poets at court, among whom were Selman, Zebir, and *Rehbidi, all men of wit and genius, but each eminent in a different way ; the first for the delicacy of his Lyric verses, the second, for the moral tendency of his poems, and the third, for the chastity of his compositions ; a virtue, which his predecessors and contemporaries were too apt to neglect.

But of all the cities in the Persian Empire, none has given birth to more excellent poets than Sbiraz ; which my noble and learned friend Baron Revizki justly calls “ the Athens of Persia*.” SADI, a native of this city, flourished in the thirteenth century, when the Atabegs of Parſistan encouraged men of learning in their principality : his life was almost wholly spent in travel ; but no man, who enjoyed the greatest leisure, ever left behind him more valuable fruits of his genius and industry. A fine manuscript, about two hundred years old, was lately put into my hands, containing a complete collection of his works ; among which are several pieces, both in verse and prose, which have never been mentioned by the Scholars of Europe. The following extract from his Gulistan, or Bed of Roses, will show how the Persian and Arabick languages were mixed together in his age :

“ which they hold*. Thou hast no compassion for my disorder : my “ companion should be afflicted with the same malady, that I might sit “ all day repeating my tale to him ; for two pieces of wood burn toge“ ther with a brighter flame. The song of the turtle dove passes not “ unobserved by my ear ; and if the dove could hear my strain, she “ would join her complaints with mine. O my friends, say to them, “ who are free from love, Ah, we wish you knew, what passes in the heart of a lover! The pain of illness affects not them, who are in health : I “ will not disclose my grief but to those, who have tasted the same “ affliction. It were fruitless to talk of an hornet to them, who never “ felt its sting. While thy mind is not affected like mine, the relation “ of my sorrow seems only an idle tale. Compare not my anguish to “ the cares of another man ; he only holds the salt in his hand, but it is
 “ I, who bear the wound in my body.”

The same city had the honour of producing, in the fourteenth century, the most elegant Lyric Poet of Asia, Shemseddin, furname HAFEEZ; on whose life and productions it is the less necessary to expatiate, because the Baron before mentioned has exhausted the subject in bis Specimen of Persian Poetry, and will, it is to be hoped, be persuaded to complete that most learned work, in the short intervals of leisure, which his important affairs will allow him. It will be fully sufficient, therefore, to transcribe two of his Gazals or Anacreontick Odes; the first of which was chosen, on account of the Arabick verses interwoven in it, and the second, for its exquisite beauty, which makes it a genuine example of the true Sbirazian dialect.

A PERSIAN SONG.

"The dawn advances veiled with roses. Bring the morning draught,
 " my friends, the morning draught! The dew-drops trickle over the " cheek of the tulip. Bring the wine, my dear companions, bring the " wine! A gale of paradise breathes from the garden: drink then inces-
 " fantly the pure wine. The rose spreads her emerald throne in the " bower. Reach the liquor, that sparkles like a flaming ruby. Are " they still shut up in the banquet-house? Open, O thou keeper of the " gate. It is strange, at such a season, that the door of the tavern
 " should be locked. Oh, hasten! O thou, who art in love, drink wine " with eagerness; and you, who are endued with wisdom, offer your
 " vows to Heaven. Imitate Hafiz, and drink kisses, sweet as wine,
 " from the cheek of a damsel, fair as a nymph of paradise."

“ Rise, boy ; for the cup of the tulip is full of wine. When will

There is nothing, which affords a stronger proof of the excellence of the Persian tongue, than, that it remained uncorrupted after the irruption of the Tartars, who, at different times, and under various leaders, made themselves masters of Perſia; for the Tartarian princes, and chiefly Tamerlane, who was a patron of Hafez, were so far from discouraging polite letters, like the Gotbs and Huns, that they adopted even the language and religion of the conquered country, and promoted the fine arts with a boundless munificence: and one of them, who founded the Mogul Empire in Hindostan, introduced the Persian literature into his dominions, where it flourishes to this day; and all the letters from the Indian governors are written in the language (I do not say, in the style) of Sadi. The Turks themselves improved their harsh dialect by mixing it with the Persian; and Mabomed II. who took Constantinople in the middle of the fifteenth Century, was a protector of the Persian poets: among these was Noureddin JAMI, whose poem on the loves of Joseph and Zelikha is one of the finest compositions I ever read. The following description will serve as a specimen of his elegant style:

سحر چو شب زاغ پرواز پرداشت
 خروس صبحکاه آواز پرداشت
 عنادل لحن دلکش برکشیدند
 لحاف غنچه از کل درکشیدند
 سبن از آب شبنم روی خود شست
 بنفسه جعد عنبر بوی خود شست

" In the morning, when the raven of night had flown away, the bird of dawn began to sing: the nightingales warbled their enchanting notes, and rent the thin veils of the rose-bud and the rose: the jasmine stood bathed in dew, and the violet also sprinkled his fragrant locks. At this time Zelikha was sunk in pleasing slumber; her heart was turned towards the altar of her sacred vision *. It was not sleep; it was rather a confused idea: it was a kind of phrenzy caused by her nightly melancholy. Her damsels touched her feet with their faces; her maidens approached, and kissed her hand. Then she removed the veil from her check, like a tulip besprinkled with dew; she opened her eyes, yet dim with sleep. From the border of her mantle the sun and moon arose; she raised her head from the couch, and looked around on every side."

This poem contains about four thousand couplets, and deserves to be translated into every European language: though I shall have neither time nor inclination to translate it myself, yet I may perhaps be induced, some years hence, to present the Original to the learned world, which any man, who has the advantage of greater leisure, may take the pains to interpret.

* A metaphor taken from the custom, which prevails among Mahomedans, of turning their faces, when they pray, towards the temple of Mecca.

In the same Century with Jami, flourished a poet named CATEBI, who was highly honoured at the court of Mirza Ibrahim, one of Tamerlane's descendants. Mr. d'Herbelot tells a very pleasing story of this writer, which deserves a place in this essay; though, in order to understand it, we must remember, that the Perfians frequently end their couplets with the same word, which is often continued through a long poem; but in that case, the rhyme falls upon the preceding syllable. " Catebi, says he, having composed an Elegy, each verse of which " ended with the word, Gul, a rose, or any flower, repeated it to the " prince Ibrahim, his Patron; who, being extremely delighted with it, " could not forbear interrupting him, by saying, From what bower did " this tuneful nightingale (meaning the poet) take its flight? that is, " without a metaphor, In what city were you born? to which Catebi, " without hesitation, replied in a couplet of the same measure with the " poem, and with the same rhyme, as if he had only continued to read " his Elegy:

هیچو عطار از کلستان نشاپورم ولی
خار صحرای نشاپورم من و عطار کل

" that is, Like Attár *, I came from the rose-garden of Nishapor; but I " am only the thorn of that garden, and Attár was its most beautiful " flower."

This distich, though delivered extempore, is at least equal to any of the rest in spirit and elegance. The poem consists of about thirty-five couplets, the first of which is the following:

* Attár a Persian poet, author of the Pendnáma.

باز با صد برک آمد جانب کلزار کل هیچو نرگس کشت منظور اولی الابصار کل

that is; Again the rose advances towards the bower with an hundred leaves; like the narcissus, it is a charming object to every discerning eye.

In the sixteenth and seventeenth Centuries, under the family of Sefi, the Persian language began to lose its ancient purity, and even to borrow some of its terms from the Turkish, which was commonly spoken at Court. As to the modern dialect, no specimen of it needs be produced, since the Life of Nader Shab, which was written in Persian about fourteen years ago, and translated into French by the author of this Volume, may be consulted in the original by the learned reader.

PROCÉMIUM.

CUM à Nicæâ deceffissim, quâ in urbe septem propè menses fueram commoratus, et, totâ ferè peragratâ Galliâ, in Britanniam rediissem, nihil magis cupiebam, quâm annos complures alios in literarum humaniorum studiis consumere; ita enim fore putabam, ut ad publicas res obeundas, quas mea semper affectaverat ambitio, maturior aliquando possem ac paratior accedere: sed hunc otii fructum vel fortuna, vel potius rerum humanarum omnium moderatrix, providentia, desidiæ meæ largiri noluit; nam et ipsas literas, quibus à puerò deditus fueram, subito deserere sum coactus, et Ille, qui studiorum meorum fuerat hortator atque adjutor, qui me, qualiscunque eram, aut si quis essem omnino, instruxerat, erudierat, effinxerat, ROBERTUS SUMNER, primo anno post meum in patriam redditum, morte immaturâ extinctus est. Ac literas quidem politiores quibus causis adductus vel reliquerim vel certè intermisserim, aptior erit exponendi locus, si quando rerum mearum commentarios perfecero, auctoribus usus et multis et bonis, quorum exemplis me defendam; sed veniam mihi lector, ut spero, dabit, si nequeam à me impetrare, quin hoc loco viri doctissimi et familiarissimi cùm virtutes laudibus efferam, tum lucretuosum sanè interitum justo prosequar dolore. Fuit enim vir, si quifquam alias, memorabilis, ingeniosus, integer, admirabili præditus indole, moribus perhumanis, exquisitâ doctrinâ; facultatem porrò talem habuit et communicandi et docendi, qualem in nullo alio magistro cognoverim; hilaritatem denique ac suavitatem eam, ut incertum omnino sit, amicisne suis an discipulis esset jucundior: in literis egregiè versatus est cùm Græcis tum Latinis, ac tametsi, velut alter Socrates, per pauca ipse scripsérat, nemo tamen illo perspicacior fuit et scientior in scriptorum omnium seu vitiis castigandis, seu comprobandis virtutibus; quòd si eum aut vitæ ratio aut fortuna benignior in forum ac senatum eduxisset, neque in ludo solùm et gymnasio docendi munus suscepisset, nemini profectò in eloquentiæ laude, quam ex omnibus terris una jam Britannia excusat, cederet ille fascesque submitteret; nam singulæ virtutes, quæ per se ipsæ oratorem commendant, in eo, si non perfectæ, admodum certè laudandæ fuerunt, vox canora, sermo politus, oratio volubilis, lepos festivus, memoria singularis; oculi denique, vultus, actio, non histrionis, sed alterius pœnè Demosthenis; ad summam, quemadmodum ferè de Q. Roscio dixit Cicero, cùm magister fuerit ejusmodi, ut solus dignus videretur, qui pueros institueret, tum orator erat ejusmodi, ut solus dignus esse videretur, qui amplissimis in republicâ fungeretur officiis. Hujus ego nomen non in primis honorandum putem? Hunc non desiderem? Ob hujus mortem non angar animo? Sed videndum est, ne nostrâ impensis causâ dolere videamus, quâm ob amici ac præceptoris nostri acerbissimum interitum: quid enim ille moriens reliquit aliud, quâm vitam fragilem, incertam, ærumnosam, in quâ, præter virtutem et gloriam, nihil sit, quod vir probus magno studio expetere debeat? Nos, eo mortuo, et jucundissimâ studiorum conjugione privamur, et adjutorem amisimus, cuius judicium ingenii juvenilis redundantiam reprimeret, vocis aut gestûs vitia notaret, sermonem perpoliret; et non solùm nos hortaretur ad scribendum, quem laborem ob infinitam difficultatem plerique omnes refugimus, sed in scripta nostra benevolè animadverteret, errores deteggeret, fortasse etiam amicâ laudatione, quæ in optimo quoque animo vim habet summam, ad majora incenderet. In hoc ipso opere, quod nunc edimus, quantum desideravimus tam eruditum illum atque urbanum censem! etenim licet ab illo semel et cursim sit opus hoc perleatum, tamen ne verbum quidem addidit; vix unam syllabam mutavit; quæque in libri margine ipsius manu notantur, magis laudandi causa scripta sunt, quâm reprehendendi; statuerat autem vir mei amantissimus totum volumen mecum ad examen accuratius revocare, quod si ei facere licuisset, multis fortasse mendis esset caritatum, cultius saltem et limatus in lucem prodiret. Levis tamen est jaætura, libelli nostri perfectio; cætera, quæ cum cum illo perierunt, non definam summo mœrore requirere, consuetudinem, officia, consilium; sed, ut paullò ante dixi, nostrum est id infortunium; nam et ipse, ut confido, est felicissimus, et potius curas mortaliū inanes misericordiâ prosequitur, quām aut laudes eorum aut dolorem requirit.

Nec verò sola viri hujus amissio causa est, cur opus hoc meum, non, ut vellem, perpolitum, in manūs hominum perventurum sit: aliae sunt causæ, quas operæ pretium erit pleniùs exponere. Primò, adolescentis opus fuit, annos nati vix unum et viginti, cujus adeò ingenium nondum maturitatem suam consecutum est; deinde, argumentum ita varium fuit ac multiplex, ut, si plenè et copiofè tractaretur, tot poenè requireret annos, quot in eo et inveniendo et disponendo menses impenderim; quid enim majus aut difficilius, quām de singulis poeseos Asiaticæ generibus aptè differere, et è poetarum operibus, quorum est infinita multitudo, flores omnigenos atque elegantias libare? Hoc aliquatenus præstare sum conatus; sed, ut verum eloquar, mihi ipsi nec satisfeci, nec, si duplicaretur et tempus et labor, satisfacturum fuisse puto. Huc accessit codicum manu scriptorum paucitas; quo factum est, ut, si unum duntaxat suppetteret poematis cuiuspiam exemplar, et præsertim si deesset locorum obscuriorum explicatio, verfūs quosdam, librariorum incuriâ corruptos, vel minùs intelligerem, vel in sensum forsan alienissimum detorquerem; quo vitio me semper vacare non audeam dicere: sufficiet me librum, ut potui, limavisse, et errores tantùm ferè cavisse, quantum humanæ naturæ imbecillitas pateretur; nec profiteri vereor, me, si quid habuerim in arte poeticâ judicii, in commentarios hos contulisse. Postremò, sine maximo otio, quo per tres annos omnino carui, et postea sum magis cariturus, fieri non potuit, ut singulas voces ac sententias quasi in trutinâ examinarem; et quoniam mihi Londini, à bibliothecis Academicis remoto, preli curam fuscipere commodum fuit, ad poematum Asiaticorum ἀρχέτυπα, quæ negligentiùs aliquando Oxonii rescripseram, recurrere non potui, si qua in loco quovis à me citato mendæ suspicio inciderit. Nolo igitur sibi perfuadeat persuadeat lector, me librum hunc tām perfectum edere, quām illum edidisse possem, si accessisset vel otium ad limandum uberius, vel aptior ad excudendum opportunitas: quōd si quis in sermonibus Asiaticis eruditus errores fortē nostros detexerit, nosque per literas benevolē monuerit, et illum nobis amicissimum putabimus, et, si quando alteram paraverimus commentariorum nostrorum editionem, corréctior liber in lucem perfectione prodit.

Illud etiam addamus necesse est, versūs Asiaticos, qui in hoc libro solutā oratione redduntur, non eo animo convertos esse, ut in sermonibus Arabum ac Persarum tyrones erudirent: itaque si quis, in his literis nondum imbutus, speraverit à meis versionibus, locorum, qui citantur, σύνταξιν ordinemque grammaticum perspicere, nā ille se turpiter falli videbit; non enim in hoc opere philologus, sed criticus, non interpres, sed poeta, esse volui; non quasi in ludo pueros instituere, sed cum viris undeaque doctis de poesi in genere, ac speciatim de Asiaticā, colloqui. Cūm igitur locum quemvis vel legendo observarem, vel meditando revo-carem in memoriam, qui ad argumentum illustrandum accommodaretur, primō quid poeta vellet, haberetque in animo, quārebam, deinde quo modo id purē ac Latinē, si possem, sīn minūs, breviter simpliciterque redderem; parūm sollicitus, si nomen nomini responderet, aut si justa voculæ cujusvis Perſicæ et Arabicæ significatio, tanquam in verborum indice, notaretur: ad summam, res et sententias, non verba, interpretari sum conatus; quōd si vel in sententiis vel in verbis hallucinari mihi contigerit, veniam libenter dabunt, ob incredibilem rei difficultatem, poli-tioris ingenii homines: cæterorum suffragiis facilē carere potero.

Aliud est porrò, quod hoc loco animadvertisendum velim; quanquām hujus ætatis lectoribus exquisitum nimis ac longiùs petitum videbitur: illud volo dicere; si hujusmodi opus de integro scribere instituisse, vitarem cūm omnes in libri margine notationes, tum in primis diverforum sermonum uno in libro concursionem; quæ mirum est, quantum abſit absit ab elegantiâ, ideòque à Romanis et præcipuè à Cicerone, scriptorum elegantissimo, repudiata est; illi enim, utcunque Græcis literis eruditū fuerint, noluerunt tamen Græcos vel poetas vel philosophos proprio sermone loquentes citare: sic variæ, quæ in commentariis nostris inferruntur linguae, quantumvis ad philologorum gloriolam conferre existimantur, inæqualem nimis et quasi vermiculatam reddunt paginam; quo sit, non solum ut minùs solutè ac volubiliter legatur, sed ut viri elegantiores à legendō deterreatur, cùm horridius nescio quid et incultius in libro suspicentur delitescere. Hortor itaque scriptores nostros, ut lectorum usui ac voluptati impensiùs, quām solent, consulant; ut veteres illos dicendi magistros imitantur, qui artem ostendere maluerunt, quām seippos ostentare; ut denique simpliciter purèque scribant, et literas seu Græcas seu Latinas, perinde ac si Græci essent aut Romani, tractare discant. Mea fuit hæc semper sententia; sed mos gerendus erat recensionis scriptorum confuetudini, ab adolescentulo præsertim, qui non alios ducere, sed ipse ducem sequi, deberet.

Hæc lectoribus plerisque omnibus satisfactura esse confido; nec verò me fugit nonnullos homines, qui pertenues Gallorum libellos lectitare consueverint, totum hoc opus esse reprehensuros, quòd scilicet Latinè sit conscriptum, et præcipuè quòd Græcos quosdam versiculos ausus sim contexere. Grave crimen et vix ferendum! quod tamen haud vereor confiteri: fateor me sermone Latino esse usum, ut ab omnibus in Europâ gentibus legerer; fateor me librum versibus conspersisse, ut lectores varietate rerum allicerentur; fateor me in Latinis Horatii, Ovidii, Virgilii, Phædri, in Græcis, Theocriti, Anacreontis, Callimachi, numerous (vīm et copiam non dico) imitatum fuisse, feliciter necne alii judicent; fateor denique, ut habeant quod multò magis reprehendant, Hebræa quædam nostra atque Arabica subjungi; Persica etiam, si jubeant, proferre possumus. Quòd si Galli, homines, ut scimus, delicatissimi, temeritatem hanc nostram excusare noluerint, illud pollicemur, nos, si quid aliud in posterum scripserimus, patriâ linguâ usuros esse, quam sedulò ediscant velim, si nostra legere cupiant; quòd si Dani, Russi, Germani, Poloni, Hungari, idem hoc factitaverint, profectò priùs canescemus, quàm tot sermones difficiles ac dissimiles didicerimus, cùm una solummodò nobis sufficietura sit, modò Latinè scribendi consuetudo fautores invenerit, et Romanorum sermo reipublicæ, ut dicitur, literariæ communis permaneserit. Ad alias linguas quod attinet, certè, si nihil præter utilitatem spectemus, non est omninò necessarium vel Græcè vel Arabicè scribere, cùm in subselliis nostris ac fori cancellis ne Demosthenes quidem aut ipse Mohammedes, si reviviscerent, intelligerentur à populo; sed cùm nihil sit ad memoriam confirmandam aptius, aut ad linguas condiscendas magis conferat, quàm stylum exercere, nescio cur versus aut orationes, utcunque eæ fint inutiles atque imperfectæ, in lingua quâlibet contexere vetemur: epistolas nimis ad doctiores in exteris regionibus viros mittere, persæpè nobis usu venit, quas satius est elegantes esse atque urbanas, quàm nudas et impolitas. Quid alii fecerint, nescio; ego multa me Latinè scripsisse confiteor, multa Græcè, multa etiam Gallicè; nec vereor affirmare, si qua mihi sit in linguis ediscendis facilitas, ab hac eam exercitatione et profectam esse et promotam. Quæ cùm ita sint, mirari fatis nequeo, quare vir eruditus, Erneſtus, et ille, non minùs in geometriæ ac philosophiaæ studiis, quam in literarum elegantiis versatus, Alembertus, tantoperè laborare videantur, ne quis posthac Græcè et Latinè poemata aut politioris doctrinæ libros contexat. Quo tandem sermone uti debet is, qui poetico se ingenio inflammari sentiat? Num Gallico? at sermo ipse à poesi est alienissimus. Num Anglico? at in unâ tantùm insulâ legetur, et uno fortasse seculo. Nec verò cuivis persuadere velim, ut peregrinis sermonibus usque cùm studeat, donec linguæ obliviscatur suæ, aut horas eas omnes, quas patria atque amici suo jure sibi vindicant, adeò tenui atque umbratili studio impendat; sed interdum, varietatis aut honestæ relaxationis causâ, Latinum vel Græcum etiam carmen compонere si quis rectè possit, cur irrideatur non video. Evidem Alemberti libellum, qui inscribitur de recentiorum scriptorum Latinitate, bis terve perlegi, nec tamen in eo quidquam probatum inveni, nisi id, de quo nemo fanus disputaverit, recentiores scilicet, cùm Latine scribant, non tam purè ac perfectè scribere, ac si M. Tullii et Virgilii temporibus Romæ floruisse, nec veterum nos linguarum elegantias æquè perspicere ac si Romanī effemus; præclarum fanè ἀξιωμα sed vix dignum, quod tanto argumētorum apparatu probaretur! Sermonis Latini suavitatem non sentimus, ut Romani; sed ita tamen sentimus, ut delectemur: cur ideo, cùm tantæ sint in vita molestiæ, unâ hac delectatione careamus? Quod autem afferit vir ingeniosissimus, se dubitare, an quisquam è recentioribus philologis, quantum inter Virgilii et Lucani *numero*s ac modulationem intersit, sentire possit; id à tanto viro dici mirabar, ab illo præfertim, qui tam bellum de Musicâ scriperit opusculum, cùm nemo sit, in Britanniâ nimirum, qui non tantam sentiat inter Æneidis et Pharsaliæ versûs discrepantiam, quantam inter mollissimam puellæ Neapolitanæ cantionem, ac lacrymosum fidicinæ Lutetianæ ululatum: sed non mirabar amplius, cùm viderem ab eodem scriptore Ruæi nescio cuius hexametros quosdam citatos, quos Virgilianos ille putat, nos verò ne Statianos quidem. Non luætabimur tamen pluribus verbis; sufficiet suam cuique sententiam esse; nobis, nostram: illud autem oramus; ut, quoniam ipse Alembertus ab aliis magni nominis viris dissentire solet, nos quoque à se, omnino sine iracundiâ, sed non sine dolore, dissentientes æquo animo patiatur.

Utrum verò Gallis aut Gallorum amatoribus opus hoc nostrum sit placitum, solliciti parùm sumus; dummodo civibus nostris, et nobilissimæ, quæ nos aluit, Academiæ, in quorum honorem et coepti sunt et perfecti, labores nostri arriserint; quid enim aliud optamus, quam ut illis jucunda sint et utilia, quæ et adhuc perfecimus et facturi sumus in posterum? Illud dolet, quod literis humanioribus cogimur vale dicere: dolet autem? nonne potius lætari decet, eum nobis patere vitae cursum, quo melius et efficacius oppressos levare, miseris opitulari, tyrannidem avertere poterimus? Si enim queratur, Ecquis hominum sit maximus; Ille, inquam, qui optimus: si rursus interroger, Quis optimus hominum sit; respondam, deam, Is, qui de humano genere fit optimè meritus. Utrum verò per literarum studia, per mutas artes, per moliores animi lusūs, de hominibus tam bene mereri possimus, quām agendo, laborando, eloquendo, isti viderint, qui ita se in studiis abdunt, ut nihil inde ad patriam aut cives commodi perveniat: equidem haud puto. Satis jam in umbrâ prolusisse videor; nunc in pulverem atque aciem vocor. Quid de me fortuna statuerit, ignoro; illud scio, nihil à me ardentius expeti, quām, provectâ tandem ætate et excuso spatio, ad Academiæ dilectissimos recessūs, tanquam ad portum, configere; ubi non inertiâ, quam natura mea haud patitur, sed otio honesto perfriu potero, et studia hæc diù intermissa recolere, quæ me curriculum hoc forense, in quod sum statim ingressurus, ulteriùs prosequi non finit.

POESEOS ASIATICÆ

COMMENTARIORUM

PARS PRIMA.

CAPUT I.

Asiaticos ferè omnes Poeticæ impensis effe deditos.

INSTITUENTI mihi de Poesi Asiaticâ differere, prima fese offert Hebræorum poesis, verbis splendida, sententiis magnifica, translationibus elata, compositione admirabilis, origine tandem, quod de nullâ aliâ dici potest, verè divina. Laudare tamen Vates illos Sanctissimos, &c, quanta sit in eorum carminibus cùm elatio dicendi, tum etiam pulchritudo, exponere, nec mihi sanè erit facile, nec lectori necessarium. Opus enim de Sacra Poesi absolutissimum, nemo est, opinor, in his studiis versatus, qui non perlegerit; nemo, cui non summam admirationem attulerit cùm argumenti dignitas, & eruditio auctoris singulare judicium, tum Latini sermonis venustas ac nitor.

Humilius equidem argumentum mihi tractandum proposui; sed difficultatis, sed laboris plenissimum. Etenim è fontibus reconditionibus, ac propè propè obstrūctis, haurienda est materia; revocandi sunt in lucem Poetæ, quorum opera obscuravit vetustas, & quorum pœnè memoriam delevit oblivio. Præterea, refutandi sunt imperitorum hominum sermones, debellandi errores, minuenda opinionum perversitas. Itaque, ut Varronis utar verbis, “ non mediocres tenebræ in sylvâ, ubi hæc captanda; neque “ eò, quò pervenire volumus, semitæ tritæ; neque non in tramitibus “ quædam objæcta, quæ euntem retinere possunt.”

Aggredior scilicet de iis gentibus disputare, quarum poesin reformidant fastidiosæ Europæorum aures. Nos enim translationes mitigare solemus, ac lenire; Asiatici verò, temerè & incitatius exaggerare: nos studemus ut verecundæ sint, & quodammodo se facilè insinuent metaphoræ; illi, ut violentè irruant: nos, ut sint polite, nitidæ, venustæ, nec longè ducta; illi res pervagatas & in medio positas transvolant, & interdum longissimè repetitas captant imagines, quas ad satietatem usque cumulant: Europæi denique poetæ in eo potissimum laborant, ut jucundè, ut dilucidè scribant; Asiatici, ut vastè, ut luxuriosè, ut dissolutè. Inde fit, ut, si cùm Arabum ac Persarum carminibus comparetur elatissima Europæorum poesis (Græcam semper excipio), remissè protinus fluere, & quasi labi videatur,

*Ut lana tincta purpuram citrè placet,
At si contuleris eam lacernæ, Conspœctu melioris obruatur*,*

sed hanc tamen Asiaticæ dictionis elationem, vix aut ne vix quidem percipiet is, qui interpretationes tantummodo leget: sua est enim linguis omnibus gratia, & quasi color proprius; sua porro verborum series & collocatio, ac sententiarum junctura, quas si quis dissolverit, totam continuò distulerit suavitatem, totumque venustatis lumen extinxerit.

* Ovid. apud Quintil. Instit. lib. x. cap. x.

Asiaticorum igitur poemata legentibus, tenenda est eorum historia; perdiscendi sermones, quorum exquisitiores elegantiæ sunt investigandæ, cognoscendi mores, disciplinæ, opiniones, fabulæ, proverbia; carmina demum Persarum atque Arabum, oculis & mentibus, ut ita dicam, Asiaticis, legant necesse est *.

Nec verò me latet nonnullorum hominum increbuissé sermonem, qui harum gentium poesin incultam esse autumant, & horridam. Illis abundè erit, ut spero, in hoc opusculo responsum, satisque probatum, ea ipsa poemata, quæ injucunda & impolita temerè dici solent, delestante potius atque allicere incredibili varietate et copiâ. Verè mihi videor esse dicturus: tametsi majestatem Homeri, suavitatem Theocriti, magnificentiam Pindari, Apollonii elegantiam, Sophoclis vim, Euripidis facilitatem, Æschyli audaces figuræ, Anacreontis hilaritatem, Ibyci ardorem, Stesichori gravitatem, mollitiem Alcmanis, venustatem Bacchylidis, neminem unquam scribendo consequi posse censendum est; negari tamen non potest, quin suæ sint poetis Asiaticis, à naturalibus eæ quidem rebus deductæ, proprietates; sui-que pulchritudinis colores, ad quorum laudem poesis Europaea haudquaquam accedit.

Neque enim abesse potest, quin ii poetæ lœtissimis abundant imaginibus, qui versentur inter amoenissimos campos, lucos, hortulos; qui deliciis atque amoribus toti vacent, qui tandem in iis regionibus commorentur, ubi solis nitor cœlique serenitas raro nubibus obscuratur; ubi summâ florum ac fructuum ubertate cumulata natura luxuriat quodammodo & quasi lascivit; ubi denique (ut vetus ait poeta)

*Segetes largiri fruges, florere omnia,
Fontes scatere, herbis prata convestririer †.*

* Vide, De Sacra Poesi, Praelect. vi. & vii.

† Apud Cic. Tuscul. Quæst. lib. i.

Ac nemo ferè est, qui ne sciat plurima poëeos ornamenta ex imaginibus rerum naturalium derivari : maximam autem Perfidis partem, totamque eam Arabiam, quæ est à veteribus primùm Felix nominata, feracissimas regiones, ac deliciarum omnium abundantissimas, esse scimus.

Arabia verò ea, quæ Deserta vocatur, rerum earum plena est, ex quibus formidinis ac terroris depromantur imagines, quæque adeò ad elationem dicendi sint longè omnium aptissimæ : fæpe igitur in Arabum antiquorum carminibus, heroes inducuntur incedentes

— — — Via altâ atque arduâ
Per speluncas saxis struetas, asperis, pendentibus,
Maximis ; ubi rigida constat crassa caligo.

Ob has præcipue naturæ proprietates, & ob hanc vivendi consuetudinem, Arabas Persasque imaginibus, tum venustis tum etiam elatis, abundare arbitror, ideoque poeticam, quæ his imaginibus potissimum constat, studiosissimè colere.

Hoc argumentum ad reliquas etiam gentes Asiaticas transferri potest, quarum scilicet ulla ad nos pervenit cognitio : sed juvat opinionem nostram exemplis illustrare, & pauca de Sinenium, Indorum, Tartarorum, aliorumque, poesi antè dicere, quam ad Arabum sylvas, & uberrimos Persarum hortos, accesserimus.

In Sinenium linguâ, quæ, si magno scriptorum gregi * fides habenda sit, est omnium copiosissima, volumen extat per vetustum, quod partes complectitur quinque, & Shi king vocatur : trecentas hic liber Odas continet de moribus, officiis, virtutibus ; quæ eximiam habere dicuntur numerorum dulcedinem, imaginum venustatem. Una ex his Odis, quæ mihi valdè arrisit, citatur à Confucio, Platone illo, si ita dicere liceat, Sinensium ; cuius * opera gravissima Oxonii asservantur. Carmen ipsum, Latinis versibus utcunque redditum, libet subjungere : verba Sinica, & versionem fidam, separatim addamus necesse est, propter novas literarum formas, quas æneæ tabulæ incidendas curavimus.

Vides ut agros dulcè gemmatos lavet
 Argenteus rivi latex ;
 Virides ut aura stridulo modulamine
 Arundines interstrepant !
 Sic, sic amœno cincte virtutum choro,
 Princeps, amabiliter nites.
 Ut maximo labore, & arte maximâ
 Effingit artifex ebur,
 Sic ad benignitatem amica civium
 Blandè figuræ pectora.
 Ut delicata gemmulam expolit manus
 Fulgore lucentem aureo,
 Sic civitatem mitium gaudes tuam
 Ornare morum lumine.
 O quam verenda micat in oculis lenitas !
 Minantur & rident simul ;
 O quanta pulchro dignitas vultu patet,
 Et quantus incessu decor !
 Scilicet amœno, cincte virtutum choro,
 Princeps, amabiliter nites.
 Annon per omne, Veris instar, seculum
 Memoria florescat tui ? †

Egregium hoc est vetustatis monumentum ; floruit enim princeps, qui à poetâ Sinico laudatur, circiter octingentos ante Christum annos : docet porrò, similitudinibus à sculptore eboris, & geminarum politore ductis, quàm remoto seculo gens ea ingeniosissima elegantiores artes coluerit.

Nec pauciora in sermone Indico scripta sunt poemata * ; sed Indi recentiores, post Mogolorum δυναστειαν à Timuri nepotibus restauratam, Persicè omnino scribunt, ideoque sunt Perfis subjungendi. Dicendi genere utuntur elato & magnifico, vel potius abutuntur ; quod ex versibus quibusdam (licet subinsulis) intelligere possumus, quos contexuit Indus quidam, ex illorum ordine qui Bramanes appellantur. Hic enim, singularis cùm dignitatis tum eruditionis virum laudare instituens, carmen composuit ; quo patronum in cœlum effert, & verbis hisce tumidis ac ridiculis alloquitur :

Utcunque celeris terga sonipedit premas,
Agitata subito terra contremiscere ;
O>que elephantes, vasta mundi columina,
Sub impetu ascendentis incurvescere.

Astabat tum fortè, cùm hæc recitarentur, Bernierus medicus †, vir in primis doctus, & jucundus scriptor, qui illo tempore commorabatur in India. Is, insulsam hominis irridens adulationem, dixit in aurem Principi, quo utebatur perfamiliariter, “ Cave igitur saepius equum conscendas, “ princeps, ne miseri populi tam crebris terræ motibus pessimè multentur.” Tum ille comiter, “ Ob hanc rem, inquit, in lecticâ ‡ ple-“ rumque vehi soleo.”

Qualis tamen fuerit veterum Indorum, in regione Coromandelicâ habitantium, poësis, planè nescimus. Extat certè quidem vetustissimus liber Indicus, per totam Afiam collaudatus, quem Arabes Callila wa Demna vocant, vocant, & quem in omnes ferè Europæ linguas redditum habemus. In eo summam gravitatem & sapientiam non desidero ; sed prorsus ei deesse videtur poeticus ille flos & color : quod ex interpretatione fidâ docti cuiusdam Arabis intelligi potest, quâ nihil exilius, nihil pressius, nihil à poesi magis alienum. Postea verò Persicus interpres, & deinde Turcicus, mirificos addebat cincinnos, ut ita loquar, & pigmentorum colores.

Tartarorum etiam poetæ, post receptam apud eos Mohammedis religionem, linguis utuntur Arabicâ & Persicâ ; nec dubito quin sit illis excelsum ac vehemens ingenium, licet paullo horridius : quod perspici potest ex duobus illis in libro Zafar nama versibus, quibus invictus ille Tartariæ rex, Timurus, milites suos ad acriter dimicandum dicitur incendisse :

بزم مردان عرصه رزمسن وعشرت داد وکیر باده خون دشمن وجام دمادم تیغ وتیر

hoc est ad verbum, Locus compotationis fortium virorum est belli campus ; lætitiae autem cantus, pugnantium clamores, vinum, sanguis hostium ; pro crateribus verò, gladiis ac spiculis identidem utuntur.

Afferit porrò scriptor gravissimus, Ibn Arabshah, “ Incolas Corasmie & Sogdianæ pariter esse poeticæ deditos, sed his illos esse præstantiores ; adeò ut in urbe eorum præcipuâ, pueruli etiam in cunis delicatissimis vocibus & cantioni finitimi vagiant †.”

Armenis

Armenis quoque & Syris, non dubitari potest, quin sui fuerint poetæ. In Kircheri de Musicâ libro versùs quidam citantur, in Armeniaco sermone, non invenisti ; & ab Herbeloto laudatur Syrus nescio quis, qui Homeri poemata dicitur patriâ linguâ elegantissimè reddidisse. Per pauca tamen, reor, vel in hoc vel in illo sermone extant carmina ; nam, cùm Mohammedani omnes ferè Christianorum, in Aſid commorantium, libros combusserint, sacerdotes, plūs æquo superstitioni, eos tantummodò è flammis eripere voluerunt, quos ad religionem & sacras disciplinas spectare arbitrarentur †.

Idem Æthiopibus arbitror contigisse ; quorum linguam haud vereor inter Asiaticas numerare, utpote quæ sit Arabicæ simillima, & ex Asiam sine dubio oriunda.

Cæterùm in Æthiopum sermone paucissima mihi videre contigit poeos specimina. Sæpe à Ludolfo citatur Æthiopicum poema de Fafis, sive, ut ipse ait, de rerum cœlestium ac terrestrium laudatione, quod nec injucundum esse videtur, nec inelegans ; &, tametsi multus sit fortasse & nimius in miraculis denarrandis poeta, in eo tamen ardor quidam ḥe:θ:, ac vis ingenii illucescit ; prætereà carmen suum latet iis imaginibus ornat, quibus tota ferè dictio Asiatica collustrari solet. Versùs quosdam ex hoc poemate, Latinè adumbratos, apponam ; sed literæ Æthiopicæ,

ويشتراك في ذلك الخاض منهم والعام وبها هو مشهور عنهم ان
الطفل في المهد منهم اذا بكى او قال آه فان ذلك يكون في
شعبة دوكاه *

Nimis hæc sunt facilia, quām ut interprete egeant. Ultima vox est Persica, Musicæ propria. Vid. etiam Herbel. Bibl. Orient. pag. 1001.

† Stephanus Petrus, patriarcha Antiochenus, ad Huntingdonum Italicè scribens, hæc habet : I nostri libri sono andati tutti sotto l'acqua e fuochi, e, mancando chi scriva di nuovo, li libri antichi sono andati sempre perdendo ; e non si son conservati per lo più, se non i libri ch'erano necessarii per il culto della santissima religione.

quippe

quippe minus elegantes, & vix dignæ cognitu, omitti sine dispendio possunt :

Nunc immitis hyems fugit,
 Nec sonantibus agri
 Molles rigantur imbribus.
 Tu, qui pratula floribus
 Suave-olentibus ornas,
 Qui lucida regis sydera,

 Ac, dum per virides apis
 Dulce murmurat hortos,
 Jucunda delibans thyma,
 Da, suavi mihi carmine, ut

Fuit etiam Aethiops quidam, quo familiariter utebatur Ludolfus, & cui poeticum ingenium non videtur defuisse. Scripsit is elegiam in obitum Principis Ernesti, qui puer admodum cessit è vitâ ; &, pulchritudinem pueri laudans, ait, Vultus nitore vicit ille beryllon.

 deinde copiosius,

Bellissimi videbuntur hi versūs lectori Arabicè scienti; & pulchræ profectò sunt similitudines cùm poetæ tum poetriæ: eandem comparationem innuit, cùm de flore illo verecundiae loquatur, venustus poeta Lycophronides, cuius versiculos (etsi Græcas sententias Latinis immiscere admodum displiceat) ob eximiam dulcedinem citabo:

Die quodam in febrim incidit puella, &, jam propè sopitâ ægritudine, in lectulo dormivit. Tum amicus, qui anteà cubiculum non reliquerat, lavatum ibat. Illa expergefacta, ubi esset amicus, percontata est. Dicebant famuli in balneo esse: ea verò chartulam afferri jussit, & hos scripsit versiculos, quos illicò ad poetam misit:

يا عاشقي لو كنت عاشقاً لما
فضحتك عندي محنّة الايام
فوالله ما انصفت في شرع الروي
انا في الحبّام وانت في الحبّام

“ Ab, anime mi, si verè me amares, non te fortunæ iniquitas à me disjungeret: profectò haud æqua mibi tecum pars amoris est; ego in ipsâ morte versor, tu in balneo te oblectas.” Ubi observandus est non illepidus, ut Asiatici putant, verborum lusus, vox enim bimám mortem significat, hammám verò, balneum.

“ Poeta versùs amicæ legit; aliquantulum chartæ illachrymavit; tum rescriptis ex tempore :

ولم ادخل الحبّام تصدّي تنعي
فكيف ونار الوجد بين جوانحي
ولكنني لم يكعني فيض ادمعي
دخلت لا بكى من جميع جوارحي

“ Non ideò intrabam balneum, ut me oblectarem: quomodo enim? dum ignis desiderii in peccatore meo ardet: sed non miki satisfecit lacrymarum effusio; idcirco intrabam, ut ab unoquoque membro flere possem.”

Illo regnante nullus est auditus gemitus, nisi arcus tinnientis; illo regnante nibil curvum, præter arcum, inveniri potuit; illo rege, nullus præter Adeni unionem, fuit pupillus; illo imperatore, nullum, præter Khoteni moschum, cor sanguineum extabat †.

Nec solum poetica esse videmus Asiaticorum ingenia, verum etiam linguae eorum sunt ad poesin accommodatissimæ; dissimiles eæ quidem inter se, sed suo quæque in genere præstans. Suavitatem Persica, ubertatem ac vim Arabica, mirificam habet Turcica dignitatem: prima allicit atque oblectat; altera sublimius vehitur, & fertur quodammodo incitatiūs; tertia elata est sanè, sed non sine aliquā elegantiā & pulchritudine. Ad lusūs igitur & amores sermo Persicus, ad poemata heroica & eloquentiam Arabicus, ad moralia scripta Turcicus videtur idoneus.

Philosophorum omnium post renatas literas (Magnus ille noster Newtonus perpetuò excipitur) princeps, Verulamius, opus egregium fore rebatur de variis linguarum proprietatibus tractationem ‡. Ait enim, idque verissimè, “Ex populorum sermonibus mores eorem atque ingenia accū-“ ratissimè dignosci posse.” Quod verò afferit Vir admirabilis de Græcorum ac Romanorum linguis, nempe hos verba composita valde reformidare, illos vocum compositionibus in primis delectari, id transferri ad Persarum atque Arabum sermones rectissimè potest; unde colligimus Persas artibus, Arabes rebus gerendis fuisse aptiores; “Artium enim, inquit ille, “distinctiones, verborum compositionem ferè exigunt; at res & negotia “simpliciora verba postulant.” Deinde hos graves ac severos esse cognoscimus, illos luxuriosos, voluptuarios, dissolutos; quod illi in compositione redundant ac diffluant, hi contrà breves sint, cauti, enucleati, pressi; raro effundantur, neque abutantur verborum copiâ, & saepe uno verbo sensa dilucidiūs exponant, quam nos pluribus sententiis.

† Vid. Præfationem elegantem libri Homaiún Nama. Et Herbel. in voce Khoten.

‡ De Augm. Scient. vi. 1.

Exemplo sit Motanabii, poetæ nobilissimi, versiculus, quo puellæ describit pulchritudinem :

بدت قبرًا ومالت خصن بان
وناحت عنبرًا ورننت غزالاً

hoc est, Tanquam luna enituit, & tanquam ramulus myrobalani delicatè se inflexit; & ambari odorem habuit, binnuleique tenerum aspeçtum.

Confitendum est Græcos, etiam in hac re, ad Arabum laudem proximè accedere; sic enim, sive Pherecrates, sive auctor fabulæ, quæ Perse inscribitur :

Ὥ οὐ μαλάχας μεν ἐπορῶν, ἀμπτίνεων δ' ὑάκινθον,
Καὶ λαλῶν μελιλάτινον, κὴ ἔόδαι προσεσηρώς,
Ὥ οὐ φιλῶν μεν ἀμαράκον, προσκινῶν δὲ σέλινον.

Nihil certè his versibus dulcius, nihil venustius. Sed versiculi illius Arabici, cum summâ brevitate conjuncta, elegantia linguâ Latinâ exponi nullo paecto potest; si dicamus enim,

Non vitis illâ flexa delicatior,
Non clarius lunæ jubar,
Non dulcis aura balsami fragrantior,
Non hinnuli oculus blandior.

quàm inconcinna hæc fint cum illis comparata!

Sed de poesi Asiaticâ in genere satis multa. Nunc ad eam speciatim tractandam accedimus; ac primùm de Arabum, Persarum, ac Turcarum poesi, quatenus ad versuum formam & structuram attinet, -est differendum.

De metris Asiaticis.

ASIATICI carminis naturam ac leges tractaturus, videor mihi quodammodo in dumetum quoddam esse delapsus, in quo nihil est aut suave aut jucundum. At ne qua tamen res, quæ ad poezin Asiaticam pertinet, intacta à me relinquatur, exponam in hoc capite, quam brevissimè potero, varia metrorum genera, quibus tum Arabes ac Persæ, tum etiam Turcæ utuntur: & quoniam in hoc sermone Europæos alloquor, utar vocabulis in Europâ cognitis, ne peregrinis durisque vocibus lectores deterram; quod illos fecisse video, qui idem argumentum anteà tractaverunt. Quis enim intelligere potest quid hæc velint: “Aruda secunda Hadhdbata est; cui duæ competunt Darbæ, prima Hadhdbata, secunda Hadhdbata Damrata. Quaternario Aruda unica est sana, cui Darbæ “quatuor, Rafleta, Dhailata Nuda, & Katata†?” Profectò hæc legenti cuivis tam obscura videbuntur quàm Hannonis in fabulâ Plautinâ personati oratio Punica. Sed nos ad argumentum, magis dilucidè tractandum, veniamus.

وَعَادَ لَهُ كِبِيرٌ أَلَّا سُرُورٌ يَسْعُ دُونَ حَلَازِينَ

فِي الْحَلَاقَةِ عَدْ مُضَدُّهُ

لَهُ خَلْقٌ كَالْتَّسِيْرِ لَطَافٌ وَحَلْقٌ لَرَانَا الْبَرَّ

يُصْرِنْكَى حَلْقٌ مَعْ صَفَانَى قَانْشِنْكَى الْأَكَمَ

فَصَابِلَهُ كَالْرَّدَنَ وَالْعَظَرَ كَثَرَ وَاللَّهُ

Magna est in poesi Asiaticâ metrorum varietas, in quâ ne Græcæ quidem cedit: hoc tamen præcipuè interest, quod Arabes & Persæ plures habeant syllabas longas quam breves, Græci verò pluribus utantur brevibus quam longis; unde fit, ut tribrachyn, proceleusmaticum, primum pœona, aliosque pedes volubiles, quibus Græci tum poetæ tum oratores delectantur, Asiatici in versibus non adhibeant. Apud Arabes, si literâ (ut vocant) immortâ syllaba terminetur, longa semper est, sin minus, brevis; ut قَدْ kād, بَ bē.

Pleraque voces, quibus de re metricâ utuntur Asiatici, à tentorio translatæ sunt, propter similitudinem quandam inter ædificium tentorii, & versuum strueturam, quemadmodum illa Pindarica,

Χρυσέας ὑποσάσταντες εὐ-τειχεῖ προθύρων θαλάμου
Κίονας, ὡς ἵτε θαυτὸν μέγαρον
Πάξομεν——& quæ sequuntur.

Sic versum بيت seu domum vocitant, & hemistichium مصراع seu januam; syllabam longam, & pyrrichium longæ temporibus æqualem, chordas non minant, iambum & choreum, paxillos. Hæc autem imago, quæ non est sanè injucunda, à communi Arabum نهادون seu campestrium vitâ depromitur.

Sequitur ut de pedibus poeticis differam. Puri igitur pedes sunt vel diffyllabi,

Pyrrichius	فَعْ fāă.
Iambus	فَعَلْ fāal.
Trochæus	فَعَلْ fālā.
Spondæus	فَعَلَنْ fālān.
vel trisyllabi,

Amphimacer	فَاعِلنْ	fālōn.
Amphibrachys	فَعَوْلْ	fāulō.
Antibacchius	مَغَعُولْ	māfūlō.
Molossus	مَغَعُولْنْ	māfūlōn.

Pedes compositi, seu potius numeri, sunt

Pæon secundus	مَعَاعِلْ	mōfālō.
Pæon tertius	فَعَلَاتْ	fālātō.
Pæon quartus	فَعَلَشْنْ	fālātōn.

Ionicus à majori	مُسْتَغَلْ	mōstāfīlō.
Ionicus à minori	فَعَلَاتْنْ	fālātōn.

Habent præterea duos pedes compositos ; alterum, ex iambo & ana-pæsto, alterum ex anapæsto & iambo. Haud sum nescius pedem dochimū ex bacchio & iambo componi, ut reipublicæ ; sed, quoniam aliud vocabulum non occurrit, duos illos pedes dochimos nominabo. Est igitur

Dochimus secundus مُتَعَالَّنْ mōtäälätōn.

qui dochimo veterum sunt numero syllabarum æquales, temporibus non valde disparens.

Nunc de carminum generibus five البخور dicendum est: ea sunt sedecim.

الطوبل Longum, Epitritobacchiacum.

المديد Extensum, Trochæocreticum.

البسيط Expansum, Iambocreticum prius.

الوافر Copiosum, Dochimeum prius.

الكامل Perfectum, Dochimeum secund.

الهجز Lyricum, Epitriticum.

الرجز Tremulum, Iambicum.

الرمل Breve, Trochaicum.

السريع Velox, Iambocreticum secundum.

المنسج Mobile, Iambotrochaicum.

الخفيف Leve, Trochæoambicum.

المضارع Simile, Antispasticum.

المقتضب Concisum, Choriambicum.

المجثث Amputatum, Ionicum.

المتقارب Conjunctum, Bacchiacum.

المتدارك Consequens, Creticum.

Prima species constat ex bacchio & primo epitrito quater repetito ; sed in quartâ & octavâ sede recipere potest diiambum, ut

Amator | puellarum | miser fæ | pè fallitur
Ocellis | nigris, labris | odoris, | nigris comis.

& in octavâ bacchium, ut

Amator | puellarum | miser fæ | pè fallitur,
Ocellis | nigris, blandâ | que vocis | loquelâ.

Interdum verò in locis imparibus admittit pro bacchio amphibrachyn, in quarto diiambum, ut

Legenda, | puer, rosa est : | Aprilis | adeſt, adeſt !
Legenda, | puer, rosa est : | Corinna | rosas poscit.

interdum in primâ sede ſpondaxum recipit, in secundâ & ſextâ antiſpaſtum, ut

Phyllis | comas pulchra | renoda | bat aureas ;
Hylas hanc | videns igne | calebat | Dei alati.

Nonnunquam etiam in primâ sede trochæus invenitur, ut

Ridet | amatores | Corinna ; ah ! | cave, cave.
Amator | puellarum | miser fæ | pè desperat.

Hujus generis est Tarafæ elegia, seu ſecunda, ut vocatur, Moallaca, ut

وفي الحي احوي ينفض الماء شادن مظاهر سمطي لولو وزيرجد

“ In tribu autem erat hinnulus fuscus habens oculos, qui recentes baccas decuffit,

“ Exhibens duo fila margaritarum & ſmaragdorum.”

Waf'lbai | iabwayan | fodbo'lmerd | afbadinon.

Modhaber | osimthalu | luinwa | zabargidin.

Secunda species constat ex epitrito & amphimacro, sequente epitrito,
ut

Inter umbras | arborum | sic jacentes
Dulce carmen | barbito | succinamus.

in tertiat & sextat sede pro epitrito amphimacrum admittit,

Inter umbras | arborum | sic jacens
Dulce carmen | barbito | succinis.

& interdum in sextat spondæum,

Inter umbras | arborum | sic jacens
Dulce plectro | succinis | carmen.

& in tertiat ac sextat anapæstum,

Inter umbras | arborum | virides
Dulcè plangis, | dum nemus | resonat.

Nonnunquam penitus mutatur versus, & in primo, tertio, quarto & sesto loco ionicum à minori recipit, in secundo & quinto anapæstum,

ut

Miserorum est | nec ama | re puellas,
Neque blandæ | Veneri | dare ludum.

aut pro ionico dichoreum, pro anapæsto amphimacrum,

Nunc bibamus, | O boni, | nunc amemus,
Nunc canamus | ad lyram | suave carmen.

Tertia species constat ex epitrito tertio, & amphimacro quater repetitis, si tetrameter est versus : in quartat & octavat sede anapæstum recipit, ut

Vobis

Vobis cano, | virgines, | vobis cano, | pueri,
Jucundius | nil amore | est, pulchrius | ve piō.

& in octavâ spondæum,

Vobis cano, | virgines | vobis cano, | pueri,
Jucundius | nil amore, | aut pulchrius | nil est.

Versus trimeter quatuor habet epitritos, & duos amphimacros, ut

Vobis cano, | virgines, | vobis cano,
Jucundius | nil amore | est mutuo.

qui etiam in tertiatâ & sextatâ sede molossum admittit,

Vobis cano, | virgines | formosæ,
Jucundius | nil amore | est puro.

Nonnunquam pro epitrito tertio diiambum habet, pro amphimacro ana-pæstum, ut

Per arbores | Philome | la, blanda avis, | quid ait ?

“ Ubi est merum | nitidum ? | rosæ, fides, | ubi sunt ? ”

aut in primo, tertio, quinto, & septimo loco choriambum habet, in se-cundo & sexto creticum, in quarto & ultimo anapæstum, ut

Alma Venus, | parvuli | mater amo | ris, ades,
Sit facilis | jam mihi, | sit mihi ami | ca, Chloë !

vel pro choriambō pæona quartum admittit, ut

Amor habet | dulce mel, | sed habet idem | aloën,
Leviter is | mella præ | bet, aloën | cumulat.

Porrò versus trimeter in ultimâ sede recipit interdum diiambum, ut

Vobis

Vobis cano, | virgines, | vobis cano,
Jucundius | nil amo | re mutuo est.

aut choriambum,

:: : | :: : | :: :

Vos alloquor, | virgines, | vos alloquor,
Jucundius | nil amo | re est tenero.

aut quartum pœnæ,

:: : | :: : | :: :

Vos alloquor, | virgines, | vos alloquor,
Jucundius | nil amo | re tenero est.

Nonnunquam verò & in tertio & in sexto loco bacchium habet, ut

:: : | :: : | :: :

Vos alloquor, | virgines | venustæ,
Jucundius | nil amo | re puro est.

Ad hoc genus pertinet Tograi elegantissimum carmen, ut

تنام عنى وعين النجم ساهرة
وتسكيل وصبغ الليل لم بحل

“Dormis me relieto ; at stellæ oculus non dormit : .

“Et tu mutaris ; at noctis color non mutatur.”

◦◦◦ | ◦◦◦ | ◦◦◦ | ◦◦◦

Tenámo án | níwaei | nonníjmisa | hiraton
◦◦◦ | ◦◦◦ | ◦◦◦ | ◦◦◦

Watáftahei | lo wasib | golleili lam | yaholi.

Nos quoque sumus eodem genere usi, in tribus versiculis Arabicis, quos olim exercitationis gratiâ adolescentuli compofuimus :

اذا نسيم الصباء يدب في الشجر
الم يحب نشق المشروم والثمر *
سيول زرق من الريضان قد دعبت

فاحت بها نفحة الريحان والزهر *
 فيا غزالى اذا تنول لي القدح يا شاب ريحك شب نسورة السكر *

id est ad verbum,

*Cùm lenis zephyrus inter arbores subrepit,
 Annos secum affert moschi, & pomorum odorem?
 Cærulei rivuli ex hortulis ludentes saliunt,
 In quibus dulcis ocimi & florum odor afflatur:
 Sic, O puella binnuko similis, cùm poculum mibi affers, Tuus halitus, amica, vini odorem auget atque accendit.*

Observa in ultimo versu یلsum verborum شب & شاب quorum posterius cùm adolescere, tum etiam accendere significat.

Quarta species ex priore dochimo constat sexies repetito, si trimetri sunt versiculi, si dimetri, quater, ut

◦◦◦◦|◦◦◦◦|◦◦◦◦

Genis roseis, | nigrisque oculis, | nigrisque comis,
 Amore facis | tepere meum, | Corinna, finum.

&

◦◦◦◦|◦◦◦◦

Venusta puel | la, tarda venis ;
 Parata rosa est, | parata chelys.

Trimetri in tertio & sexto loco admittunt bacchium, ut

◦◦◦◦|◦◦◦◦|◦◦◦◦

Venusta puel | la, tarda venis | ad hortum,
 Parata lyra est, | paratus odor | rosarum.

& in primo vel choriambum, ut

◦◦◦◦|◦◦◦◦|◦◦◦◦

Pulchra puel | la, tarda venis | ad hortum,
 Parata lyra est, | paratus odor | rosarum.

vel

vel molossum, ut

Phryne pul | chra, tarda venis | ad hortum,
Parata lyra est, | paratus odor | rosarum.

vel amphibrachyn, ut

Chloë me | a, tarda venis, &c.

vel etiam creticum, ut

Pulchra ami | ca, tarda venis, &c.

Dimetri in ultimâ sede epitritum primum recipiunt, ut

Puella venust | a, tarda venis,
Parata lyra est, | merum, flores.

Nonnunquam hoc carminis genus in singulis locis, excepto tertio & ultimo, (ubi s^epius est bacchius) primum epitritum admittit, ut

Amatores | puellarum | misellos
Ocellorum | nitor multos | fefellit.

nisi hi versiculi potius ad sextam speciem pertineant; certe eodem metro utitur Hafez, poeta Persicus, in illo carmine,

خواشا شیراز و وضع بی مثالش
خداآوندا نکهدار از زوالش

Ab dulcem urbem Schirazum! & situm ejus eximium!

O Deus, hanc urbem à ruinâ defende !

interdum verò recipit diiambum, ut

— — — — | — — — — | — — — —

qui versūs sunt iambici puri trimetri cataleptici; velut illi Horatiani,

Trabuntque

*Trakuntque siccas macbinæ carinas :
Nec prata canis albicant pruinis.*

sed Arabici puriores sunt,

منازل لقرتنا قفار
كأنبا رسومها سطور
Menázil | lekártaná | kifáron
Cáinnamá | rofúmohá | sothúron.

nonnunquam verò fiunt antipaſtici trimetri cataleptici, ut

Chloë pulchra, | venis tarda; | parantur
Scyphi, vina, | lyra, unguenta, | corollæ.

Ad hanc ſpeciem pertinet admirabile illud Abi'lola carmen,

اعن وحد القلاص كشفت حالا
ومن عند الظلام طلبت مالا

*An è celeri camelorum gressu robur eorum cognoscis?
An è tenebris divitias petis?*

Aán wakhdíl | kiláficasħaf | tahála
Waminindadh | dhalámithalab | tamála.

Quinta species ex dochimis ſecundis conſtat: ſunt autem verſūs vel ſenarii, ut

Tria grata ſunt | animo meo, ut | melius nihil,
Oculi nigri, | cyathus nitens, | roſeus calyx.

qui in ultimâ fede iōnicum minorem admittunt,

Tria grata ſunt | animo meo, ut | melius nihil,
Oculi nigri, | cyathus nitens, | roſa fulgens.

vel

vel spondæum, ut

Tria grata sunt | animo meo, ut | melius nihil,
Oculi nigri, | cyathus, rosarum | hortus.

interdum in tertio & sexto loco anapæstum habent, ut brachycatalectici sint dochimei,

Tria grata sunt | animo meo, | Glycere,
Oculi nigri, | roseus calyx, | cyathus.

vel quaternarii, qui nonnunquam syllabâ longâ ita augmentur, ut fiant hypercatalecticci,

c c - c - | c c - c - |

Tria grata sunt | animo meo,
Oculi nigri, | cyathus, rosæ | flos.

nonnunquam ionicum minorem in ultimâ fede habent, ut

Tria grata sunt | animo meo,
Oculi nigri, | rosa, vinum.

Dicitur etiam hoc carminis genus recipere in singulis locis vel epitritum tertium, vel diiambum, ut fiant versus iambici trimetri acataleptici; sed hi ad septimam speciem seu carmen tremulum referendi sunt. Porro ad hanc speciem pertinere dicuntur versus choriambici, ut

منزلة صمّ صدّاها وعفت
ارسيّها ان سيلت لم تجب

Ménzilatón | fámmasadá | háwaafát

Arfomohá | ínfoilát | lámtogibí.

*Mansio, cuius Echo surda est, & delentur
Vestigia, si interrogetur, non respondet.*

Senarii denique versus in quartâ sede tertium epitritum, in ultimâ molossum possunt admittere, ut

◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | ◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | ◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ -
 Tria grata sunt | animo meo, | Glycere mea,
 Vinum nitens, | oculi nigri, | flos halans.

Quaternarii verò in ultimo loco recipiunt epitritum tertium & longam syllabam, ut

◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | ◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | .
 Tria grata sunt | animo meo,
 Oculi nigri, | vinum, rosæ | flos.

vel diiambum & longam, ut

◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | ◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | .
 Tria grata sunt | animo meo,
 Oculi nigri, | merum, rosæ | flos.

vel choriambum & eandem, ut

 Tria grata sunt | animo meo,
 Oculi nigri, | vina, rosæ | flos.

vel etiam molossum sine longâ, ut

◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | ◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | .
 Tria grata sunt | animo meo,
 Oculi nigri, | flos, vinum.

Sexta species constat ex epitritis primis : Versūs sunt plurimūm quaternarii, ut

◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | ◦ ◦ ◦ ◦ - | .
 Puellarum | doli multos
 Fefellerunt | amatores.

qui in ultimo loco bacchium recipiunt,

Hujusmodi autem generis versūs etiam Scazonēs appellari possunt.

Decima species est ea quam Græci Ἀσυνάρτητον appellant; complectitur enim epitritos quartos inter tertios, qui pedes naturā sunt dissociabiles,

: : : : | : : : : | : : : :
Dulces notæ, | quas blando ca | nis barbito,
Per sylvulas, | per virgulta, | perque nemus.

ubi in ultimâ sede choriambus est; recipit interdum pro tertiiis epitritis, choriambos, pro quartis, dichoreos, & in sexto loco molossum habet,

: : : - | : : : - | : : : -
Diva potens, | diva suavis, | alma Venus,

aut pro tertiiis, diiambos, pro quartis, antispastos, sequente choriambo,

: : : - | : : : - | : : : -
Phaselus il | le quem cerni | tis, hospites:
Phaselus il | le quem cerni | tis, pueri.

aut pro tertiiis, choriambos, pro quartis, dichoreos,

: : : - | : : : - | : : : -
Diva potens, | diva suavis, | alma Venus,
Prata Cypri | sperne; linque | prata Paphi.

Interdum sunt pœnici; & quartum pœona in primo & quarto loco recipiunt, in secundo verò & quinto, pœona tertium,

: : : - | : : : - | : : : -
Nimia ne | tibi sit co | lori fides,
Nitida te | rosa, Phylli | pulchra, monet.

Ad hanc speciem pertinere dicuntur iambici dimetri cataleptici,

هُلْ بِالدَّيْارِ اُنْسٌ

Lymphæ cadunt loquaces.

qui etiam pro bacchio molofsum recipiunt,

- - - | - - -

Fontes strepunt | manantes.

Species undecima etiam est Ἀσυνάρτητος, & continet numeros iambicos inter trochaicos; id est, epitritos tertios inter secundos,

: : : | : : : | : : :

Ver novum, ver | jam floridum est, | jam canorum :

Vere concor | dant alites, | vere nubunt.

recipit tamen in tertiat & sextat fede amphimacrum,

: : : | : : : | : : :

Ver canorum, | ver floridum est, | ver novum,

Vere carmen | lātum canunt | alites.

vel in sextat tantummodo, ut versus fit catalecticus,

: : : | : : : | : : :

Ver novum, ver | jam floridum est, | jam canorum,

Vere carmen | lātum canunt | alites.

Admittit nonnunquam in secundat & quintat fede diiambum, in reliquis ionicum minorem,

: : : | : : : | : : :

Miferorum est | neque impigro | pede terram

Quatere, aut lu | dum amoribus | dare blandis.

vel pro secundis epitritis dichoreos habet, & pro tertii ionicos à majori,

: : : | : : : | : : :

It puer co | mes virginis | bus, paratque

Spicula infici | is pectori | bus cruenta.

Interdum hi pedes variè inter se miscentur, ut

: : : | : : : | : : :

Amarylli,

Amarylli, | dulci lyrâ | modularē
Molle carmen | sub arbore | fusa sacrâ,

ubi quintus pes pæon secundus est; &

Molle carmen | sub arbore | fusa sacrâ
Modulare, | dum sylvulæ | respondent.

Nonnunquam in tertio & sexto loco recipitur anapæstus,

Jam puellæ | per hortulum, & | pueri
Lusitantes, | breves legunt | violas.

vel in sexto tantum,

Ver novum, ver | jam floridum est, | jam canorum
Vere cantu | dulci nemus | resonat.

Versus quaternarii sunt vel acatalecticici,

Ver novum, ver | jam floridum est, | vere amores | spirant leves.

vel catalecticici, id est, in ultimâ sede bacchium admittunt,

Ver novum, ver | jam floridum est, | vere ludunt | amores.

Species duodecima est antispastica, & constat ex antispasto, sequente secundo epitrito,

Merum suave | jam bibamus, | melos dulce | jam canamus.

sed in primo loco admittitur vel creticus,

Ad lyram | jam canamus, | merum dulce | jam bibamus.

vel antibacchius,

Per prata | lusitantes | rosas fulgi | das legamus.

Ad hanc speciem pertinere dicuntur iambici & trochaici puri ἀσυναρτητοί,

- - - | - - - | - - - | - - -

Mihi placet | jam per omne | nemus canens | lusitare.

ut in illo exemplo,

وقد ارایت الرجال فها اري مثل زید

Vidi autem homines, at neminem Zeido similem vidi.

Wacád araí | tórrijála | famá arí | míthla Zeídin.

In hac specie versūs tantū sunt quaternarii.

Species decimatertia partim trochaica est, partim choriambica, ut

- - - | - - - | - - - | - - -

Audienda | virginibus | blanda carmina | et pueris.

In primâ fede admittitur antispastus,

- - - | - - - | - - - | - - -

Canam suavi | ter pueris | mollibusque | virginibus.

Species decimaquarta tertium habet epitritum, secundo sequente,

- - - | - - - | - - - | - - -

Ver dulce, ver | jam canorum est, | lèti alites | vere nubunt.

In ultimâ fede admittit molossum,

- - - | - - - | - - - | - - -

Ver dulce, ver | jam canorum est, | & sylvulæ | respondent.

Item in locis imparibus diiambum recipit, in paribus ionicum minorem,

- - - | - - - | - - - | - - -

Placet color | violarum, at | superbiùs | rosa fulget.

Interdum in sedibus æqualibus ionicum majorem habet,

- - - | - - - | - - - | - - -

Tanquam breve | lilyum ve | nustas tua | mox peribit.

vel secundum pæona,

- - - | - - - | - - - | - - -

Monet rosa, | quàm caducus | nitor tui | fit coloris.

Ob frequentem pedis ionici usum, placet hanc speciem ionicam vocare.

Species decimaquinta est bacchiaca, & vel tetrametros habet versūs, qui constant ex octo bacchiis, vel trimetros, qui sex. Hi versūs apud Latinos in primā sede molossum recipere possunt, in reliquis, pœona, ut in Enianâ fabulâ personatus Thystes, Nolite, hof | pites, ad | me adire il | licò istic.

apud Asiaticos verò sunt vel tetrametri acatalectici,

◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦

Puellas | amo de | licatas, | venuftas,

Capillos | odoris | revinētas | corollis.

vel catalectici,

◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦

Puellas | amo de | licatas, | venuftas,

Capillos | odoris | revinētas | rofis.

vel brachycatalectici,

◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦

Puellas | amo de | licatas, | venuftas,

Capillos | odoris | rofis cinc | tas.

Interdum recipiunt etiam in unaquaque sede, præter ultimam, amphibrachyn,

◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦

Bibamus, | amice, | canamus, | amemus,

Amœni | us est quid | amore | beato ?

& nonnunquam spondeum in primā sede,

◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦

Quis non | puellas | amat de | licatas

Capillos | odoris | revinētas | corollis ?

interdum etiam in primā trochæum, in quartâ iambum,

◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦|◦◦◦

Ipse | puellas | venuftas | amo

Capillos | odoris | revinētas | coronis.

Versūs trimetri in tertio loco & in sexto, iambum habent,

: : | : : | : :
Puellas | venustas | amo
Capillos | revinctas | rosis.

vel in tertio iambum, in sexto syllabam longam,

: : | : : - | : :
Puellas | amo splen | didas
Capillos | rosis cinc | tas.

Species ultima est cretica: tetrammetri autem puri sunt, & ex octo constant amphimacris,

: : : | : : : | : : : | : : :
Quid petam | præsidī, aut | exequar ? | quo ve nunc
Applicem ? | quo rece | dam ? arce & ur | be orba sum.

Vet. Poet. apud Cic.

Trimetri vel puri sunt, ut

: : : | : : : | : : :
Quid petam | præsidī, aut | exequar ?
Quo rece | dam ? arce & ur | be orba sum.

vel in tertio & sexto loco minorem ionicum recipiunt, ut

: : : | : : : | : : :
Quid petam | præsidī ? | miseram me !
Nec mihi | gaudium, | neque spes est.

Nonnunquam singuli pedes, excepto primo, in anapæstos mutantur, ut sit versus propè anapæsticus, ut

: : : | : : : | : : : | : : :
Hinnulo | similis | fugis, O | Glycere,
Tenero, | pavido, | gracili, | querulo.

Ad hanc speciem pertinent versūs spondaici, anapæsticis tempore æquales, cuiusmodi est ille ab Ali, Mohammedis genero, † compositus,

ان الدنيا قد غرتنا واستهونا واستلهتنا

In nēddūnyā | kād ghārrātnā | wāstāhwātnā | wāstālhātnā.

hoc est ferè ad verbum,

Vitæ splendor | nos decepit, | nos oblectat, | nos delenit.

De Asiaticorum re metricâ vereor ne nimis loquaciter (cùm breviloquens esse instituisse) differuisse videar; sed me à proposito abduxit argumenti varietas & copia. Exempla Arabica aut Persica subjungere nolui, ne potius eruditionem plus æquo curiosam ostentare, quàm lectoris aut delectationi aut utilitati consulere, viderer.

Est autem ars metrica apud Arabes antiquissima: tametsi enim princeps de eâ libellum contexuit Ferahidius, seculo post fugam Mohammedis secundo, tamen ante Mohammedem natum, & fortasse à primâ gentis origine, poetas Arabia tulerat innumerabiles.

Atque in hoc loco de Hebræi carminis naturâ non alienum erit paucis differere; siquidem ea est linguae Hebrææ cum Arabicâ cognatio, ea poeseos utriusque gentis cùm in imaginibus, tum in figuris, similitudo; ut nequeam mihi persuadere, quin metra etiam Hebræa fuerint Arabicis persimilia, nisi quòd Arabum versiculi similiter desinant, veterum Hebræorum, non item; & hi quidem in eodem poemate diversis carminum generibus usi fuisse videantur, quod Pindarum cæterosque Lyricos fecisse perspicuum est. Itaque analogiâ ductus quasdam poeseos Hebrææ regulas describere conabor, non eas quidem ut certas, sed ut probabiles tantùm proponens; neque enim sum nescius plena esse errorum omnia, & in profundo demersam latere Veritatem. Puto igitur eas syllabas, quæ aut consonante, aut vocali, ئ, ة quiescente terminantur, ut ب bāl, ت bī, longas esse, quæ secus, ut ب bē, breves; sed in iis vocibus quæ † Vid. Clerici Prosed. Arab. pag. 148.

vocalibus carent, tenendas autumo vocales Arabicas. Et quoniam Arabes dicunt نَفْسِي nāfsī, anima mea, eodem modo vocem Hebraeorum נֶפֶשׁ nafṣī efferre non absurdum videtur; utrum verò Hebræi nafṣon pro nafṣ dixerint, ut in versibus metiendis Arabes, id certè neminem unquam sciturum arbitror.

Statuam itaque hos esse pedes Hebræos,

Spondæum,	נֶפֶשׁ	nāfsī.
Iambum,	צדיק	sādik.
Trochæum,	כוכבים	cōucā bim.
primæ syllabæ vocis,
Pyrrichium,	شتרת	sātā rāt.
primæ syllabæ vocis,
Anapæstum,	שרחת	sārākāt.
Bacchium,	דרושים	dērūšim.
Amphimacrum,	כוכבים	cōucābim.
Molossum,	חפזחים	hāfzībim.

Ex quibus pæonas, epitritos, & reliquos, ut vocantur, numeros, facillimum erit componere. Evidem satis accuratè observavi Jobi poematis caput octavum & vicesimum, Solomonis carmen, unum atque alterum Psalmum, Jeremie Θρησκίαν, Mosis & Deboræ carmina, & Davidis in obitum Sauli & Jonathani elegiam, (in qua bacchius propè singula disticha claudere videtur,) & in iis omnibus perspicuam vidi cum metris Arabicis affinitatem. Age, legat quivis plures veriū Arabicos, & deinceps totidem Hebræos †.

& summo otio, quod mihi minimè suppetit, satisfacere non potero : sufficiet fontem aperuisse, & novam rei metricæ Hebræorum investigandæ viam quasi digito monstrâsse.

Nec verò affirmare audeo (quo nihil arrogantius) Hebræi carminis naturam, quæ cæteros latuit, mihi foli innotescere. Quid enim, post inutiles tot doctissimorum hominum conatûs, effecturum me confidam ? aut cur me pervenire posse sperem ad illud littus, ubi tot scriptores admirabiles naufragium passi sunt ? Id solum innuere volui, cùm linguæ Hebræa atque Arabica forores germanæ sint, verisimillimum esse eas, si quando iis poeticè loqui contigerit, iisdem numeris ac pedibus, & iisdem ferè metrorum generibus usas fuisse. Ac si cui versùs isti antispastici, pænonici, aliique, solutæ orationi similiores esse videantur, is in mentem revocet, iisdem metris usos esse poetas eos, qui λυρικοὶ à Græcis appellantur, & “ quos, ut in Oratore ait M. Tullius, cùm cantu spoliaveris, “ nuda poenè remanet oratio.” Quod si quis hujusmodi versiculos neget esse poeticos, eidem non videbitur Pindarus aut Bacchylides poeta.

His positis, sine quibus ea, quæ sequuntur, intelligi nullo modo poterunt, ad amœniora tandem poeseos Asiaticæ spatia veniamus.

القصيدة

SIVE

De Idyllo Arabico.

PERANTIQUUM & præcipuè Arabibus exultum poematis genus est, quod ad kasidæ formam attinet, primi versiculi similiter desinunt, & deinde per totum poema versùs pares similibus sonis terminantur: debet autem poema modicæ esse magnitudinis; rarò enim aut plura quàm centum disticha complectitur, aut pauciora quàm viginti: sunt tamen nonnulla quæ septem tantùm continent, velut † illud de laudibus collegii cuiusdam, cui præfuit vir eximiè doctus, Abu Hanifa.

فِلَهَا بِهِ فَضْلٌ عَلَيِ الْأَقْرَانِ

Hoc tamen statui potest: ea carmina quæ ex paucioribus quām viginti constant distichis, si amores, lusus, ac delicias continent, esse inter Odas recensenda, at si laudationem, si vituperium, si præcepta moralia, si quid heroicum, si quid tandem funebre & lucretiosum complectuntur, ad horum poematum, seu kafidarum classem, referri posse. Atque hæc poematis species species elegiæ nostræ nec undequaque convenit, nec est tamen prorsus dissimilis. Hoc autem inter eam & elegiam maximè videtur interesse, quod hæc in amore aut tristitia plerumque verisetur, illa verò intra nullius argumenti limites restringatur, sed vel præcepta, vel querimoniam, vel laudationem, vel delicias ac lusus, vel vituperationem possit complecti. Sed mos erat perpetuus antiquis Arabum poetis, aut ab amoribus poema ordiri, aut amorum descriptionem medio poemati aptè intexere ; deinde equum aut camelum describere, quo vecti ad amicarum tentoria accederent ; & posteà ad argumentum præcipuum uberiùs tractandum properare, donec per suavem rerum varietatem carmen deducentes, lapsu quodam molli & æquabili, in clausulam quasi subito caderent. Hæc autem mihi attentè consideranti, videtur hoc poematis genus Εἰδυλλίων Græcorum mirificè congruere. Sic Abi'l Olae nobilissimum illud poema in laudem principis Sáïd, Theocriti Ἐπικομίῳ εἰς Πτολεμαῖον convenit ; nisi sit potius ob audacissimas figuras & crebras à proposito declinationes, cum Pindari odis conferendum. Tograi porrò carmen in primis politum atque elegans, ad Idyllii, quod Χάριτες inscribitur, naturam videtur accedere ; nam ut in hoc vituperatur Hieronis atque aliorum avaritia, sic in illo, amicorum perfidia ac fortunæ temeritas reprehenditur. Itaque inter Idyllia recenseo venustissimum illud carmen Caab Ben Zobeir, & illud, quod Bordab appellatur, & cui amores, ut affolet, intexuntur : velut in illis mollissimis versibus, الحب أن الحب منكم

ما بين سجن منه ومطر *

لولا الهوى لم ترق دمعاً علي طلل
ولا ارقت لذكر البان والعلم *

فكيف تنكر حباً بعد ما شهدت
به عليك عنول الدمع والسم *

“ Putatnē amator, amorem celatum iri,
 “ Qui partim effusis lachrymis, partim cordis ardore detegitur ?
 “ Nisi amares, non lacrymâsses ob ruinosa domicilia,
 “ Neque ob myrobalani & collis recordationem insomnis esses.
 “ Quî itaque amare te neges, siquidem testes sunt
 “ In te veri, pallor ac lachrymarum effusio †?”

Sed longè omnium celeberrima in hoc genere poemata ea sunt septem Idyllia, quæ, ob eximiā elegantiam, in templo Meccano suspensa fuisse memoriæ proditum est. Atqui de iis prolixè differere, non est necessarium : hujus enim linguæ cultoribus tam nota sunt, quam Græcarum literarum studiosis Pleias illa Egyptia‡. Præterea de illis ita fusè, ita eruditè differuit Reiskius nihil ut dici melius possit : quamvis majorem esset laudem consecutus, si modum tenere potuisset ; nimis enim ob variae eruditionis copiam effunditur ac redundant.

Septem his Idylliis dispari in genere laus propè similis tribuitur. Amralkei poema molle est, lœtum, splendidum, elegans, varium, venustum : Târafæ audax, incitatum, exultans, quadam tamen hilaritate perspersum : Zobeiri acutum, severum, castum ; præceptis moralibus, ac sententiis plenum gravissimis : Lebidi leve, amatorium, nitidum, delicatum, & secundæ Virgilii eclogæ non dissimile ; queritur enim de amicæ fastu ac superbia ; divitias etiam suas, ut Virgilianus ille Corydon, enumerat, suas denique virtutes, suæque tribûs gloriam in cœlum effert : Antaræ porrò carmen elatum est, minax, vibrans, magnificentum, cum quadam etiam descriptionem atque imaginum pulchritudine : Amri vehemens, excelsum, & gloriosum ; Harethi denique plenissimum sapientiæ, acuminis, dignitatis. Sunt autem Amri atque Harethi poeticæ quodammodo orationes, inter se, ut *Aeschini*s illæ ac Demosthenis, contrariae : habitæ sunt enim in quodam Arabum conventu ad fœdus inter duas tribûs faciendum congregato. Suam autem Hareth Ben Helza vehementissimo animi impetu, arcui suo, more Asiatico, innixus, effudisse ex tempore dicitur. De singulis horum poematum elegantissimis commodior erit aliquando differendi locus: nunc de primo solùm, Amralkejî scilicet, loquar.

Est igitur hujus poematis dictio lœta, picta, florida, animata, & ad suavitatem ac delicias unicè comparata: imaginibus abundat ita splendidis, comparationibus ita variis ac delicatis, ita tandem lectis & exquisitis coloribus verborum, & nitidis figurarum luminibus, ut divinum illud Salomonis carmen propè æquare videatur. Operæ pretium erit pulcherrimi hujus Idyllii argumentum exponere, & deinde præcipuas imaginum & comparationum venustates delibare.

Deflet initio amicarum discessum, duos sodales allocutus, quos secum affert, ad deserta mansionum vestigia intuenda. Hæc inspiciens, lacrymat, queritur, desperat. Socii eum solari cupiunt: at solatium repellit. Illi verò haud minus dura eum anteà passum esse affirmant: Sed enim tunc, inquit, cum discederent amicæ meæ, & suavissimus odor ab iis afflatus esset,

علي النحر حتى بل دمعي محباي

“ Effundebantur ob desiderium ex oculis meis lachrymæ usque eò, ut “ in gremium defluentes balteum meum madefacerent.” Respondent; Verum hanc mæsticam lenire debet præteritæ hilaritatis recordatio, sæpè enim cum illis jucundè vixisti. Hac consolatione aliquantulum levatus poeta, hilariores quosdam dies commemorat; delicias quasdam describit, & amatoria sua colloquia cum formosissimis puellis Oneiza & Fathima, mirâ jucunditate, recitat. Gloriatur se virginem pulcherrimam amavisse, & per medias hastas ac media pericula, ad eam usque adeò perrexisse, donec optato fueretur laboris fructu. Amorem deinde collaudat, cuius reprehensionem reprehensorum irridet. Postea seipsum ob fortitudinem laudat & constantiam, quâ per valles incultas ac tenebrosas noctu incedit. Tum equum nobilissimè pingit; venationem describit, & post eam, epulas; ac tandem cum eximiâ imbris descriptione, poema claudit. Ad summam, hoc Idyllicum (quod ad minorem illam poeseos dramaticæ speciem pertinet) deliciis ac suavitatibus abundat, & cum venustissimis Europæorum poetarum eclogis potest comparari. Quàm lœta & vivida hæc est similitudo!

 Nox dabit unanihi gaudia plena choro ;
 Quo dulces juvenum spirabit cœtus amores,
 Et lætos avidâ combibet aure modos.

De Carmine Persico.

ALTERA poematis species quâ utuntur Asiatici, & ex iis præcipue Persæ, seu carmen amatorium, vocatur. Hujus autem carminis leges insigniores sunt, ut sit breve, ut varium, ut venustum: breve, nam pluribus quâm septendecim distichis constare nequit, & septem tantum aut octo plerumque complectitur; varium, utpote cuius singuli versûs singulos habeant sensûs, qui vix ullo inter se nexus cohærent; venustum, quia imaginibus lœtis ac floridis abundat, quas pœnè necessariò subsequitur verborum pulchritudo ac nitor. Duo porrò primi uniuscujusque Odæ versiculi similiter desinant oportet, idemque sonus per totum carmen in versiculorum parium fine continuatur. In ultimo autem versu, vel saltem in eo qui ultimum præcedit, poeta nomen suum artificiosè & jucundè intexit. Quæ res ut clariores reddantur, subjiciam carmen venustissimum, à poetâ admirabili Hafez scriptum, quem in hoc opere særissimè laudabo:

Hæc verti, ut multa ejusdem poetæ ; exemplum secutus amicissimi & nobilissimi viri Caroli Revizkii, qui semper est à me honorificè nominandus † :

Suavè loquens Philomela vocor : Quî fiat ut umbrâ

Hæc Ode longâ explicatione non eget. Pauca tamen hic breviter notanda sunt, ad ultimi versûs suavitatem intelligendam, quæ † alias fufius exponam. Primùm poetæ Asiatici seipso cum lusciniis fæpissimè comparant ; quæ res à poesi Græcâ haud multum abhorret : sic enim, si memini, Anacreon :

Λιγύμευθος αηδών.
Αναπέτομαι δὴ πρὸς "Ολυμπον
Πτερύγεας τεφαις. πέτομαι δ' ὁδὸν Αλλοτ' εἰς ἄλλαν μελέων.

Deinde, respicit poeta fabulam illam jucundissimam, & in Asia pervagatam, de lusciniæ & rosæ amoribus, de quâ in capite de Imaginibus uberioris differam. Dicit itaque, fierine potest quin, cùm rosæ, floris dilectissimi, pulchritudinem intuear, lœtitia me efferam, & in dulcem modulationem erumpam? Quæ imago quâm hilaris est, quâm vivida! & ut clariùs ostendam, quantum jucunditatis poesi Persicæ afferant ab hac fabellâ de-promptæ imagines; aliud ejusdem poetæ carmen exponam, breve illud quidem, sed, ut ait poeta, Χαρίτων ἀωτον ἡλυκύν.

& quod pulcherrimum Gazelæ erit exemplum.

Hanc Odam, varietatis causâ, Græcè imitari sum conatus, versibus dactylicis Theocriteis :

Ἐγκίρνα, φίλε παι, γλυκὺν οἶνον ἀφειδέως,
 Ἡλυθεν γαρ ἔαρ πολυδαιδαλον, ἥλυθεν.
 Ἐν ἁδοῖς κατακεῖσθαι, ὅσα δε χθὲς ὑπέσχεο
 Σάμυερον Ζεφύροις μαλακαίποσι δἰς φέρειν.
 Αὔμεις δὲ, σεφάνοις θαλεροῖς πεπυκασμένοι

 Ως δ' ἀηδόνες ἐζόμεναι ἐπὶ δευδέρεω
 Κλισμῷ ἐν ῥοδιῷ κατακεισόμεθ' ἀδέως.
 Εἰς κᾶπον, φίλε κύρε, Βαδίζε Βαθύσκιον,
 Παιδία δ' εὐραθάμιγα μελίφρονθε ἀμπέλεω
 Χρυσέαις ἐν φιάλαισιν ἀμυσὶ συνέκπιε,
 Τέρψις γαρ Γλυκύτης τε ῥοδόχροος ἔρχεται.
 Ορᾶς, ὡς ἁδέον πέταλον Ζεφύρῳ γελᾷ.
 Αύριον δέ τάχ' ἵσακις ἐκ ἀπολάμψεται.
 Νῦν δε νεκταρέας Βοτρύων ἔανιδας πίε,
 Κεῖσθαι δ' ἐν ῥοδεοῖς λιπαρόχροος ἀνθεῖσι,
 Κέρην δε ῥαδίνοις μελέεσθε πεδέρχεο.
 Εγών μὰν ὑπὸ ἔρωτι ρόδων ἀπαλοχρόων
 Δαχθεῖς τάκομαι, ὡς λιγύφωνθε ἀηδονίς,
 Ξρῆν σ' ἄρ', ὡς φίλον ἦτορ, ὑπερφιλέειν κόνιν
 Βήσθων, ἐνθα ρόδων μελέτωρ ἐπινίσσεται.

Haec tenus de Odæ Asiaticæ formâ & structurâ. Sequitur ut de argumen-to ejus differam. Nam de numeris in secundo capite satis, ut arbitror, dictum est. Complectitur autem hæc carminis species vel vini ac deliciarum, vel τῶν ἔρωτικῶν, vel humanæ pulchritudinis, vel amoenitatum ac rerum naturalium suavem & floridam descriptionem.

Perpicuum est adeò Odam ex jucundissimis animi affectibus originem duxisse, Amore ac Lætitia. Ac de amatorio quidem carmine, alias pleniū, niùs †. Nunc verò de eo differam, quod ab hilaritate & gaudio profectum esse initio videtur. Amat igitur imagines à naturæ amœnitatibus derivatas ; quæ omnium sunt dulcissimæ, & cùm omni poesi, tum præcipue Asiaticæ incredibilem afferunt venustatem. Nempe in Persarum atque Arabum carminibus ubique describuntur verni temporis suavitates, atque oblectamenta ; horti floribus pulcherrimis ornati, rosis, narcissis, hyacinthis, violis : prata herbis vestita viridissimis ; fontes gelidi, annes perlucidi, pomaria fructuum omnium varietate distincta ; adde huc, avium delicatissimas modulationes, & à moschiferis hinnuleis afflatos odores ; cæteraque omnia, quæ sensus non delectant solum, sed etiam insatiabili voluptate perfundunt. Possimus itaque hanc poematis speciem legitimam Naturæ progeniem vocare : nam si esset, qui in spelunca obscurâ semper habitavisset, nec unquam aspexisset vel divinam cœrulei ætheris pulchritudinem, vel naturalium rerum splendidissimos ornatûs ; deinde in Arabiae Felicis campos repente fuisset aportatus, non puto fieri posse quin, cum flores, herbas, fruges, arbores, & reliqua quæ modò percensui, vidisset, cœlesti quodam instinctu inflammaretur, & in cantum se effunderet lætum, vividum, audacem, exultantem : & vel illa caneret, Ver novum, ver jam canorum, vere natus orbis est.

Vere concordant amores, vere nubunt alites‡.

vel (si illum Arabico sermone uti fingamus) hos § venusti poetæ versus recitaret, “ Oculos argenti (narcissos) ubique fixos & apertos,

 Cum pupillis auro liquefacto similibus,
 “ Super calamo smaragdino, testantes.

Verisimile est enim illum eodem tempore, quo has naturæ suavitates laudavisset, & esse Deum, & Deum harum rerum effectorem, putaturum fuisse ; ubi carminum facrorum, quæ Græci ὕμνος vocant, videmus originem. Sed de his aliâs † : jam illuc redeo, unde digressus sum.

Restat itaque ut de Odæ Asiaticæ dictione loquar. Ea autem non abesse potest quin sit dulcissima : nam venustarum imaginum comes est, & quasi soror venusta oratio ; & haud admodum facile est, nisi dedita operâ, de rebus jucundis injucundè dicere. Sed quoniam de Venustate separatis ‡, & fusiùs scribere in animo est, plura de eodem argumento hic differere non est necessarium. Expromam igitur ejusdem Lyrici carmen in primis elegans, & in quod mirum est quâm splendidæ, quâm hilares, quâm novæ inducantur imagines ; quâm exquisiti verborum colores, quâm nitida figurarum lumina.

Jam verò Odæ Asiaticæ leges satis dilucidè (spero certè quidem) exposui, & lectis exemplis illustravi: notandum est tamen poetas leges hafse interdum negligere; æquum est enim illos jure uti suo, & regulas, quas

quas ipsi scilicet invenerint, si collibeat, prætermittere. Itaque, tametsi hanc Odæ speciem maximâ ex parte distinguat suavitas, nonnunquam tamen elatiorum imaginum quasi temperationem admittit: velut in illo Ferdusii poetæ admirabilis carmine, quod, etsi amatorium sit, grande est tamen, & sonorum; licet, ut verum fateamur, nimis turgidum:

De poeseos Asiaticæ figuris, ac dictione.

C A P U T V.

De Imaginibus Poeticis.

JUVAT de imaginibus, quibus ornatur poesis Asiatica, pauca antè dicere, quām ad figurās separatim tractandas accedam. Sequor itaque libentissimè in imaginū poeticarū partitionē virū illum doctissimum, qui, et si à me sāpe jam laudatus est, laudandus est tamen sāpiùs †. Is quatuor statuit fontes, à quib⁹ ex de promantur imagines; nam vel ex naturā, vel ex vitā communi, vel ex religione, vel ex bistoriā desumuntur; quibus fontibus libet quintum addere, quem ille, de verissimā Vatum divinorum poesi differens, admittere non potuit: fabulas dico poeticas, à quibus cūm in aliarum gentium, tum præcipue in Perſarum poesi crebræ imagines, eæque pulcherrimæ, manare solent. Atque hīc repetendum est id, quod anteā dixi (& sāpe profectō dicendum est) neminem idoneum esse poematum Asiaticorum lectorem, nisi totius Asiacē bistoriam, ut vocant, naturalem accuratē sciat, nisi mores earum gentium cognoscat, nisi ritūs ac disciplinas animo percipiat, nisi historiarum varietas memoriā teneat, nisi porrò variis poetarum figmentis optimē sit instructus. Hæc, inquam, omnia qui non mente complectatur, nāe illum Asiaticæ poeseos iniquissimum judicem audeo dicere. Nam apertiores

Fingamus enim, verbi causâ, Arabem quandam qui Græco sermone satis perfectè sit imbutus, sed qui prorsùs ignoret, qui fuerint Jupiter, Apollo, Bacchus, alii; qui Hercules, Theseus, Argonautæ; quis apud inferos Cerberus, quæ prata Elysia, quis Tantalus, quis Ixion, quæ cætera poetarum portenta: demus huic homini, ut alios poetas omittam, Pindari carmina propè divina; apertas illas amoenitatum descriptiones & omnium gentium communes, Hes profectò versùs pro facillimis, obscurissimos, pro dulcibus, hiantes, pro gravissimis, subinsulsose esse autumabit: atque in cæteris ejusdem poetæ carminibus, ne millesimam quidem elegantiarum ac venustatum partem intelliget. Similiter eum (ut ab imaginibus à rebus naturalibus depromtis ordinar) qui ad poema vel Arabicum vel Perficum legendum accedit, nisi regionis, in quâ versabatur poeta, situm ac proprietates percipiat, fieri non potest quin præcipua lateat totius carminis pulchritudo; sic cùm dicat Abu Ebadeh Albokhteri †,

فَكَانَهَا تَبَتَّسِمُ عَنْ لَوْلَوْ مِنْضَدٍ أَوْ بَرْدٍ وَاقْحَانٍ
* وَطَرْهٌ كَاللَّيْلِ مِنْخِيَةٌ تَخْجِلُ ضُو الصَّبَاحِ *

“ Tanquam subrideret (dentes habens nitidiores), “ Margaritis consertis, aut grandine aut anthemide:
“ Cincinnus ejus, tanquam nox, demissus est,
“ (Facies) ejus lucem auroræ pudore afficit.”

& alius,

أَخْجَلَتْ بِالشَّغْرِ ثَنَاءِيَا الْإِقْاظَ
يَاطِرَةُ الْلَّيْلِ وَوْجَهُ الصَّبَاحِ

“ Dentium tuorum splendore florem anthemidis pudore afficis, “ O tu, cuius cincinni nocti similes sunt, facies verò auroræ.”
fugiet eum maxima harum similitudinum suavitas, nisi sciat, primùm, anthemidem florem esse candidissimum, de quo Nicander in secundo Georgicorum libro,

Οὐδὲ μὲν Ἀνθεμίδων κενεὴ γηρύσεται ἀκμὴ,

& cui poetæ Arabici puellarum dentes frequentissimè assimilant; deinde, Arabibus in tentoriis perpetuò degentibus auroræ exorientis imaginem esse notissimam, quâ utuntur sæpiissimè, cum albas genas jucundo rubore suffusas describant. Pariter Amralkeis,

“ Porrigit ea quæ dat, digitis teneris, non duris, tanquam vermibus in arenâ repentibus, aut ligno Ishil.”

Quis hunc versiculum potest intelligere, nisi qui sciat vermum esse longum, candidum habentem corpus, & rubrum caput; cum quo puellæ digitæ herbâ quâdam purpureâ tinctæ comparantur; & Ishil ligni albi esse genus, quo defricantur dentes? Ad summam, poematum Asiaticorum lectoribus notum esse debet, eorum auctores in regione amœnissimâ vitam egisse, florum, arborum, animalium, aliarumque rerum abundantissimâ, quas in Europâ non habemus: eas itaque imagines quæ illis dilucidæ sunt, nobis videri obscuras, quæ illis pervagatæ, nobis abditas, quæ illis splendidæ, nobis temerarias, quæ illis denique sublimes, lætæ, plenæ, jucundæ, nobis abruptas, nimias, tumidas, luxuriosas, dissolutas: sed ad alia pergamus.

Longum effet percensere, quam variæ ac venustæ imagines in poesi Arabum ac Perſarum deriventur vel à moribus, & vitæ communis consuetudine, artibus, ludis ac disciplinis, vel à rebus sacris, ut ab Alcorano, & templi Meccani ædificio, vel ab historiis regum, heroïum, ac bellorum memorabilium. Verùm si quis de his singulis plenè & copiosè velit differere, volumen integrum contexat necesse est.

Nunc verò de ultimo imaginum fonte, fictionibus scilicet poeticis, pauca dicam. Sunt autem imagines à fabulis derivatæ, ut rectè judicat Hermogenes †, jucundissimæ.

Nimium est quantâ cum voluptate & deleßatione fabulas & recitatas audiamus, & scriptas legamus. Hoc sensit Plato; ideoque illas de Boreâ & Orithyâ, de Gige, & annulo illo mirifico, dulcissimè orationi suæ intexit. Notant contrà dicendi magistri unum tantummodò in horridâ Thucydidis historiâ locum esse jucundum, ubi scilicet Terei & Philomelæ fabula inducitur †! Est sanè fictio, poeseos (Hebræam omnium verissimam excipio) quasi anima, sine quâ nec naturam neque etiam nomen retinere possit. Ac mirum est quantum omnium gentium poesi hæc figmenta dulcedinem, & suavitatem afferant. De Homero harum fictiōnum, ut nonnulli putant, patre atque inventore, quem cùm veteres tum recentiores poetæ imitati sunt, loqui non est necessarium. In veteri Gothorum poesi translationes propè omnes à fabulis sumuntur ‡: itaque in eâ aurum vocatur Freyæ lacrymæ; poesis, Odini munus. Versūs quosdam Peruvianos, eosque antiquissimos, citat Garcilassus ||; quorum sensus hic est: “Puella formosa, frater tuus pluviosus, urnulam tuam “nunc infringit; cuius iectus tonat, fulget, fulgurat. Tu vero, puella, “jucundos imbres fundis; interdum grandinem ac nivem mittis; rerum “omnium effector & procreator tibi hoc munus tribuit.” Fingunt enim poetæ Peruviani puellam esse in cœlo formosissimam, quæ amphoram aquæ plenam manu tenet; quam in terram identidem fundit; sed hujus pueræ fratrem, hominum generi inimicissimum, hanc amphoram interdum frangere, unde tonitrua & fulgura proveniunt. Dicit itaque Garcilassus, veterum Yncarum, seu regum, quendam, qui & poeta admirabilis esset, & philosophus insignis, hoc carmen contexuisse; additque hos versiculos inter nodos perveteres ac variis distinctos coloribus fuisse inventos. Notissimum enim est Peruvianos pro literis, nodis quibusdam usos esse. Sed redeamus ad Asiaticos. Apud eos multæ sunt pervagatae fabulæ, quæ etiam in fictas § Europæorum historias tandem defluxerunt: nam Ariosti Hippogrifus nihil aliud esse videtur, præter Persarum Simorg avem, de quâ mentio fit in Sadii libro Buſān, Eadem avis mirifica in magno Ferdusii poemate inducitur Rustemo vulnerato administrans. Præterea fingunt poetæ Perfici duo esse animantium genera ex igne puro confecta, quorum unum benevolum & mansuetum esse aiunt & aspectu venustissimum, in urbe splendidissimâ habitans, quam شاد و کام Hilaritatem & Desiderium vocant; alterum, deforme, sœvum, truculentum, generique hominum infestissimum, in locis montuosis ac sylvestribus latens; hoc autem genus Persæ دیو، Arabes عفريت appellant, illud Peri, & جن Gen nominant, quibus vocibus etiam Europæi utuntur. Sed jucundissima omnium est ea de rosæ & lusciniæ amore fabula, quam frequentè attingunt poetæ Perfici; inde fit ut, cùm in eorum carminib[us] de rosâ mentio incidat, lusciniæ nomen plurimùm subsequatur; velut in illo disticho, De Translatione.

FIGURAS Asiaticæ dictionis tractaturus, missas faciam Rhetorum definitiones & distinctiones, quæ subtilitatis & acuminis habent plurimum, utilitatis verò parum: quis enim non illicò videt, † Figuram esse vocis mutationem à primâ significatione detortam & primum necessitatis causâ usurpatam, deinde venustatis? aut quis ignorare potest ‡ Translationem esse, cùm verbum in quandam rem transfertur ex aliâ re, quod propter similitudinem rectè videtur posse transferri? Ac primùm de translatione loquar, quâ præcipuè utuntur poetæ Asiatici ornatûs caufâ & suavitatis.

Translatio autem duplex est; alteram Græci vocant Μεταφοράν, Arabes استعارة quasi, Mutationem; alteram, rhetores Μετωνυμίαν, Asiatici كنية appellant; quam ex Latinis alii Verborum Immutationem nominant, alii cum Aristotele translationi subjungunt. Figuræ hujus pulcherrimus usus est, quo rei cuiusdam adjuncta vel Filiī, vel Fratres, & Sorores, vel Patres, vel denique Matres nominantur. Dictu difficile est quantum

† Figuram sic definit Tiberius Rhetor,

"Ἐτι τοῖνυ σχῆμα, τὸ μὴ κατὰ φύσιν τὸν ἐφίσειν, μῆδε ἐπ' εὐθίας, ἀλλ' ἐκτρέπειν καὶ εἰξαλλάτειν τὴν διάνοιαν, κόσμος τινὶ τῇ πλάσιν ἡ χρήσις ἔπειται.

splendoris & jucunditatis linguae Arabicæ hæc figura afferat: cuius rei exempla quædam feligam.

Mohammedes vinum appellabat ام الخبريات feu, Matrem peccatorum; cui sententiæ Hafez, Anacreon ille Persarum, minimè ascribit suam; dicit autem

* اشهي لنا واحلي من قبلة العذارا *

“ Acre illud (vinum) quod vir religiosus matrem peccatorum vocitat,

“ Optabilius nobis ac dulcius videtur, quam virginis suavium.”

Pulcherrimè Abu'lola columbas vocat Filiae tristitiae;

الا نبتهنی فتیات بــث

“ Heu, mœroris filie me infomnem reddunt.”

Nec minori elegantiâ, vinum uvarum filius appellatur, & aqua Nubium filia; ut poeta in libro Hiliato'lcomeit, puellam tristiorum alloquens,

اليوم يوم سرور لا شور به
فتروج ابن السحاب بابنة العنبر
ما انصف الكاس من ايدي القطوب لها
وثرغها باسم عن لؤلؤ الحبــ

“ Hic dies, lætitiae dies est; nulla est in eo calamitas;

“ Dicit autem filius nubium filiam uvarum;

“ Non decet cyathus à manu (puellæ) tristem vultum habentis,

“ Et cuius dentes renident splendidius quam baccæ margarita-

In hoc genere venustæ sunt illæ figuræ, بــنت الشغة، بــنت المــنية، بــنت العــين، بــنت الجــبل، quibus significantur Echo, Verba, Febris, Lachryma; aliaeque innumerabiles. Melius tamen hoc genus fictilis personarum inductionibus nonnulli subjungunt.

Nec verò existimandum est solos Asiaticos hac figurâ uti; nam in Græcâ etiam linguâ miram habet venustatem.

Ita † Chæremon in Iō flores ἔαρος τέκνα jucundissimè vocat, cùm dicit, Et in Centauro λειμῶνος τέκνα.

Ab eodem in Baccho hedera vocatur,

Χορῶν ἐραστῆς κιανὸς, ἐνιαυτῷ δὲ παῖς.

Et pari elegantiâ suavissimus idem poeta in Ulysse rosas appellat, Τιθήνημ' ἔαρις ἐκπρεπέσατον.

Sed ad translationes Asiaticas veniamus ; quarum exempla hoc loco parciūs proferam : unum tamen atque alterum feligam exemplum ; quorum primum sit vox ندىٰ quæ Rorem notat, & per dulcissimam translationem pro Liberalitate sumitur. Eodem ferè modo vocibus torrens, سیل pluvia, Arabes utuntur ; & Persæ, voce باران Sic Arabicè copiosè cecidit pluvia, & posteà liberalis fuit : hinc جوہ liberalitas. Notum est Hebræos hac imagine persæpè usos fuisse : ita comparatur apud † Iſaiam divini Numinis infinita beneficentia & largitio pluviae terram irriganti,

Huc spectat versus in † carmine admirabili poetæ Abi'l Kassim,

Κρατῆρα μάκρον ἡδονῆς καὶ δακρύων

Κιρνῶντες ἐξέπινον ἀχρις εἰς μέθην.

Unum solummodo addam exemplum, quod tamen auribus Europæis durius esse videbitur. Vox nafus significat: transfertur autem ad omnium rerum partem eminentiorem. Sic انف جبل nafus montis, promontorium; انف البرد nafus frigoris, frigus intensum; كاس انف nafus poculum illibatum; روضة انف bortus novus & intactus, quem κῆπον ἀκηρατον vocat Ibycus; انف القوم nafus populi. Sic عرنين nafsi pars, & عرانيين populi principes. Ut Hosein El Afadi de morte liberalissimi herois loquens,

وأصبح عرنين المكارم أجدعا

“Nafus nobilitatis præciditur.”

Eâdem translatione utuntur Sinenses, vox enim Piē, cùm nafus significat, tum etiam familiae principem. Eodem sensu usurpant Hebræi vocem חרטם, quæ Arabica est, nafsi pars altior, item, princeps populi. Itaque illa †, וירא את כל חרטמי מצרים

vertenda fuit, Vocavit autem omnes primarios Ægypti viros, non præstigiatores, ut vulgò redduntur.

Cùm plures continuantur translationes, omnino permittatur oratio; hanc igitur figuram rectè possumus Permutationem appellare; cujusmodi est illa Hafeziana, Sed huic figuræ immorari nihil necesse est, quippe cujus exempla in Asiaticorum libris omnibus sint frequentissima; & sanè permutatio hæcce, seu Ἀλληγορία, genus illud dicendi, quod Asiaticum vocant, videtur ab Europæorum dictione potissimum distinguere.

التشبيه

SIVE

De Comparatione.

INFINITAM poetis præbet similitudinum sylvam universum hoc naturæ templum. Ponant ante oculos cœlum, terras, maria; aspiciant in cœlo, solem, lunam, stellas; in terrâ, arbores, flores, herbas, segetes, animalia: in aquis, natantes bellugas, conchas, pisces; videant in aëre pendentes nubes, videant ætheris placidam serenitatem, & immensa protinus exsurget similiūm rerum varietas & copia. Sed hæc sunt omnibus gentibus communia; at multæ sunt naturales imagines, Asiaticis magis quam reliquis familiares, velut orientis auroræ, & stellarum, quarum cursus in tentoriis degentes Arabes commodissimè observare possunt; aliæ denique Asiaticorum propriæ, ut herbarum, arborum, animalium, aliarumque rerum, quas in Europâ haud cognoscimus. Non est igitur mirum, poetarum Asiaticorum similitudines nostris auribus nonnunquam duriores, nonnunquam etiam subinsulsas videri. Ridemus si poeta Persicus gracilem puellam cum buxo comparat (quâ tamen comparatione sæpiissimè utuntur utuntur Asiatici), propterè quòd in Europâ buxus humi serpit, & abjetissimus esset frutex, nisi splendidâ viriditate commendaretur; in Asiâ verò in pulcherrimam arborem succrescit, & ramulis ornatur gracillimis. Præterea observandum est, ex duabus illis facultatibus comparandi, scilicet, & distinguendi, primam esse maximè inculti, & luxuriantis animi, fervidi, exsultantis, poetici; alteram politi, subtilis, teretis, accurati; hanc ad judicium, illam ad ingenium & affectūs pertinere.

Hinc translationibus & similitudinibus abundantior est Asiaticorum quam Europæorum poesis. Hi enim (Homerum & Græcos excipio) rarò comparationem admittunt, nisi usquequaque conveniat; illi similitudinem, quæ occurrit, avidè captant, parùm solliciti si quid in eâ sit discrepantiæ vitium. Sed nihil ferè attinet, unde originem ducat Asiaticarum comparationum venustas & abundantia, duimmodò statuatur omnem poemam, præcipuam ex iis suavitatem ac pulchritudinem recipere; ac longè venustiores esse eas, quæ à naturalibus rebus ducantur.

Antequam de comparationibus Asiaticis separatim loquar, necesse habeo de comparatione in genere breviter differere. Hujus itaque figuræ tripliæ usum statuerunt rhetores: nam idcircò sumuntur comparationes vel ut ornent, vel ut illustrent, vel ut amplificent sententiam. Ideoque eæ quæ ornatūs causâ usurpantur, dulces sint oportet, jucundæ, politæ. Venustæ autem similitudines depromuntur præcipue ex iis rebus, quæ naturâ sunt hilares ac splendidæ; cuiusmodi sunt horti, flores, gemmæ, prata, pulchra animalia, & reliqua, quæ nitorem habent ac formosam speciem. Quæ illustrandi gratiâ adhibentur, propriæ esse debent, & claræ: quæ tandem amplificationis ergo sumuntur, omnino necesse est altius atque magnificentius insurgant, ne rei comparatæ minus amplâ comparatione minuatur dignitas. Minimè tamen necessarium puto comparationes ex omni parte congruere: etenim si prima vel præcipua pars sit similis, cæteræ delectationis ac varietatis causâ appositæ redundare possunt.

Sed hæ venustates, quæsitæ sunt potius quam naturales; & plus diligentia ostendunt quam ingenii. At multa sunt in Argonauticis loca, velut Syrtis, Phineæ, Tali, & Jasoris laborum descriptiones, quæ elatissimis abundant imaginibus, & summâ cumulantur verborum dignitate. Neque illud verum est, quod Longinus affirmat, Apollonium nunquam cadere; est enim ubi altè cadit, ita tamen ut servet quandam in cadendo majestatem: sic draconis occisi descriptio, sublimis est illa quidem & magnifica, sed non satis delicata, & à poesi heroicâ aliena.

————— ὄφις νῷφ ‘Ηρακλῆτες δαιχθεῖσι, &c.

Sed ad Arabas & Persas veniamus. Illi in poesi amatoriâ similitudinibus ex naturâ deductis admodum delectantur. Assimilant † puellarum cincinnos hyacinthis, genas rofis, oculos, nunc ob colorem, violis, nunc ob amabilem illum languorem, narcissis, dentes margaritis, papillas malis Punicis, oscula melli ac vino, labia pyropis, staturam proceris ramulis, faciem soli, crines nocti, frontem auroræ, ipfas denique puellas capreolis, & hinnuleis. Has similitudines propè omnes complectitur Arabs incertus in pulchro fabularum libro, † Vide Noweiri à Reiskio citatum.

“ Favi

“ Favi stillantes labia tua,
 “ Mel & lac sub linguâ tuâ ;
 “ Odorque vestium tuarum, tanquam odor Libani.”

Sæpe verò poetæ amatorii ex moribus depromunt imagines, velut Sadi in libro Gulistan puellæ nigros cincinnos genis candidissimis superimpennes confert pulcherrimè cum pilis ex ebeno fictis, quas clavâ eburneâ pellunt lusores :

رخسار یار در خم کیسوی تابدار
 چون کوی عاج در خم چوکان آبنوس

“ Gena amicæ inter cincinnos plexos intermicans
 “ Similis est pilæ eburneæ in mediâ clavâ ebeni.”

Sæpe ex religiosis opinionibus ; sic Hafez recentem lanuginem circa labia adolescentuli crescentem comparat cum nymphis illis formosissimis quas in cœlo esse dixit Mohammedes ;

سبز پوشان خطت بر کرد لب
 همچو حورانند کرد سلسیل

“ Recentes lanuginis herbæ, quæ labia tua vestiunt,
 “ Similes sunt Houriis circà fontem Salsabil sedentibus.”

In poesi heroicâ elatissimas nonnunquam habent similitudines cùm Arabes, tûm Persæ. Quàm sublimis, quàm Homero similis, hæc est comparatio !

لهم عدوة كانقضاض الاتي

 “ Quassabat exercitus circum te ambas suas alas,
 “ Velut aquila nigra pennas motitans.”

فردناهم بطعن كبا تهز عن جهة الطوي الدلاء

“ Hastas ultro citroque movimus in vulneribus,
 “ Ut movetur urna flexilis in puteo aquâ abundanti surgens.”

Quid poeta velit benè exposuit Reiskius, “ Hastarum strepitum, quando “ demittuntur in corpora, vel è confossis corporibus vix revelluntur ac “ ne vix quidem, cum obscuro confert illo murmure & muto fremitu, “ quo vel irruens in profundum, vel exuberans situla quædam sursum “ attracta malè cedentem aquam contranitendo perrumpit.” Quâ imgine nihil aptius aut sublimius cogitari potest.

In Ferdusi poemate admirabili multæ sunt comparationes verè mag-

De reliquis Figuris.

RESTAT ut alias poeseos Asiaticæ figuræ tractem. Sunt autem minutiores quædam exornationes pœnè innumeræ ; quas omnes pluribus verbis percurrere, non est necessarium : juvat tamen in signores quasdam priùs proferre, quâm de fictâ Personarum inductione loquar, quæ translationis est species audacissima, & omnium gentium, ac præcipue Asiaticorum, poesi incredibile affert suavitatem.

Ac primùm verbi ejusdem Iteratio admodum elegans esse videtur ; ut in illo poetæ Arabici † versu,

شَدَّدْنَا شَدَّةَ الْلَّيْثِ عَدَا وَاللَّيْثِ غَضْبَانٍ

“ Violenti fuimus inimicitia, tanquam leo, & leo iratus.”

nec est in Græco sermone invenusta, ut Theocritus‡,

— λῆσι ἐσπανέστας

Νεβρῶ φθεγξαμένας τὶς ἐν ὕρεσιν, ὡμοφάγος λῖς.

ubi videant harum minutiarum indagatores vocum لَيْثٌ, لَيْثٌ, & λῖς, cùm fono tûm sensu affinitatem.

Nec minus lepida est Agnominatio, quam Græci Παρονομίαν, Arabes تَجْنِيس appellant : fit autem, cùm ad res dissimiles similis vox in eodem versu accommodatur. Hac figurâ ita delestantur Asiatici, nullam ut occasionem amittant, quâ eam commodè usurpent : sic Hafez,

از سر پیمان برفت با سر پیمانه شد

“ Ab amore religionis ad cyathi desiderium transit.”

† In libro Hamassa.

‡ Theocr. Idyll. xiii.

Nam

Nam Peiman religionem, Peimáne verò cyathum significat. Et in eodem carmine, دل بر دلدار رفت جان بر جانانه شد

Dil ber dildári ref̄t, gian bergianáne shüd.

“ Cor ad cordis raptricem, anima ad amicam discessit.”

Idem alibi,

ترک ترکان خطا نبود صواب

Terki Turcani Khatba nebud savab.

“ Formosas Tartariæ puellas relinquere, non decet.”

&

که بر طرف چن زارش هبیکردد چان ابرو

Ke ber tarfi chemenzáresh hemikerded chemán abru.

“ Nam in † horti ejus extremitate delicate movet supercilium ejus.”

etenim Chemen hortus est, & Chemán kerden delicate incedere.

Adde hoc pulchram illam sententiam,

ان بلا نبود که از بلا بود

An belá nebud ke ez bála bud.

“ Ærumna quæ à superis venit, ærumna non est.”

& illam Arabicam,

المال مایل والذهب ذاہب

Elmál mā'il waeddbebeb dbabib.

“ Divitiæ dilabuntur, & aurum fugit.”

Nec omittendi sunt elegantes poetæ Turcici versūs,

آلهی سن بنی سینه ایلته

صرطاینه بارک سینه سینه

“ O Deus, ne me ad sepulchrum (féne) perducas,

“ Donec amicæ gremium (féne féne) amplexu teneam.”

† Pulchram adolescentulæ faciem cum horto comparat poeta.

Elegia Arabica in tertio capite citata annominationibus unicè constat, iisque lepidissimis, ut

مِرَابعْ نَعَمْ نَعَمْ تَلَكَ الْمِرَابعْ

“ Æstivæ Nasomæ mansiones : oh, suaves (nâm) mansiones !”

&

هَلْ لَعْلَعُ الرَّعْدِ الْهَتَوْنَ بَلْ لَعْلَعَ

“ An strepit (lâlâ) in monte Lala nubes tonans & pluviosa ?”

Haud sum nescius hanc exornationem à plerisque contemni tanquam nimis concinnam & puerilem ; & profectò in linguis Europæis parcè admodum sumenda est : rectè ait auctor rhetoriconum ad Herennium †, “ Quæ sunt ampla & pulchra diù placere possunt : quæ lepida & con- “ cinna, citò satietate afficiunt aurium sensum fastidiosissimum. Quomodo “ igitur, si crebrò his generibus uteamur, puerili videbimus elocutione de- “ lectari : ita si rarò has interferemus exornationes, & in caufâ totâ “ variè dispergemus, commodè luminibus distinctis illustrabimus ora- “ tionem.”

Quæ verò de oratione dicit, ad poemata transferri possunt, ita tamen ut hæ festivitates ad leviora carminum genera quam ad elata & heroica, videantur esse accommodatores. Nec est tamen negandum quin Annominatio insignem afferat Sermonibus Asiaticis pulchritudinem. Itaque cā etiam sacros Vates Hebræos delectari invenimus ‡.

Nunc verò ad Προσωποποίαν, seu Personæ inductionem, veniamus. Ea est quasi animata Allegoria, quæ translationum est continuatio ; translatio autem occultam similitudinem semper complectitur. Sic “ gena tan- “ quam rosa ” similitudo est, imagine à naturâ depromptâ : “ rosa gena- “ rum ejus ” est translatio : “ genarum rosas oculorum pluvia irrigat ” est Allegoria ; & duas complectitur translationes. Similiter, “ Rosa † Lib. iv.

; Micha. cap. i. ver. 10, & alibi centies.

“ horti

“ horti rosæ genarum tuarum dixit, Ambæ formosæ sumus ; sed tu per“ petuò nites, ego celeriter defloresco,” fictæ personaæ est inductio.

Atque in hac audacissimâ figurâ mirifica illa & quasi magica poeseos vis unicè elucet ; & maximè apud poetas Asiaticos, qui eam frequentissimè usurpant. Apud eos enim omnia vivunt, omnia animantur. Colloquuntur inter se flores, aves, arbores : personam etiam induunt notiones illæ abstractæ, pulchritudo, justitia, mœror, hilaritas ; rident prata, canunt sylvæ, latetatur cœlum ; rosa Zephyro dat mandata lusciniæ preferenda ; luscinia rosæ pulchritudinem describit ; & cum latiores illas imagines relinquant, gladius magni regis gemmis ornatus lunæ ait ‘ Tu ‘ corona mea es ; & vergiliis, Vos tanquam vestem induo.’ Omnis deinde naturæ immensitas tanquam theatrum est, in quo nihil est tam à vitâ ac sensu remotum, quin personâ indutum in scenam prodeat, & voce distinctâ loquatur.

Hujus figuræ duo genera sunt ; alterum, cum fictis personis atque inanimis vox & oratio tribuitur ; alterum, cum poeta rem vitâ carentem tanquam animatam alloquitur : nam veræ personaæ inductio, vel potius in aliam personam transitus, inter figuræ nescio an rectè numeretur : non est certè translationis species, Sed, ut ut sit, frequens est ejus in poesi Asiaticâ usus ; contineo me ab exemplis ; unum tantum proferam. In libri Bustán initio, Mohammedis laudes poeta percenset, & tandem hos versus effundit verè magnificos :

شبی برنشت از فلک برکذشت
بتهکین وجاه از ملک برکشست
چنان کرم در تیه قربت براند
که در سدره جبریل ازو باز بیاند
بدو کفت سالار بیت الحرام
که ای حامل وحی برتر خرام

چو در دوستی مخلصم یافته
 عنانم ز صحبت چرا تافته
 بکفتا فراتر مجال نهاند
 نهاندم که نیروی بالم نهاند
 اکر یک سر موی برتر پرم
 فروغ تجلی بسوزن پرم
 نهاند بعضیان کسی در کرو
 که دارند چنین سیدی پیشوا

- ‘ Qui unâ nocte nobiliter evectus super aethera ascendit
- ‘ Illuc, ubi angeli nequeunt pervenire :
- ‘ Qui in cœlesti hoc itinere tam longè progressus est,
- ‘ Ut illic ubi confistere cogitur Gabrielis, non confisterit :
- ‘ Tum dixit illi Gabrieli dominus templi Meccani,
- “ O tu qui oracula portas, propius accede ;
- “ Quoniam amicitiam meam perfectam adeptus es,
- “ Quare colloquii nostri frena laxas ?”
- ‘ Respondit : “ Non est amplius ubi veniam locus,
- “ Illic confisto, ubi plumæ meæ vi careant :
- “ Si vel minimè altius evolem,
- “ Jubat gloriæ tuae splendentis alas meas liquefaciet.”
- ‘ Nemo peccatis immersus diù manet
- ‘ Qui talem Vatem ducem habeat !’

Quæ descriptio quām nobilis est, quām elata !

Sed illuc redeo, unde paullum dilapsa est oratio. Primum itaque hujus figuræ genus est, cum fictæ personæ datur vox & sensus ; cuius generis exempla quædam insigniora subjiciam. In amatoriis Persarum carminibus sœpe inducuntur loquentes lusciniæ & rosæ ; ut in illo Sadū verfu,

دانی چه کفت مرا آن بلبل سحری
 تو خود چه ادمی کنز عشق بیخبری
 “ Scisne, quid mihi dicat luscinia illa matutina ?
 “ Tu quisnam homo es, qui amoris sis ignarus ?”

Sic Hafez elegantissimè,

De arcana Poematum Significatione.

DE figuris Asiaticæ dictionis satis, ut arbitror, differui; & satis fusè ostendi nullas in Arabum ac Persarum poesi vel verborum vel sententiārum exornationes desiderari. Attamen, nequis nobis locus intactus relinquatur, de occulto illo sensu, quem in poematibus Asiacorum amatorii latere nonnulli existimant, paucis disputabo: & quoniam nihil esse

puto veritatis investigationi inimicius aut magis pestiferum, quām sententiæ simulationem, dicam apertè quid sentiam, nec argumenta celans quibus opinionem meam confirmem, nec aliorum fententias repudians, si quis in illis veritatis color eluceat.

Sunt igitur in linguis Asiaticis, ac præcipuè Persicâ, carmina pœnè innumerabilia; quorum idem est argumentum unusque ferè perpetuus tenor. Nempe in iis continuâ serie laudantur amores ac deliciæ, voluptates, vina, odores, ludi, convivia; & reliqua quæ sensibus blandiuntur: accedunt humanæ pulchritudinis lœtæ admodum descriptiones; intexuntur loci illi communes, de fortunæ temeritate, de honorum ac falsæ religionis contemptione; incertos esse rerum humanarum eventus, & brevem lucis ac vitæ usuram; amoris autem suavitates celeriter deflorescere; oportere igitur voluptates, dum licet, rapere, &

—ποιεῖν τι οἷς γόνυ χλωρόν†.

nihil enim esse amore suavius, nihil quod magis hominem deceat. Exponuntur etiam eæ quæ in amore insunt variæ perturbationes, dolor, ægritudo, desiderium, spes, lœtitia; nunc amator absens languet, dolet, illachrymat, nunc ob amicæ consortium vehementer exultat & triumphat. Hæc autem omnia describuntur mirâ fententiarum varietate, verborum elegantiâ, imaginum splendore, & translationum pulcherrimarum copiâ.

Poetæ, qui horum carminum laude floruerunt, sunt innumeri; quorum tamen facilè principatum obtinet ille, de quo jam dictum est‡, Hafez; cuius politissimum carmen, cum adumbratione Latinâ, idcirco hic apponam, ut horum carminum, de quibus sum proximè locutus, percipiatur natura:

Unum atque alterum vini puri cyathum affer.

Quam odam ita reddidi :

Affer scyphos, & dulcè ridentis meri
Purpureos latices
Effunde largiùs, puer.
Nam vinum amores lenit adolescentium
Difficilesque fenum
Emollit ægritudines.
Solem merum æmulatur, & lunam calix;
Nectareis foveat
Dic luna solem amplexibus.
Flammas nitentes sparge: vini scilicet
Fervidioris aquam
Flammæ nitentis æmulam.
Quòd si roſarum fragilis avolat decor,
Spurge, puer, liquidas
Vini rubefcentis roſas.
Si devium Philomela deserit nemus,
Pocula læta canant
Non elaboratum melos.

Injuriosæ

Injuriosæ sperne fortunæ minas ;
 Lætaque mœstitionam
 Depellat informem chelys.
 Somnus beatos, somnus amplexûs dabit ;
 Da mihi dulce merum
 Somnum quod alliciat levem.
 Dulce est madere vino. Da calices novos,
 Ut placidâ madidus
 Oblivione perfruar.
 Scyphum affer alterum puer, deinde alterum ;
 Seu vetitum fuerit,
 Amice, seu licitum, bibam.

Diffimulatio & petulantia tua dulcis est, prima lanugo & nævus in

In deserto indagandi te tametsi undequaque periculum est,

Tamen Hafez corde destitutus, dum. tuum adventum petit, tranquillè procedit.

De verâ horum carminum significatione magna est opinionum diversitas. Alii proprium tantummodò sensum agnoscunt; alii reconditus quiddam in iis ac divinius censent delitescere. Audiamus itaque utriusque sententiæ defensores. Aiunt quidam animos humanos, in corporum vinculis & compagibus inclusos, eodem ferè modo (sed longè vehementius) in divinum omnium rerum procreatorem affici, quo in amicas amatores; nam ut amantes amicarum recordantur, si qua res eorum oculis obversetur, quæ aliquam habeat cum amato corpore cognationem, sic animas nostras vitæ superioris recordatione & desiderio languescere, si quando divinæ pulchritudinis adumbratam quandam effigiem videamus. Hunc autem amorem ita esse ardenter, ut ad insaniam quandam, & quasi & quasi ἔκσασιν accedat : & quoniam ea est mentium humanarum imbecillitas, ea sermonum, quibus utuntur homines, inopia, ut verbis ad hunc ardorem ritè exponendum accommodatis careant, necesse est poetæ, cœlesti illo furore & divinâ permotione incitati, iis utantur imaginibus & verbis, quæ maximam habeant cum suis conceptibus affinitatem. Cùm autem ii, qui divino amore inflammentur, tanquam ebrii, à mentis sensu abstrahantur, nihil aptius esse potest, quām ebrietatis imaginem ad hunc diviniorem rationis amissionem transferre. Hinc oscularum, hinc amplexationum, hinc deliciarum, atque amœnitatum omnium in Persarum carminibus descriptiones ortum habuerunt, quæ ad proprium sensum restringi nullo modo debent. Atque hoc ipsi poetæ satis apertè declarant ; sic Hafez,

شود مسست وحدت زجام الست
هرانکه چو حافظه می ناب خورد

Ebrius est solummodo æterni fœderis amore,
Is qui, more Hafezi, vinum purum bibat.

خرم دل انکه هرچو حافظه
جامی زمی الست کیرد
Jucundum cor fit illi, qui Hafezo similis
Poculum vini æterni fœderis capiat.

& alibi,

مستی عشق نیست در سر تو
رو که تو مسست آب انکوری
Amoris ebrietas capitū tuo non ineſt;
Abi : tu enim succo uvarum ebrius es.

& Sadi,

مکر بوبی عشق مسست کند
طلب کار عهد الست کند

Forfan unus amoris odor te inebriabit,
Et faciet te fœdus divinum quærere.

Sic etiam poeta Turcicus Rubi Bagdadi,

صنیک بزی که شیره انکورایله مسست اینز
بز اهل خرابات می مسست الست اینز

Noli putare nos uvæ succo ebrios esse,
Nos eas tabernas colimus, ubi divini fœderis vino inebriemur.

Hæc illi. Nunc prodeant ii qui huic fententiæ adversantur. Damus, inquiunt, hæc, si de translatione vel simplici vel etiam continuatâ loquamini; sed hæc translatio per longum poema perpetuâ serie deduci nullo pacto potest. Licet poetæ religioso dicere, se ad divinum numen accedere non minùs ardenter cupere, quam amator amicam videre; sed non utique licet propriam notionem penitus dimittere, & imaginibus ab amore humano petitis per longissimum opus perpetuò uti. Id qui faciunt, ænigmata non versùs scribere censendi sunt.

Permuta enim imaginem: dulcissimè certè & tenerrimè inquit vates Hebræus,

בָּאֵיל תְּעַרְגּוּ עַל אֲפִיקִי מַיִם
כִּז נֶפְשִׁי תְּעַרְגּוּ אֶלְךָ אֱלֹהִים :

Velut cervus rivos aquarum ardenter desiderat,
Sic tui desiderio, Deus, anima mea flagrat.

Cuiquamne verò concederemus, ut continuò carmina perlonga contexeret, in quibus de rivulis, de cervis, de fitis ægritudine, de herbarum amoenitate, de sylvis ac pratis folummodò loqueretur? Quæ autem narrant de animâ nostrâ in corporis catenis inclusâ, vitæque divinioris desiderio flagrante, & quæ sequuntur, ea ferè sunt Platonica. At quidnam esse causæ putemus, cur Platonis viri gravissimi versiculos de Agathone, de Astere, de Dione, de Archianassâ, nemo unquam extiterit, qui ad fensum sensum reconditiorem interpretaretur; quæ verò poetæ Asiatici, homines, ut scimus, admodum voluptuarii, de amoribus ac deliciis scribunt, ea divina, ea pietatis plena, ea μυστήριον quoddam continere dicamus? Multa sunt à Græcis poetis, ac præsertim à Lyricis, & cogitata & scripta venustissimè; quæ tamen nemo est nisi simpliciter & propriè interpretatus. Quid? sex illos elegantes versiculos, qui cum poesi Persicâ mirificè congruunt,

'Εκμαίνει χείλη με βοδέχροα, ποικιλόμυθα,
Ψυχοτακῆ, σόματῷ νεκταρέως πρόθυρα,
Καὶ γλῶναι λασίησιν ὑπ' ὄφρύσιν αἰσράπλεσαι,
Σπλάζχνων ἡμετέρων δίκτυα, καὶ παγίδες,
Καὶ μαζοὶ γλαγύεντες, εὔζυγες, ἴμερέντες,
Εὐφύεες, πάσης τερπνότεροι κάλυκοι.

ad proprium sensum restringendos, nemo est qui non censeat: illos verò Hafezi versūs,

کرقتنه ناده چین بوی مشک ازان کیسو
کلاله یاقته بوی چنان ازان عارض
بکل بماند فرو سرو ناز ازان قامت
خجل نشست کل کلستان ازان عارض
پشم رفت کل یاسپین ازان اندام
بخون نشست آل ارغوان ازان عارض

Capit vesica Sinensis odorem moschi ab illis crinibus, Crines autem talem odorem ab illâ genâ recipiunt:
In terram demittitur cupressus lasciva ob illam staturam,
Pudore affecta sedet rosa horti ob illam genam:
Verecundans abit flos jasmini ob illud corpus,
Sanguinem stillat color floris purpurei (Argovan) ob illam genam.

Hos, inquam, versūs ad divinum nescio quid pertinere existimant.
Quid? cum scribat Mimnermus, bellè, ut solet,

Τὶς δὴ βίος, τὰ δὴ τερπνὸν ἄνευ χρυσῆς Ἀφροδίτης;
Τεθνάνην, ὅτε μοι μηκέτι ταῦτα μέλοι,
Κρυπταδίη φιλότης, καὶ μείλιχα δῶρα, καὶ εῦη.

quisquamne arbitratur poetam per auream illam Venerem per dulcia amoris dona, per furtivos illos complexūs, pietatem & divinum amorem intelligere? Cur ideò putemus Mesihium, poetam Turcicum, cùm dicat elegantissimè,

اللهي سنبني سينه ايلتبه
صلانجه يارك سينه سينه

Ne me, Deus, in sepulchrum perducas,
Donec amicæ meæ gremium amplexu teneam, quippiam reconditum aut cœleste innuisse? Quid? verfūs illos Hafzianos,

مسند بکلستان بر تا شاهد وساقی را
لب کیری ورخ بوسی و می نوشی گلبوی

Pulvinar in rosarium affer, ut pulchri pueri & ancillæ
Labia premas, genas oscularis, & vinum bibas rosæ odore præditum.

& illos,

بر رخ ساقی پری پیکر
هچو حافظ بنوش باده ناب

A genâ puellæ, nymphæ similem habentis vultum,
Tanquam Hafez, merum hauri.

† In alio codice legitur :

زان به چه که در بستان معشوقه و عاشق را
لب کیری ورخ بوسی می نوشی وكل بوی

Quid dulcius est quam in horto amicæ & amici
Labia premere, & genas suaviari, vinum bibere, & rosas olfacere?

& illum

& illum ardenti affectu plenum,

لَبْم بِر لَبْ نَه اَي سَاقِي وَبِسْتَان جَان شِيرِينْم

Labium super labium pone, ô vini ministra, & dulcem meam animam ebibe.

annon ad terrenos amores spectare censendum est?

Quòd si plura argumenta ex ipsis poetarum Asiaticorum carminibus de promenda sint, permulta proferre possumus exempla, quibus perspicuum sit Hafezo atque aliis, Mohammedem & ipsam religionem ludibrio fuisse; velut cum dicat,

ان تلخ وش كه صوفي ام الخبائثش خواند
أشهي لنا واحلي من قبلة العذارا

Acre illud (vinum) quod vir religiosus (Mohammedes) matrem peccatorum vocitat, Optabilius nobis ac dulcior videtur quam virginis suavium.

&

ما میست شراب ناب عشقیم
نه تشنه به سلسیل و کافور

Nos vino puro amoris inebriamur,

Fontes autem cœlestes (Salsebil & Cafur) non fitimus.

Et alibi plus millies.

Ac profectò fatis intelligere nequimus, cur poetas credamus hujusmodi involucris ac tegumentis velle celare eas virtutes, quibus nihil laudabilius esse potest, pietatem ac Dei cultum; amores verò impudicos, & qui maximè humano generi dedecori sint, apertè profiteri. Multò certè verisimilius est, poetas illos, utcunque sensum quandam occultum innuere videantur, eo solùm prætextu uti, ut cives suos credulos & religiosos decipiant, & voluptatibus liberius indulgeant. Ac ne ipsis quidem Persis, (doctoribus scilicet) Hafezi carmina arcanam habere significationem visa sunt:

funt : nam Sadius, omnium eruditissimus interpretum, proprium tantum verborum sensum in illius versibus explicat. Præterea memoriae proditum est (illo poetâ mortuo), primarios urbis Shirazi viros, sepulturam ei ob carminum impudicitiam concedere noluisse ; cum vero magna esset inter eos concertatio, aliis ut sepeliretur suadentibus, aliis vehementer dehortantibus, ad fortis se contulisse, & ipsius poetae librum divinationis causâ aperuisse ; cum autem primus, qui se illis obtulit versus, esset,

+ قدم دریغ مدار از جنازه حافظ
اکر چه غرف کنایست میبود بپیشست

Gressum noli retorquere ab Hafezi exequiis, Tametsi enim peccatis demersus fit, in cœlum intrabit.

sacerdotes illicò consenfisse, & poetam humavisse in illo loco, Mosella dicto, quem ipse in carminibus celebravisset. Ita disputant utriusque sententiæ propugnatores : equidem veterum Academicorum morem, nihil ut affirmem, strenuè tenebo ; ita tamen ut non negem, quin mihi disputatio secunda ad veritatem propensior esse videatur.

† Ultimus versus est pulcherrimi carminis, cuius initium :

کنونکه میدهد از بوستان نسیم بهشت
من و شراب فرح بخش و بار حور سرشت

Nunc cum ex horto aura paradisi veniat,
Ego & vinum lætitiam præbens, & sodalis cujus forma nymphæ cœlesti similis est (convenimus).

De Elato dicendi genere.

LAUDARE Asiaticam poesin, & quanti sint in eâ venustatis atque elegantiarum flores, exponere, non ut philosophus, sed ut narrator, institui. Itaque dè Elatione dicendi quām brevissimè potero, differam; eamque primò definiam. Id est igitur Elatum, quod sit incertum, horridum, obscurum, periculosum, vastum, difficile, turbulentum; & quod eos qui legunt usque adeò percellat, ut admirantur, vereantur, tumultuantur, exhorescant, doleant, stupeant. Sunt autem Elationis præcipui fontes, terror, magnificentia, potentia, & in eâ describendâ brevitas. Alii sunt quasi fonticuli, sed qui omnes terrori subjunguntur, ut solitudo, silentium, caligo; intermissio, eaque vel sonorum, ut luporum ululatus in sylvâ noctu auditus, vel lucis: ad summam quocunque sensibus est maximè injucundum, id cùm describatur, Elatam reddit poesin.

Ac primùm de Terrore loquar; ad quem excitandum aptissimæ sunt tempestatum ac tonitrûs imagines. Nam

— cui non animus formidine Divûm
Contrahitur? cui non correputn membra pavore,
Fulminis horribili cùm plagâ torrida tellus
Contremit, & magnum percurrunt murmura cœlum!

Sic in Jobi poemate†,

שְׁמַע שְׁמֹעַ בָּרוּךְ קָלֹו
וְהַנֶּה מִפְיוֹ יֵצֵא :
תָחַת כָּל הַשְׁמִימִים יִשְׁרָחוּ
וְאוֹרוֹ עַל כְּנָפוֹת הָאָרֶץ :

† Cap. xxxvii. 2—4.

אַחֲרֵי יְשָׁאָג קֹל
יְדֻעַם בְּקֹל נָאוֹנוּ :

Audite attentè strepitum vocis ejus,
Et fremitum (qui) ex ore ejus egreditur,
Sub totum cœlum eum dirigit,
Et lucem ejus in alas terræ,
Post eum tonat vox,
Rugit voce dignitatis suæ.

Sic etiam omnium poetarum post Asiaticos altissimus, † Aeschylus,

Χρῶν σεσάλευται,
Βρυχία δ' ἡχώ ταραμυῆται
Βροντῆς, ἐλικες δ' ἐκλάμπεται
Στέρωπῆς ζάπυροι, τρόμοις δὴ κόνιν
Εἰλίσσεσθαι. Σκιρτᾶς δ' ἀνέμων
Πνεύματα τάντων, εἰς ἄλληλα
Στάσιν ἀντίστηνεν ἀποδεικνύμενα.
Συντετάρακται δ' αἰθήρ πόντω.

Et illa nota,

Tenebræ conduplicantur, noctisque & nimbūm occæcat nigror,
Flamma inter nubes coruscat, cœlum tonitru contremit;
Grando mista imbri largiflu subita præcipitans cadit;
Undique omnes venti erumpunt, fævi existunt turbines.

Sic rursùs in Jobi libro‡,

אַל אָרֶץ חַשְׁךְ וְצִלְמוֹת :
אָרֶץ עַפְתָה כְּמוֹ אֲפָל
צִלְמוֹת וְלֹא סְדוּרִים
תַּפְעָע כְּמוֹ אֲפָל :

In terram caliginis, & tenebrarum,
Terram crassam, instar caliginis,
Tenebras, ordine carentes,
Et lucis radios tanquam caliginem.

† Prometh. Δεσμωτ. ver. 1080.

‡ Cap. x. 21, 22.

Porrò voces illæ סתר רעם Tonitrus latebræ; מלך יהוה Angelus Dei; נא צלמות Vallis tenebrarum; קול יהוה Dei vox; בראשית in principio, idcirco sunt altissimæ, quod imagines præbeant incertas, terribiles, magnificas, infinitas, & quas humanæ mentis angustiæ nullo modo possint concipere.

Præterea conceptū tenebrarum ad Elationem sunt accommodati; quam rem sensit nimirūm Euripides, cùm diceret

Νυκτῷρ δὴ πολλὴν σεμνότητ' ἔχει σκότῳ.

Hinc oritur versuum in Apollonii Argonauticis sublimitas,

—————ὑπὲρ μέγα λαῖτμα θέουται
Νὺξ ἐφίσει, τὴν πέρ τε κατελάδα κικλήσκεστι
Νύκτ' ὄλοὴν, ἐκ ἀστρα διέσχανεν, ἀδὲ αἰμαρυγαὶ
Μήνης. Οὐρανόθεν δὲ μελάγχροος, ἡέ τις ἀλλη
Ὄρεώρει σκοτίη μυχάτων ἀνέστα βερεθρῶν.

Sed præcipuè excelsa esse videtur caliginis imago, cum infinitate & terrore coniunctæ, ut in illis versiculis,

"Ἐνθεν τὸν ἄπειρον ἐρεύγονται σκότον
Βληχροὶ διοφερᾶς νυκτὸς ποταμοί.

quibus vix quidquam dici potest sublimius.

Hanc ob causam valdè excelsa est fabula in Afîa decantata de regione tenebrarum, & oceano caliginis, de quibus multa narrant Arabes. Sic Mohammedes in Alcorani capite quarto & vicefimo, five

سورة النور
 والذين كفروا اعهم كظالمات في بحر لحج يغشيه موج من
 فوقه موج من فوقه سحاب ظالمات بعض فوق بعض

“ At infidelium opera caligini sunt similia in oceano profundo, quem fluētū super fluētū tegunt, & super eos, nubes; caligini super aliam caliginem.”

Porrò autem quocunque incertum est terrorem quandam secum affert; ideoque ad Elationem accommodatur: cuius rei non est insignius exemplum, quām illud quod ex † Jobi poemate citat in ‡ libro Anglico vir disertissimus, Edmundus Bourke,

בשעפים מהוינות לילה
בנפל תרוכה על אנסם:
פחד קראני ורעדת
ורב עצמות הפחיד:
ורוח על פני יהלוף
תשמר שערתبشرיו:
יעמד ולא אביר מראהו
תמונה לננד עני:
דממה וקול אשמע:
האנוש מאלה יצرك
אם מעשו יתחר נבר:

In cogitationibus à visionibus noctis,
Cùm cadat sopor in homines,
Metus me invasit ac terror,
Et omnia ossa mea tremefecit,
Et spiritus ante faciem meam transivit,
Erectè fletterunt carnis meæ pili,
Substitit, sed eum intueri non potui,
Simulachrum fuit ante oculos,
Silentium fuit, & vocem audivi,
“ An homo Deo justior?
“ An creatore suo purior mortalis§?”

† Cap. iv. 13—17.

‡ De Elatione & Venustate, Par. II. Cap. iv.

§ Insigne hujus rei exemplum est in Xenophontis Ephesiaci libro jucundissimo de Anthia & Habrocomaa, Τῷ δὲ Ἀρεοκόμῃ φίραται γυνὴ ὁφῆλης φοῖβικά, τὸ μήτριθεν ἐπὶ οὐρανού, ἐσθῆτα ἔχουσα φοινικῆν. ἐπειδῶσα δὲ τὴν παῖδα εἰδένει καίνειν, καὶ τὸν μὲν ἄλλας ἀπόλλυσθαι, αὐτὸν δὲ μιτὰ τῆς Αιδίας διατύπωσθαι. Ταῦτα ἡς εἰδένει, ἐταξάζει καὶ προστίθει τὸ διπλὸν ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ. Καὶ τὸ διπλὸν ἰγύνετο. Quo in loco admodum sublimes sunt, cùm crebræ terroris imagines, tum præcipue illa sententia Καὶ τὸ διπλὸν ἰγύνετο.

Est porrò excelsum, quocunque subitum est & minimè expectatum. Sic apud Callimachum vetulæ personam Ceres induit, ut Erisichthonem à sylvâ sibi sacratâ cædendâ dehortaretur, cùm verò nihil perfecisset, irâ incensa est,

————γείρατο δὲ θεὺς

"Ισθμυτα μὲν χρυσῷ, κιφαλὴν δὲ οἱ οἴπλατ' Ολυμπῷ.

à quo loco sumpta sunt illa Virgiliana.

Præterea

Præterea imaginum splendidarum congeries quædam & coagmentatio magnificam reddit orationem, adeoque excelsam: nam elationis præcipuus fons est magnificentia. Ob hanc causam admirabilis est in † Sirachidis sapientiâ Simonis Onie filii descriptio, ‘Ως ἐδόξασθη εν τεριστοφῇ λαζ,

ἐν ἔξοδῳ οἴκω καταπετάσματῷ;
‘Ως ἀσῆρ ἐώθινῷ εν μέσῳ νεφέλης,
ὡς σελήνη τλήρης εν ἡμέραις, ‘Ως ἥλιῳ ἐκλάμπων ἐπὶ ναὸν υψίσε,
ἢ ὡς τόξον φώτιζον εν νεφέλαις δόξης, ‘Ως ἄνθος ρόδων εν ἡμέραις νέων,
ὡς κρίνα ἐπ’ ἔξοδων ὑδατος, ‘Ως βλαστὸς λιβάνου εν ἡμέραις θέρες,
ὡς πῦρ καὶ λιβανος ἐπὶ πυρέις,
‘Ως σκεῦος χρυσίς ὀλοσφύρητον, κεκοσμημένον ταντὶ λιθῷ πολυτελεῖ,
‘Ως ἐλαία ἀναθάλλεσσα καρπὸς,
ἢ ὡς κυπάρισσος υψημένη εν νεφέλαις.
‘Ἐν τῷ ἀναλαμβάνειν αὐτὸν σολὴν δόξης,
ἢ ἐνδιδύσκεσθε αὐτὸν συντέλειαν καυχήματῷ, ‘Ἐν ἀναβάσει θυσιασθηίσ αγίσ, ἐδόξασε τερισολὴν ἀγιάσματῷ.
‘Ἐν δὲ τῷ δέχεσθε μέλη ἐκ χειρῶν ιερέων,
ἢ αὐτὸς ἐσὼς παρ’ ἐσχάρᾳ, βωμῷ,
Κυκλόθεν αὐτῷ σέφανος ἀδελφῶν, ὡς βλάσημα κέδρος εν τῷ Λιβάνῳ,
ἢ ἐκύκλωσαν αὐτὸν ὡς σελέχη φοινίκων.

Hunc locum sanè mirificum Hebraicè ad verbum redditum dabo; quemadmodum auctor fuit in libro de Sacrâ Poesi † scriptor admirabilis, quem libenter sequor.

 Ver est jucundum in eo paradiso,
 Cujus terra ambarum olet, & cujus lapides aurei sunt,
 Cœlum excelsum palatium ejus est, & aula,
 Paradisus terrarum vultus ejus subridens est :
 Altior aulâ ejus nullus est collis,
 Latior regiâ nullus est hortus.
 Cùm ad elatam illam regiam acceſſi,
 Caput ejus cum stellis arcana iniit confilia.
 Ad unam manum stetit elephas, ad alteram leo ;
 Orbem terrarum, tanquam folium, sibi submisit.
 Super elephantis tergo folium fuit aureum,
 Et singula leonum monilia erant gemmea ;

Lætus accessi ad sublimem illum regem,
 Et aspexi solium è gemmis cœruleis fictum,
 Regem autem lunæ similem in eo sedentem,
 Pyropis fulgentem, & capite gerentem diadema;
 Crines camphoræ similes habentem, & faciem tanquam rosæ foliū,
 Cor æquitatis amans, & linguam dulciloquam (adipato loquentem sermone)."

Ad altitudinem etiam orationis conferunt visiones, quas Græci Φαντασίας vocant, per quas ante oculos lectoris imagines rerum absentium clarè ponuntur. Hæ autem quād sæpiissimè à tragicis in insaniæ descriptionibus usurpantur. Exemplo fit ex Æschyli Choephoris locus elatissimus. Orestes, cùm matrem interfecisset, chorum alloquitur, & primùm, leni quodam orationis tractu: mox furore corruptus, erumpit, ⁷A' 2,

Δμωαὶ γυναικεῖς —— αἵδε γεργόνων δίκηιν
 Φαιωχίτωνες, καὶ πεπλεκτανημέναι
 Πυκνοῖς δράκουσιν. Οὐκ ἔτ’ ἂν μείναιμ’ ἐγώ.

Chorus illum permulcere cupit, & ad lenitatem revocare,

Τίνες σε δόξαι, φίλτατ’ ἀνθρώπων πατρί,
 Στροβεῦσιν; ἵσχε. μὴ Φοβεῖ, νικῶν πολύ.

respondet,

Οὐκ εἰσὶ δόξαι τῶν δε πημάτων ἔμοι
 Σαφῆς γαρ αἵδε μητρὸς ἔγκοτοι κύνες.

Tum Chorus, imprudentius,

Ποταίνιον γαρ αἷμα σοι χεροῖν ἔτι,
 Ἐκ τῶν δέ τοι ταραγμὸς ἐς φρένας πιτνεῖ.

Ille, voce αἷμα inflammatus, & manum, fortasse suam, materno sanguine tintam, respiciens, ardentiùs furit,

"Αναξ" Ἀπολλον —— αἵδε πληγήσος δὴ,
 Καὶ ὅμμάτων σάρξοις αἷμα δυσφιλές.

& cùm

& cùm fœminæ illum consolari velint, ille decedens exclamat,

Τημεῖς μὲν ἐκ ὁρᾶτε τάς δ'. ἔγω δὲ ὁρῶ,
Ἐλαύνομαι δὴ καὶ ἔτ' ἀν μείναμι ἔγω.

Mirè hæc convenientunt cum † Shakespearī nostri præclarâ tragœdiâ, quâ nec Græcos poetas nec Latinos quidquam habuisse puto excelsius, aut magnificentius.

Reliquum est ut pauca apponam loca, in quibus exponitur ea (quâ nihil maius cogitari potest), Divini numinis potentia: has autem expositiones naturâ elatissimas commendat brevitas. Quicquid in hoc genere habent Arabes, ab admirabili in Sacrâ Historiâ ‡ loco sumi videtur, cuius vim & magnificentiam omnes collaudant,

ויאמר אלהים יהי אור ויהי אור

Dixit Deus, Fiat lux, & lux facta est.

Ille dixit, & fuit.

Hinc illud Mohammedicum,

quod sic amplificat poeta Arabicus, quem citat Ebn Arabshâh,

لا تخزن فالذى قضى الله يكون *

والامر الموكل الى كن فيكون *

ما بين تحرك بالحظ وسكون *

الحالة تنقضى وذا الامر يزون *

“ Ne tristeris ; nam quod decrevit Deus, fiet :

Et res commissa voci, Esto, erit :

Dum oculum movere potes, & motum sedare,

Status mutatur, & vir potens demittitur.”

† Macbeth.

‡ Gen. i. 3.

Psal. xxxiii. 9.

His

His addam locum verè magnificentum, ex Alcorani capite undecimo, ubi
Noë diluvium describit Arabum legislator :

“ Ea verò (arca) cum illis labitur inter fluctus, tanquam montes: & clamat Noa filio suo, ille autem (natat) separatim, “ O fili, naviga nobiscum, & cave sis cum infidelibus.” Inquit, Ascendam montem; qui ex aquâ me liberabit; inquit (Noa), Non (est) liberatio hodiè à Dei decreto, nisi (illius) favor. Tum inter eos venit fluctus; & fuit inter immersos. Et dictum est (vox audita est quæ diceret), “ O terra, aquam tuam imbibe, & O cœlum, tuam coerce;” & inhibita est aqua, & peractum est mandatum, & restitutus (arca) super Aljûdi (montem) & dictum est (vox divina dixit) Apage, impios!”

Locum hoc sublimiorem (Mosaicum illum excipio) nunquam legi: ejusdem generis est, sed longè humilior, Apuleii sententia, qui cùm prædonum societatem fere invictam descripserit, subjungit, “ Noluit esse “ Cæsar Hæmi latronis collegium, & confestim interiit.” Quantum illis locis quæ exposui, addit pietas ac veritas, tantum ab hoc detrahit insulsa regis adulatio. Videmus tamen quantam dictioni Elationem addat brevitas; cujus rei alio in genere exemplum subjiciam. Narrat Ebn Arabshâh in libro, qui Facahato' Ikhlofa inscribitur, Persam quendam ex Bokharæ incendio salvum evasisse, & cùm esset à quodam interrogatus, quid in eâ urbe egerint Genghizi milites, respondisse,

Non

Non dubito affirmare his sex vocibus animum auditoris magis fuisse permotum, quam longissimâ hujus cædis narratione, licet gravissimis fuerit instructa verbis, & sententiis ornata splendidissimis. Cùm enim animus variarum rerum serie ac verborum cumulo quasi obruatur, † perfectam imaginem formare nequit ; sed alia aliam trudit ; itaque omnia sunt obscura, omnia confusa, omnia incerta ; omnia denique sublimia. Certissimum est enim, dum hæ sex voces proferuntur, imagines exercitū irruentis, occidentium & occisorum, incendii, ruinæ, prædationis, & victorum recendentium, aliarumque rerum, quæ iis necessariò subjunguntur, animo comprehendi neutiquam posse.

De Venuſtate.

QUID per Venuſtatem intelligam, complectar brevi : Ea mihi videtur venuſta esse poeſis, cuius imagines fint hilares, nitidæ, ridentes, lætæ, compositio mollis & dilucida, quæ denique lectoris animum permulcat, alliciat, oblectet, exhilaret, relaxet, & suavissimâ quâdam voluptate perfundat. Quibus autem modis eam in animo excitet voluptatem, non institui hoc loco differere ; sed statuam cum Hermogene † quæcunque aut visu, aut tactu, aut gustu, aut auditu, aut odoratu denique suavia sunt, ea, cùm aptis describantur versibus, magnam afferre jucunditatem. Cujusmodi sunt locorum amoenitates, horti, flores, nymphæ, fontes, amores, deliciæ, nuptiæ, rivuli, lusciniæ cantus, odores, zephyri, humana pulchritudo, & reliquæ imagines ex naturâ depromptæ, quas rectè venustatis fontes esse ait † Demetrius Phalereus.

Ob hanc rem pulchri sunt versūs, quos in Symposio Platonis recitat Agatho, cùm amorem dicat afferre,

Εἰρήνην μὲν εν ἀνθρώποις, πελάγει δὴ γαλήνην,
Νημείαν δὲ αὐέροις, κοίτην ὑπνοντ' ἐνὶ κήδει.

Hæ autem imagines sunt jucundissimæ: quid enim tam jucundum, quam pax civitati, maris tranquillitas navigantibus, venti lenitas viatoribus, lectus & somnus mœrentibus? Nec minùs lætæ sunt imagines in Sapphûs versiculis, quos in libro secundo de Formis citat Hermogenes, qui multa ibidem de suavitate, ipse quoque suaviter, scripsit:

Καδὸν ὑδωρ ψυχρὸν πελαδεῖ δὲ ὄσδων
Μαλίνων, αἴθουσθομένων δὴ φύλλων
Κῶμα καταρρέει.

Nihil enim ferè excogitari potest dulcius, quam imago “ Aquæ gelidæ “ per malorum ramos murmurantis, & somni, trementibus foliis, leniter “ defluentis.”

Vellem profectò non intercidissent tot & tam divina Sapphûs carmina. Quæ supersunt (ut ipsius poetriæ utar verbis) sunt † “ auro ipso magis “ aurea.” Et notabile est Demetrium, Hermogenem, Dionysium Haliarnasseum, & reliquos artis oratoriæ magistros, illam perpetuò citare, cùm de venusto dicendi genere loquantur. § Carmen autem in Attida, § Longin. πιστὸς γῆθες, Cap. x.

tanquam

tanquam elati generis exemplum profert Longinus; à quo valde dissentio. Quam enim habent cum Elatione affinitatem lætissimæ illæ imagines, puella suaviter loquens, & suaviter subridens? Præterea nihil terrible aut horridum in hac Odâ describit puella Lesbia, sed jucundissimum animi motum, Amorem; &c, ab illo ortam, totius corporis relaxationem; quæ imago ab Elato dicendi genere est alienissima: nam corpus permulcere & relaxare præcipua est delectationis & voluptatis proprietas. Hinc Amor apud poetas Græcos λυσμελῆς, membra dissolvens, sæpiissimè vocatur, ut Sappho, Ἐρως δ' αὔτε μ' ὁ λυσμελῆς δονεῖ.

Hanc ob rem Bacchum appellari Λυαῖον nonnulli putant; iidemque vinum † χάλιν ideò nominari aiunt, quod solvat & relaxet. Sed ob deperdita cùm Sapphūs, tum etiam Erinnæ, Alcmanis, Alcæi, & Diphili, Apollodori, Philemonis, Alexidis, aliorumque poetarum, opera, præclaris illis Græcis fæcerotibus plurimam scilicet debemus gratiam! Illos enim è delirationis provexit anilis superstitione, ut complura veterum Græcorum poemata, eaque venustissima, combusserint; nimirum quod in illis amantium nequitia, ut vocant, essent descriptæ.

Imaginum venustatem dictionis & verborum pulchritudo subsequitur. Necesse est enim poeta, de his lætissimis rebus scribens, verborum utatur splendore & dulcedine: de qua re videndus est Demetrius‡.

† Sic Hippoanax,

Ολύγα φροῦροι οἱ χάλιοι ποπακότες.

& Archilochus apud Athenæum,

Πολλὸν δὲ πίνω καὶ χαλίκρητος μίθω.

‡ Διὸ καὶ μὲν ἡ Σαπφὼ τιῷ μὲν κάλλος αἰδεσσα, καλλιεπῆς ἴστι, καὶ ἡδὺα, καὶ τιῷ ἐρώτῳ δὲ καὶ ἔρος καὶ τιῷ ἀλιγόνος, καὶ ἄπαι καλὸς ὄνομα ἐνέψαται αὐτῆς τῇ ποιήσῃ.

Et alibi,

Quinetiam,

Quinetiam, ut ait Hermogenes, illæ voluptates, quas Amor secum assert, delectationem quandam præbent cùm describantur; sed aliis lectoribus aliam; nam lector pudicus descriptione modestâ & quasi velatâ delectatur, qualis est,

Ἡ ῥὰ καὶ ἀκαὶ ἔμαρπτε Κρόνος παις ἦν ταράκοιτιν.

lascivus verò apertius quiddam postulat, & magis voluptuosum; cujusmodi est illa descriptio,

 وغضون الدوح حفتنا بانواع النقود

Spargit super eos margaritas nubium chrystallum,
 Super planitiem sericam, in quâ pocula sunt pyropina,
 Dentesque sunt ex jaspide, quos risus gratia decorat,
 Oculique ex argento, blandè intuentes, qui non dormiunt,
 Et sylvæ rami variis nummis (roris guttis) nos aspergunt.

طيرها فيه غنا اذ علا عودا وطار
 وشذاها ضاع فيه المسك لما منه غار
 والصباء امسى علياً في رياها حين سار
 جنة الفردوس فيها وجه بدري حين نار
 أصبحت جنات عدن تشتري فيها الخلود

Aves ejus (sylvæ) canunt, cum in ramum ascendunt & volitant,
 Et ab odore ejus afflatur moschus, cum ex eo descendunt,
 Et aura fit languida, cum per colles ejus transeat ;
 Hortus paradisi est, in quo est facies lunæ meæ (amicæ) cum splendeat,
 Fit Edeni hortulus, in quo delectatur æternitas.

يا لها من عشرة جاءت بانواع الينا
 ليس فيها غير لثم وارتشاف واعتنا
 وكوص دايرات وغناء وغنا
 لو راهها زاهد من ريحها كان اثنبي
 لم يسعه عندها من زهده الا الجحود

CARMEN TURCICUM.

Alites audis loquaces per nemora, per arbutos,
 Veris adventum canentes tinnulo modulamine ;
 Dulcè luget per virentes mollis aura amygdalas :
 Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

Ecce jam flores refulgent gemmeis honoribus,
 Quique prata, quique saltūs, quique sylvulas amant :
 Quis scit an nox una nobis dormienda æterna sit ?
 Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

Quantus est nitor rofarum ! quantus hyacinthi decor !
 Non ocellus, cùm renidet, est puellæ lætior :
 Hic levi dies Amori est, hic Voluptati facer.
 Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

Ecce baccatæ recentis guttulæ roris micant,
 Per genam rosæ cadentes, perque mite lilium :
 Auribus gratum, puellæ, fit meum vestris melos.
 Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

Ut rosa in prato resfulget, sic teres virgo nitet,
 Hæc onusta margaritis, illa roris gemmulis :
 Ne perenne vel puellæ vel rosæ speres decus.
 Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

Aspice, ut roseta amictu discolori splendeant,
 Prata dum foecundat æther læta gratis imbribus,
 Fervidos inter fodales da voluptati diem.
 Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

Jam situ deformis ægro non jacet rosæ calyx ;
 Ver adest, ver pingit hortos purpurantes floribus,
 Perque saxa, perque colles, perque lucos emicat.
 Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

Ecce, per rosæ papillas suavè rident guttulæ,
 Quas odorifer resolvit lenis auræ spiritus ;
 Hæ pyropis, hæ smaragdis cariores Indicis.
 Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

Is tenellis per vireta spirat è rosis odor,
 Ut novum stillans amomum ros in herbas decidat,

Suavè

Suavè oalentibus coronans lacrymis conopeum.
Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit ?

Acris olim cum malignis fæviit ventis hyems ;
Sed rofeto, solis instar, Regis affulsit nitor ;
Floruit nemus repente, dulce manavit merum.
Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

His iners modis, Mefibi, melleam aptabas chelyn :
Veris ales est poeta ; verna cantat gaudia,
Et rosas carpit tepentes è puellarum genis.
Nunc amandum est, nunc bibendum ; floreum Ver fugit, abit !

PARS QUARTA:

De Poematum Asiaticorum Argumentis.

C A P U T XII.

S I V E

De Poesi Heroicâ.

SEPTEM esse statui poeseos Asiaticæ species, quarum singulæ, ut fusè ac plenè exponantur, separata capita requirunt.

Nam aut res gestas ac bella narrat poeta, aut mortuos deflet, aut lectors monet, aut amores ac delicias pingit, aut proborum hominum & clarorum virtutes collaudat, aut improborum vitia reprehendit, aut denique naturæ proprietates describit. Ad has species omnis ferè poesis redigi potest. Exponam autem, quibus in argumentis præcipuè florent Asiatici; & exempla quædam illustriora feligam, cùm ad argumenti explanationem comparata, tum ad sermonis varietatem, quarum hanc jucundam esse puto, illam necessariam. De poesi bellicâ primùm differam; de cæteris deinceps loquar.

Veterum igitur Arabum campestris vita atque inculta neminem ferè latet. Erant, ut notum est, valdè feroce, vindictæ & gloriæ cupidissimi, pugnatores pugnatores tandem ita acres, ut ipsa mors (perantiqui poetæ utor verbis) illis melle dulcior esse videretur †.

Cum adeò tributim separati ac distincti viverent, singulae tribù bellum cum vicinis gesserunt ferè perpetuum : & quoniam illis incitatissimi erant affectus, quot inter eos heroës, tot pœnè poetæ admirabiles extiterunt ; iidemque fuerunt sœpè viatores & victoriae præcones. Hos adeò veros fuisse poetas existimo, & tam elato perdignos nomine, quorum sola fuerit magistra vehemens animi incitatio, & unica præceptrix, Natura. Nec enim abesse potest, quin valde sublimis sit & horrida in præliis describendis gentis pugnacissimæ poësis. Credibile est, Æschylum è Marathonis, Salaminis, & Platææ præliis, animum horridiorem & quasi bellicum ad tragœdias scribendas attulisse. Hinc Alcæus, aureo plectro, ut Quintilianus ait, donandus, militare quiddam in levioribus etiam carminibus cecinit : ab hoc fonte derivata est Archilochi vis & majestas, quem de seipso dixisse memoriâ proditum est,

Εἰμὶ δὲ ἐγώ Θεράπων μὲν Ἐνναλίοιο ἀνακῆρος
Καὶ Μεσέων ἔρατὸν δῶρον ἐπισάμενος.

Homerum etiam, fontem illum τὸν ὑψηλόν, & poëeos heroicæ patrem, multis præliis interfuisse, est verisimillimum.

Hinc originem duxerunt illæ altissimæ translationes, quibus utuntur in hoc poëeos genere antiqui Arabes ; hinc illa Προσωποποϊα admirabilis in carmine veteri, ubi Tābat Sherra, heros idem & poeta, de facto quodam audacissimo loquens, ait,

الموت خزيان ينظر

Hinc illæ imagines magnificæ,

Et illa, quâ idem poema suum claudit, grandis exultatio,

“ Illos dico, qui famam meam læserunt, me non lacefcente, & voverunt, nisi illis sanguinem meum concederem,

“ Se facturos—At enim reliqui illorum patres leonibus & aquilis rapacibus pabulum.”

Notum est, antiquos Arabum heroas per vastas solitudines ac rupes solitos esse vagari, vel ut labores sibi familiares redderent, vel ut hostium propulsarent injurias. Hinc in libro Hamaṣa laudatur heros, quia

يرى الوحشة الانس الانيس ويقتدي

Cum Vastitate arctissimam init societatem, eoque progreditur, quo ducit stellarum densè consertarum mater.

“ Stellarum matrem” cœlum vocat poeta: estque pulcherrima Metonymia.

Sed omnino elatissimi sunt, ob frequentes terroris & obscuritatis images, illi versūs, quos in notis ad Tharafah citat Reizkius:

جواب جوات الفجاج التي بها
النعام وعرف الجن والمتغول *
وليل دجوجي بهيم ظلامه كبا

“ Pervado

- “ Pervado hiatus rupium abruptos, in quibus habitat Struthiocamelus, & sibilant genii ac lemures ;
- “ Noctemque caliginosam, crassis tenebris obductam, tanquam umbras Sijani nigras, rigidas, difficiles,
- “ Transeo, dum comites somno gravati, velut fruticis Khirû pen-dentes ramuli, inclinati jacent ;
- “ Etiam si occurrant tenebræ, tanquam mare obscurum, & solitudo vasta, formidanda, terribilis ;
- “ In quâ errat viæ dux, lugubrè canit noctua, & viator attonitus tumultuatur.”

Sunt in linguis Europæis hujusmodi carmina. Extant Runicæ poesios pulcherrimæ reliquiae, quas in lucem protulerunt Resenius, Olai, Wormius, & Verelius, & reliqui veteris Danorum literaturæ indagatores: sed de illis hoc loco non differam; separatum enim aliud volumen requirunt. Nec dubitari potest, quin illa carmina, quæ hodiè à Scotis memoriter citari solent, veterum Celtarum mores atque ingenium pulcherrimis pingant coloribus. In linguis recentioribus legimus Hijpanum illum Alonsum, de suis rebus gestis non sine dignitate, & dictiōnis altitudine canentem; & Camoensium Lusitanum, cuius poesis adeò venusta est, adeò polita, ut nihil esse possit jucundius; interdum verò, adeò elata, grandiloqua, ac sonora, ut nihil fingi possit magnificentius.

Quod ad Græcos attinet; Tyrtæi reliquias habemus verè magnificas, & pervelim Alcæi carmina, cum aliis Lyricis, sacerdotes illi pravè religiosi non combussissent; nam paucæ illius poetæ admirabilis & civis optimi sunt reliquiae, eæque plurimùm amatoriæ, sed valde sublimes. Quòd si de amoribus ac deliciis loquens, tam sit grandis & excelsus, quantæ tandem sublimitatis artifex esse potuit, cùm cecinit

“ Pugnas, & exactos tyrannos.”

In versibus illis, quos citat Athenaeus, bellica instrumenta commemorat :

Μαρμαίρει δὲ μέγας δόρυ χαλκῷ
 Πᾶσα δ' Ἀρεὶ πεκόσμηται σέγη,
 Λαμπραῖς κυνέαισι· κατῆν
 Λευκοὶ καθύπερθεν ἵπποι λόφοι

 Παρ' δὲ ζάματα τολλὰ καὶ κυπαρίσδες.
 Τῶν ἐκ ἑστι λαθέσθαι, ἐσειδὴ
 Πρώτισοι ὑπὸ ἔργου ἐσαμεν τόδε.

quos versūs ex opere quodam longiori depromptos esse arbitror.

Præterea magnificum habemus Hybriæ Cretensis σκολιὸν, quod idēo cito ab eo, quia veterum Arabum poesi sit persimile, † Ἐσί μοι πλεῦτος μέγας δόρυ,

 Καὶ ξίφος, καὶ τὸ καλὸν λαιστήϊον,

 Πεπληότες ἐμόν κυνέοντι, δεσπόταν
 Καὶ μέγαν βασιλέα φωνέοντι.

† Vide Athenaeum, Lib. xv.

Sic poeta antiquus in † Hamasa,

وَمَا لِي مَا لَغَرْ دَرْعَ وَمَغْرِ وَابِضَّ مِنَ الْحَدِيدِ صَقِيلُ *
وَاسْرَ خَطِي الْقَنَّا مَثْقَفُ وَاجْرَهُ عَرِيَانُ السَّرَّا طَوِيلُ *

“ Non sunt mihi opes præter loricam & cassidem, “ Et ensem album, ferreum, politum,
“ Hastamque fuscum, Indicam, rigidam,
“ Lævemque gladium, nudam habentem aciem, procerum.”

Sed ad Asiaticos redeamus; & de majoribus eorum operibus loquamur, quæ res bellicas atque heroūm facta describunt. Evidem inter poemata heroica Timuri bijloriam, quam composuit scriptor admirabilis Ebn Arabshâh, non vereor recensere: ita pulchris enim abundat imaginibus, ita jucundis narrationibus, & descriptionibus naturæ, morum, affectuum; ita magnificis illuminatur figuris, tam dulci numerorum varietate, tantâ elegantiarum copiâ conspergitur, ut nihil cogitari possit accommodatus ad lectorem vel delectandum, vel docendum, vel etiam permovendum. Duas hic liber partes complectitur, alteram, de Timuri rebus gestis; alteram, de illius nepote, Khalil Soltán vocato, juvene amabilissimo, sed, ob infinitam liberalitatem & formosæ mulieris amorem, de summo gloriae fastigio in terram dejecto. Hanc partem, si in actus esset deducta, tragediam vocarem, eamque pulcherrimam; illam, poema epicum, & sanè nobilissimum, audeo dicere. Post exordium elaboratum, in quo divinum numen elatissimis sententiis collaudat, argumentum proponit, cuius utilitatem demonstrat: ostendit deinceps quibus gradibus ad incredibilem potestatem ascenderit Timurus; Persidem, Indianam, Syriam, Arabiam, copiis Tartarorum invictis vastatas describit; deinde, cum ita altè heroa elevaret, ut modò non cœlum ipsum attingere videatur, ad tumulum properantem, & in terrâ depresso pingit. Hæc autem omnia non frigidè, † Vide Schultens. Not. ad Isfahan.

non siccè denarrat, sed librum conspergit jucundissimâ rerum varietate, descriptionum copiâ, & suavissimis poeseos Asiaticæ luminibus. Multas porrò intexit narrationes, quas Græci Ἐπεισόδια vocant, easque musâ Homericâ non indignas. At dicet fortasse aliquis; Quale est hoc poema, aut quomodo epicum appellari potest, cùm nec justa fabula sit, nec una actio, nec intra debitam temporis circumscriptionem disticta? Quid de legibus poeticis sentiam, quibusque causis adductus eas pro nihilo putem, commodiorem inveniam exponendi locum. Hic sufficiet cum Luciano, scriptore doctissimo, decernere, Unicam esse poeticæ legem, voluntatem poetæ: † cæteras Gallorum genti politissimæ relinquamus;

Gallis has, Philodemus ait.

At cujusmodi, inquies, est hoc poema, cùm versibus non sit conscriptum? Certè si cum Idylliis atque Odis Arabum conferatur, sermo est merus; sin cum Europæis carminibus comparetur (de recentioribus loquor) perfecta est poesis: nam, ut translationum atque imaginum quasi stellas omittam, quibus hoc opus distinguitur; sententiarum clausulæ perpetuò similiter desinunt, & numerosè cadunt; quas si distinxeris, versùs efficeris dulcissimè modulatos, inæquales illos quidem, sed Pindari aliorumque Lyricorum versibus æqualiores. Ergò modulatum hoc dicendi genus, quod Arabes سجع vocant, & quod cum margaritis inter se nexis bellè comparant, meritò poesis dici potest. Quisquamne, præter poetam, herois exercitum tam lœtè & splendidè describeret, & cum Vere compararet?

Unum tamen est, fateor, quod est in epico poemate rarissimum; nempe eò tendere videtur poeta Arabs, ut Timurum lectori quàm infestissimum reddat; ponit enim crudelem, impium, inhumanum: sed interdum aliqua veritatis scintillula elucet, & multa narrat de illius magnificentia, de patientia, de fortitudine, de placabilitate. At ne hoc quidem adduci possim, ut Ebn Arabshâb ex epicorum poetarum choro ejiciam: nam cùm finis sit poetæ, ut lectorum erudit, nihil interest, virumne describat amabilem, & virtutibus cumulatum, quem imitari conemur, an vitiis deformem, cuius à nobis amoveamus exemplum. Sed de Arabibus satis multa.

Persis poetam tulit in hoc genere sine controversiâ admirabilem, Ferdusium. Is varia scripsit poemata de heroëm ac regum Persicorum rebus gestis, quæ in unum colliguntur volumen, quod شاہ نامه Shah nama inscribitur. Hæc poemata servatis temporum ordinibus disponuntur. Nobilissimum inter ea, & longissimum (voluminis enim permagni propè dimidiā partem constituit) est sine ullâ dubitatione verè epicum; & profectò nullum est ab Europæis scriptum poema, quod ad Homeri dignitatem & quasi cœlestem ardorem propius accedat. Complectitur antiquum illud bellum ac Persis memorabile inter Afrasiab Tartariæ Tranoxianæ regem, & tres illos Persarum reges Caicobad, Caicaus, Caikhozru, quorum ultimus (Græcorum Cyrus) Afrasiabum suâ manu interfecit. Poematis heros, ut vocatur, est notissimus ille Persarum Hercules, qui Ruslem nominatur: sunt tamen alii heroes satis multi, quibus sua etiam tribuitur gloria. Sed de hoc poemate separatim atque aio volumine, si tempus atque otium sufficeret, copiosè differam; ac fortasse etiam totum opus in lucem proferam. Nunc sufficiet primum, qui occurrit, locum, tanquam exemplum, apponere.

 “ Cum rege inclyto, equite, bellatore ;
 “ Fuerant autem primò trecenti mille ;
 “ Quid valet malevolentia, ad fortunam tuam minuendam,
 “ Contra eos qui sunt solii tui cultores ?”
 ‘ Cùm herois verba rex audivisset,
 ‘ Coronam suam fortunatam usque ad lunam erexit.
 ‘ Vinum & convivium parari jussit, hilaris fuit,
 ‘ Et orbem terrarum malevolis viris vacuum aspexit.’

Liceat mihi, quamvis verear ut crimen temeritatis effugiam, experiri, an hæc bellatoris Perfici oratio metro Virgiliano accommodari possit.

Samus, ut aurato cinctum diademate Regem
 Vedit ovans, excelsa ferebat ad atria gressum ;
 Quem rex ad meritos facilis provexit honores,
 Et secum in folio jussit confidere eburneo,
 Cælato rutilanti auro, insertisque pyropis.
 Magnanimum affatus tum blandâ heroä loquellâ,
 Multa super sociis, super armis multa rogabat,
 Jam, quantos aleret tellus Hyrcana gigantes,
 Jam, quâ parta manu nova fit victoria Perfis :
 Cui dux hæc memori parens est voce locutus.
 Venimus ad castra hostilis, rex maxime, gentis :
 Gens est dura, ferox ; non aspera sævior errat
 Per dumeta leo, non sylvâ tigris in atrâ ;
 Non equus in lætis Arabum it velocior agris.
 Cùm subitò trepidam pervenit rumor in urbem
 Adventare aciem, queruli per tecta, per arces,
 Auditæ gemitus, & non lætabile murmur.
 Ilicet æratâ fulgentes casside turmas
 Eduxere viri ; pars vastos fusæ per agros,
 Pars monte in rigido, aut depresâ valle sedebat :

Horruit

Horruit ære acies, tantæque à pulvere nubes
 Exortæ, ut pulchrum tegeret jubar ætherius sol.
 Quale in arenoso nigrarum colle laborat
 Formicarum agmen, congestaque farra reponit ;
 Aut qualis culicum leviter stridentibus alis
 Turba volans, tenues ciet importuna fusfurros ;
 Tales profluere. Nepos ante agmina Salmi
Cercius emicuit, quo non sicut ardua pinus
 Altior, aut vernans riguo cyparissus in horto.
 At Persarum artûs gelidâ formidine solvi
 Arguit & tremor, & laxato in corpore pallor :
 Hoc vidi, &, valido torquens haftile lacerto,
 Per medias jussi, duce me, penetrare phalangas ;
 Irruit alatus sonipes, ceu torvus in arvis
Æthiopum latis elephas, neque sensit habenam :
 Militibus vires redière, & pristina virtus.
 Ac velut, undantis cùm furgant flumina Nili,
 Et refluant, avidis haud injucunda colonis,
 Pinguia frugiferis implentur fluëtibus arva ;
 Sic terra innumeris agitata est illa catervis :
 Cùm strepitum audierit nostrum, ingentemque fragorem
 Findentis galeas & ferrea scuta bipennis,
Cercius, horrifico complens loca vasta boatu,
 In me flexit equum, me, crudeli ense, petebat,
 Captivumque arcto voluit constringere nodo ;
 Frustra ; nam, lunans habilem nec segniter arcum,
 Populeas misi duro muckrone sagittas,
 Flamarum ritu, aut per nubila fulminis acti.
 Ille tamen celeri ruit impete, nosque morantes
 Increpitat, letum minitans, rigidasve catenas :
 Ut verò accessit violenti turbinis instar,
 Pulsus ut & clypeus clypeo est, & casside cassis,

Illum insurgentem, dirumque infligere vulnus
 Conantem, arripui, quæ discolor ilia cinxit
 Balteus, & rutilis subnexa est fibula baccis.
 Strenua tum valido molimine brachia versans,
 E stratis evulsi equitem, qui pronus, inermis,
 Decidit, & rabido frendens campum ore momordit ;
 Pectora cui nivea, & ferratâ cuspidé costas
 Transfodi, madidam defluxit sanguis in herbam
 Purpureus, tristisque elapsa est vita sub umbras.
 Haud mora, diffugiunt hostes, ductore perempto,
 Saxa per, & colles ; nostris victoria turmis
 Affulgit, cæsosque doles, Hyrcania, natos.
 Sic pereant, quicunque tuo, rex optime, sceptro,
 Qui premis imperio stellas, parere recusent !
 Dixit ; & heroës Persarum rector ovantes
 Laudibus in cœlum tollit ; jubet inde beatas
 Instaurari epulas, & pocula dulcia poni :
 Conventum est, textoque super discumbitur auro.

De Poesi Funebri.

DE Poesi luctuofâ ac funebri longo sermone differere, nec initio proposui, nec necessarium puto. Hujus autem poeseos duo sunt genera ; alterum, incitatum, breve, querulum : cujusmodi sunt illi Alcmanis versûs, † Καταθνάσκει, Κυθέρει, ἀξέρδε "Αδωνις. τί κε θεῖμεν; Καλαπύγεσθε, κόραι, κὴ καλερέικεσθε χιτῶνας.

alterum, moestum quidem, sed paullò sedatus, & laudationi finitimum. Hoc genus Ἐπικήδειον alii vocant, alii Ἐλεγεῖον, illud Ἱάλεμον, quod Latini Næniam seu Leffum appellant. Arabes utrumque nominant شِعْرٌ, nam vox شِعْرٌ, quâ Hebræi Lamentationem significant, apud illos Cantricem designat.

Utriusque generis præclara exempla complectitur libri Hamasa pars secunda; quæ tertio Ἀνθολογίᾳ libro respondet: sed in hoc loco de Meleagri, poetæ admodum venusti, atque aliorum carminibus in hoc genere laudatissimis, nihil necesse est multa loqui. Atqui non omittendum esse puto † Eratosthenis elegans epigramma de Anastasiae cuiusdam obitu:

Φεῦ, φεῦ, ἀμετρήτων χαρίτων ἔαρ γῆν μαρτίνει
Ἄμφὶ σοὶ ὡμοφάγων χεῖμα τὸ νερτερίων.
Καὶ σε μὲν ἥρπατε τύμβος απ' ἡελιώτιδος αἰγλης,
Πέμπησον ἐφ' ἐνδεκάτῳ πικρὸν ἄγχοσαν ἔτος.
Σὸν δὲ ωστιν γενέτην τε κακαῖς ἀλάωσεν ἀνίσις,
Οἴς ωλέου ἡελίς λάμπεσ, Ἀναστάσιη.

Pulcherrima sunt hoc in genere § Meleagri in Heliodoram, || Platonis in Dionem, ¶ Callimachi in Heraclitum, epigrammata flebilia; nec minus perfectæ Bionis in Adonidem, Moschi in Bionem, Ovidii in Tibullum, elegiæ: & plena suavitatis Horatii de morte Quintilii Ode. Sed hæc omnia sunt notissima: ad Asiaticos igitur veniamus; qui cùm † Hos versūs Hephaestion Antispasticos vocat. Mihi videntur iis pedibus, vel potius numeris, constare, qui appellant Ἰωνικὴ ἀπ' ἵλασσον, ut Horatiana illa, Miserarum est neque amori,

& quæ sequuntur.

‡ Antholog. lib. iii. § Antholog. lib. iii. || Diog. Laert. in Platonis Vitâ.

¶ Apud eundem in Vitâ Heracliti.

in reliquis poematum generibus, tum in hoc potissimum eminent; quam rem exempla quædam illustriorem reddent.

Sunt autem bellissimi, & cùm translatione venustâ, tum jucundâ brevitate insignes, illi versûs, quos de obitu Nozâmi'l Molki composuit poeta † Shabl o'ddoulah,

كان الوزير نظام الملك لولوة
يتيبة صاغها الرحمن من شرف
بدت فلم تعرف الايام قبتها
فردّها غيره منه الى الصدف

- “ Fuit Vizir Nozâmo'l Molc margarita pretiosa, quam numen divinum ex ipsâ nobilitate formaverat.
- “ Effusit: at premium ejus ignorabat ætas; idcirco invidit eam Deus hominibus, & in concham leniter reposuit.”

Quatuor hosce versiculos totidem hendecasyllabis converti:

Illustris fuit Ille margarita,
Purâ luce nitens, colore puro;
Quam, gemmæ premium latere questus,
Conchæ restituit Deus parenti.

Pervelim mihi contingat Ibni Zaiati elegiam videre, sanè flebiliter scriptam de morte puellæ formosissimæ, quam perditè amaverat: hujus poematis unum distichon citat Herbelotius, idque plenum tenerrimi affectûs,

يقول لي الخلان لوزرت قبرها نقتل فهل غير الغواص لها قبر *

- “ Dicebant mihi sodales, si sepulchrum amicæ visitarem (curas meas aliquantulum fore levatas),
- “ Dixi autem, An ideò aliud præter hoc pectus habet sepulchrum?”

† Abu'l Ferege, pag. 363.

Interdum tamen elatiū scribunt, quām elegiæ simplicitas pati videatur.
Quām animosè erumpit Amārab Al Yemani!

رمیت یا دهر کفت المجد بالشلل
وجیده بعد حسن الحلی بالعطل *

“ O Fortuna, manum gloriae exarescere fecisti, “ Et collum ejus, post ornamentorum pulchritudinem, monilibus nudâsti.”

Ecce autem poetam Perficum, qui totam naturam luctuosam pingit ob regis cujusdam magnifici interitum,

امروز شاهها ملک جهان دل تنکست
فیروزه چرخ هر زمان بر رنکست *

“ Hodiè, O rex, totius naturæ pectus contrahitur ;

“ Et ætheris gemma cærulea identidem colorem mutat.”

Quam sententiam in simili arguento elatissimè amplificat Abu Beqr Al Dani †,

وَمَا حَلَّ بِدْرَ التَّمَّ بَعْدَكَ دَارَةٌ
وَلَا اظْهَرَتْ شَيْسَ الظَّاهِرَةِ مُبَسِّماً
تَنَادَى الْحَيَا وَالرَّيحُ شَقَّتْ جَيْوَهَا
عَلَيْكَ وَنَاحَ الرَّعْدُ بِاسْبَكَ مَعَالِمًا
وَمِنْقَ ثَوْبَ الْبَرْقِ وَأَنْتَسَتِ الضَّحْنِي
حَدَادًا وَقَامَ النَّجْمُ الْجَوْمَاءَتِهَا
بِجَيْبِ بَهَا الْهَامُ الصَّدِيِّ وَلَهَا
لَا اجَابَ الْقَيَّانُ الطَّايرُ الْمُتَرْنِبَا
كَانَ لَمْ يَكُنْ فِيهَا أَنْيَسٌ وَلَا تَقْيَيْ
بَهَا الْوَفْدُ جَعْلًا وَالْخَبِيسُ عَرْمَمَا

† Apud Ebn Khalicân.

“ At post te in domicilio luna plena non requiescit,
 “ Nec splendidè ridet sol meridianus,
 “ Jam verò pluvia & ventus vestes suas lacerant,
 “ Ob tui desiderium, & vocat tonitru nomen tuum notum,
 “ Et scindit vestem fulgur, & induit meridies
 “ Ferrum, & stellæ cœli conventum lucretosum constituunt.
 “ Respondent sibi raucae noctuæ flebiliter,
 “ Cùm respondent præficas veloces, strepentes,
 “ Velut si non esset ei sodalis, nec convenienter
 “ In eâ turba congregata, & cohors numerosa.”

Sed omnino dulcissimum est carmen in capite secundo libri Hamasa, de morte viri fortissimi ac perlatorialis Maâni, الّى علي معن وقولا لقبره

 سقتك الغوادي مربعا ثم مربعا *
 فيا قبر معن انت اول حفرة
 من الارض خطت للسباحة مضجعا *
 ويا قبر معن كيف واريته جوده
 وقد كان منه البر والبحر مترعا *
 بلي قد وسطت الجود والجود ميت
 ولو كان حيا ضقت حتى تصدعا *
 فتني عيش في معروفة بعد موته
 كما كان بعد السبيل مجراه مترعا *
 وما مضي معن مضي الجود فانقضى
 واصبح عزنين المكارم اجدعا *

“ Accedite, duo mei sodales, ad Maanum, & sepulchro ejus dicite :
 “ Irrigent te nubes matutinæ imbribus post imbres.
 “ At O Maani sepulchrum, tu, qui primò fovea fuisti
 “ In terrâ, nunc sternaris beneficentiaæ cubile :

“ Et

“ Et O Maani sepulchrum, ut recepisti liberalitatem, “ Quà terræ ac maria fuerunt plena !
 “ Imò, accepisti liberalitatem, at mortuam,
 “ Nam profectò si viva esset, ita angustum esses, ut disrumperes.
 “ Juvenis erat, qui, ob largitionem, post interitum vivit, “ Velut pratum, per quod defluxit rivus, jucundiùs virescit :
 “ At mortuo Maano, mortua est liberalitas, ac decessit,
 “ Et nobilitatis fastigium resectum est.”

In poemate eleganti quod Ebn Arabshâh, tanquam fastigium quoddam splendidissimum historiæ Timûri subjungit, ferè triginta sunt versus, qui, si separatim essent compositi, inter elegias recenserit possent ; hos adeò propter elegantiam eximiam placet apponere.

 dentes nymphas cœlestes :
 “ Vestit eos pulchritudo chlamyde deliciarum ac lætitiae ;
 “ Eosque redemit hominum spiritus à malis adversæ fortunæ.
 “ Cum locum quemvis habitarent, eum hilaritate moverunt :
 “ Fuerunt

- “ Fuerunt in terræ facie oculi, & oculis lumen ;
“ Et hortuli in pratis, & in hortulis flores.
“ Cùm adhuc essent ebrii, cùm se extulit fallax eorum & grata protervitas,
“ Dum ætas vigebat, & fortuna iis rerum dominatum concedebat,
“ Ecce, venit mortis pocillator, & ad eos exitii cyathos attulit, “ Et irrigavit vitarum eorum hortulos scypho, qui omnes ad nihilum redegit.
“ Reliquerunt ampla palatia, in sepulchra angusta compulsi ;
“ Et pocula discessus eorum præbuit apsinthium unicuique amico dolore affecto,
“ Qui ob tristitiam sinum lacerat, & ob eorum desiderium percutit pectus.
“ Si utilia essent dona, aut si valerent vota,
“ Certè illos redimerent ac servarent & studiosà curâ custodirent.
“ Jam verò terram incolunt ; perierunt illæ suavitates ac scientia ;
“ Vescitur iis exitii vermis, & scindit eos ut maestanda pecora :
“ Attriti jacent sub terrâ, ubi manebunt usque ad judicij ultimi diem.
“ Venit amicus eorum, ut eos alloquatur, & sepulchrum jugiter visitat ;
“ Gemit, ac plorat querulè, juxta sepulchrum, quod invadit oblivio ;
“ Et genas pulvere inquinant, quæ anteâ fuerant margaritis similes :
“ Vocant, at nihil iis respondet, nisi rauca montium echo.”

Bellissimum est in hoc genere poema in vicefimâ Haririi Mekâma, quod integrum subjiciam :

De Poesi Morali.

POESEOS, cuius finis est lectorem docere, duo videntur esse genera; alterum propositum finem dissimulat, ut epos & tragœdia; alterum apertè monet, velut illa poesis quam nunc tractare aggredior.

Perantiqua fuit & omnibus ferè gentibus usitatissima consuetudo, sapientiam & vitæ officia per elegantes, breves, & modulatas sententias docendi.

docendi. Notissima sunt in hoc genere Phocylidis præcepta, & elegantissimæ Theognidis sententiæ, iisque versūs, qui, à Pythagoreo quodam scripti, Pythagoræ ipsi falsò ascribuntur. His addi possunt Aristotelis atque aliorum gravissima Σκολια, quæ inter epulas & pocula rorantia cantari solebant. Supersunt etiam † Odini præcepta antiquissima, in Runicâ linguâ scripta, quæ miram habent in suo genere pulchritudinem.

Veteres Arabum sententiæ sunt innumeræ; & permulta sunt volumina, quæ امثال, five Sententias, complectuntur. Prætereà etiam nunc (ut ab homine Syro audivi) Arabes memoriter recitare solent proverbia sapientiæ plenissima, cuiusmodi sunt,

الضحك بلا سبب من قلة الادب

“ Risus ineptus rusticitatis est indicium.”

القول كالحليب ليس له رائحة

فكيف يردد الحالب اللبان

“ Verbum lacti simile est, reverti nequit;

“ Quomodo enim is, qui mulxit, lac potest reddere?”

Et illud Perficum de Fortunæ inconstantiâ,

اين فلك هبچو شيشه ساعتست

ساعتي زير و ساعتي زيرست *

“ Res humanæ vitri horarii sunt similes,

“ Quod unâ horâ inferius est, & alterâ superius.”

& tetraastichon illud,

دنيا مثال بحر عييق است پر نهتك
آسوده عارفان که کرتند ساحلي

† Vid. Haavamaal à Resenio editum.

دنيا نيزد آن که پریشان کنی دلی
زنهار بد مکن که نکردست عاقلي

“ Hujus vitae cursus similis est mari profundo crocodilorum pleno :

“ Quàm tranquilli sunt sapientes viri, qui littus occupant !

“ Hæc vita non tanti æstimanda est, ut cor tuum (ejus causâ) turbes ;

“ Cave : ne malefacias ; sapientis enim non est.”

ما كان ذلك العيش الا سكرة
لذاتها رحلت وحل خمارها *

“ Vita humana nihil aliud est nisi ebrietas ; cujus dulcedo protinus evolat ; sed restat crapula.”

At cùm deductiora sint, non tam proverbia appellari debent, quàm præcepta, seu versùs morales, quales sunt illi de taciturnitate :

الصيت فالزم ولا تنطق بلا سبب
ان المعلل والاكتثار في تعب *
فان ظننت ان النطق من ورق
فاستيقن ان الصيت من ذهب *

“ Silentio opus est ; ne idèò sine causâ loquaris ;

“ Nam auditor multarum vocum fatigari solet.

“ Quòd si locutionem argenteam esse autumes,

“ Hoc scito, silentium esse aureum.”

& de ignorantia ;

وفي الجهل قبل الموت موت لاهله
واجسادهم دون القبور قبور *
وان المرأة لم يحيي بالعلم قلبها
فليس لها حتى النشور نشور *

* Ignor-

“ Ignorantia affert ignaris ante mortem, mortem ;
 “ Et corpora illorum sunt, sine sepulchris, sepulchra :
 “ Quod si quis doctrinam cor suum non reficiat,
 “ Non erit illi ante resurrectionem, resurrectio.”

& illa de humanarum rerum contemtione,

ای دل ازین جهان د لازار درکذر
 وز تنکنای کنبد دوار درکذر
 کار جهان نه لایق اهل بصیرتست
 بکشای دیده بر هبہ ازار درکذر
 از بحر غم زحرص چو غواص شوخ چشم
 خوطه مخور زکوهر شهوار درکذر .

“ Cor meum, ab hac vitâ ærumnosâ recede,
 “ Et ab angustiis cœli convertentis recede :
 “ Hujus vitæ negotia viros perspicaces haud decent ;
 “ Oculum aperi ; ab omni molestiâ recede :
 “ In trifitiæ mare avaritiæ causâ, ut urinator madidos habens oculos,
 “ Ne te immergeas ; à gemmâ regiâ recede.”

His addam verfūs elegantissimos, qui Principi perillustri Sbemselmaâli ascribuntur :

الدھر يومنا ذا صفو وذا كدر
 والعیش سطران ذا امن وذا حذر *
 قل للذی بصرور الدھر عیننا
 هل عاند الدھر الا من له خطر *
 اما ترى البحر تعلو فوقه جيف
 ويستقر باقصي قعره الدرر *
 اما ترى الريح اذ هبت عواصفه
 غاليس يتصف الا عالي الشجر *

وکم

وكم علي الارض من خضر ويابسه
وليس يرجم الا من له ثغر*
وفي السماء نجوم ما لها عدد
وليس يكشف الا الشمسم والقمر*
احسنت ظنك بالايات اذ حسنت
ولم تخف سوف ما ياتي به القدر*
وسالمتك الليلي فاغترت بها
وعند صفو الليلي يحصل القدر*

“ Peregrinatio opum thesaurus est, honorem emit :
“ Arbor, si de loco in locum mouere posset,
“ Acutam ferram non sentiret, nec duram bipennem.”

Inter sententias Turcicas nullas ferè legi his pulchriores :

وارمی بر خاطر که غم دن خارخاری اولمیه
قانی بر رخ کم حوادث دن غباری اولمیه *
بو کلستان جهانه سرتسر قلدم نظر
کورمدم بر کل که خارجان کنزاری اولمیه *

- “ Estne ullus status, ubi non sit horrida tristitia ?
 “ Cujusquamne in genis sanguis mœrore non obscuratur ?
 “ Hoc rosetum hujus vitæ usquequaque sum contemplatus,
 “ Et nullam vidi rosam, ubi non esset spina animam ipsam vulnerans.
 “ Quot annos has tabernas ambivi !
 “ Et vinum nunquam hausi, quod non secuta sit crapula.”

Quam sententiam solutâ oratione expressit, nec ineleganter, Ali Chelebi,

Non minus elegantes sunt hæ sententiae Perfice :

- “ In hostili pectore amicitia haud nascitur ;
 “ Sed acacia nihil praeter spinas afferit :
 “ Ab inimico sapiens fidem non expectat,
 “ Nam à colocynthidis semine herba odorata non crescit :
 “ Ab arundine storeis aptâ nemo faccharum vidit,
 “ Nam uniuscujusque rei naturam nullus labor mutare potest :
 “ Quicunque

“ Quicunque indolem habet pravam,
“ Nullos afferet fructus præter fraudem ac perfidiam.”

Et illæ Haririi in Mekáma decimâ nonâ :

“ In rebus asperis ne desperes lætitiam videre quæ curas depellat ; “ Quot enim venti venenati flare cœperunt, & mox jucundis auris cœ-dentes discesserunt ?
“ Et quot nubes formidandæ dispersæ sunt, priusquam imbres effuderint ?
“ A fumo autem, à quo timemus, (ignem) non orta est flamma.
“ Sis ergo patiens dum adversa est fortuna, nam tempus miraculorum pater est ;
“ Et à Dei spiritu bona spera ; quæ numerari nequeunt.”

Multa poemata habent Arabes ac Perſæ de officiis ac virtutibus. Sádii poefis ferè tota est moralis; nec minus in Asiâ celebratur libellus, quem contexuit poeta Perficus Sheikb Attár, & پندنامه Pendnama, inscripsit: hujus libri caput apponam, de avaritiâ diſtinguendâ.

“ quam heri inter nubes emicui, hodiè ad nihilum me redactam sen-
“ tio.” Dum hæc verecundans effudit, facta est subito splendidissima ;
“ nam divinum numen, modestiam illius laudans, veste nobilitatis eam “ versa est, & nunc in regis coronâ splendet. Hæc autem fabula “ præceptorum flos est & medulla ; hinc tibi exemplum sume, O “ amice, & ut quâm verecundissimus fias, elabora.”

Scripsoram priùs hoc de poesi morali caput, quâm scirem unde fabulam hanc, quæ ab Addiſōnō nostro etiam citatur, summisset Chardinus ; sed legi eam nuperimè in Sadii opere perfectissimo, quod Buſtan seu Hortus in-scribitur, & à Sadio ipso, poetâ, si quis alias, ingenioso, inventam puto :
ipsius itaque versus elegantes citabo, cum meâ, qualiscunque sit, versione:

يَكِي

یکی قطره باران از ابری چکید
 خجل شد چو پنهانی دریا بدید
 که جای که دریاست من کیستم
 کر او هست حقا که من نیستم
 چو خودرا بچشم حقارت بدید
 صدف در کنارش بجان پرورید
 سپهرش بجای رسانید کار
 که شد لولو نامور شاهوار
 بلندی از آن یافت کو پست شد
 در نیستی کوفت تا هست شد

hoc est, si verbum ferè de verbo reddatur;

- “ Gutta pluviae à nube cecidit ;
- “ Pudore affecta est, cùm æquor maris videret.
- “ Quis locus ? inquit, quid æquor ? quidnam ego sum ?
- “ Si illud existat, certum est me non existere.
- “ Dum seipsam oculo contemptū intuebatur,
- “ Concha in gremium suum eam recipiens aluit :
- “ Fortuna usque adeò statum ejus promovit,
- “ Ut facta sit margarita illustris, regia.
- “ Elationem ex eo invenit, quòd humiliis fuerat,
- “ In obscuritate depresso est, donec in lucem pervenerit.”

FABULA.

Rigante molles imbre campos Perfidis,
 E nube in æquor lapsa pluviae guttula est,
 Quæ, cùm modestus eloqui fineret pudor,
 “ Quid hoc loci, inquit, quid rei misella sum ?”
 “ Quòd me repente, ah ! quò redactam sentio ?”
 Cùm se verecundanti animulâ sperneret,

Illam recepit gemmeo concha in finu;
 Tandemque tenuis aquula facta est unio:
 Nunc in coronâ lœta Regis emicat,
 Docens, sit humili quanta laus modestia.

De Poësi Amatoria.

NECESSÆ est omnino jucundissima poësis sit ea, cuius materia suavissimus fit animi motus, & omnium mortalium communis, Amor: quo, si ex pulchritudinis specie & admiratione oritur, nihil jucundius; si ex benignâ voluntate purâque amicitiâ, nihil aut utilius aut honestius: nam de Platonis non loquor, qui amorem ex divinæ perfectionis, in superiore vitâ spectatæ, recordatione oriri autumabant.

Ac neminem extitisse opinor, quem pulchritudinis splendor non per moverit & accenderit; nec ulla unquam fuit gens tam fera, quin poëmatis genus habuerit ad amoris affectus exponendos idoneum: ipsi Peruviani cantilenas habent non amatorias solùm, sed etiam dulcissimas, si Garcilasso, scriptori gravissimo, & patriæ suæ consuetudinum peritissimo, fides habenda sit.

Pervulgata sunt carmina Lapponica, quæ citat Schefferus, eaque plena tenerrimi affectus. Proditum est etiam memoriae, † Odinum illum, non heroa solùm, sed (ut veteres Dani putabant) Divum, versùs quosdam amatorios scripsisse, eosque cum Amri'lkeisi Moallaka valde congruentes.

Sed absurdè faciam, si de omnibus Europæ gentibus, quæ hoc poeseos genus coluerunt, differere velim; nam Italorum, qui in hoc genere regnant, & aliorum, poesis est notissima: atqui à proposito non erit alienum, pauca Græcæ poeseos exempla, eaque minùs vulgata, proferre.

Memoriae proditum est Alcmana Sardianum amatoriæ poeseos principem fuisse ac ducem, & hos versùs contexuisse,

‡ Ἔρως μὲ δὸ αῦτε Κύπρῳ ἔκατι Γλυκὺς κατείζων καρδίαν ιδίνει.

quibus nihil esse potest elegantius.

Ac non mirum est Ciceronem dixisse Rheginum Ibicum maximè omnium amore flagrasse, cùm ita elatè & magnificè de se loquatur:

Ἡρὶ μὲν αἴ τε Κυδάνιαι μαλίδες
Ἄρδόμεναι ῥῶν ἐκ ωταμῶν, ἵνα ωρθένων
Κῆπῳ ἀκήρατος, αἱ τ' οἰνανθίδες
Αὔξόμεναι σκιεροῖσιν ὑπ' ἔρνεσι
Οἰναρέοις θαλέθυσιν. Ἐμοὶ δὲ ἔρως

Παιδόθεν φυλάσσει ἐμὰς φρένας.

Quid de Amore gravissimi senserint Philosophi, ex his Euripidis anapæstis videre possumus :

Παιδευμα δῆς Ερως σοφίας, ἀρετῆς,
Πλεῖστον ὑπάρχει, καὶ προσομοιεῖ
Οὗτος ὁ δαίμων τάντων ἥδις
ος ἔφι Θυητοῖς, καὶ γαρ ἄλυπου
Τέρψιν τιν' ἔχων, εἰς ἐλπίδ' ἄγει,
Τοῖς δὲ ἀτελέστοις τῶν τέθει πένων
Μήτε συνείην, χωρίς δὲ ἀγρίων
Ναιοίμι τρόπων.
Τὸ δὲ ἐρᾶν προλέγω τοῖσι νέοισιν
Μήποτε φεύγειν,
Χρῆσθαι δὲ ὅρθῶς ὅταν ἔλθῃ.

Libet hic subjicere Pindari carmen de Theoxeno verè magnificentum :

† Χρῆν με κατὰ καιρὸν
Ἐρωτῶν δρέπεσθαι,
Θυμὲ, σὺν ἡλικίᾳ.
Τὰς δε Θεοζένες ἀκτῖνας
Προσώπει μαρμαρίζοισας δρακεῖς
Ος μὴ πόθῳ κυμαίνεται,
Ἐξ ἀδάμαντος, οὐδὲ σιδάρε,
Κεχάλκευται μέλαιναν καρδίαν
Ψυχρῷ φλογὶ. Πρὸς δὲ Ἀφροδίτας
Ατικασθεὶς ἐλικοῦλε φάρε,
Η τερὶ χρήμασι μοχθίζει
Βιαίως, ηγγυναικείῳ θράσει
Ψυχρὰν φορεῖται πᾶσαν ὄδον
Θεραπεύων. Ἀλλ' ἐγώ γε ἔκατι
Τὰς καρὸς, ὡς δαχθεὶς
Μελιχρᾶν μέλισσαν,

† Vide Athenæum ibidem.

Τῆκομαι, εὗτ' ἀν οἴδω
Παιῶν νεόγονον ἐσ ἡγέαν.

Sed de Græcis nimis fortasse multa. De Anacreontis ac reliquorum carminibus nihil dico, utpote quæ sint satis nota, & venustiorum hominum, ut ait Catullus, memoriâ dignentur. Ad Asiaticos igitur veniam.

Non existimari potest antiquis illis Arabibus, de quibus suprà dixi, spicula solùm & gladios cordi fuisse: iidem enim sæpe fuerunt bellatores acerrimi, iidem amatores, & poetæ optimi. In medio sæpè præliorum discrimine amicarum recordati sunt, & versùs effuderunt pulcherrimos. Sic Abu'l Ata Es'sindi amicam alloquitur,

ذَكْرَتْكَ وَالْخَطْبِي يَخْطُرُ بَيْنَنَا وَقَدْ نَهَلَتْ مَنَّا الْمُتَقْفَةُ السَّبِيرُ *

hoc est,

“ Tui recordabar, cùm spicula inter nos vibrarentur,
“ Et fusi jaculi sanguinem nostrum biberent.”

& Antarah nobilissimè,

وَلَقَدْ ذَكْرَتْكَ وَالرِّمَاحَ نَوَاهِلَ
مِنِي وَبِيَضِ الْهِنْدِ تَغْسِلُ فِي دَمِي *
فَوَدَدَتْ تَعْبِيلَ السَّبِيفَ لَانْهَا
لَعْتَ كَبَارِقَ شَغْرَكَ الْمُتَبَسِّمَ *

“ Et profectò tui memor eram, cùm haftæ ex meo corpore “ Potum haurirent, ensesque Indici in sanguine meo se lavarent; “ Ardenter autem cupiebam gladios osculari, utpote qui “ Splenderent, instar dentium tuorum, dum subrides, fulgurantium.”

Proinde antiquis Arabum poetis mos erat, carmina omnia, sive de rebus bellicis, sive de viri illustris laudatione, ab amicæ descriptione ordiri. Sic Zobeir in Moallakæ suæ initio,

وَفِيهِنَّ

وفيهن ملهي للطيف ومنظر
انيق لعين الناظر المتوسم *

“ Inter eas verò fuit quædam delicatè ludens, vultu

“ Splendido prædita, oculo spectatoris jucunda, foliis etiam glasti cæruleis tincta.”

Elegiæ autem † Amri'olkeisi & Lebidi totæ ferè sunt amatoria. Nec omittendum est Caab Ebni Zoheir carmen, cuius hoc est initium admi-rabile :

بانت سعاد فقلبي اليوم متبول
متيم اثراها لم يغد مكبول *
فها سعاد غداة البين اذ رحلوا
الا اغن غضيض الطرف مكحول *
تجلو عوارض ذي ظلم اذا ابتسست
كانه منهمل بالراح معلول *
شجت بذري شم من ماء مخبيبة
صف بابطح اضحي وهو مشبول *
تنغي رياح القدا عنه وافرطه
من صوب سارية بيض يعاليل *

“ Abiit (amica mea) Soâda, & cor meum hodiè dolore percitum (relinquitur),

“ Amore confectum, & vinculis constictum, à quibus nulla est redemptio.

“ Soâda autem, manè quo discessit, & abiit (tribus),

“ Nihil aliud erat, nisi hinnulus stridulam habens vocem, demissò vultu, oculis nigris præditus :

“ Nudabat dentes splendidissimos cùm subrigeret, veluti vas esset aquarium, idque vino temperatum,

† Vid. Cap. iii.

“ Quod

“ Quod (vinum) aquâ miscetur gelidâ, ex recondito fonte, “ Clarâ, in valle, lîmpidâ, vento denique afflatâ,
 “ Cujus fordes auræ dissipaverunt, & super quam effulgent
 “ Imbris nocte effusis bullæ candidissimæ.”

Amatoriis carminibus constat caput quartum libri Hamasa (cui respondebat Ἀνθολογίας Græcæ pars septima), & magna pars libri Tatima.

Hujus poeseos idem ferè est argumentum, & idem tenor. Amator languet, queritur, mœret; deinde lætatur & exultat: absentem amicam quaerit; mox præsentem duritiae insimulat: deinde cupit, angitur, timet, irascitur: denique naturam sibi parere autumat, & ad desiderium suum levandum conversam iri sperat; proinde ita contrariis animi motibus agitatur, ut verissimi esse videantur Crantoris versûs in Amorem à Laertio citati:

Ἐνδοῦ μοι θυμὸς, ὁ τοι γένθος αὐτοῖς τούτοις,
 Ἡ σε θεῶν τὸ πρῶτον αἰειγενέων, ἥρος, ἐπώ,
 Τῶν ὄστης ἔρεβός τε πάλαι βασίλειά τε παῖδες
 Γείνατο νῦξ, τελάχεισσον υπ' εὔρεος Ὄκεανοιο.
 Ἡ σέ γε Κύπριδος νῦν τερψίφρονος, γέ σε γαῖης
 Ἡ ἀνέμων. Τοῖος σὺ κακὰ φρονέων ἀλάπησαι
 Ἀνθράπων, ἥδ' ἐσθλὰ, τὸ κὺ σέο σῆμα διφυόν.

Ita queritur princeps idem & poeta illuſtris Ebn Feras,

يا معشر الناس هل لي
 ممبا لقيت مجير *
 اصاب غرة قلبي
 ناك الغزال الغبر *
 وعمر ليلي طويل
 وغير نومي تصير *

“ O ami-

“ O amicorum cœtus, ecquid mihi est ab ægritudine refugium ?

“ Splendor hinnuli illius lacte pleni cor meum vulnerat,

“ Et noctis spatium longum reddit, somni verò breve.”

& alius,

وَمَهْفَفٌ غَنِجُ الشَّبَابِلِ ازْعَجَتْ
* قَلْبِي مَحَاسِنَ وَجْهِهِ ازْعَاجًاً *

“ Gracilis ac delicata puella cor meum vultūs pulchritudine vehementer

“ perturbat.”

Nunc lætitia exultat, ut Seifo'ddoula, princeps etiam præclarus,

يا ليلة لست انسى طيبها ابداً
كان كل سرور حاضر فيها *
باتت و بت و بت الرق ثالثنا
حتى الصباح تسعيوني واسقيننا *

“ O nox, cuius dulcedinis nunquam obliviscar,

“ Quippe in eâ omne lætitiae genus aderat ;

“ Recubuit*(puella), ego quoque recubui, & tertius recubuit amor,

“ Usque eò donec aurora nos salutaret, ego autem illi vale dicerem.”

Nunc autem imprudentius in amicas invehunt poetæ, easque vhementer accusant, ut

أَكْرَمْ بِهَا خَلَةً لَوْ أَنْهَا صَدَقَتْ
مُوعِودَهَا أَوْ لَوْ أَنَ النَّصْحَ مُقْبُولٌ *
لَكُنْهَا خَلَةً قَدْ سَيِطَ مِنْ دِمَهَا
فَجَعَ وَرَلَعَ وَالخَلَافَ وَتَبَدِيلَ *

“ Ah ! quam dulcis esset amor ejus, si fidem servaret, aut si amicitiam sinceram acciperet.

“ Sed amoris ejus sanguine miscentur ægritudo ac dolor, perfidia & inconstantia.”

Omnibus porrò poetis, sed præcipuè Asiaticis, usitatum est Zephyrum frequenter alloqui, & vel de amicâ percontari, vel eam salutatum mittere; sic

بالله يا عرف نسيم الصباح
بلغ سلامي اهل تلك البطاح *

“ Per deum te oro, auræ matutinæ odor,
“ Salutationem meam istius vallis incolis transfer.”

Sic ipse Zephyrus in libro Cashfō'lafsrār inductus de seipso loquitur,

انا الذي تنبوا بي الثمار وتبسموا بي الازهار وتسسلل الانهار
وتلقم الاشجار وتروح الاسرار واخبر في الاسحار بقرب المزار وانا
رسول كل محب الي حبيبه وحامل كل شكوى علييل الي طيبة *

“ Per me maturescunt fructūs, per me splendent flores, placidè labuntur “ rivuli, floribus ornantur arbores, & spirantur amatorum arcana.
“ Manè amici adventum annuncio. Ego autem legatus sum ama“ torum ad amicos, & depressoꝝ ægritudine ad dulcedinem perduco.”

Hac imagine frequentissimè utitur Hafez, cuius pulcherrimam Oden hoc in loco exponam :

صبا اکر کذري اقتدت بکشور دوست

“ Zephyre, si per amicæ meæ mansionem transire tibi contingat, “ Affer odorem ex illius cincinnis fragrantibus (ambareis).

In hoc amatorio genere regnum propè sibi vindicant Perse: sed Arabibus tamen, ut suprà dixi, suus conceditur locus; nec recentioribus tantùm, verùm etiam antiquis illis Arabiæ cultoribus, qui nondum feritatem exuissent. In libro Hamasa carmen est latarum imaginum plenissimum, quod, quoniam ad Græcorum laudem videtur proximè accedere, huic capiti apponam:

قال سالمي ابن ربيعة

ان شواء ونشوة وخبب البازل الامون

بمجشهها المرء في الهوي مسافة الغايط البطين

والبيض

والبيص يرفلن كالدسي في الـ ط والمذهب المصنون
والكثير والخفضل امنا وشرع المزهـر الحنون
من لذة العيش والغنى للدـهـر والدـهـر ذو فـنـون
والعـسـر كاليسـرـ والغـنـيـ كالعدـمـ والـحـيـ لـالـمـنـونـ

- “ Epulæ nimirūm, & ebrietas, & saltus (camelæ) adultæ, firmè incidentis, “ Cui laboriosè incumbit herus, amore percitus, per spatiū depresso vallis ;
 “ Et puellæ candidulæ, delicate incidentes, tanquam statuæ eburneæ, vestibus
 “ Sericis auro intertextis velatae, studiosè custoditæ ;
 “ Et ubertas, & secura tranquillitas, & nervi fidium querularum : “ Hæ sunt vitae suavitates. Homo enim fortunæ servit : & fortuna est mutabilis.
 “ Adversæ res & secundæ, abundantia & egestas pares sunt : & qui-cunque vivit, morti debetur.”

Oden hanc verti, vel potius imitatus sum, verbis atque imaginibus ad nostram consuetudinem aptatis :

Dulci trifitiam vino lavere, aut, nitente Lunâ,
 Multâ reclines in roſâ
 Urgere blandis osculis puellas :
 Aut, dum prata levi pulsat pede delicata virgo
 Comam renodans auream
 Molli Cupidinis tepere flammâ :
 Aut, dum blanda aures recreat lyra, floreo sub antro,
 Ad fuave Zephyrorum melos
 Rore advocati fpargier soporis :
 Hæc ver purpureum dat gaudia, comis & juventus ;
 His, mite dum tempus favet,
 Decet vacare, dumque ridet annus.

Quicunque

Quicunque aut rerum domini fumus, aut graves coacti
 Curas egestatis pati,
 Debemur asperæ, Fabulle, morti.

De Laudatione.

TRIA habent Asiatici laudationum poeticarum genera; quibus majora poemata ferè semper ordiri solent: nam, priusquam ad argumentum accedant, divini numinis collaudant benigitatem, misericordiam, potentiam; tum vatem suum, ut vocatur, & illius cognatos in celum laudibus efferunt; ac deinceps regis atque optimatum virtutes, seu veras, sive adulationis causâ fictas, immortalitati commendant. De singulis his generibus differam oportet: ac de primo quidem parciūs, propterea quod humani ingenii non sit omnium rerum effectorem & procreatorem, ut decet, laudare. Perantiqua sanè fuit consuetudo & omnibus usitata gentibus, optimi & maximi numinis laudes carminibus jucundè modulatis, vibrantibus atque incitatis sententiis, verbis illustribus ac splendidis, & numeris exultantibus celebrare: & profectò omnis poeseos quasi fons est ac principium divinæ beneficentiaæ ac potestatis laudatio, quæ cum ipsâ humanâ naturâ ortum conjunctum habuit. Possimusne nobis persuadere, quin homo, cœli ac terrarum dignissimus contemplator, cum primò hoc ornatissimum naturæ templum vidisset, cum hunc solem dierum ac tem-pestatum moderatorem, hanc cœrulei ætheris placidissimam serenitatem, hanc denique terram universam, florum, herbarum, atque arborum varietate distinctam, aspexisset, instinctu quodam poetico incenderetur, & in cantum incitatissimum prorumperet, quo horum omnium architectum & rectorem laudaret? Id usu venit poetæ Arabi, qui, post elegantem verni temporis descriptionem, sex habet versiculos pietatis & sacri ardoris plenissimos:

الم تر ان نسيم الصباء
له نفس نشرة صاعد
نطوراً ينوح وطوراً يغوح
كما يفعل الفاقد الواحد
وسكب الغمام وندب الحمام
اذ ما شكبي الغصن المايد
ونور الصباح ونور الاقام
وقد هزّ البارق الراعد
رواني الربيع بيعني بديع
يترجمه ورده الوارد
 وكل لاجلك مستيقظ
لما فيه نفعك يا جاحد
 وكل للايه ذاكر
 مقرّ له شاكر حامد
 وفي كل شي له اية
 تدلّ علي انه واحد

“ Nonne sentis dulcem auram, à cuius halitu odor afflatur;

“ Et nunc gemit, nunc odorem exhalat, ut cerva hinnulum perditum inveniens?

“ Fundunt pluviam nubes, & plorat turtur, dum queritur agitatus ramus, “ Splendet

- “ Splendet autem lux aurore, & flores anthemidis, quos nubes fulgurans & tonans discutit ;
- “ Et venit Ver cum sensu mirifico, quem interpretatur rosa adveniens :
- “ Hæc adeò omnia excitantur tui gratiâ & in tua commoda, incredule,
- “ Omnia autem Dei recordantur, illi serviunt, illum laudant, illi gratias agunt ;
- “ In unâquaque enim re signum est, ostendens illum Unum esse.”

Ex hoc itaque animi affectu, qui Admiratio dicitur, non, ut poeta ait, ex timore, natæ sunt pulcherrimæ atque amabilissimæ sorores, pœfis ac pietas; quæ apud omnes ferè gentes, non eas solùm quæ paullò sunt humaniores, sed etiam incoltas ac rudes, sibi invicem administrare solent. Ac miror affirmare † Polybium, consuetudinem esse Arcadum ferè propriam, hymnis & carminibus usque à pueritiâ patrios deos atque heroës laudare : certè ab omnibus propè scriptoribus hoc poeseos genus antiquissimum fuisse dicitur. Atque in hoc loco de Callimachi hymnis politissimis, de iis qui Homero atque Orphei ascribuntur, de nonnullis Theocriti Idylliis, & de uno atque altero Pindari carmine, non est necessarium differere. Lubet tamen subjecere carmen in hoc genere perpulchrum, quod licet ab Athenæo ‡ in quatuor Παιᾶνας seu Σκολιὰ distinguatur, mihi tamen unus esse videtur hymnus in Minervam ac Jovem, Cererem & Proserpinam, Apollinem & Dianam, ac Panem; quam sententiam confirmat quodammodo ejusdem metri in singulis strophis continuatio :

Παλλὰς Τριτογένει, ἄναστ' Ἀθανᾶ,
Ορθε τάνδε πόλιν τε καὶ πολίτας,
Ατερ ἀλγέων τε καὶ σάσεων,
Καὶ θανάτων ἀώρων. Σύ τε καὶ, Πατέρ.
Πλεύτε μητέρ' Ὄλυμπίαν αέιδω
Δήμητρα σεφανηφόροις ἦν ὥραις.

† Polyb. lib. iii. Σχόδει παρὰ μόνοις Ἀρκάσι πεῖτοι μὲν οἱ παιδεῖς ἐν ποτίων ἔδειτο ιδίζονται κατὰ ίόμενος τὸς ὑμνους καὶ παιᾶνας, οἷς ἵκαστοι κατὰ τὰ πάτρια τὸς ἐπιχωρίες ἥρωας καὶ θεὸς ἴμενος.

‡ Lib. xv.

Παῖς Διὸς, Περσεφόνη, χαιρέτον,
Εὗ δὲ τάνδ’ ἀμφέπετον πόλιν.

Ἐν Δῆλῷ ποτ’ ἔτικτε τέκνα Λατῶ,
Φοῖςον χρυσοκόμαν ἄνακτ’ Ἀπόλλων,
Ἐλαφρέόλον τ’ ἀγροτέραν Ἀρτεμιν,
Ἄν γυναῖκῶν μέγ’ ἔχει κράτος.

Ω Πᾶν, Ἀριαδίας μεδῶν κλεεννᾶς,
Θρηνεῖ, Βρομίαις ὅπαδε νύμφαις,
Ιὼ Πᾶν, ἐπ’ ἐμοῖς εὐφροσύναις,
Ταῖς δ’ αἰοδαῖς ἂει κεχαρημένος.

De Persarum verò ac Turcarum hymnis inutile erit pluribus verbis dicere; tot enim apud eos sunt supremi numinis laudationes, quot libri, ob morem Asiaticorum, qui Pindari sententiæ,

Ἀρχομένες ἔργα, πρόσωπον
Χρὴ θέμεν τηλαυγές, accidentes, semper hymnum lectissimis elegantiarum floribus ornatum operibus præponunt.

Poemata, in quibus ipse Mohammedes laudatur, sunt quamplurima. Venustrissimum tamen, mēa quidem sententiā, est à Caab Ben Zoheir scriptum; cujus versūs quidam dignissimi sunt, qui hoc loco ob eximiam pulchritudinem apponantur. Quām magnifica hæc est leonis descriptio, quem se minùs timere ait quām Mohammedem! Nam Arabum legislator, delatorum sermonibus incitatus, hujus poetæ meditabatur interitum:

من خادر من ليوث مسكنه
ببطن عثر غيل دونه غيل
يغدو فيلحم ضرغامين عيشها
لح من القوم معفور خراذيل
اذا يساور قرنا لا يحلى له

ان يترك القرن الا وهو مغلول
منه تطلّ سباع الجؤ ضامرة
ولا تمشي بوادي الارجيل
ولا يزال بواديه آخر شقة
مطرح البر والدرسان ماء كول

(Magis illum timeo) “ Quàm leonem leonum, qui habitat
 “ In valle Attbari, ubi sylva est sylvæ imposita ;
 “ Manè egreditur, & duos catulos nutrit, qui vescuntur
 “ Carne hominum, in pulvere volutatâ & confcissâ :
 “ Cùm in hostem infiliat, non licet ei
 “ Hostem relinquere, nisi priùs vinciatur.
 “ Ob illum leones solitudinis manent taciti,
 “ Neque in valle illius pedites ambulant.
 “ At perpetuò in valle ejus (frater confidentiæ) heros confidentissimus
 “ Projectis & armis & vestibus devoratur.”

Deinde ad Mohammedem transit, elatissimâ usus figurâ,

ان الرسول لسيف يستتص به
مهند من سيف الله مسلول

“ Vates scilicet ensis est, à quo lux oritur,
 “ Indicus, ex ensibus Dei, nudatus.”

Sed ad heroum laudes veniamus. Celebrare igitur res præclarè gestas, ac virorum fortium virtutes, antiqua fuit Arabibus consuetudo. Neque est ullum poeseos genus utilius: nihil est enim præstabilius quàm animum ad virtutes impellere atque incendere; nihil porrò ad eum finem consequendum efficacius, quàm ea proferre exempla, quæ lector admiretur, & sibi imitanda proponat. Hujusmodi carminibus constat libri Hamasa caput sextum; aliaque innumera sunt laudationum exempla. Et quis non non miro virtutis amore incenditur, cùm eam ab Ibn Onein ita suaviter laudatam videat :

بَيْنَ الْمُلُوكِ السَّابِقِينَ وَبَيْنَهُ
 فِي الْفَضْلِ مَا بَيْنَ الثَّرَابِ وَالثَّرَبِ
 وَبِكُلِّ أَرْضٍ جَهَةً مِنْ عَدْلِهِ
 الصَّافِي اسْأَلْ نَدَاهُ قَبْيَهَا كَوْثَرًا
 عَدْلٌ يَحْلِمُ الظِّبَابُ مِنْهُ عَكْيَ الطَّوَى
 غَرْثَانٌ وَهُوَ يُبَرِّي الْغَزَالَ الْأَعْفَرَا
 يَعْفُوُ عَنِ الذَّنْبِ الْعَظِيمِ تَكْرِمًا
 وَيَصْدُّ عَنِ قَوْلِ الْخَنَّا مُتَكَبِّرًا
 لَا تَسْبِعُنَ حَدِيثَ مَلَكٍ غَيْرَهُ
 يَرْوِي فَكَلَ الصَّيْدَ فِي جَوْفِ الْفَرَا

- “ Inter reges alios omnes, atque illum (Almelec Al Adil)
- “ In excellentiâ, tantum interest, quantum inter Pleiadas & terram.
- “ In omni terræ parte floret ejus justitia
- “ Pura, & fluit ros ejus in eâ (liberalitas) modo fluvii cœlestis Cuthar:
- “ Justitia, à quâ mansuetus fit lupus fame astrictus,
- “ Efuriens, licet hinnuleum candidum videat.
- “ Ignoscit culpis gravissimis benevolè,
- “ At à verbis turpibus cum indignatione se avertit.
- “ Narrationem de rege præter eum ne audias,
- “ Omnis enim præda est in ventre onagri.”

hoc est, omnes virtutes ille solus complectitur.

Similiter Ferdusi de rege Persarum, priusquam ab illo laceffitus esset injuriis:

جهاندار مکهود شاه بزرگ
 بآبشن خور آرد هی میش و کرک
 زکشیر تا پیش دریای چین
 برو شهریاران کنند آفرین
 چو کودک لب از شیر مادر شست
 بکهواره مکهود کوید نخست
 بیزم اندرون آسبان سخاست
 رزم اندرون شیر جنک اژدهاست
 زفرش جهان شد چو باع بهار
 هوا پر زاب وزمین پر نکار
 ز ابر اندر آمد به هنکام نم
 جهان شد بکردار باع ارم

- “ Rerum dominus, Mahmud, rex potens,
- “ Ad cuius aquam potum veniunt simul agnus & lupus :
- “ A Cashmirâ usque ad Sinensem oceanum
- “ Reges illius laudes iterant.
- “ Cùm infans labium matris lacte lavat
- “ In cunis, nomen Mahmudi illicò profert.
- “ In convivio cœlum est liberalitatis,
- “ In prælio, belli leo est, imò draco :
- “ Ab ejus magnificentia orbis terrarum verno horto similis est,
- “ Aër pluvia plenus est, & terra ornamentis plena :
- “ A nubibus debito tempore cadit ros,
- “ Et terræ orbis Iremi hortulos refert.”

Idem poeta Ebn Onein regis Alâadel filios pari venustate laudat :

وله البنون بكل ارض منهم
 ملک يقود الي الاعدادي عسکرا

من كل وضاء الجبيين تخاله بدرأ
 وان شهد الرغبي فغضنفرا
 قوم ذكوا اصال وطيبوا محتدا
 وتدفقوا جودا ورافقوا منظرا
 متقدم حتى اذا النفع انجلبي
 وبالبیض عن سبی الحريم تاخرا
 وتعاف خيلهم الورود بهنھل
 ما لم يكن بدم الواقع اصhra
 يعشوا الي نار الرغبي شغناً منه ويجل ان يعشوا الي نار القرى

- “ Sunt ei filii, ex quibus in unâquaque regione
- “ Rex est, qui in hostes exercitum ducat ;
- “ Ex omnibus (adolescentibus) frontes habentibus nitidas, illum esse putares lunam,
- “ At cum in prælium irruit, tum scilicet leonem :
- “ Homines ingenuum habentes ortum, egregiam indolem,
- “ Copiosè fluentem liberalitatem, & formosos vultus.
- “ Irruunt, cum eluceat aliqua utilitas
- “ Ex ensibus, sed à sacris rebus rapiendis abstinent.
- “ Fastidiunt equi eorum aquæ potum,
- “ Quæ hostium sanguine non tingatur.
- “ Extinguunt belli ignem, ingenti ejus amore capti,
- “ Sed longè abest, ut hospitalitatis ignem extinguant.”

Nobilissima fuit in hoc genere Abi'l Ola carmina, cujus exultans & quasi vibrans ingenium videtur Pindari fuisse simillimum. Primum illius in laudem principis Said carmen harum literarum cultoribus non minorem affert delectationem, quam Græcæ poeseos amatoribus primum & quartum Pythium. Hujus elatissimi poematis illustriores quasdam virtutes

virtutes exponam. Seipsum initio alloqui videtur, & sententiarum seriem de vanis animæ humanæ cogitationibus fundit. Mox de suâ peregrinatione loquitur; mulieres quasdam inducit de caufâ itineris percontantes: “ Respondimus, inquit, Saidum petimus; & fuit illis nomen “ principis fausto omni;”

سالن فقلنا مقصدنا بسعيد
فكان اسم الامير لهن فالا

Said enim fortunatum significat.

Tum, ad principis laudationem facili aperto àditu, in elatam animi exultantiam erumpit, & in hos magnificos verfûs fese effundit:

مكلف خيله قنص الاعدادي
وجعل غابه الاسل الطوالا
تكلاد قسيمه من غير رام
تبکن في قلوبهم النبالا
تكلاد سیوفه من غير سل
تجذّ الي رقابهم انسلا
تكلاد سوابق حبلته تعني
عن الاقدار صوناً وابتدا الا

- “ Impellit equitum turmas ad hostium venationem,
- “ Et, tanquam sylvam, hastas proceras erigit.
- “ Parum abest, quin arcus ejus nondum flexi
- “ In illorum cordibus fagittas figant.
- “ Parum abest, quin enses ejus non districti
- “ Ad illorum colla properanter accedant.
- “ Parum abest, quin equi celeres sine regimine,
- “ Quo se reprimant, aut effundant, illum vehant.”

Deinde bella principis, tanquam venatoris potentissimi, describit. Hinc ad amores suos, more Arabico, transit; & amicam sub juvencæ imagine adumbrat. Tempestatem describit ac fulgura : morales quasdam sententias, ut Pindarus folet, intexit. Hinc occasionem sumit in tribum Badia invehendi, quos inhospitalitatis insimulat ; iisque Saïdi liberalitatem tanquam exemplum proponit : cuius fortitudinem ac potentiam mirificis coloribus pingit. Mox equum principis ob celeritatem ac nobilitatem, Græcorum more, collaudat, & post nobilem gladii Prostropœiam, variasque laudationes, poema claudit. Quàm sublimis est hæc ensis descriptio, quàm audax, quàm magnifica !

De Vituperatione.

AD eam poeseos speciem venimus, cui originem dedit odium atque offendio: eam scilicet, quam recentiores Satyram vocant, veteres Iambos; propterea quòd illo metro usus est, vituperator acerrimus, Archilochus,

Πάτερ Λυκάμβα, ποῖον ἐφράσω τόδε;

Τίς σᾶς παρήγε φένας;

quem imitatus est in hendecasyllabis Catullus,

Quænam te mala mens, miselle Ruvide,

Agit præcipitem in meos iambos ?

& in epodis Horatius; qui ipsam libri inscriptionem ab Archilocho sumpsit: nam Hephaestion, de versu dactylico tetrametro loquens, addit ḡ πεπτῷ ἐχείσατο Ἀρχίλοχῳ ἐν Ἐπωδοῖς. Iambis etiam usus est Hippo-nax,

nax, sed ut pondus quoddam iis accederet, primo epítrito trimetrum clausit, ut ‘Ως οἱ μὲν ἀγεῖ Βεπάλω κατηρῶντο.

Atqui, ut apertè dicam quod sentio, valdè invitus in poetarum chorūm Satyricos, ut vocantur, ascribo. Nolo mansuetiorum Musarum desiderari benevolentiam. Quòd si scriptor iamborum sine offensione, sine iracundiâ, sine amaritudine scribat, & eò solùm tendat, ut lectorem castigando erudiat, non erit omninò reprehendendus. Sed tamen lenior quædam, ut arbitror, inveniri potest ac mitior castigatio. Nimiam enim severitatem fugit animus ac repudiat; sed lenocinio quodam ac mansuetudine allicitur & flectitur. Duci ad virtutem debent animi, non trahi; suaderi, non cogi; allici, non impelli. Cæterùm, utut se habeat res, non minùs in hac poesi quām in reliquis florent Asiatici. Sunt vehementes, asperæ, & amaræ Arabum, quas vidi, vituperationes; sed cùm quādam etiam sententiarum elatione. Velut in libro de Antaræ & Ablæ amo-ribus; ubi hæc timidi cuiusdam legitur & fugacis militis vituperatio:

لَحَّاكَ اللَّهُ مِنْ رَجُلٍ جَبَانٍ
وَلَا اسْقَتَكَ غَادِيَةً تَدَاهَا
وَلَا جَادَ السَّحَابُ دِيَارَ قَوْمٍ
تَحَلَّ بِهَا وَلَا اخْضَرَتْ رِبَابًا
لَبَسَتْ مِنْ الْمَذْلَةِ يَا ابْنَ بَدْرٍ ثَيَابًا لَا تَغْيِيرَ مَا تَلَاهَا

- “ Eradicet te Deus, ignave miles;
- “ Nunquam te irrigent matutinæ nubis guttæ!
- “ Neu fundat pluviam nubes super domicilia tribûs,
- “ Ubi tu commoraris, neu virescant eorum colles!
- “ Induisti, O fili Bader, ignominiaæ
- “ Pallium, nec te deserent illam secuturæ miseriæ.”

Hujus libri quartumdecimum solummodò volumen mihi videre contigit. Nihil est elegans, nihil magnificum, quod huic operi deesse putem. Ita fanè excelsum est in eo dicendi genus, ita varium, ita periculosum, ut non verear eum inter poemata perfectissima recensere. Heros eximius, qui in eo laudatur, idem est ille Antara, qui carminum Moallakat, ut appellantur, quintum composuit†; fuit autem Abla regis filia formosissima, quam perditè amavisse dicitur. In istius voluminis, quod legi, primo folio, satyra est admirabilis, quam cecinisse dicuntur Ablæ ancillæ in vituperium Amári, qui etiam illam amavit. Carmen integrum apponam :

 “ Define autem te formosis virginibus objicere ;
 “ Non enim repellis hostium manūs,
 “ Nec fortis es eques die certaminis :
 “ Neu cupias Ablam intueri ;
 “ Videbis potiūs terrores à leone vallis,
 “ Neque enim ad eam accendent candidi enses,
 “ Cùm impetum faciunt, nec hastæ fuscæ ;
 “ Abla verò est capreola, quæ leonem venatur
 “ (Ciliis) oculis languidis, sed integris.
 “ At tu amori ejus strenuè incubris,
 “ Et imples omnia loca querelis.
 “ Define ideò illam importunè petere, si minùs, “ Irrigat te Antara mortis poculo.
 “ At non cœsâsti eam petere, donec
 “ Texisti vestes tuas nitidas armis.
 “ Te verò irrident puellæ certatim,
 “ Ut in colliculis & vallibus Echo respondeat ;
 “ Et factus es unicuique auscultanti fabula,
 “ Et ludibrium cùm mane tum vesperi.
 “ Venis ad nos chlamyde vestitus, sed
 “ Illæ te irrident, & lufus augent.
 “ Et cùm accesseris iterum, veniet ad te leo,
 “ Quem timent leones in vallibus :
 “ Hic nihil tibi relinquet, præter odium,
 “ Pro potestate tuâ, cùm redibis contemptus.
 “ Videbit te pulchra Abla, projectum, humilem,
 “ Et quæ erunt cum illâ puellæ venustæ,
 “ Antara enim, heros heroïum, leo est sylvæ,
 “ Dum furit, at liberalitate mare superat.
 “ Nos autem pulchris floribus sumus similes,
 “ Odorem habentes violarum & parthenii ;

“ Et

“ Et Abla inter nos, tanquam myrobalani ramulus, “ Quem coronat luna, aut sol matutinus.
 “ Tu verò abjectissimus es omnium qui equos ascendunt,
 “ Et inter avaros longè avarissimus :
 “ Cupis ad eam injustè & impudenter accedere,
 “ Tu, qui vilior es cane latranti.
 “ Morere igitur ob tristitiam : fin minùs, vive abjectus ;
 “ Atqui nemo est, qui vituperationis meæ voces delebit.”

Hujusmodi carminibus, iisque amarissimis, constant tria libri Hamasa capita, quorum unum ignoriae ac pigritia, alterum mulierum quarundam, tertium variorum hominum vituperationes complectitur. Magnam habet in hoc genere vim & acerbitatem Gezirus ; sed, ut Plautinis utar verbis,
 —felle est focundissimus,

Gusto dat dulce, amarum ad satietatem usque aggerit.

Sunt autem Turcico sermone scriptæ, poetæ elegantis Ruhi Bagdadi, satyræ, ut à viro harum literarum peritissimo accepi ; nam eas nondum videre potui. Nullum vidi librum Persicum, qui his carminibus unicè constaret, sed in Ferdusi vitâ citatur poema, quod in regem Persarum Mahmud, filium Sebeelighin, composuit. Illum enim rex jussérat poema heroicum scribere, munera pollicitus uberrima. Triginta igitur annos laboravit poeta, opusque perlóngum, & in omni genere perfectissimum, contexuit ; quod cùm perfecisset, ad regem misit, non sine amplissimi inuneris expectatione. Rex verò, delatorum quorundam obrectationibus deceptus, fidem servare noluit. Cùm igitur poeta aliquantulum exspectavisset, neque ullum accepisset laboris fructum, in eo templi loco, quo regem sessurum cognoverit, hoc epigramma exaravit :

خجسته در که محمود زابلی دریاست
 چکونه دریا کانرا کرانه پیدا نیست
 چه غوطها که زدم اندر ان ندیدم در
 کناه بخت منست این کناه دریا نیست

“ Felix, cui Mabmud Zabeli mare est liberalitatis, usque adeò ut nullum
 “ in eo littus appareat ! utcunque verò in eo sim immersus, marg-“ ritam non vidi ; sed fortunæ meæ culpa est, non maris.”

Hoc perlecto, rex exiguum quoddam & vile munus, potius contemtionis causâ quâm beneficentiae, ad poetam misit ; quâ injuriâ lacefitus Ferdusi iracundiam compescere non potuit. Scripsit ideo acerbissimum poema, quod regis servulo cuidam obsignatum, obnixè rogans, ut illud, si quando regem viderit mœstiorem, daret ei legendum. Quo facto, ex urbe effugit, ad Bagdadum iter facturus. Interea rex libellum designat, & legit vehementissimum sui vituperium, cuius loca quædam insigniora hoc in capite proferam.

De Descriptionibus.

REQUIUM est, ut de naturæ descriptionibus loquar; quo in genere, cùm omnes venustiores poetæ, tum præcipue florent Asiatici. Picturam ac poesin quasi forores esse perspicuum est; & mirum est quantum se mutuò juvent atque illustrent.

Notum est Timanthem, cùm Iphigeniæ immolationem pingeret, & Græcos astantes moestissimos fecisset, Agamemnonis faciem pallio obvolvisse; propterea quòd incredibilem patris dolorem nullis coloribus posset imitari. Quod insigne artificium ex versibus illis Euripideis videtur sumptuose,

— — ὡς δὲ ἐσεῖδεν Ἀγαμέμνων ἄναξ
 Ἐπὶ σφαιρὴν σείχεσταν εἰς ἀλσῷ κόρην,
 Τπεισέναξε, καὶ μπαλιν στέψας κάρα
 Δάκρυα προῆγεν, ὀμμάτων τέπλον προθείς.

Cujus rei alia sunt exempla quamplurima.

Sed in reliquis poematum generibus modica est inter pictores ac poetas cognatio, in hac, de quâ nunc loquor, sunt valdè finitimi; nam poeta, cùm naturæ proprietates describat, lectissimam quasi picturam ante oculos lectoris ponit: cuius rei exempla quædam subjiciam. Quòd si omnes rerum naturalium descriptiones, quarum ex variis poetis satis amplam comparavi supellecilem, hoc loco velim exponere, absurdè sanè faciam,

& contra

& contra instituti mei rationem. Sed nequeo à me impetrare, quin unam atque alteram ex Græcis quibusdam scriptoribus descriptionem apponam ; eoque libentiùs quòd rariores sint, & admodum pulchræ.

Quàm jucunda est piëtura, quâ nympharum lusûs in Oeneo describit † Chœremon, tragicorum longè venustissimus !

"Εκειτο γαρ ή μὲν λευκὸν εἰς σεληνόφως
 Φαινεσσα μασὸν, λελυμένης ἐπωμιδῷ,
 Τῆς δ' αὖ χόρεια λαγόνα τὴν ἀριστερὰν
 "Ελυσε· γυμνῆς δ' αἰθέρῳ θεάμασιν
 Ζῶσαν γραφὴν ἔφαινε· χρᾶμα δ' ὄμμασι
 Λευκὸν μελαίνας ἔργον ἀνταύγει σκιᾶς·
 "Αλλη δ' ἐγύμνις καλλίχειρας ὡλένας,
 "Αλλη προσαμπέχεσσα θῆλυν αὐχένα.
 "Η δ' ἐκραγέντων χλανίδων ὑπὸ πλίχας
 "Εφαινε μηρὸν, καζεπεσφραγίζετο
 "Ωρας γελώσης χωρὶς ἐλπιδῶν ἔρως.
 "Τηπλώμεναι δ' ἐπιπλον ἐλενίων ἐπι,
 "Ιων τε μελανόψυλλα συκλῦσαι πλερά,
 Κρόκον θ' ὃς ἡλιῶδες εἰς ὑφάσματα
 ‡ Πέπλων ιεὶς εἰδῶλον ἔξομέργυνται.

Quos versūs eleganter, ut semper, convertit Grotius, eam sibi vindicans in trimetris licentiam, quam Nævius, Accius, & veteres tragici sumperferunt :

Alia jacebat candidas papillulas
 Ostendens lunæ, retrojecto pallio :

† Vide Athenæum, Lib. xiii.

‡ Duo, qui sequuntur, versūs,

Πέρος δὲ θαληρὸς ἀντραφίδης αὐλάκας
 Διημῶσι μαλακοῖς ἵεττοις αὐχίζει, ad hanc Nympharum descriptionem pertinere non arbitror ; sed ad illam, de quâ loquitur Athenæus, cùm dicit Chœremona in describendis floribus multum esse & copiosum.

Alii chorea lœvum nudârat latus,
 Nudum sideribus exhibens spectaculum,
 Viventem effigiem. Laetere visu color
 Contra certabat umbris nigricantibus:
 Monstrabat ulnas alia, & formosas manûs:
 Alia obtegebatur tenera colli volumina:
 Alia disrupto tenuis interulæ sinu
 Femur ostendebat; arridente gratiâ
 Mihi se imprimebat, spem non adducens, Amor.
 Et jam volvuntur lapsabundæ per inulas,
 Jam nigricolores violas populantes legunt,
 Crocique florem, qui purpureis supparis
 Iniectus rutilum solis imitatur jubar.

Idem in Alpheisbaē humanam pulchritudinem describit pulcherrimè:

Καὶ σώματος μὲν ἐψις ἔξευγάζετο
 Στίλεσσα λευκῷ χρόματι διαπρεπής,
 Αἰδώς δὲ ἐπεξένθημαζεν ἡπιάτατον
 Ἐρύθημα λαμπρῷ προσιθεῖσα χρόματε
 Κόμαι δὲ κηροχρῶτες, ὡς ἀγάλματα,
 Αὐτοῖσι βοσρύχοισι ἐκπεπλασμένοι,
 Ξεθοῖσιν ἀέμοις ἐνετρύφων Φορέμενοι.

Nec omittendi sunt hoc loco versūs, quibus Venerem & Nymphas describit auctor poematis, quod Κύπρια inscribitur, sive Stafimur, sive, ut Tzetzes putat, ipse Homerus:

Ἡ δὲ σὺν ἀμφιπόλοισι φιλομμειδῆς Ἀφροδίτη
 Πλεξαμένη σεφάννες εὐώδεας, ἄνθεα γαίης
 Ἀν' κεφαλαῖσιν ἔθεντο θεαὶ λιπαροκρήδεμνοι
 Νύμφαι καὶ Χάρτες, ἄμα δὲ χρύσῃ Ἀφροδίτη
 Καλὸν αἰένσσαι κατ' ὅρος τολυπιδάκες Ἰδης.

Nec versūs illi de Cupidine dormiente (ex longiori, forsan, poemate libati) qui Platoni ascribuntur:

"Αλσος

"Αλσος δ' ᾧς ικόμεσθα βαθύσκοιν, εὔζομεν ἔνδον
 Πορφυρέοις μήλοισιν ἐσικότα, παιδαὶ Κυθήρης.
 Οὐ δ' ἔχειν ισδόκον φαρέτρην, ό καμπύλα τόξα,
 "Αλλὰ τὰ μὲν δένδρεσσιν ὑπ' εὔπεταλοισι κρέμαντο.
 Αύτὸς δ' ἐν καλύκεσσι ἥδων, πεπεδημένος ὑπνῷ,
 Εὗδεν μειδίον, ξυθαὶ δ' ἐφύπερθε μέλισσαι
 Κηροχύτοις ἐντὸς λαγαροῖς ἐπὶ χείλεσι βαῖνον.

Nihil esse potest his versibus jucundius aut modulatius; & vellem profectò plura superercent Platonis carmina. Certè valdè poeticum illi fuisse ingenium paucæ, quæ supersunt, reliquiae testantur; & Socrati subirascor, qui discipulum suaderet à mansuetioribus Musis ad philosophiæ spatia declinare. Sed omnes descriptionum venustates complectitut εἰδύλλιον in primo Anthologiæ libro, quo vix quidquam inveniri potest luculentius:

Χείματῷ ἡνεκόδεντῷ αὖτ' αἰθέρῳ οἰχομένοιο,
 Πορφυρέη μειδίης Φερανθέος εἴσαρῷ ὥρῃ.
 Γαῖα δὲ κυανέη χλοερὴν ἐτέψατο ποίην,
 Καὶ φυτὰ θηλήσαντα νεοις ἐκόμισσε πετήλοις.
 Οἱ δ' ἀπαλὴν τάνοντες ἀεξιφύτε δρόσον ἡς
 Λειμῶνες, γελόωσιν ἀνιγρομένοιο ρόδοιο.
 Χαίρεις καὶ σύριγμις νομεὺς ἐν ὅρεσσι λιγαίνων,
 Καὶ πολιοῖς ἐρίφοις ἐπιτέρπεται αἰπόλῳ αἰγῶν.
 "Ηδη δὲ πλάνεσσι ἐπ' εὐρέα κύματα ναῦται,

 "Ηδη δ' εὐάζουσι Φορεσαφύλῳ Διονύσῳ
 "Ανθεῖς βοτρυόδεντῷ ἐρεψάμενοι τρίχα κιτσᾶ.
 "Ἐργα δὲ τεχνήεντα βοηγεύεσσι μελίσσαις
 Καλὰ μέλει, καὶ σίμβλῳ ἐφήμεναι ἐργάζονται
 Λευκὰ πολυτρήτοι νεόρρυτα κάλλεα κηρῦ.
 Πάντῃ δ' ὄφιθων γενεὴ λιγύφωνος ἀείδει,
 "Αλκύονες περὶ κύμα, χελιδόνες ἀμφὶ μέλαθρα,

 Εἰ δὲ φυτῶν χαίρεσσι κόμαι, καὶ γαῖα τέθηλε,
 Συρίζει δὲ νομεύεις, καὶ τέρπεται εὔκολα μῆλα,
 Καὶ ναῦται πλάνησσι, Διώνυσος δὲ χορέει,
 Καὶ μέλπει πετεηνὰ, καὶ ἀδίνεσσι μέλισσαι,
 Πᾶς δὲ καὶ καὶ ἀοιδῶν ἐν εἴσαρι καλὸν αεῖται.

Amant potissimum Asiatici hortorum, amoenitatum, ac florum, descripciones, quas jucundissimis pingunt verborum coloribus. Velut in tricesimâ Haririi declamatione :

Dixit Meliba Al Farammi:

“ Insomnis fui, cum protracta esset nox, ob nubem fulgurantem, splendidam; quæ transversè profecta est de regione in regionem nigricans; Ob iter nocturnum ebria, obscura nubes, quæ terræ sterili id attulit (ubertatem scilicet) quod aliàs non esset consecuta:

Murmurabant nubium series, dum per desertum transibant, ut murmurant invicem cameli;

Velut si pars altior albæ nubeculæ vertex esset Libani (cui), & longitudo & latitudine (similis erat :)

Hæc nubila, venti ex Hadramut venientes disperserunt, cum pluviam tenuem, stillantem effuderint;

Reliquerunt post se aquam, quæ ita pura fuit, ut ex lacte mero formata videretur, Irrigabant radices, arefactas siccitate temporis, spinosæ uniuscujusque & falsæ plantæ, quæ propè evanuerat;

Sic nubes atra progreedi perseveravit, ut (camelus) sub onere curvatus, labore confectus, in loco arenoso difficile incedit.”

De variis Arabum, Persarum, ac Turcarum Poetis.

ID quod de poetis, qui Αὐγοῦσι à Græcis vocantur, dixit † Cicero, verius in Asiaticos transferri potest: “ Si mihi vitæ spatum duplicitur in “ iis tantummodo percurrendis, non esse sufficieturum.” Hoc verissimum esse sentiet is, qui viderit apud Herbelotum propè triginta auctorum nomina, qui de poetarum Arabicorum vitis & carminibus scriperunt; inter quos recensentur princeps illustris Ebn Al Motezz Al Abassi, & Almansur, rex Hamæ, cuius opus decem volumina complecti dicitur; & scriptor illustris Omadeddin Al Isabani, qui historiam Saladini elatissimo dicendi genere composuit, librumque absolutissimum de poetis Arabicis contexuit, Kherida خيردة seu margarita, inscriptum. His addi possunt Ebn Khacán, qui copiosè de Arabum poetis scripsit, dicendi genere usus politissimo, & cuius opus vocatur, “ Verfūs horum carminum in Yatimâ “ Virgines erant, cogitationes antiquæ :

“ Mortui sunt poetæ, & vivunt post eos carmina,
“ Et ob hanc rem vocatur liber Yatima.”

Etenim voce يتيّبة cùm pupillus, tum etiam unio significatur.

Nec minus jucundum opus est حلیت الکبیت seu vini dulcedo; auctore Shehbáddin El Nawági. Est hic liber Athenæi Δειπνοσοφιστῶν similis, sed meâ quidem sententiâ jucundior, ornatior, copiosior. Viginti quinque partes complectitur, de vino, de floribus, de amore, de pulchritudine, de amoenitatibus Ægyptiis: quæ omnia variis ac venustissimis carminibus cùm veterum tum recentiorum Arabum describuntur. Scripsit aliud opus, quod inscribitur مراتع الغرلان five Prata kinnulorum, & carmina complectitur amatoria è variis poetis libata. Idemque contexuit duo alia volumina, plena carminum venustiorum. De Anthologiis Hudilitarum, Bokbteri, & Abi Temam, utpote notissimis, nihil necesse est hoc loco dicere.

Librum صفوات Sefwat, quem cum Hamasa comparat Herbelotus, nec ullibi citatum legi, nec in ullâ bibliothecâ vidi. Multa præterea de Arabum poetis continet opus permagnum Hagi Khalfeb seu Catib Chelebi, quod كشف الخلنون appellatur, & in quo de Asiaticorum libris omnibus præclarè tractatum est; & liber admirabilis نهايات العرب وفنون الادب five,

five, De Arabum eruditione, cuius auctor fuit Shehábo' ddin Al Nöweiri. Horum operum alia Parisiis, alia Leydæ, alia Oxonii, alia in reliquis Europæ bibliothecis servantur.

Porrò scriptoris politissimi Ebnī Khalīcan opus historicum non magis verborum elegantiâ & ubertate commendatur, quām illustriorum poetarum versibus, quibus conspergitur. Ac nescio an hic omnibus vitarum scriptoribus sit anteponendus. Est certè copiosior Nepote, elegantior Plutarcho, Laertio jucundior: & dignus est profectò liber, qui in omnes Europæ linguas conversus prodeat. Atqui Arabicorum poetarum infinitam multitudinem abundè probant duo illa opera, quorum unum ab Hegiazio, alterum à Safadio est compositum, & quorum hoc triginta volumina, illud quinquaginta complectitur.

Permuli sunt de poetis Persicis libri uberrimi, sed omnibus præstare videtur opus دوّلت شاه Doulet Shah Samarcandi, quod sæpiissimè citat Herbelotus. Quām feliciter autem Turcæ poeticam coluerint, intelligi potest cùm ex Lutufi & reliquorum libris, tum ex opere illo amplissimo رجبة الاشعار inscripto, quod novem poetarum Turcarum carmina complectitur, atque aliorum DXL continet flores diligentissimè & magno cum judicio delibatos.

Inter antiquos Arabum poetas celebriores fuerunt, دُو الرِّعْمَة Dhu'l Remma, الغَرْزِدَقْ Ferazdak, مَتَلَّمِسْ Matalammes, نَابِغَة Nabega, مَهَالَبْ Mohalbal, مَتَلَّمِسْ Matalammes, فَرَازْدَكْ Ferazdak, aliique, & in primis auctores septem Idylliorum, quæ Moallakat vocitantur: ac de his quidem aliàs dictum est; illorum autem carminibus, quæ mihi videre contigit, vix quidquam fingi potest delicatus, venustius, exquisitus? Inter recentiores imprimis elegans est Abū'l Casf sem, cuius liber vocatur شَذْوَرُ الْأَذْهَبْ Auri particulae; neque immeritò: nihil enim eo aut jucundius esse potest, aut politius. Descriptionibus abundant lepidis & venustis, & dignus est sanè de quo dicatur, id quod de fluvio Teleboa scripsit Xenophon, Μέγας μὲν ἔστι, καλὸς δέ.

Quām eleganter hortum describit :

فهن روضة غنا، زخرف وشها
ومن جدول تسعى بها سعي اسود
ومن اقحوان كالشغور مؤثر
ومن زهر مثل عبري وعسجد

“ Hortus autem fuit variis ornamentis distinctus,
“ In quo tanquam serpentes currebant rivi,
“ Et flores parthenii sicut nitidi puellarum dentes,
“ Aliique flores splendebant tanquam pictæ vestes & aurum.”

& imbrem :

اذا افتر من جون الغبایم بارقه
بكی الودف من خبت الاناعم وادقه
بدمع کان الريح ينثر لولؤا
علي خد روض سندسي حدايقه

“ Cùm renidet ex nigris nubibus (nubes) fulgurans, “ Flet imber, à campo beneficentia continuò stillans
“ Lacrymas, velut si ventus margaritas spargeret
“ Super genam hortuli pictâ chlamyde vestiti.”

ابن الغارض Non minorem habet venustatem, & vim majorem, Ibno'l Faredb, elegans ac floridus poeta, & cùm antiquioribus conferendus. Miram habet plerumque in carminum initiis gratiam ac pulchritudinem :

ارج النسيم سري من الزوراء
سحرا فاحيا ميت الاحياء

اهدي

اهدي لنا ارواح نجد عرفه

فالجو منه معنبر الارجاء

“ Odor Zephyri ex Alzaura provenit,

“ Manè, in vitam autem mortuos revocat :

“ Profert nobis auras ; halitus ejus diffunditur,

“ Et aér ab eo ambari odorem recipit.”

Sed hujus poetæ, quem cum Ovidio conferre solemus, elegiam in tertio capite citavimus.

Si quis aliorum poetarum Arabum nomina videre cupiat, legat Herbelotii, imperfectum quidem, sed jucundissimum atque eruditissimum opus. De Persis tamen pauca differam : nam Turcicorum carminum duos tantummodo vidi libros. Alterum, opus perparvum variorum poetarum Odas amatoria continebat : alterum, codicem bellissimè exaratum, & Mesibii carmina complexum. Centum & septuaginta octo Odis constat, iisque politissimis.

Perfectorum itaque poetarum post Ferdusium, Hafezum, & Sadium celeberrimus est Gelaleddin Balkhi, cuius perlóngum opus، مثنوي Mesnavi nominatum, mirificâ ornatur doctrinæ copiâ ac varietate ; verbis illuminatur elegantissimis ; historiis porrò abundat lepidis, suavibus, venustis. Quàm vivida hæc est Amoris laudatio, & ob amicæ discessum querela !

Nec verò his solis inter poetas locus est : sua enim laus tribuitur aliis innumeris, qui in variis generibus floruerunt. Celebriores sunt انوری Anvari, رشیدی Feleki, روکی Rudeki, خلکی Kermāni,

Kermani, كاتبی Catebi, & خاقانی Khakani, qui Abi'lolæ fuit, si Herbeloto fides, discipulus, & magnificam præceptoris sui poesin est feliciter imitatus. Recentiorum tamen poetarum, quos tulit Persis, elegantissimus meritò habetur Jami, cuius opera sæpenumerò, cùm in Linguæ Persicæ Commentario, & in Grammaticâ, tum etiam in Historiis nostris, laudavimus.

Sed de poetis haec tenus: fusiùs de iis & copiosiùs differere, ab instituto esset alienum; magna enim sylva est, & integrum volumen requirit: & profectò imprimis desideratur liber De poetarum Asiaticorum Vitis; cuiusmodi opus cùm utilissimum, tum etiam ob novitatem jucundissimum fore puto. Et laudandum foret propositum, tot eximios viros ac miris ingeniiis præditos in novam lucem, & quasi vitæ integrationem revocare. Plurimum sanè his literis obest librorum excusorum paucitas: egregium esset itaque ac rege aliquo dignum opus, libros Asiaticorum elegantiores in lucem proferre, sed sine interpretatione; ita enim propè duplicaretur & sumptus & labor. Illi autem qui otio fruerentur eruditio, uteunque à bibliothecis remoti, possent eos, gradatim ac pedetentim, accuratè interpretari, emendare sagaciter, & doctè illustrare. Ita fieret ut Arabum ac Persarum poemata in manibus & in ore haberemus, nec minùs esset usitatum Ferdusii, Amralkeisi & Abi'lolæ versùs in quotidianis sermonibus recitare, quam nunc Homeri, Anacreontis, aut Pindari.

PARS SEXTA:

De Asiaticâ Dictione.

C A P U T XX.

HABENT Asiatici orationis genus, non id quidem omnino numeris astrictum, ut poema, nec tamen ita fluens ac dissolutum, ut sermo vulgaris. Placet libros hoc modo numerosè compositos inter poemata recensere; nam orationem, cuius sententiæ modulatè cadunt, leniter profluunt, similiter desinunt, quæ verbis dulcibus & hilarioribus, iisque jucundè tralatis ornatur, in quâ denique paria adjunguntur paribus, & contraria contrariis referuntur, parùm à versu abesse puto: quod video de Platonicâ & Democriteâ locutione sensisse veteres†. Atque in hoc loco de Asiaticorum libris modulatis differere, nec erit inutile, nec à proposito alienum. Notum est, apud omnes gentes poeticæ studium fuisse solitæ orationis curâ antiquius. Apud Græcos orationem princeps contexuisse dicitur Pherecydes Syrus: Ciceronis temporibus gravissima extabat Appii Claudii oratio, quam primus Romanorum in lucem protulit, cùm senatum à födere cum Pyrrho faciendo dissuaderet. Primus apud Arabas orationem composuit vel Mohammedes, vel, si quis fuerit, Mohammedis adjutor. Fuit certè quisquis Alcoranum contexit, cùm admirabili prædictus ingenio, tum acutissimus & dicendi & persuau-dendi artifex. Ac nequeo fatis prudentiam illius admirari, qui orationem potuerit incultæ multitudinis tum auribus tum animis adeò scitè accommodare. Nec enim illi in eruditorum hominum conventu erat habenda oratio, sed cum agrestibus rem habuit, impolitis, truculentis, stellarum imaginumque cultoribus; poeticæ tamen impensiùs deditis. Itaque sagax ille morum observator, & legislator subtilis, dicendi genus sumpfit argutum, venustum, floridum, concinnum, numerosum, incitatum; splendidissimis collustratum verborum luminibus, & cùm ad persuadendos animos, tum ad commovendos affectūs accommodatissimum. Non ille ad sedatum judiciorum discrimen librum suum comparabat, sed ad aurium delectionem, & voluptatem sensuum. Ideoque instituit ut divini, quemadmodum vocatur, libri lectors canoris quibusdam vocis flexionibus sententias æqualiter demens & similibus sonis terminatas modularentur. † Velut in illo capite, quod est الدھر seu Tempus nominatum:

فوقیهم الله شرا ذلک اليوم ولقيهم نصرة وسرورا
وجزاهم بها صبروا جنة وحريرا
متکبین فيها على الارایک لا يرون فيها شہسا ولا زهريرا
ويطوف عليهم ولدان مخلدون
اذا رأيتم حسبتهم لؤلؤ منثورا

- “ Defendit eos Deus à diei istius calamitate, præbetque illis splendorem ac lætiam,
- “ Et remunerat eos ob patientiam hortulo, & vestibus sericis :
- “ In eo horto pulvinaribus incumbunt, nec calorem intensem nec frigus sentientes,
- “ Versantur autem inter eos pueruli semper formosi, quos cùm aspexeris, dispersas esse putaveris margaritas.”

Sed qui omnes elegantias & venustates in unum locum acervatim

cumulatus

cumulatus videre cupit, perlegat is caput, quod الرَّجْنِ seu Misericors inscribitur, & inter carmina pulcherrima recenseri debet. Hunc igitur librum scriptores Asiatici tanquam elegantis locutionis normam sibi proponunt ; & quanquam eum aut apertè imitari non audent, aut imitationem dissimulant, id tamen dicendi genus perfectissimum putant, quod sit huic libro simillimum ; ideoque sententias ex illo depromptas sermibus suis frequentissimè intexunt. Velut in libro Fácabato'lkhólafa†, in elaboratâ illâ imbris descriptione,

وأقبلت سوابق السبيول
تجري في مضمارها كالخيول
فتراكيم من السحاب
علي وجه عروس السماء النقاب
وانهر الغمام المدرار
وصارت الدنيا جنات تجري من فوقها الانهار

“ Accedebant torrentium fluctus prævertentes, “ Currebant tanquam equi in loco pastus,
“ Et obvolutum est nubibus
“ Cœlum, ut sponsæ facies velo,
“ Et imbres effuderunt nubes copiosè pluentes,
“ Et facta est terra hortorum similis, in quibus fluunt rivuli.”

Ubi ista locutio جنات تجري من تحتها الانهار Horti sub quibus fluunt rivuli, in Alcorano creberrimè occurrit.

Exposui, ut puto, causam cur numerosum hoc dicendi genus tam studiosè Asiatici consequentur. Nunc de libris eorum elegantioribus differam. Ii sunt vel rhetorici, vel philosophici, vel historici. Primum apud Asiaticos videtur rhetoricae studium floruisse. Philosophiam seriùs receperunt Arabes, eamque plurimùm à Græcis ductam. Nullam autem vidi historiam Arabicam aut Persicam, solutâ oratione scriptam, quæ esset

valdè

valdè antiqua. Itaque de rhetoribus primùm loquar, de reliquis, deinceps. Amant Arabes compositionis speciem, quam مقامة Mekáma vocant, & quæ nostræ declamationi videtur esse similis. Hujusmodi declamationes primus edidit Hamadáni, qui est ob eloquentiam admirabilem بديع الزمان Ætatis miraculum, vocatus. Hunc imitati sunt magnus rhetorum grec, inter quos palma facilè deferrenda est Hariri. Nihil hujus scriptoris sermone jucundius excogitari potest. Incredibilis in illo rerum est varietas & copia, mirificum eloquentiæ flumen ; adeò ut non tam mē commendatione quām suis niti elegantiis possit. Declamationes composuit quinquaginta, de mutationibus fortunæ. Earum sex primas in lucem protulit & notis illustravit eruditis, literaturæ Arabicæ felicissimus indagator, Schultensius.

كشاف الاسرار في حكم الطيور والازهار
الواعظ في Arcanorum patefactiō de avium & florū proprietatibus." Auctor fuit Ezzo' ddin, qui cognomen five Oratoris, adeptus est. Argumentum persimile est Couleii libro, quem Sylvas nominat ; sed non flores solum atque herbae, verum aves etiam, præterea apis, aranea, bombyx, & Zephyrus etiam, in hoc opusculo loquentes inducuntur, ac de suis virtutibus venustissimè differentes. Est profecto libellus cùm pulcherrimarum imaginum copiâ, tum orationis nitore ac venustate absolutissimus.

Ad philosophos veniamus. Illi modulatum hoc & elaboratum dicendi genus haud multum consequantur, rebus scilicet & argumentis quām ejusmodi venustatibus attentiores : nisi inter libros philosophicos recentiores sint fabulæ de officiis ac moribus, quibus incredibile est quantūm delectentur Asiatici. Tres sunt in hoc genere libri politissimi ; Arabicus, à scriptore admirabili Ahmed Ebn Arabshah compositus, vocatur,

 ابواب الكتاب

De amicis atque inimicis distinguendis. Et hæc pars est ultima.

Alter fabularum liber is est, quem in omnes ferè Asiæ & Europæ linguas conversum habemus, & cūjus in totâ Asiâ meritò celebratur pulchritudo ; fabulas dico philosophi illius Indici Bidpai بیدپای nominati, quas olim composuit, ut Indorum regem Dahshelim داہشلیم de officiis ac virtutibus regum erudiret. Hæc, de quâ loquor, interpretatio Persicè scribitur, & انوار سہیلی seu Canopi lumina appellatur. Tertius liber idem est, de quo modò dixi, in sermonem Turcicum venustissimè conversus, & هبایون نامه seu Liber augustus, dicitur. Uterque splendidis verbis, magnificis sententiis, elatis translationibus ornatur.

Restat, ut de historiis numerosis, quas inter poemata heroica recenseo, pauca dicam. Tres præcipuae sunt in linguis Asiaticis scriptæ historiae ; quæ cùm maximè sint inter se dispares, laus tamen pœnè consimilis unicuique tribuitur. Arabica quidem inscribitur عجایب المقدور فی نوایب seu Providentiae miracula in Timuri fortunis perspicua ; Turcica, تاج التواریخ five Annalium corona, & Turcarum historiam usque ad regem Selimum complectitur ; Persica verò ظفر نامه seu Liber victorie nominatur, & Timuri vitam ac res gestas continet.

Auctores sunt, primæ Ahmed Ebn Arabshah, secundæ Saadeddin, tertiae Ali Yezdi. Ac de secundâ equidem parcius loquar, utpote qui librum integrum nondum viderim ; sed ut ex umbrarum ratione, quæ sit turrium atque arborum altitudo dignoscimus, ita ex Italicâ hujus libri interpretatione facile est intellectu, admirabilem ejus esse elegantiam ac nitorem.

Historiis Ebn Arabshah & Ali Yezdī nihil dissimilius esse potest : hæc enim Timurum pingit invictum, pium, temperantem, doctum, amabilem ; illa impigrum quidem & indefessum, sed improbum, inhumatum, temulentum, vilem, impium ; hæc regem æquissimum, illa ignobilem & efferum raptorem. Utri credamus ? Ambo enim scriptores huic regi ætate suppare fuerunt. Tutius est certè utrique diffidere ; & imperatorem illum fingere nec magnis vitiis infectum, nec valde illustribus ornatum virtutibus. Quod ad dicendi genus attinet, utriusque historici oratio est grandis, culta, canora, magnifica ; & incredibili perspersa varietate ac lepore. Porrò ita æqualiter animum delectant, ut eam historiam quam recentius legas, jucundiorum esse putas. Vim tamen ac dignitatem majorem Arabs, lene quiddam habere Persa videtur ac profluens : hic puro amni, ille copioso mari similis ; hic denique cum Xenophonte, ille cum Thucydide comparandus. Quòd si ille nonnullis in locis sit obscurior, illa, quantacunque est, difficultas venustate & eloquentiæ amplitudine abundè compensatur. Sed de historiâ hac Arabicâ, in capite decimo secundo, copiosè differuimus.

Reliquum est, ut de dicendi generibus, quibus utuntur Asiatici, dicitur. Ea omnino tria sunt, Elatum, Venustum, Tenui. Misceri quidem potest elatio cum venustate ; & cum tenuitate venustas : elatum autem genus cum tenui nullo modo miscetur. Orationis altitudo & venustas vel in conceptu sunt, vel in dictione. De conceptu alio † loco diximus : nunc de compositione differendum est. Magnam igitur affert orationi altitudinem, verborum ampla & longè deducta comprehensio ; velut historiæ Timuri magnificum illud exordium,

الحمد لله الذي على منوال ارادته وتدبره تنسج مقاطع الامور
ومن ينبعو قضايه الي لحج قدره تجري تيار الاعاصر والدهور

† Cap. X. & XI.

“ Laus Deo, qui in textorio voluntatis & sapientiae suæ telam humana“ rum rerum texit, & è fonte providentiae suæ in potestatis suæ ocea-“ num fluctuë ætatum ac temporum fecit defluere.”

Hoc senserunt Græci ; & rectè ait Demetrius Phalereus ex sententiarum longitudine plurimùm oriri Thucydideæ locutionis majestatem : cuius rei præclarum profert exemplum, ‘Ο γὰρ Ἀχελῷος ποταμὸς ῥέων καὶ Πίνδου ὕψες διὰ Δολοπίας καὶ Ἀγριάων καὶ Αμφιλόχων, καὶ διὰ τὴν Ἀκαρνανικὴν πεδίην ἀναθεν παρὰ Στράτου πόλιν εἰς Θάλασσαν διεξιεῖται οὐρανὸς Οἰνιάδας, καὶ τὴν πόλιν αὐτοῖς περιλιμάνων, ἀπόρον ποιεῖται τὴν ὑδάτος ἐν χειμῶνι σφατεύειν.

Quæ si incisim proferas, perit utique orationis elatio. Ob hanc rem scriptores Turcici magnam habent in elato dicendi genere dignitatem, quia participiis ايدوب & اولوب frequentissimè utuntur, ideoque verborum ambitus in miram longitudinem deducunt.

Sequitur, ut de venustâ sententiarum structurâ loquar. Ea igitur mihi venustior videtur comprehensio, quæ tria habeat membra, duo breviora, unum longius ; quemadmodum,

وَاقْتَحِرُ أخْوَهُ الْقَيْلَ بِوْجُودِهِ
وَقَدْ مَهَ عَلَيْهِ خَواصِهِ وَجَنْوَدِهِ
وَفَاضَ حَدَائِقُ آمَالَهُ بِزَلَّ احْسَانَهُ وَجَوْدِهِ.

“ Rex autem frater ejus inventis ejus delectatus est, “ Eumque optimatibus & exercitu præfecit,
“ Et hortum spei ejus aquâ purâ liberalitatis & beneficentiæ irrigavit.”
Hoc genus comprehensionum rhetores triangulo Ἰσοσκελεῖ designant.

Sæpè etiam quinque aut plura incisa propè æqualia, & eundem habentia in cadendo sonum, afferunt pulchritudinem ; ut

وَجَرْوا

وجروا فيها الانهار
وغرسوا فيها الاشجار
نصارت تاوي اليها الاطيارات

- “ Evasit autem locorum pulcherrimus.”

In narrationibus pulchra sunt incisa minuta, & quasi gemina ; sic Ebn Arabshâb †, Locutio ex Alcorano de promititur, ex quo (ut suprà dixi) plurimas suis libris illigant sententias elegantiarum studiosi scriptores.

Inter ornatam Perſarum atque Arabum dictionem, plurimùm interest : hi plerumque breves sunt, & pressi ; atque adeò (quod mirum videri potest) servant quandam simplicitatem cum summâ sententiarum altitudine & verborum concinnitate coniunctam. Eam adhibent vocularum collocationem, quam docere videtur natura ; adeò ut, qui vocum significations haud ignorat, facilimè intelligat, quid auctor velit ; etenim propè unica linguae Arabicæ difficultas ex verborum incredibili copiâ oritur ; in qua re Græcæ est persimilis. Perſæ verò (quos Turcici scriptores imitantur) cùm ornatè & splendidè scribere instituant, longissimis utuntur Voluit dicere auctor Persicus, " Adolescentem formosum puella pulcherrima perditè " amabat." Vix credi potest, quot verbis ad hanc sententiam exponendam utatur.

De tribus dicendi generibus haçtenus. Singulas eorum virtutes complectitur liber jucundissimus شکردان Shekardan, cuius exemplar haud invenustè exaratum, comiter, ut solebat, mihi copiam fecerat Vir Asiaticarum rerum, dum vixit, imprimis peritus, Alexander Russel, cuius singularem in me facilitatem ac benevolentiam mirandum in modum perspiceram: opus est Ebn Abi Hagelab, venustissimi cùm rhetoris tum poetæ, cuius elegantes versūs in libro Hiliato'lcomeit citatos vidi. Varia est in eo libro ac multiplex eruditio. Per multa habet lepida, faceta, elegantia; multa tamen (non est enim negandum) ridicula, multa subinfusa, multa ineptè religiosa, & fabellis anilibus referta. Sed hæc abundè compensat dicendi genus ad varia argumenta scienter accommodatum, nunc facile & æquabile, nunc elatum ac vehemens, nunc piætum, venustum, floridum. Denique non minùs utilis est hic liber ob historias & antiquitates Ægyptias, quibus abundat; quam jucundus ob elegantissimas, quas citat, florum, amœnitatum, aliarumque rerum descriptiones ex variis poetis delibatas. Ac non sum nescius esse aliquos, quibus Asiaticæ dictionis quæsitæ illæ venustates potiùs ineptiæ videntur pueriles, quam veræ elegantiæ. Sed cùm Arabes ac Persas reprehendant, † Platонem, Ifocratem,

DE REGUM OFFICIIS.

EGO, Huykenk, omnium gentium moderator ac dominus, lautam hanc nummorum copiam, gemmasque innumerabiles, ad usum regis Indiæ perillustris, & imperatoris eximii Dahybelim, hoc in loco deposui: quippe quòd præfigitione quâdam divinâ thesaurum hunc occultum ab illo inventum iri sciam. Præterea cum auro & gemmis hoc testamentum idcirco collocavi, ut cùm hos thesauros intueator, quos erit sine sollicitudine adeptus, expurgiscatur, & compertum habeat, non esse sapientis animi, gemmarum fulgoribus capi ac deliniri, sed hujus vitæ blanditias atque amœnitates impensiùs amare, suminæ esse stultitiae: præsertim cùm opes ac possessiones copiosissimæ similes sint mutuatæ supellestili, quæ diversorum hominum identidem attrita manibus, & deterior facta, tandem corruptitur: imò, improbae pellicis gerant similitudinem, quæ singulis noctibus varia perambulat cubicula, & varios amplexûs sustinet: quemadmodùm ait poeta, Quis hujus vitæ incertos honores appetit? cui unquam fidem servavit fortuna, ut nobis servet? nucleus fidei in hac nuce non est, ex hoc terræ cumulo fidei odor non afflatur. Verùm enimverò hic præceptorum libellus quasi fundamentum esse debet, quo nitatur omnis dominatûs atque imperii ædificium; & tanquam norma, ad quam omnia regni dirigantur consilia. Quòd si rex ille sapientissimus hac admonitionum formulâ, tanquam præceptrice & moderatrice consiliorum omnium ac factorum, utatur, usque ad totius naturæ dissolutionem, & finem temporum, augebitur illius & cumulabitur infinita dignitas.

*Hæc Huskeni præcepta, tanquam donum, teneas,
Sic persuadere tibi potes imperium tuum æternum fore.*

Felicissimus regum is est, cuius fama ob justitiam perpetuò maneat, & cuius exemplum posteri sibi imitandum certatim proponant: & unusquisque rex, qui ad hujus libelli (qui præcepta quatuordecim complectitur) regulam, totius vitaे cursum non dirigit, nimirum illius prosperitatis ædificium adverso fortunæ flatu labefactatum decidet; adeòque ex summâ amplitudinis ac potestatis fastigio gradatim ac pendentim descendet, & secunda fortuna, tanquam verecunda sponsa, vultum ab illo avertet.

I.

Primum itaque præceptum hoc est. Ubi cùm aliquo primario civitatis viro familiariter ac liberè vivit, variis calumniis ac falsis criminationibus, quas in illum fingent obtrectatores, minimè credat. Neque enim abesse potest, quin sodalium invidiam atque offenditionem excitet is, qui regis necessitudine fruatur: nam simulac felicitate stabili eum frui aspiciunt, non deerunt ii, qui florenti ejus fortunæ invidentes, regiæ benignitatis præsidium & propugnacula dolis atque insidiis perfringere ac labefactare conabuntur. Illum igitur nihil suspicantem mordere & clam accusare incipient, ut regis voluntatem ab illo abalienare possint; immò, causas inferendi crimen fingere, & gemmas benefactorum filo malevolentiaæ contexere usque adeò perseverabunt, donec ad propositum sibi finem iniquitatis pervenerint: ut poeta ait, Cave uniuscujusque vocem exaudias, meam verò audi; nam malevalorum voces in unaquaque portâ sunt.

II. Calum-

II.

Calumniatores atque invidos procul à se amoveat. Propterè quod nihil illis sit molestius, nihil odiosius, nihil denique nocentius. Si quem igitur hac notâ insignitum videat, illicò feritatem illius, tanquam incendium aliquod, restinguat neceſſe est *: & vitam nequissimi hominis tanquam ligna aut farmenta comburat; ne spiritus tam efferus præstrin-guat hominum oculos, & orbem terrarum deformet! Ignis, inquit poeta, cuius ardore homines urantur, nisi continuò restinguatur, refrigerari nequit.

III.

Optimates ac primarios regni viros arctissimo familiaritatis vinculo conjungere studeat, ut, summâ officiorum vicissitudine & consensione voluntatum, nodos negotiorum difficiles expediant, & ad civitatem conservandam conspirent: Enimverò amicitia & concordia totus terrarum orbis vinci potest; victoria & concordia quasi geminæ sunt sorores.

IV.

Dolosis veteratorum blanditiis ne se decipi sinat; neu inimicorum adulacioni fidem habeat; sed quo leniores ac mansuetiores esse simulant, eò diligenterū consideret, ne quid occultè moliantur: nam inimicos verè beneficos reddi non magis est verisimile, quam gryphas in Caucaſo naſci, aut argentum posſe in aurum commutari. Homo autem naturā maleficus & inhumanus nullo pacto benevolus potest fieri, neque ab illo vera benignitas unquam proficiscitur: Cave ſis ab inimico vultum habente aridum, utpote qui, ligno ſiccō ſamilis, celerrimè inflammetur; res enim ſerias & graves non agit; ſub ſpecie comitatis plagas tendit nefarias.

V.

Ubi magno labore magnisque periculis aliquid est commodi adeptus, ne id è manibus elabi ſinat, ſtudioſe cavendum eſt. Etenim ſi ita

* Haec ſententiae in sermonibus Turcico ac Persico fūnt bellissimæ, ſed Latinè ad verbum reddi neutiquam poſſunt. Idem de permultis hujus libelli locis dicendum eſt.

remissè & oscitanter agit, ut felicitatem, quam assècutus fit, fluere atque avolare patiatur, eam semel elapsam recuperare nullo modo poterit, & nihil adeò ei restabit, præter inane desiderium ac luçtum inutilem : sicut poeta monet,

*Sagitta ex arcu semel emissâ nunquam revertitur,
Etiam si ob dolorem manum mordicus teneas.*

VI.

Vitanda est in rebus gerendis nimia celeritas ac festinatio. Cautè itaque ac pedetentim ad eas accedat. Haud enim scio pluresne sint à deliberatione & patientiâ utilitates, an à properationis temeritate deductæ miseriae. Negotium ne geras nimium festinanter : à viâ consultationis fræna ne avertas : quod nondum egeris, id factu erit facile, ubi semel feceris, questus quid proderit ?

VII.

Prudentiæ fræna nunquam è manibus elabi finat. Verùm ubi consociati hostes illius meditantur exitium, si quid sive occultum, sive aperatum ex hac foveâ perfugium videat, illud confestim rapiat necesse est. Præterea illorum malitiosas voluntates prudenti consilio & simulatione, tanquam sagittâ aliquâ, refindat atque irritas faciat, nam, ut dicitur, Bellum per dolos ac fallacias ferè geritur. Et aiunt sapientes viri, ut ferrum alio ferro extenuatur ac mollitur, sic dolis atque infidiis ex hominum versutorum laqueis te eripere potes.

VIII.

Nunquam se putet ab infidiis esse tutum, quas obtrectatores atque invidi moliuntur. Porrò autem blanditiis ac malitiosis affestationibus ne se insinuent sedulò caveat. Quippe, cùm arbor odii atque invidiæ in humano pectore altis sit defixa radicibus, quos fructûs afferre poterit, nisi acerbissimos ? Cave versutis inimicis fidem habeas, qui latenter perniciosas ciosas tendunt insidias; peccatum, in quo odium radices habeat, malevolentiae & atrocitatis erit plenissimum: te aspicit, & quasi adipato sermone uititur, sed propositum suum tegit.

IX.

Placabilitatem atque clementiam tanquam vestem aliquam & amiculum induat. Ministros porrò imperii ac satellites ob delicta mediocria, ne temerè puniat. (Turc. sagittis pœnarum ac doloris scopum ne faciat). Nam sapientis est atque excelsi animi, in subiectorum hominum culpis atque erroribus quasi connovere, & nimiam acerbitudinem mansuetudine quadam ac lenitate mitigare.

Jam inde ab Adami temporibus, ad hanc nostram ætatem, viri ignobiles atque inglorii deliquerunt, generosi ac præstantes se exorari siverunt ac placari.

Quamobrem magni regis est nocentes, sed humiles, reos molli brachio erigere, & quasi potu benignitatis & clementiae recreare, ne, cum se ab omni spe derelictos esse sentiant, desperatione afflitti tanquam in aliquam desertissimam solitudinem recedant.

Illum, quem blandâ manu ad gloriam extuleris, cave per injustum animi impetum in terram deprimas.

X.

Ab omni maleficentiâ diligenter declinet; ne sua sibi maleficia majori reddantur mensurâ: ea enim fructus afferent amarissimos. Idcirco vir maleficus sedato & securo animo esse non debet, sed fortunam pertimescat adversam. Ita enim naturâ comparatum est, ut unumquodque factum pari munere compensetur. Vitæ igitur humanæ hortulum lenioribus beneficentia ac benignitatis auris temperare oportet, ut in eo rosa prosperitatis, speritatis, & voluntatum nostrarum flos eniteat. Si benefici sitis, vobis met benefacitis.

Quòd si benignus sis, largâ benevolentiae vicissitudine compensabere, si minùs, acerbiores habebis malevolentiae tuæ fructûs; quos tametsi hodiernus dies non afferet, at veniet tamen dies, in quo gravissima parabitur maleficis pœna, beneficis verò amplissima remuneratio.

XI.

Negotia personæ quam sustinet non convenientia minimè gerat: per enim multi homines, cùm se in res minùs decoras & congruentes immerserint, non modo ad finem propositum non perveniant, sed ubi ad sua revertunt negotia, hospites sunt in iis ac peregrini. Cornix gressum predictis delicatiorem imitari studens, illum quidem non potuit discere, at dedidicit suum.

XII.

Lenitate ac mansuetudine, tanquam veste aliquâ pretiosâ, se ornare debet. Incredibile est, quanta sit in lenitate vis & quasi eloquentia. Vir mansuetus parum abest (ut verè dicitur) quin vates sit: atque adeò mucrone subtilissimo lenitas est acutior, & faciliùs victoriam ab hostibus reportat, quam centum exercitūs.

XIII.

Cùm principes in civitate viri constanter se gerunt ac fortiter, homines versutos ac veteratores procul à se rex dimoveat: quamdiu enim ministros imperii sui habet fidelitatis signo impressos atque inustos, tamdiu secreta regni consilia contra improborum hominum perfidiam erunt munita, & cives à periculorum scintillis incolumes ætatem agent. Sin (quod Deus omen avertat) facies rerum dolosis & callidis hominibus, tanquam nævo aliquo, obscuretur, & fictos eorum sermones

rex

rex exaudiat, fieri vix potest, quin summae integritatis & innocentiae viri sapissimè malè multentur. Quòd si ita evenerit, in regem illum iniquum, cùm in hujus vitæ curriculo, tum in futuræ restauratione, redundabit exaggerata calamitas. Ministri regis fidi sint & constantes oportet, ut consiliis eorum excolatur regnum ac splendescat. Quòd si malitiosi sint & versuti, vastatur subito imperium ac dilabitur.

XIV.

Inconstantis est animi & infirmi, temporum varietatibus & commutationibus fortunæ perturbari. Itaque in rebus asperis turpe est desperatione, tanquam pulvere, vultum deformare, & poculum cogitationis nimiâ ægritudine ac moestitiâ, velut cœno, obscurare. Curis attritos & laboribus sapientes viros videmus, insani ac dementes voluptatibus ac deliciis perfundi solent. Præclarè itaque poeta, Leonis, inquit, collum, vinculis constringitur, dum vulpes singulis noctibus inter ruinas domos in faedissimas se effundit libidines. Sic vir fortis & constans pedem à tristitie domicilio non dimovet; stultus verò & luxuriosus inter voluptates tanquam in horto vagatur. Ac tibi penitus persuade, te ad propositum finem felicitatis non perventurum, sine divini numinis liberalitate inexhaustâ, & infinitâ benevolentia; & sine aquâ divinæ benignitatis, præstantissimas virtutes non esse fructu expectatos allaturas. Neque enim potestas ac dominatio necessariò præstantiam sequitur, sed à providentie divinæ nutu pendet.

Singulis hisce præceptis singulæ annexuntur fabulæ, non minùs ad utilitatem quam ad delectationem comparatae. Quòd si rex ille perlustris hos aplogos plenè & copiosè narratos audire velit, ad montem, qui Serendib vocatur, profici sci debet, in quem hominum patrem exulem descendisse memoriae proditum est. Ibi hic nodus expediatur, & in illo horto rosa exoptata floreat necesse est.

DE POESI ANGLORUM DIALOGUS.

UT pateret, quām ineptē de gentium exterarum poesi judicent ii, qui fidas tantūm versiones consulant, colloquium, quod sequitur, olim contexui. Finxi enim Arabem quendam, qui sermonem Latinum Constantinopoli didicerat, cum Britanno quodam mercatore, homine literato, familiariter vixisse, & cum eo de variis Europæ Afiaque artibus solitum esse colloqui. Cūm igitur die quodam ad portum unā descenderent, & Britannus suæ gentis poetas in cœlum laudibus efferret, risum Arabs vix potuit compescere, &c. Mirum est, inquit, quod narras, ac portenti simile : cūm credidero urbem hanc amœnissimam à maris hujus piscibus extrectam fuisse, tūm demùm poetas, ut tu ais, venustos in Angliā credam floruisse. Hem ! in pastu pecudum regnent Angli, agros optimè colant, lanam egregiē tingant ; sed eos à poesi alienissimos esse persuasum habeo. Sermonem Latinum, tuo hortatu, teque usus adjutore, didici ; spem enim dedisti poetas complures elegantissimos legendi, sed nihil adhuc vidi, præter unum atque alterum Horatii carmen, Ovidianas quasdam elegias, & Virgilii nobilissimum poema, quod, meo judicio, poesis dici mereatur. Vin' tu credam, in illo, quo tu natus es, terrarum angulo, poetas meliores quām in urbe Romā ortos fuisse ? Tum Britannus, Ipse, inquit, judicabis ; recitabo enim versiculos quosdam ex elegantioribus Anglorum poetis libatos, quos, ut pulchrè intelligas, Latinè reddam. Per mihi gratum feceris, inquit Arabs ; sed cave quidquam quidquam iis ornamenti adjungas: verbum verbo redde. Tum mercator; Incipiam igitur à poetis heroicis: Sanè, si placet, inquit alter; sed ullumne habes poetam, quem cum Ferdusio compares? Unum, inquit, atque alterum; sed palma Miltono facilè deferenda est; cujus poema epicum, quod inscribitur Paradisus Amißus, ab omnibus meritò celebratur; istius poematis recitabo exordium:

“ De hominis primâ inobedientiâ, & fructu
 Illius vetitæ arboris, cuius mortalis gustus
 Attulit mortem in mundum, omnesque nostras miserias,
 Cum amissione Edeni, donec unus major vir
 Redimat nos, & recuperet amœnam sedem,
 Cane, cœlestis musa.”—

Tum Arabs irridens, Parce, precor, inquit, nunquam enim versūs audivi magis insipidos. Versūs autem? imò, ne sermo quidem merus mihi videtur. Perge porrò ad Lyricos. Ecquem proferre potes cùm Hafezo, meis tuisque deliciis, comparandum? Multos, respondet ille; Surrium, Couleium, Spencerum, alios; & in primis illum, quem paullò ante citavi, Miltonum: is duo scripsit poemata, omni numero absoluta, quorum unum Lætum inscripsit, alterum Tristem. Quād dulcis hæc est, in primo carmine, matutinæ delectionis descriptio!

“ Audire alaudam incipere volatum suum,
 Et canentem tremefacere stupidam noctem,
 A speculâ suâ in æthere,
 Donec maculatum diluculum oriatur;
 Et tum venire, invitâ tristitiâ,
 Et ad meam fenestram dicere, Salve!
 Per cynosbaton, aut vitem,
 Aut plexam rosam caninam;

Dum gallus vivaci strepitu
 Spargit postremam aciem caliginis tenuis,
 Et ad fœnile, aut horrei portam,
 Magnanimè vacillat, dominas præcedens.”

Cùm Arabs adhuc impensiùs rideret, & propè se in cachinnum effunderet, Age verò, inquit vir Britannus, iambos quosdam citabo Popii nostri, poetarum Anglorum, si artem ac suavitatem spectes, facilè summus, si ingenium & copiam, paucis secundus ; placebunt tibi hi versiculi, certò scio :

“ Tremat Sporus—Quid? res illa ferica,
Sporus, merum illud coagulum lactis asinini !
 Vituperium aut judicium, eheu ! potest Sporus sentire ?
 Quis disrumpit papilionem in equuleo ?
 Attamen, liceat mihi percutere cimicem hunc, auratas habentem pennas,
 Hunc pictum filium lutti, qui fœtet & pungit.”

—Ohe, inquit Arabs, define, si me amas : hæcine poesis dici potest ?
 Præterea ad portum venimus, ubi frequens erit hodiè mercatus. Hæc cùm dixisset, videretque graviter ferentem & stomachantem Britannum, pollicitus est, se ad linguam Anglicam condiscendam aliquot menses impensurum, ut poetas, quos ille laudaret, sermone proprio loquentes posset perlegere.

MISCELLANeorum LIBER.

PROCÉMIUM.

DOLENDUM est, intercidisse M. Tullii opus poeticum, quod Limon inscriptum est, & quod, cùm esset adolescentulus, in lucem protulit. Quatuor tantùm ex hoc opere versûs, quibus fabularum Terentianarum suavitatem atque elegantias collaudat, à Donato ciantur. Hujus libri titulus, ut à Middletono nostro, scriptorum Anglicorum principe, observatum est, nihil aliud fortasse, quàm vox Græca Λεμών, seu Pratum (Sylvam vocant Latini), quo nomine Pamphilus etiam grammaticus Miscellanea sua inscripsit. Ciceronem & veteres imitatus, opusculum hoc meum, utpote magnâ rerum varietate refertum, Limona nominavi; constat autem è poematis quibusdam partim à me scriptis, partim è Latino & Anglo sermone conversis, quorum pleraque omnia ante annum ætatis meæ vicesimum sunt composita. Hæc in brevia capita dispertere malui, quàm, ut mos est, confusè atque indistincte edere. Lector autem, ut hos vel adolescentis vel pœnè pueri labores benevolentia prosequatur, omnino est rogandus. In animo erat, plura capita, viginti minimùm, edidisse, sed studiis aliis sum impeditus.

CAPUT

C A P U T I.

De Græcis Tragædiarum scriptoribus.

TRES erant præcipui Græcae tragœdiæ scriptores, Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, laude quidem ii propè æquales & gloriâ, sed in dispari genere. Cùm poetarum horum proprietates exemplis dilucidiùs, quàm disputatione longissimâ, explicari possint, lubet tres è poetis duobus Anglicis μονολογίας Græcè conversas proferre, quarum primam ac tertiam è Shakespeareo, secundam ex Addisono, deprompsi: prima à rege Anglorum, Henrico quarto, dici fingitur, cùm nocte quadam ob curas & molestiam esset insomnis; secunda, à M. Catone, cùm, post oppressam à Cæfare libertatem, lecto Platonis Phædone, suâ se manu interfecturus esset; tertia denique, ab Hamleto, Daniæ principe, cùm, post visum à se patris sui spectrūm, de humanâ vitâ ac morte meditaretur. In primâ autem cothurni Aeschylei sonitum, in alterâ, Sophocleam gravitatem, in tertiatâ, simplicitatem Euripideam, imitari sum conatus.

De Epigrammate Græcorum.

BELLISSIMUM erat apud Græcos poematis genus, quod Ἐπίγραμμα vocatur, non illud recentiorum poetarum, è facetiis unicè constans, sed potius ad lyrici carminis aut brevioris elegiæ naturam accedens. Ex hujusmodi poematis constat magna pars Ἀνθολογίας: multa etiam à Lærtio, Athenæo, atque aliis, citantur, eaque venustatis plenissima. Hujus videtur esse generis Platonis distichon de Agathonis osculo, quod apud A. Gellium prolixè admodùm Latinis dimetris convertitur; nos ejusdem suavissimam brevitatem quatuor Hendecasyllabis exponere voluimus:

Cùm fervens tua, Phylli, suaviarer,
Dulci neçtare dulciora labra,
Transcurrens anima usque ad os avebat
Labi in virgineum (ah misella !) pectus.

Brevius etiam hoc modo reddi potest,
Cùm dulci teneam morsu tua labra, Lycori,
Spiritus è labiis (ah miser !) ire cupit.

Flagitantibus quibusdam amicis, ut plura Anglorum poemata, quæ Græcorum ἐπιγράμματα similia viderentur, Græcè redderem, non potui non morem gerere. Verficiuli, quorum initium Δίχαμαι καλὰν Ἀμαρυλλίδα, à carmine non edito, quod composuit summi ingenii vir mihiique peramicus, ipsius rogatu funt conversi.

AD MUSCAM.

De Comædiæ Græcæ scriptoribus.

QUAM vellem supereffent Menandri comœdiæ! Paucis ejus, qui restant, iambis non erant Athenæ ipsæ magis Atticæ: ut de illo dici possint, quos de Lesbiâ poetriâ citat Addisonus noster, è Phædri fabellâ versiculi:

*O suavis anima! qualem te dicam bonam
Antebac fuisse, tales cum sunt reliquiae?*

Aristophanis, quæ supersunt, comœdiæ sunt sanè omnium elegantiarum plenæ, & Græcarum literarum studiosis apprimè utiles, sed eas ad Menandri verecundiorem suavitatem accessisse non puto. Evidem, exercitationis caufâ, scenam quandam ex Adelphis Terentii, qui maximè Menandrum imitatus est, Græcis trimetris converti, quam huic capitî apponam, cum festivâ vitæ humanæ descriptione, è Shakespearo sumptâ, qui nonnullis in locis Aristophani similiors mihi visus est.

De Carmine Latino.

NULLA in re felicius Græcos imitati sunt Romani, quam in carminibus; non illa dico Pindarica, tubæ quam lyræ aptiora, sed Alcaica, Anacreontea, Sapphica, quorum & numeros & venustates, melius quam dici potest, effinxit Horatius. Hoc poematis genus adeò mihi quandam placuit, ut inciperem justum carminum volumen contexere, quorum alia è veterum Lyricorum reliquiis, alia è poetis Asiaticis, alia è recentioribus, libare statueram, alia denique à meo, quantulumcunque esset, ingenio depromere; sed eadem ferè majora studia, quæ me impedierunt, quo minùs Limona hunc, ut vellem, perficerem, lyræ ac Musis vacare non permiserunt. Quatuor solùm carmina huic libello subjungere volui, sub ficto A. Licinii nomine, qui Ciceronis in re poetice magister fuit: in horum secundo Sapphus in Venerem notissimum carmen sum imitatus; in tertio, Oden eandem converti, quam, in capite de Epigrammate Græcorum, Græcè redditam exposui: id verò, quod ad Lælium inscribitur, missum est, propè decem abhinc annis, ad amicum quandam mihi in primis carum, cuius fororibus latrunculos lusorios ex ebore atque ebeno tornatos dederam.

CARMEN I.

AD VENEREM.

Oro te teneri blanda Cupidinis
Mater, cœruleis edita fluëtibus,
Quæ grati fruticeta accolis Idali,
Herbosamque Amathunta, & viridem Cnidon,

Oro,

Oro, Pyrrha meis cedat amoribus,
 Quæ nunc, Tænariâ immittior æsculo,
 Mœrentis Licinî follicitum melos
 Ridet. Non liquidæ carmine tibiæ,
 Non illam Æoliis illacrymabilem
 Plectris dimoveat, lenis ut arduam
 Cervicem tepidum flectat ad osculum.
 Quantum est & vacuis neðtar in osculis !
 Quòd si carminibus mitior applicet
 Aures illa meis, si (rigidum gelu Te solvente) pari me tepeat face,
 Te propter liquidum fonticuli vitrum,
 Ponam conspicuo marmore lucidam,
 Te cantans Paphiam, teque Amethystiam
 Pellam gramineum ter pede cespitem,
 Tum nigranti hederâ & tempora laureâ
 Cingam, tunc hilares eliciam modos :
 At nunc me juvenum prætereuntium,
 Me ridet comitum cœtus amabilis ;
 Et ludens puerorum in plateis cohors
 Ostendit digitis me, quia langueo
 Demissis oculis, me, quia somnia
 Abrupta haud facili virgine faucium
 Monstrant, & violâ pallidior gena.

CARMEN II.

AD EANDEM.

Perfido ridens Erycina vultu,
 Seu Joci mater, tenerique Amoris,
 Seu Paphi regina potens, Cyprique
 Lætior audis,

Linque

Linque jucundam Cnidon, & coruscum
 Dirigens currum, levis hic vocanti,
 Huc veni, & tecum properet soluto
 Crine Thalia.

Jam venis! nubes placidi serenas
 Passeres findunt, super albicantes
 Dum volant sylvas, celeresque versant Leniter alas.

Rursus ad cœlum fugiunt. Sed almâ
 Dulcè subridens facie, loquela
 Melle conditam liquido, jacentis
 Fundis in aurem.

“ Qua tepes, inquis, Licini, puellâ, “ Lucidis venanti oculis amantes?
 “ Cur doces mœstas resonare lucum,
 “ Care, querelas?
 “ Dona si ridet tua, dona mittet;
 “ Sive te molli roseos per hortos
 “ Hinnulo vitat levior, sequetur
 “ Ipsa fugacem.”

Per tuos oro, Dea mitis, ignes,
 Pectus ingratæ rigidum Corinnæ
 Lenias. Et te, Venus alma, amore Torfit Adonis.

CARMEN III.

AD LÆLIUM.

Vestimenta tuis grata fororibus,
 Et donem lapides, quos vel alit Tagi
 Fluëtus, vel céler undâ
 Ganges auriferâ lavit,

Læli,

Læli, si mea sit dives opum domus.
 Quid mittam usque adeò ? Scilicet haud mea
 Servo carmina blandis
 Nympharum auribus insolens,
 Quarum tu potior pectora candidis
 Mulces alloquiis, te potiorem amat
 Musæ, utcunque puellæ
 Pulsas Æoliae fides.
 Quin illis acies mittere commodus
 Tornatas meditor, quæ bicoloribus
 Armis conspiciendæ
 Bella innoxia destinant,
 Qualis propter aquas aut Lacedæmoni
 Eurotæ gelidas, aut Tiberis vada, Cornicum manus albis
 Nigrans certat oloribus.
 Cur non sub viridi ludimus ilicis
 Umbrâ suppositi ? Dic veniat genis
 Ridens Lydia pulchris,
 Et saltare decens Chloë :
 Dic reddant mihi me. Ludite, virgines ;
 Me testudineis aut Venerem modis
 Dicente, aut juvenilis
 Telum dulce Cupidinis.

CARMEN IV.

A D L U N A M.

Cœli dulcè nitens decus,
 Lentâ lora manu, Cynthia, corripe :
 Pulchræ tecta peto Chloës,

Et

Et labrum roseo nectare suavius.
 Non prædator ut improbus,
 Per sylvas propero, te duce, devias,
 Nec, dum lux radiat tua,
 Ultricem meditor figere cuspidem.
 Quem tu, mitis Amor, semel
 Placatum tepidâ lenieris face,
 Illum deseruit furor,
 Et telum facili decidit è manu.
 Nec delicta per & nefas
 Furtiva immeritus gaudia persequor;
 Blandâ viâ Chloë prece
 Peplum rejiciet purpureum libens.

C A P U T VI.

ELLEGANTEM Callimachi ὕμνον, qui inscribitur ad lavacra Palladis, versibus elegiacis Latinè reddidit Politianus, numeros & exemplum Ca-tulli imitatus, qui ejusdem poetæ de comâ Berenices ποιημάτιον verterat.
 Nos autem, anno ætatis decimo septimo, priusquam Politiani Miscellanea legeramus, eundem Callimachi hymnum versibus Glyconicis adumbravimus, Catullianum dicendi genus, quo usus est in Epithalamio, imitati.

Saltuum viridantium
 Filiae, genus Inachi,
 Virginum chorus adsit huc,
 Huc adsit, tenerum albulo
 Cespite m pede pellens.

Audion'?

Audion'? an amabili
 Dulcè ludor imagine?
 Audio, nemus avium
 Funditùs fremit, & bonâ
 Prodit alite Pallas.

Quare age, huc aditum refer,
 Et falire paratum habe,
 Turba, Palladis in fide.
 Eja, flexible tinnulâ
 Voce concine carmen!

Non Minerva priùs lavit
Quàm suâ roseâ manu
 Mollicella latuscula
 (Perfundens gelidâ jubar)
 Despumârit equarum;

Et perterserit aurea
 Colla, myrtleolum gerens
 Gausape, ac ter & amplius
 Moverit teneram manum
 Subter ora, sub armos.

Huc adeste, puellulæ:
 (Jam videntur) at haud onyx,
 Haud amaracinum (melos Dulce tibia succinit)
 Haud amaracinum adsit:

Odit Pallas amaracum ;
 Haud adsit speculi nitor,
 Pallas haud speculi indiget.
 Nempe ubi ad Phrygium Idali
 Arbitrum Dea venit,

Illa non placidum mare,
 Nec pellucidulos lacûs
 Finxit inspiciens comas ;
 Nec decora politulum
 Consuluit orichalcum.

At cincinnuli identidem
 Unam bellula fimbriam
 Transmovit Cythereïa,
 Ad glabrum speculi vitrum
 Usqueaque renidens.

Pallas haud ita : scilicet (Quales per cava Tænari Gemellæ juga stellulæ)
 Gramina, & pede pervolat
 Intactas levi aristas.

Quin abhinc aditum refert,
 Dum, velut sylüæ comæ,
 Crinis luxurians fluit
 Hic & hic bene-olentibus
 Unguentatus olivis.

Tunc ah ! tunc dea, virgines,
 Ora floridula & genas
 Haud minùs rubet, ac rosæ
 Vel flos purpureæ teres,
 Vel ridens melimelum.

Prodeas, dea casta, sis ;
 Audin' audin' ut integræ
 Succinant tibi virgines,
 Ne lavatum aliorfum eas ?
 Prodeas, dea casta.

Prodeas, dea casta, sis ;
 Pedes, innuba, transfer huc :
 Huc veni : huc refer ægida :
 Et ferrugineam arduæ
 Caffidis quate crïstam.

At cave, upilio, bibas
 Has aquas hodiè ; cave,
 Vacca, tute fitim leves :
 Urnulam fer, aquarie,
 Fontes ad Physadeæ.

Nempe desilit è jugis
 Muscosis hodiè Inachus ;
 Flosculos, viden', irrigans
 Defluit liquido pede,
 Amne lucidus aureo.

Jam lavis, dea, jam lavis ;
 Pastor, tu quoque nudulam
 Decernas cave Pallada.
 Ecquisnam, (miser ah miser !)
 Te cernet, dea, nudam ?

Pandite ostia, januæ :
 Interim organicis modis
 Suave nescio quid lubet
 Inter ludere virgines.
 Pandite ostia, valvæ.

Olim nymphæ, puellulæ,
 Castæ perplacuit deæ ;
 Mater Tiresiæ, integræ
 Mentis, & viridissimo
 Ufa flore juventæ :

Quacum ludere, quam tenere
 In molli gremio fovens,
Quam curru vehere arduo,
Quoi verba edere blandiens
 Dulciora solebat.

Non chorus, neque erat deæ
 Matutina locutio,
 Nec fragrans oleæ nemus,
 Nec sol vesperi amœnior
 Caræ voce Chariclûs.

Frustra !

Frustra ! nam dea mollia
 Suræ tegmina cereæ
 Tollens, lavit in undulis,
 Frigerans ubi temperat
 Sylvulas Aganippe.

Jam tum tempora Sirii
 Pestilentia retulit
 Æstas polverulentior :
 Et silentium amabile
 Montis densa tenebat

Forte tum Chariclûs puer
 Multo cum cane, non sine
 Centeno hæduleo, genas
 Vix lanugine vestiens
 Nigriore glabellas,

Sub dio vagus huc & huc,
 Ac tostus sive guttura,
 Ad sacrum laticis caput
 Proh pudor ! tulit haud bonum
 Haud bonâ alite gressum.

At pudoricolor dea
 “ Ecqua te mala mens, ait,
 “ O miselle puer, rapit ? ”
 Dixit ; ille adeò tremens
 Mœstâ voce recepsit.

Caligare oculi statim ;
 Genua succidere : artubus
 Sensim obrepere flammula :
 Et tractim auriculæ sono
 Tintinare suopte.

Tum puella, “ Quid inquiit,
 “ Quid facis, dea, quid geris ?
 “ (Me fugit ratio mea)
 “ Ecquid commerui ? mihi “ Filium malè perdis.

“ O fontes, nemora, & lacūs
 “ Puri, O mons Heliconeus
 “ Non amabilis amplius.
 “ Occidunt puer, ah puer, “ Candidi tibi foles.

“ Ah semel, semel occidit
 “ Lux tibi : & cadis immerens,
 “ Immerens cadis, ultimi
 “ Flosculus velut hortuli “ Supernatus aratro.”

Talis per falcis comas
 Insolabiliter melos
 Integrans lacrymabile,
 Absumptos Ityli dies
 Daulias gemit ales.

At subrisit amœniter
 Compellans dea virginem,
 Flere define ; quid gemis ?
 Tandem mollicularum, age,
 Siste lacrymularum.

Define : ecquod enim feras
 Commodi haud bene noscitas ;
Quid fles, nympha ? licet tibi
 Dulci amaritie tuos
 Temperare dolores.

Filio fed enim dabo
 Longum aruspicium tuo,
 Unde quem sibi, quem tibi
 Sortem dii dederint sciat
 Augurarier audens.

Hoc ut dixerat, annuit ;
 Approbantior annuit
 Alma progenies Jovis.
 Jam redis, dea, jam redis :
 Claudite ostia, valvæ.

Claudite ostia, januæ ;
 Serta spargite, virgines :
 Proin tu casta domos, dea,
 Argoas ope fospitans
 Bonis omnibus opple.

TOTIUS VOLUMINIS

EPILOGUS.

AD MUSAM.

VALE, Camena, blanda cultrix ingenî
 Virtutis altrix, mater eloquentiæ,
 Linquenda alumno est laurus & chelys tuo.
 At, O Dearum dulcium dulcissima,
 Seu Suada mavis five Pitho dicier,
 A te receptus in tuâ vivam fide :
 Mihi sit, oro, non inutilis toga,
 Nec indiserta lingua, nec turpis manus !

END OF THE SECOND VOLUME.
